A BUDGET OF LOCAL SPORTS

The Omaha Gun Club's Annual Shooting Contest.

THE BASE BALL SITUATION.

Lindsay and Griffin Sign Articles for a Glove Contest - Catch-as-Catch-Can Artists - Turf and Diamond News.

The Omahas Annual Shoot. In accordance with The Hee's suggestions, the Omeha Gun club has resolved to abandon Its customary fall club hunt, and hereafter this annual autumn competition will be con fined to trap shooting.

The shoot for this year will take place this afternoon, and wind up the season, at the Gwin & Dunmire grounds across the river, and a large attendance and general good time is vouchsafed. The conditions of the contest are 50 blue rocks to each man, 18 yards rise, five traps, the losing side to do the expense of a banquet to be serve be Millard. Messrs. Frank F. Parmele and John Petty were appointed captains of the respective sides, which will be enosen on the grounds. The sporting editor of THE BEE has been selected as referee.

On the Wing. The cooler weather of the past two days has set the wild fowl in flight, and a great many birds, both geese and ducks, are seen daily flying southward. The scarcity of water hereabouts seems to preclude the possibility of anything other than fair sport this fall. There is but little water in the Upper Platte, and the geese are giving their usual old haunts along its numerous islands and bars the go-by. At Missouri Valley, Whitbars the go-by. At Missouri Valley, Whit-ting, Onawa, Waubuncey and other popular ducking grounds, there is little or no water, and but few birds.

It Would Be the Thing. Base ball cranks are almost unanimous in the belief that it will be a splendid thing for local base ball affairs if the entire control of the club passes into the hands of President Cormick. Some of the the minor stock-iders are inclined to be recalcitrant, and threaten litigation and other dire afflictions However, the probabilities are that McCor mick will get the club.

No More to Be Sold.

After all that has been published the deal with Cincinnati for "Kid" Nichels has not as yet been completed. President Stern has not succeeded in making terms with Nichols, who is now at Madison, Wis., and the chances are that Boston will yet secure the President McCormick now gives it out cold that no more players will be sold.

Here for the Winter. Billy Traffley, the Des Moines catcher, is in the city for the winter. 'Praffley was unable to say whether Des Moines would make an effort to remain in the Western association another season or not.

The Pulse of the Sporty Boys. The excitement over the coming world's series between the New Yorks and the American association champions-prospectively the Brooklyns-is growing more and more intense daily. At the Diamond bets of $100 to $80 are offered on the Giants, but as yet little money has been laid. In Brook lyn these odds are being laid on Byrnes' men, while in Gotham the New Yorks have the call at $2 to $1. The pulse of the sport; boy is beating high, and in his blind parti sanship it looks to a man up a tree as if he had lost sight of his better judgment.

THE BEE'S SPECIAL TRAIN. How It Made the Run Last Sunday Morning.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Oct. 14.-|Special to THE BEE. -THE SUNDAY BEE, leaving Omaha at 4 o'clock vesterday morning, was delivered to its patrons at Grand Island and points west of there on the main line of the Union Pacific as follows:

Grand Island, 7:50 a. m.; Wood River :58 a. m.; Shelton, 10:24 a. m.; Gibbon 10:42 a. m.; Kearney, 11:15 a. m.; Elm Creek, 12:03 p. m.; Lexington, 12:43 p. m.; Cozad, 1:25 p. m.; Gothenburg, 2:30 p. m., and at North Platte, about three hundred miles west of Omaha, at 3:37 p. m.

THE BEE'S special train made the run from Omaha to Grand Island, 154 miles, in three hours and fifty minutes, including four stops, in which there was a loss of a fraction over twenty minutes, reducing the actual running time to about three hours and twenty-seven minutes. This extraordinary run is only one of many in the annals of great accomplishments in the train service of the Union Pacific, yet it can be recorded as the fastest time ever made by a news paper train in regular chartered service The papers would have been delivered her even an hour earlier had not the California fast train been delayed in leaving Grand Island. The stupidity displayed by one of Island. the Omaha dailies in publishing an edition on Saturday evening with a Sunday morning date and sending it out for distribution on midnight freight, when it is patent to the minds of all newspaper readers that it is a physical impossibility for them to receive full dispatches and go to press before mid-night, is receiving much derisive comment and ridicule along the line of the road. The Sunday enterprise of The Bee is being greatly appreciated by citizens in towns favored by the service. This fact is best evidenced by the clamor for the papers upon the arrival of the trains.

THE CONGRESS AT BUFFALO.

Minister Varras, of Chili, Makes Decided Hir. BUFFALO, Oct. 14.—The party composed of delegates to the Pan-American congress left Niagara Falls this morning and arrived here at 9:15. The excursionists were immedi ately driven in carriages to the city hall where they were received by the mayor and other notables, and then proceeded on a round of sight-seeing. At the Niagara hotel the delegates had the first Spanish dinner on their trip. Every effort was made to give a tropical aspect to he entertainment, After luncheon the party was driven to one of the highest buildings in the city, where a fine view was had of Lake Eric, Buffalo harbor and the suburbs. The grain elevators were also seen in operation. The next in the order of entertainment was a reception at the board of trade rooms. The dele gates go to Erie to-morrow.

In the evening at the Hotel Iriquois a banquet more elaborate than any yet given was tendered by the citizens of Buffalo. The event of the evening occurred when Minister Varras, of Chili, proposed this sentirious and free people of the United States the freest in the world-the first in peace the first in liberty and the first in the Amer ican fraternity that is to be." During the tumultous cheers that followed Minister Zegarra, of Peru, (Chili's late foe) sprang from his seat and approaching Varras, extended his hand and warmly congratulated him upon the sentiment. Many, catching the significance of the scene, sprang also to their feet and cheered and wildly waved handkerchiefs, others with warm handshakings while

An Unknown Floater Found in the River Near Plattsmouth.

A SUIT FOR HEAVY DAMAGES.

The Trial of Garrison at Albion Ends in a Verdict of Manslaughter-Whole Family Poisoned By Corned Beef.

An Unknown Floater.

PLATISMOUTH, Neb., Oct. 14 .- [Special Telogram to THE BEE. |-About 6 o'clock this evening the body of an unknown man was found in the Missouri river near the mouth of the Platte by a fisherman. Coroner Henry Bocek was notified and he nastily summoned a jury and hurried to the spot. The body was that of a man, well dressed, but the cotor of his clothes was not discernable on account of having been in the water so long His age was about thirty or thirty-five years weight about 160 pounds, height 5 feet? inches. He had probably recently worn moustache, but was shaved smooth when drowned. On his collar were the initials "M. A. M." His features were completely destroyed by the decomposition which the body had undergone. There were no marks of violence on his body and the jury returned a verdict that he came to his death from drowning, the cause of which was unknown. The fisherman claims to have been watching for a man who fell off of one of the bridges across the river at Omaha about two weeks ago and thinks that probably this is the man. He has been in the water about two or three weeks. Coroner Bocek will hold the remains until after the arrival of the morning trains from Omaha, after which time, if unclaimed, the body will be buried.

Suit For Heavy Damages. DAKOTA CITY, Neb., Oct. 14.- [Special to THE BEE !- To-day began one of the most interesting trials ever held in the district court of Dakota county. It is the case of Gribble vs. Sides, in which John and Barney Gribble suc one John Sides for $10,000 for damaging their good name and character. Two years ago the barn and horses of John Sides were burned and there was every rea son to believe that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The Gribbles were bitter enemies of Sides and suspicion pointed very strongly to them, on account of their previous threats "to do up John Sides some way or another," and from the many differen stories they told as to their whereabouts or the night of the fire. They now claim that Sides accused them of setting fire to the barn and claim that the accusation has dam aged their character to the amount of $10,000, and so pray for that amount in their petition. The parties are all well-to-go farmers, and as the Gribbles have been born and raised here, the whole county is interested in the trial. There are about seventy-five witnesses on both sides, and as both sides have employed eminent lega talent, the trial promises to be the most in-teresting ever held here. By the fire Sides lost his barn, eight thoroughbred horses and five tons of hay, in all about $2,500.

Garrison Convicted of Manslaughter Albion, Neb., Oct. 14. - Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- The verdict of the jury in the Garrison murder case was manslaughter. BECAUSE HE WAS A LORD. Earl Galloway Acquitted of a Dastardly Charge. EDINBURG, Oct. 14 .- The earl of Galloway was arraigned this morning at Dumfries on the charge having made an indecent assault upon a child named Gibson. The court room was crowded with leading people of the community. The little girl gave testimony in regard to the nature of the earl's offense, and her testimony was corroborated by other witnesses. The statement by defense to disapprove the testimony was read. After the hearing of further evidence the earl was acquitted of the charge.

The guilt of the accused seemed so clearly established that those present in the court room, many of whom were friends and rela tives of the little girl whom the aged noble man was charged with abusing, took no pains to conceal their disgust with the verdict.

The announcement of the verdict was the signal for loud expressions disapproval from where the spectators were seated, and the frowns and threats of the presiding judge were of no avail to suppress the cries of "Shame, shame," uttered by dozens of adiguant persons. In London the news of the verdict was received with great indignation among the common people, and it was pointed out that had the accused been anything but a great nobleman the evidence brought out would have been sufficient to convict him a dozen times over.

A FATAL AFFRAY. A Mississippi Murderer Gets Swift

Retribution. NICHOLSON, Minns, Oct. 14.-A fatal affray occurred here to-day, virtually the outgrowth of the Osyka tragedy of last year in which Druggist Vamoda was assassinated.

The case against Dr. Tett, charged with complicity, was dismissed to-day for tack of proper evidence. After this E. C. Collins, one of the witesses against Tett, was heard talking about the matter outside. Tett went home, got a shotgun, returned, and finding Collins talking to several people at the court house, fired two loads of buckshot into his face, killing him instantly. Quinton Perton, a bystander, was quite seriously wounded. Collins' brother-in-law, J. W. Turner, then opened on Tett with a pistol, and the doctor was fatally wounded, dying in a short time.

Close of the State Convention of the Y. M. C. A .- A Brakeman Killed -Supreme Court Decisions -Incendiary Fires.

Treated the Subject Mildiy.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 14 - Special Tele gram to THE BRE. |- The replies of the democratic caudidates for governor and lieuten ant governor to inquiries of the farmers' alliance on the railway question were made public to-day. Mr. Boies, the candidate for governor, treats the subject mildly, and in about the same line as Scuator Hutchison did a few weeks ago. He expresses his sym pathy with the present movement for state control of railroads and favors a continuance of the present laws so long as they do not injure the rights of anyone. He takes a road situation than some of his party had expected. He says as to the elec-tive feature of the present commissioner system that it should be kept so until "such ystem has had a full and satisfactory trial. He favors the retention of the present rail-way law till "it has been fully and prac-tically tested, and if it aspears that amond means are needed to make it more efficien they should be made." As to the othe questions asked, he takes the same position practically as Senator Hutchinson and the republican party. Mr. Beston, the candi-date for lieutenant governor, contents him self with a general endorsement of Mr Boles' position in a "me too" fashion. As a whole the letters are very mild and do not meet the expectations of the radicals, who have claimed that the republican candidates were too much railroad men for them to support.

Liberty. Sr. Louis, Oct. 14.-A special from Hillsboro, Ill., tells of a desperate attempt at escape, made by Harry Franklin, a the jail there, prisoner in night. About 6 o'clock Sheriff Griswold let out three prisoners from the cage into the corridor to wash. Franklin rushed at the corridor to wash. Franklin rushed a the sheriff with a sling-shot he had made a towel stuffed with broken glass. The s knocked him down and drew a revolver, bu Franklin arose and was knocked down again with the butt end of the weapon. Again he arose, bleeding pro-fusely, and the sheriff told him to surrender or he would be killed. He rushed at the sheriff again, saying it was liberty or death, and the offi-cer not caring to shoot the man clinched with him. In the terrible struggle that ensued, they both rolled down two flights of stairs, Franklin receiving severe injuries. He was overcome and found to have seventeen cuts on his scalp. The sheriff's injuries are slight,

AMUSEMENTS.

If a large and most onthusiastic audience is any criterion for a great success, Mr. William H. Crane must have felt highly flattered with the way his new comedy, "On Propation," was received last evening at Boyd's opera house. It is that Mr. Crane personally had great deal to do with attracting and $500 house, for he is one of the greatest favorites that visits Omaha; but it is also true that the play which the star has chosen do serves a great deal of appreciation, and it must be highly flattering to the en tire company to receive such a cordial welcome. "On Probation" is one of those inderstood and enjoyed, as it would take up too much space to enter into every detail of this new comedy by Brandon Matthews and George H. Jessop. The plot although very simple, runs through so many if the "by-plays' that the auditor's attention is simply spell bound from the very rise until the fall of the last curtain. It is sei that any company pays so attention to every detail. From dom much attention the scenery down to the stage money used -everything was simply perfection-and the audience appreciated every effort on the part of Mr. Crane and his company. There can be nothing but praise for the star himself. His acting as Jonathan Silsbee, the itself, and his support was evidently selected with great care. Speaking of the hidles, Miss Lizzie Hudson, as Mary Mar-low, easily carried off the honors. She is not only a beautiful woman, but acts with grace and easiness and she win-her audience from her very first line Wins Miss Georgie Drew-Barrymore was elegant as Lady Frank Breeke, and acted the part of as Lady Frank Brooke, and acted the part of the advemtore's widow quite to perfection. The same can be srid of Miss Kitty Van Antwerp as Senhora Olivaria Y'Duaray, Miss Jane Stuart as Ladie Harmony, and Mrs. Augusta Foster, who played the part of Mrs. Harmony. It was a pity that Mr. T. D. Frawley did not have more to do do as the Russian Prince, as his little scene with Miss Stuart in the last act showed him to be a very capable last act showed him to be a very capable actor. The other gentlemen of the company -among them especially Mr. James Neill, Mr. Henry Bergman, Henry Braham and William Herbert-deserve nothing but the highest praise for the manner in which the impersonate their respective parts.

A top heavy, although a light audience down stairs, greeted Dan McCarthy's new play, "The Dear trish Boy," at the Grand opera house last evening. The Day is in five acts and shows a great deal of skill on the part of the author, who himself acted the role of Teddy O'Nell, and he was ably supported by his co-star, Mr. Gustave Reynolds, as Mike McClutchey. There is some special scenery, notably among it the ruins of Castle Dars by moonlight, which is very effective. The company is a very clever one, and will no do not draw good houses for the remainder of their en-

A YOUNG FEMALE SA MSON.

Lillian Chews Wood Like Gum and Does Other Herculean Feats. On Tenth avenue, New York, a pretty 7-year-old-girl lives. Her name is To bin and she dwells with her parents and abides by their decision in all things.

Miss Tobin, to the ordinary observer, is not different from other girls of her age. She may be the least bit better formed, a trifle more erect while walking, and somewhat more confident in her comportment.

A Journal reporter learned, however, that Miss Tobin was decidedly different from other girls-so different, in fact, that she verges upon the human phe nomenon. Mrs. Tobin extented an invitation with the promise that Lily would show off her various accomplish-ments. When the reporter had seated himself in the neatly furnished parlor Mrs. Tobin explained that Lily was blessed with an iron jaw, an iron skull and the muscular power of John L. Sultivan, William Muldoon, and Samson combined. She also mentioned that Lily has wrestled with all the heavy weight Tenth avenue beaux, and that not one of them could hold his own against her. Among her other accom-plishments she could chew wood and swing fifty-pound dumbbells tied to her hair with alarming case.

During this recital the pretty subject sat in a rocking chair blushing like a little school girl on receiving flattering praise. Lily is a semi-blonde or chataque with laughing blue eyes, dimpled cheeks, small plump hands, and a figure of undeniable opuience. "Chew some wood, Lily," said her mother.

Lily rose from her chair as if she was about to play on an imaginary piano. Going into the kitchen she re turned with an ordinary bundle of kindling wood, and selecting a good knotty piece began to munch it with the nonchalance of a society girl at work on a box of caramels. The wood was undeniably hard and tough, but Lily's teeth sank through it as if it was so much putty. "Don't swallow it, Lilly," cautioned the mother, and, like the obedient child she is, Lily relinquished a mouthful of well-masticated splinters, which looked as if they had been pounded by a sledgehammer. In an explanatory way Mrs. Tobin said:

"We don't let Lily eat much, and she will swallow anything. We don't give her any meat because she gets too strong. All we give her is home-made bred, but she thrives so on that that we are all afraid of our lives when she gets mad. Her father is a blacksmith, and is pretty strong, but if he says anything Lily doesn't like she picks him up and fires him on the floor, and he has to stay there until she tells him he can get up. Her three brothers never contradict her, as she can grab all three together and squeeze them so that not a bit of breath is left in their bodies.

"Yes, I am strong," joined in Lily. "I measure forty-two inches around the bust and only eighteen inches around the waist. That is, with my corsets on. she added, with an explanatory smile. "Swing some iron in your teeth.

Lily," said her mother. Lily caught up a fifty pound dumbbell to which she attached four ordinary flatirons which weighed seven pounds apiece. She fastened a stout rope to the seventy-eight pounds of iron, and placing one end of the rope between teeth began marching up and down the room with the mass of iron dangling from her teeth. "I could carry three times as much as that if they would let me," contemptu-teeth if you will let me fasten this rope around your waist," she continued. turning to the reporter. The latter said he needed no such illustration to believe her statement. "Well, then, do you want to see how strong my hair is? Here, mother, give ously remarked Lily, as she dropped the irons. "I'll bet I can carry you in my me those irons and that dumobell Taking one-half of her hair she knotted it about the dambbell to which the four irons were attached. Then she straightened her head and body up and began prancing about the table in the center of the room. "This ain't anything." she said. "If they would only give me a show I'd do something big. I don't feel this weight on one side of my head. I could carry four times as much as this fastened to my hair, The women who slide down vires in circuses hanging by their hair don't do much. I could do that and have some one else hanging to my heels. I weigh 140 pounds, too. Then to work off some of her excite ment she picked up the fifty-pound dumb-bell, and tossing it up in the air within a few inches of the ceiling.

caught it dexterously in one hand as it descended toward the floor. "If you think I can't wrestle take off your coat and yest and give me a show The reporter declined on the at you. ground that he was not in training, and then Lily said to her mother: downstairs and if you see any of the boys on the corner tell them to come up iere, that I want to have a wrestle. Mrs. Tobin returned in a moment, saying that the boys were not in a wrestling humor. Lily only developed her Samson-like abilities six months ago. She went to a Bowery museum and after watching the iron-fingered man catch big cannon palls and toss mammoth iron dumb-bells in the air, she made his acquaintance after the performance and astonished him by handling his heavist weights with astounding case.

Since then she has done nothing but hew broomhandles, play ball with the different members of her family, and exercise her great strength in every possible way. Lily was born in Paterson, N. J., but has lived in New York most of her life. Her father is an Irishman, while her mother was born in Scotland.
