Distinguished Visitors Coming. The mayor and other citizens have been engaged in correspondence with Secretary Blaine, arranging for a few hours' drive about the city with the representatives of the international congress and escort, about seventy-five in all. Arrangements are practically completed for their arrival here, which will be at 2 o'clock p. m. on Sunday, October 27. The electric motor line has October 27. The electric motor line has tendered special trains, which will receive the guests at the Paxton hotel. From nere the international congress go to Des Moines. It is the desire that all of our citizens turn out with carriages and do all things possible to make the limited few hours of the guests have always and contextuining while driving here pleasant and entertaining while driving around the city. As the visitors will in-cited representatives from all parts of the three Americas, it will be seen that here is an opportunity for the Bluffs to do herseif credit in a manner that will be of great bene-

A Noonday Blaze. An alarm of fire from box 43 yesterday afternoon was occasioned by a blaze which wiped out a small barn on Seventeenth street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues. It was over a mile from the nearest fire house, so that the building was nearly de-stroyed when the department arrived, al-though a hard run was made. The comple-tion and equipment of the new house now in course of crection at Twenty-first and Broadway will give this part of the city the pro-tection which its rapid growth has for some time demanded.

Attempted Arson. Shortly before 10 o'clock last evening a still alarm called the department to the Stella Long bagnio, No. 151 Broadway. Oil nad been thrown upon the corner of the building, near an outside stairway, and the weather boarding was well ignited when discovered. A bottle, which had contained the inflammable fluid, was found near by, and taken possession of by Officer Beswick. The fire was extinguished, and the loss was merely nominal. It was supposed that the fire was completely extinguished when the firemen left, but at 11 o'clock an alarm from box 23 called the department to the place again. The fire had worked under the boarding, smouldered for some time and again broken out. It was again gotten under control and the burning embers taken out. The proprietress is of the opinion that one of the former lumates of the place, who was turned out yesterday, attempted to burn the house out of revenge, as it was unquestionably the work of an incen-

C. B. P. Co., Stephen & Harmer, 32 Pearl. Still Introducing Evidence.

The third day of the Brooks murder trial passed without developing any sensational or unexpected features. The cross-examination of the first witness, Lars Jansen, was resumed yesterday morning, and continued, with the exception of usual noon recess, until half past 2 o'clock. The cross-examina tion failed to break or materially affect the evidence of the witness. He was not con-fused in the slightest degree, and gave his testimony audibiy and clearly. The defense believed that the burden of the case for the state rested upon this witness, hence the long and wearisome cross-examina-tion and attempt to shake his testimony. The second witness called was Oliver David, another young farm laborer from Hazei Dell township, who was in the city on the day of the murder and witnessed the shooting. His testimony corroborated that of Jensen, was clear and positive, and was not affected by cross-examination. After an hour's siege on the witness stand he was dismissed and Sam Smith called.

Smith was in David's company at the time of the shooting, and both stood looking in the door of the saloon when the fatal shot was fired. His testimony was a repetition of that of Jensen and David, with the single exception that he said that the victim, De Goode, was facing south when the shot was fired, while the others stated that he was facing nearly north.

Dr. F. P. Bellinger was the fourth witness and his evidence was entirely regarding the fatal wound, the course of the bullet, and the post mortem examination.

The fifth and last witness of the day was Tom Casey, who was in the saloon when the murder was committed. He was attracted to the spot by the quarrel between De Goode and George Guanella, and saw the victim fall dead, His examination was not completed when the clock struck 5, and court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. The attendance was about the same as on the preceding day, specta-tors constantly coming and going. There were a few more women inside the railing than had been seen there before, and they listened carefully to the evidence introduced, evidently taking much interest in the case. The defendant appeared to feel a little more pervousness than he had previously exhibited, and was quite uneasy during the di-rect examination of the witnesses. This rest-lessness disappeared to a great extent during the cross-examination, the accused appar-ently feeling sure that under the skillful questioning of his attorney the condemning and overwhelming statements of the wit-nesses would lose much of their grave and weighty character. It is thought that it will require at least two more days for the state to introduce all of its evidence. It is not known what plan will be adopted by the defense to prove their position of accidental shooting, or whether they have any witnesses to introduce King Dinan Salifou, who attracted so much attention here during the visit of the shah of Persia, has been replaced by another sable Senegalee sovereign named Ousman Gassy, says a London Telegraph Paris letter. Parisians, however, are no longer curious about negro monarchs, as poor Ousman Gassy, unlike his predecessor, is left to languish in his lodgings in the locality of Greenelle, where he is surrounded by an encampment of his subjects. King Gassy has fought and bled in the cause of France, and has accordingly received the Cross of the Legion of Honor, which he wears proudly on his white burnous. A Little of Both. A day or two ago I retold the story of Lord Beaconsfield and the academy banquet, at which he culogized in an after-dinner speech the pictures which before dinner he had privately ridiculed, says Editor Stead in the Pall Mall Gazette. "I have always found," he said, in self-defense, "that it an-swers best to praise people for the quality in which they are most deficient.' This was told as an amusing story to Mr. Gladstone. "Do you call it amusing?" Mr. Gladstone replied, "I call it devilish." "Which, gentle reader," went on to ask, "do you call it?" gentle reader sends me this morning the following apt answer: "Why, I call it devilish-amusing."

OCTOBER 4, 1889.—The advertisement of several retail dealers, under the form of a communication as it appears in THE BEE of this date, is not based upon the truth, and the parties signing the same are well aware of it, as the following reasons from their own standpoint will testify:

1. We have had applications from four of them, individually, to be taken in cut of the cold; in other words, if they sold coal at our prices, would we allow them the carrage, each party pledging himself to keep strictly "mum," so far as his neighbor was concerned. 2. We have had of ers from the same parties, based on the following, to-wit:

A.—Under what conditions would we retire from the retail business, they guaranteeing us a certain tonnage for the seasons of 1889, 1890 and 1891, and finding a market for our coal. B.—Under what conditions would we remain in the retail business, they guaranteeing us a certain tonnage as before mentioned, but we agreeing to maintain prices.

From the foregoing facts, I think the generous and fair-minded public will agree with me that any further remarks are unnecessary.

H. A. COX. A. T. THATCHER, Council Bluffs, Ia., Brown Building. Chicago, Ills.

Coal Consuming Public

The coal dealers of Council Bluffs would most respectfully say in explanation of the reduction in price of coal made by A. T. Thatcher, of this city, that Mr. Thatcher has heretofore claimed to sell coal by wholesale only, and that many of us have purchased coal from him at the market prices, and would still continue to do so, if we could get a good article of coal that would please our trade, but with coal bought from Mr. Thatcher we have had a great deal of trouble and complaint, and those of us who have handled his coal have been

Obliged to Withdraw Our Orders

To resent this and coerce the dealers into buying an inferior article of coal Mr. Thatcher has come into the retail trade, and is now offering his coal at a less price delivered to consumers than be charged us for it at his yards, and also at lower prices than we could purchase Merchantile Coal elsewhere.
