THE GERMAN SHARPSHOOTERS

An Auspicious Opening of Their Grand Schuetzenfest.

LIST OF THE PRINCIPAL PRIZES.

An Enjoyable Day at the Verein's Beautiful Range, With the Scores of the Successful Marksmen.

Looking for Bull's Eyes. Yesterday at 1 o'clock, the grand fest of the Omahn Schuetzenvereis opened at Ruser's park with a magnificent attendance of marksmen and spectators. The members of the club and a number of other Germans met at the Eikhorn Valiey house, corner of Eleventh and Dodge streets, where guests from abroad were received and

At 10:30 o'clock the Schuetzenverein formed ranks under the leadership of William Stoecker, last year's king of sharpshooters, and to the music of the Omaha Musical Union of band marched south on Eleventh to Douglas thence to Farnam, thence to Fifteenth, and thence to the Missouri Pacific depot, where the train was taken for the park.

Each marksman wore a short shooting jacket, a white Alpine hat-bound with green riobon. Each of the shooters bore his rifle over his shoulder and marched with the air of a veteran. A number of the members of the organization drove to the park in private convey

Most elaborate preparations have been made for this fest, and an unusually large number of prizes of both useful and ornamental articles and money have been offered. It is the intention of the committee of ar-rangements and the Verein to make this the successful fest which has ever been CUT IN TWO. Lighter Union Pacific Trains Are Now Able to Make Mail Connections. Since receiving a positive assurance from Postmaster-General Wanamaker that he would make serious trouble unless the delays n the transmission of mails ceased, the Union Pacific has been delivering east-bound mail at the transfer from Ogden on time

The train is divided into two sections at North Platte. The first has the postal, baggage, sleeping and dining cars. The second has the express, smoker, day coach and chain cars. The latter section tends to all the way business. It is consequently an easy matter to make good time and arrive ac-cording to schedule arrangements in-stead of from one to three hours behind. At first all responsibility for being inte every night was carried to the Central Pacific, but now it is different. By way of evolution, an official said: "Out time-table was constructed for a seven car train, but, instead, we have been running twelve, fourteen and as high as sixteen cars. which with so many stops to make, not only knocked us out but left it impossible for the ngmeer to regain any lost time." However, no disposition was shown to emedy this state of affairs until the postmaster general threatened to assess a heavy fine against the company for every failure, except for unavoidable cause, to make conacction with the Burlington mail train at the transfer depot.

Get rid of that tired feeling as quick as possible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives strength, a good appetite, and health.

A DANGEROUS CANOPY.

Said to Hang Over the Union Pacific Cowshed.

The mayor, building inspector, board of ublic works, and a council committee have been making an examination of the Union

Pacific's old cowshed depot, and it is under stood they have decided that the structure is in an unsafe condition and it will be ordered torn down. This action it is said was forced upon these officials by complaining citizens who, it seems, long ago discovered signs of weakness in the building and predicted a serious calamity at some unexpected moment unless steps were taken to prevent it.

These examiners, so the story runs, will make their report to the council next Monday night and the prospects are that there will be a lively contest.

The company's officials will be on hand to ppose any action looking to a destruction of the depot, mainly on the ground that this movement for its condemnation was inaugur-ated by parties animated by prejudice against their building a union depot such as is proposed in the plans which have been submitted. The commissioners' report, nevertheless, will show that many of the bolts and rods in the roof have been eaten away by rust and are loose, thus leaving the network of heavy iron girders, braces, uprights, etc., in a very shaky condition.

DEED OF A MISCREANT. Filled With Liquor, He Attempts to Bring Two Loaded Passenger

Trains Together Under the Cover of the Night. A Drunken Fiend.

A dastardly attempt was made to wreck two passenger trains on the Union Pacific near Papillion Thursday, night.

J. A. McCann is the Union Pacific night operator at the end of the double track near that place. Thursday night he reported for duty in a state of intoxication, but there being po one of higher authority about, he set to work without molestation in a position which placed in his hands the lives of hundreds of people. The double track terminates where No. 1 passenger, west bound, sidetracks for No. 4 passenger, east bound. The former train left Omaha at the usual time and upon reaching Papillion backed in to await the arrival of No. 4. In a few minutes, a rumbling noise indicated that No. 4 was near and it was then that Mc Cann endeavored to carry out his diabolical intentious. He walked along the track to the switch and as the headlight of the engine plared only about one-half of a mile away, he turned the switch so that the train would leave the main track and enter the spur upor which No. 1 was standing. His act was for tunately discovered in time to prevent a col-lision. The day operator, a Mr. Moore, and Conductor Kennedy, who had charge of No. 1, discovering the situation rushed to the switch and succeeded in throwing it back before No. 4 reached it. McCann fought them desperately and in the melee Conductor Kennedy cut his wrist so badly on a piece of glass that he was compelled to abandon his train and return to Omaha for treatment. Conductor Mallory was sent from here to take Kennedy's place, during which the trains were delayed one hour. McCann was arrested and was turned over to the authorities at Albright, Another Version.

James Finnegan, night operator at the end of the double track south of Albright, was too full of water on the side Thursday evening to manage the instrument, and when overland No. 1, going west, arrived, Mr. Finnegan could not give orders. After waiting twenty could not give orders. After waiting twenty minutes, Mr. Finnegan refusing to allow the day operator to operate the instru-ment to get orders Conductor H. Kennedy proceeded to throw Mr. Finnegan out. The job was done promptly and artis-tically but the door being thrown to by Mr. Finnegan caught Mr. Kennedy's left hand cutting two had gashes on the thumb cutting two bad gashes on the thumb.

Ruser's park is situated one mile south west of Leavenworth street and the Schuetzenverein's range is one of the most convenient and complete in the western country. The club has leased its grounds of Henry Ruser for a period of five years, and expended something like $1,500 in fitting them up. The maximum range is 200 yards, with ten targets perfectly arranged under an ingeniously constructed shedding, with drop doors, to protect the targets from the weather, pulleys, electrical appliances, wind gauges, flags, and, in fact, everything that apportains to a finished national range, The shooting manse, a commodious, open, airy structure, is located directly south of the target stand, and has been fitted up with the best possible facilities for the protection and convenience of the marksmen.

There are ten shooting stalls, or one for each target, connected with each other by means of electrical annunciators, the result of each man's shot being accurately con-veyed to him and the official scorers, even before the report of the Winchester has died

There are also adjoining each stall, rifle racks and shell boxes, and other appliances calculated to accelerate the contests.

The markers occupy positions in pits five feet or more below each target, rendering accidents next to impossible, because no one is visible about the targets during the shoot-

The markers indicate by flagging when a target has been shot at and it is immediately replaced by another target, each marksman shooting at his own individual target throughout the contest. LIONEL NOT A FAUNTLEROY.

Mrs. Burnett's Eider Son Ontdoes All His Mates in Cussedness.

Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's elder son. Lionel, spent some time at Atlantic City last summer, says a New York dispatch. Vivian was with his mother doing Europe, and Dr. Burnett was not morning at 1 o'clock. The parties are all in the city at this hour, and an effort is being expected home for several months. Lionel was staying with friends in one of the cottages and appeared to enjoy the absence of the paternal eye.

The heir to the Burnett estates is fifteen years old. He is short, but thickly set, with a large head. He can outdo in cussedness any five boys in the neighborhood.

A reporter had a long talk with the brother of the original Lord Launtleroy, who, as everybody knows, is Vivian, and appended are some of the remarks he made on himself, on his mother, on Vivian, the little lord, and on his mother's books.

"Viv," he said, "was as much of a boy and a nuisance as I am, until ma had 'Fauntleroy' published. We both had orders to appear in our velvet suits and to behave like little lords. Viv is thirteen, and immediately simmered of the latter. Several of the candidates charged County Superintendent Mahoney with voting a number of paupers from the down and posed according to orders. I rebeiled, would not wear my curls or my velvet suit, and decamped, leaving the whole field to Viv. I am an Amer-ican, a republican, and I'll bet you a box of cigars the world's fair will be in Washington.

"I never took much stock in books. except dime novels. There's 'Lone Jack, the Brigand of the Rocky Mountains.' It's a dandy. No stuff and non-sense about that. Lots of blood and thunder and a fine detective in it. "O, you should see Viv writing a letter. Doesn't look much like the little lord. He sits down at the table, stretches himself and his legs, and then scribbles. Viv is a pretty fellow. He doesn't like anybody to say so and he once attempted to lick a fellow for saying so. Ma's books have ruined Viv. Before they were published he was a first rate fellow and liked a good big spree as much as I do now."

Sweden's Handsome King.

Precisely at noon the sound of mili-tary music was heard from outside the hall, and we knew that the king had come, says a Stockholm letter to the Pittsburg Dispatch. The audience rose and remained standing as he came in, bowing to right and left, followed by the crown prince, the president and secretary of the congress, the court martial and adjutants. The involuntary expression which came to every one's lips was: "What a splendid man!" His handsome, florid face is set off by gray hair and benrd, and his broad shoulders, erect and large figure, well become his office. Trained at sea, he has the bearing of a captain who treads the deck with full confidence in his own powers of command. He wore the splendid uniform of an admiral, over it the broad blue sash of the Order of the Seraphim, stars and decorations in quantity and immense gold epaulettes. As soon as King Oscar had put on his eyeglasses he rose and read in French his address of welcome—or rather shouted it out as though he were giving commands from the bridge in a gale of wind. A man of fine literary taste and culture, which seems to be hereditary in the Bernadotte family, he is considered the best speechmaker in his kingdom. The freshman class at Amherst numbers 102 men on the ground, and there are several additions to the upper classes.
