Another case of diphtheria was reported yesterday at No. 1812 Third avenue. Residents on East Broadway are kicking for sidewalk extensions beyond the present limits of the planking. The new sewer on Benton street, from Broadway to Indian Creek, has been com-pleted, and the curbing is now being laid.

The ladies' aid society, of the Trinity Methodist church, will serve an oyster supper at Lacy's hall, on South Main street, Friday evening.

A delegation from Union Pacific assembly, No. 1300, has gone to Denver to represent the Bluffs at the district assembly of the Knights of Labor.

The walls of Martin Hughes' new building at the corner of Broadway and Park avenue are rapidly going up, disclosing a very hand-some and symmetrical structure.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union meet every Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their room, No. 303 Merriam block. All ladies are cordially invited to attend.

John Conway, one of the trio arrested for stealing an overcoat from John Taylor, was sent to the county jail for thirty days. T others, Hogan and Bush, were discharged. The

The Old Homespun company has been booked to appear at Dohany's on the 22d and 23d insts., and the arrangements for their coming have just been completed by G. D Johnson, advance agent.

Ira Odell has taken out a permit for $2,500 two-story frame building in Curtis & Ramsey's addition, and J. N. Barnsdail has also secured a permit for a $5,000 two-story building in McMahon & Jeffries ad dition.

The new gas and electric light company has secured offices in the Merriam block. One of the large storerooms on the first floor, next to the double room at the south end, will be fitted up for a display room for electrical and gas apparatus, as well as for the offices of the company.

Superintendent Harry Evans, of the in-candescent department of the electric light company's plant, is wiring the new Eiseman block for incandescent lights. These lights will be placed in the offices and in the cashier's, book-acceper's and wrapping depart ments. The arc lights will be retained throughout the store with the addition of three fifty-candle power incandescent lights in each show window.

The fox chase to be held northeast of Manawa this afternoon should not be forgot manava tools and the sport. The fox is guaranteed to run, and there will undoubt-edly be a long and exciting chase. The ex-hibition is free and everybody is invited to go. A special invitation is extended to the ladies, many of whom have frequently expressed a desire to see a chase but have never before had an opportunity.

Several of the citizens of the western part of the city, especially in the vicinity of Streetsville, are moving to have another ward created from that portion of the city For some time past there has been a desire on the part of a great many to have the city redistricted and a radical change made u several of the wards, as the Second ward is altogether too large and the Toird and Fourth are satisfactorily adjusted. The de-mand for a change is rapidly increasing, and it is probable that some definite action will taken in the matter before another mu nicipal election.

The city star-bearers began yesterday morning to sell tickets for their annual ball which will be given at the Masonic temple Fridar evening, November 1. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of regula-tion uniform overcoats for the force. Sentenced For Life. The Brooks murder triat is ended, and after a fair and impartial hearing of the evidence in the case, the jury has decided that the defendant, Thomas Brooks, is guilty of murder in the first degree, as charged in the indictment, and has decreed that, as a punishment for his crime, he shall be imprisoned at hard tabor in the penitentiary of the state for the remainder of his natural life.

The verdict was reached with little difficulty, and in an hour and a half from the time the jurymen left their seats they were back in the jury box, and had returned their finding to the court.

The fifth and last day of the trial was occupied with the arguments of counsel and the instructions of the court. Colonel Dailey resumed his pica for the defendant when court opened in the morning, and concluded at ten minutes before 12 o'clock. He sifted the testimony very carefully, but it was a hopeless effort, as he had little or nothing on which to work. Notwithstanding this he labored long and earnestly for the accused. skillfully handling the weak points of the prosecution, if such the slight discrepancies and inaccuracies of the state's evidence may be termed, and placing his client in the beat possible light, which, it must be admitted, was far from favorable. As far as the merits of the case were con-cerned, the defense was lamentably wanting. In conclusion, Colonel Dalley made a strong touching plea in behalf of the aged pa rents of the accused.

In the afternoon Prosecuting Attorney Organ made his closing argument. It was lucid and forcible, devoid of any attempt at flighty oratory, presenting the plain, un varnished facts of the case in a most convinc ing manner. Keen and incisive, it carried weight with the jury, and made for the attorney as well a most creditable showing of his legal acumen and ability to fill the responsible position which he holds as prosecuting attorney of the largest county in the state of Iowa. His skillful management of the case was a surprise to nearly every one, and many richly deserved compliments were bestowed upon him. Shortly before 4 o'clock Judge Macy began his charge to the jury, which was quite lengthy, and the delivery occupied about twenty minutes. The charge covered considerable ground, being, in fact, quite ex-haustive, and, in the opinion of numerous attorneys, was as fair a charge as was ever delivered to a jury from this bench. The defendant's counsel could take no exception to it, and expressed the opinion that it was very favorable to the prisoner. Neverthe-less, the verdict was far from being a general surprise, although several expected a rerdict of manslaughter. The prisoner heard the announcement of the verdict with but little show of feeling, beyond a contraction of the muscles of the lips, while his eyes fell to the matting before him. When taken back to the jall be stated that he did not care so much for himself, but regretted it on his mother's account. He said that it made little difference to him what the verdict was, but his unconcern was evidently assumed, and he was far from feeling the indifference which he professed. The work in the jury room was completed in short order, but six ballots being taken to decide on the prisoner's guilt, the decree, and the punishment. The first ballot was as to the guilt of the ac-cused. The result was ten for guilty, one bank and one act guilty. blank and one not guilty. The second ballot resulted in a unanimous vote of guilty. Then the degree was considered. The firs ballot stood ten for murder in the first de-gree, and two for murder in the second dee article was shown to Dr. Macrae, and opinion regarding it solicited. "Why," he, "it is all the veriest nonsense. "Is not the slightest ground on which base such statements. I am treating eral cases of diphtheria, and without a gle exception they are in families which single exception they are in families which get their drinking and cooking water from wells. They are nearly all in the lower portion of the city, but I know of nearly a dozen cases in the eastern part of the city, where all of the fami-lies are also using well water. I will state now, and challenge successful contradiction, that by far the greater part of the sickness in the city at the present time is in families using well water. As for the city water being so impure, that is, as I said be-fore, the veriest nonscene, and the charge is fore, the vertest nonsense, and the charge is made by folks who don't know what they are taiking about. I think that it would be bet ter if the settling basin did not extend down under the bridge, but the situation is not so se rious as represented. I believe in thoroughly aerating water, and if I was going to sug-aerating water, and if i was going to sug-gest a change, I would advise having the water empty into the reservoir from the top instead of from the bottom. The pipe might be raised ten or fifteen feet, which would give the water plenty of fall, and then by placing some kind of a break underneath, the water would be divided into numerous streams and fully exposed to the air. This would mu dy the air still further, and make would putify the air still further, and make it as bealthy as possible. I am opposed to using impure water, and I know that our city water is far above the average. Our health reports show it, for our mortality rate is less than in any city of similar size in the ountry From General Manager Hart, of the Water Works company, it was learned that the company intends making several changes. Said he: "When the matter came up a few weeks ago, and some of the papers raised a hue and cry about impure water, Mr. Sheldon, treasurer of the company, wrote from New York, asking for an estimate of plans and cost for making such changes as might be required. The company does not think any changes necessary to secure pure water being satisfied from an analysis that they have had made that the water is not impure, but they are willing, if the citizens are making objections, to put the settling basin in better condition, so as to make it more at tractive in appearance. The company's chief engineer, Mr. Birkinbine, is now in New York, where he has gone to submit estimates for such changes. Our instructions are to prepare new reservoirs and another settling basin, if recessary, and the sides of the ditch and basin will be sodded and a man employed to keep them in good condition, and the basin will probably be changed so as to be entirely above the bridge. The reservoirs and basin will be kept in as attractive condition as possible, and other work done to please the eye, but when it comes to furnishing any better water than this city is getting, it is altogether out of the question.' At the council meeting yesterday afternoon Mr. Everett introduced a resolution requiring the waterworks company to change their settling pasin so that it would be en-tirely above the motor bridge. Mr. Hart was present and stated that the company was already preparing to make the change as soon as possible, so that no further action was taken in the matter. Always on Time.

Look Out For Sneak Thieves.

"You can't blame these fellows so very much, after all," remarked a policeman yesterday, while discussing the great increase in sneak thievery in the city during the past two weeks. "In eight cases out of ten the citizens themselves are to blame for it. They leave a lot of clothing hanging in the front hall, with the door unlocked, and that of it self almost licenses a cold and hungry tramp to steal. You don't hear of these cases in midsummer for the simple reason that these fellows can sleep out of doors, without any covering, and keep more comfortable than half of the millionaires, "But take this weather, for instance. The lights are so chilly that a man can't lie out, and his only hope is to crawl into a stack or hay loft. If he can't find such a place, he must provid around, and must have clothes must prown around, and must have clothes enough to keep him warm. To put clothing within the reach of such a man is like leav-ing a loaf of bread where some haf-starved wretch can get his hands on it. You see, folks must look out now for the next few months, and clothiers had better keep their display suits glued to their dummies. There are lots of these tramps who don't want anything better than a ninety days' jall sontence and they can't get it any easier than by nipping some little article valued at less than $20 to evade the charge of grand lar-

Solving the City Water Question.

An article signed "Physician" appeared in the Nonparell yesterday regarding the impurity of the city water and its total unfitness for drinking or cooking purposes, and attributing to it the greater part of the sickness now existing in the city. In the article inpeared the following: "We have hesitated a good deal about say-ing anything of the present source from which Council Bluffs gets its water supply but ware now convinced that the water but we are now convinced that the water which is pumped into the settling basins, the water that we use to drink and cook with, is absolutely recking with poison, and full of disease and death.

"Any person who will take the trouble to ride on the motor cars to the river will see but too plainly the character of the water we drink. In the first place a pond has been made to which the water is conducted made to which the water is conducted through an irrigating dich from the river a considerable distance beyond. This ditch is lined with weeds and grasses and open to the use of everybody who sees it to use it for any purpose whatever, The pond fed by this ditch is also unprotected and open to abuse and the deposit o filth. forth the claim that the company has no right of way down Fifth avenue, and that it has made no arrangements to liquidate the damages. The claim is made that the damage will be great, as the motor will interfere with the enjoyment of the beautiful homes and the quiet of the churches and schools. It will endanger life, make driving anything but pleasureable, and in fact will cause damage to the amount of thousands of dollars. The petition was presented to Judge Macy yesterday morning. As his honor was busy with the Brooks murder case, an agreement was reached between the attorneys that the matter should go over until 8:30 o'clock this morning. The attorney for the motor com pany announced that he had instructed the company not to go on with the work, but to stop until the matter could be heard. The attorneys are to agree on a statement of facts so as to relieve the court of all but the onsideration of the legal points. There is no little feeling being manifested in regard to the policy being pursued by the motor company, not only on Fifth avenue, but elsewhere. The taxpayers have been led to believe that the motor company legally bound to pay for the paving of that portion of any street used by it, extending to one foot beyond each side of its tract. Thus far there has been no paying for paving un less on the quiet to some property owners who have roared so loud as to se-cure a private settlement. The city has a goodly sum due it under this law for the portion of the intersections thus taken. The city could afford to press its claims in court, but the city council seems to have been put to sleep or cise they have little faith in their rights. One or two of the aldermen are in favor of forcing a settle ment, and especially in regard to Avenue A That avenue has been practically rendered impassible for teams. The dirt has been dug out of the street and thrown into a roadbed for the motor. These aldermen, who are in the minority, insist that the motor company should grade that street and put it in as good condition as before. The council as a body has not, however, shown any disposition to force the matter. The motor company has taken two feet off the corner of the court house parking to better accommodate itself. The city counci granted the company this privilege, though ust what right the city has to grant such an nfringement of county rights is a puzzler to many. At the corner of Pearl and Fifth avenue a network of very sharp curves is being put in. The iron guards are an inch or more above the rails, the sharp edges sticking up so as to render it exceedingly probable that buggles will be wrecked there by the score. It is now asserted that under the law of lowa the city owns the streets, parking and sidewalks in fee simple, and abutting property owners have no more rights than any others. Yet, strangely enough, the abutting property owners are called upon to pay for all the street improvements. There is a good deal of hot talk heard on the corners. Many who do not like to liti-gate chuckle at seeing their neighbors do so, and wish them success. Others look to the city council to protect their interests, claim that they pay taxes to support a strong legal arm, which shall be used in staying the encroachments of corporations, instead of eaving citizens to a hopeless single handed combat with such a strong opponent. Get Fountain 5c cigar, next to Eiseman's

Chris Andrew Larsen, a Lewis township Dane, rehearsed a romantic tale in police court yesterday morning. His Daneship was filled with love and poor whisky when arrested, but he secured the latter part of his load after coming to this city last Monday. The story he told was to the effect that he had been in this country but a short time, but during his brief sojourn here he became enamored of a Lewis township maiden, who is said to be worth $10,000 in her own right. Paterfamilias did not take kindly to the young foreigner, and firmly expressed the belief that he was not just the kind of a felrobe as beneath her, which only proves to me and to you what all-around fools women are capable of being. To have somebody whom you can trust come in once a week, or whenever you want her, take your keys, look over your belong ings, put a stitch where it is wanted thus saving the twenty that the future might require, is, I consider a great

The claim usually is that they don't get enough pay for it, and that the work don't make any show; well, let them ask a fair price, and if the person for whom they are working doesn't groan about the show. I don't see why they should. I thinkbut then I am only mortal, and dressmakers are beyond that-that there is ten times as much show in a bodice properly mended, and a skirt with a fresh ruffle about the bottom, than in a directoire coat that is illuiting, unsuitable for the person who will wear it and which makes so much of a show that all the artistic nature of the Amer ican public rises up and metaphorically cries "Fie upon it?" In fixing over-delightful term!-bodice, remember the agonies that the small hooks and eyes caused you all summer, and with what persistency they broke your nails. Take them al off and put good sized ones on, having not all the hooks on one side and the eyes on the another, but putting first a hook and then an eye, which insures the bodice remaining closed. Then, for draperies, beware of the safety hooks-their only safety consists in their being safe to come undone, and you have to pin them besides. Whereas a good, big, every-day work-ing hook will do his duty in that station of the frock where he is necessary. About the lower edge of a skirt. If it is worn, take your biggest seissors and cutoff the ragged edge with great evenness, putting as the finish, and to supply the missing length, a scant frill of silk the same color, with its edges pinked. Of course, this only applies to skirts that have long over draperieswhat, indeed, are known as foundation skirts. By the by, if you don't care to wear a long petticoat, arrange inside of all your dress skirts frills of either white or black lace reaching way up to the knee. The right side is next to to you, and the entire effect is extremely pretty, while the lace is stiff enough to give to the skirt the slight distention which is desirable. You are going to take out the big reeds; if it is made so that something in the shape of a reed is required, put in small one, but as you value your temper and the keeping of it do not choose those reeds that hook in the center, but cling to the old straight one tied with tapes The divided reed is even and rigid in determination not to hook together. It eventually has to be fastened with safetypin, then forms a perfect point, and nobody can blame the looker on for wondering as to the shape of the woman, who, by her innocence, has been led into making a guy of herself. Do not put way as unwearable the foulards of summer, but see if instead you can't utilize them for home dresses. In large cities, where an even temperature---that of summer time---pervades house, these gowns can be worn the with perfect propriety, and one need not fear that most dreadful of events, catching cold.

A charming woman in New York wears white mull gowns the entire sea-con for the honse, and she looks as if she were a scraph or something very angelic as she walks about in her soft robe that duesn't rustle and has the artistic air peculiar to the ivory-white material. Look over the ball gowns and see if any
