Judge Macy will resume the trial of criminal cases this morning, as this is the last week of the term to be devoted to the criminal docket. Several days of next week will be devoted to unfinished business, a week from to-day being set for the disposition of several of the liquor injunction cases. It is quite probable that the entire week will be taken up in closing up the docket, although Macy expects to finish the term on the 31st inst., on which day he will sentence the convicted criminals. Judge Macy goes from here to Clarinda, and Judge Carson will preside over the last term of the year in this city.

An immense pickerel, weighing eight and three-fourths pounds, was caught in Big lake yesterday by E. C. Brown. The fish was landed only after a hard struggle. It was a beauty and attracted much attention as its captor escorted it up broadway. It is stated that the water in the lake is going out very fast, and that it is a serious quastion whether the little water remaining will not free: solid this winter. The fish, of which there are large numbers in the lake, begin to find the situation critical, and hundreds are being taken daily by fishermen, who have little to do but shovel the fish out of the water.

Feeks among the electric wires at Center and Chambers street, this city Friday afternoon, says the New York World. Mr. Thompson saw the line-man hanging in the wires, and for some time watched his terrible agonies. When Mr. Thompson reached his office on Montague street, Brooklyn, he told what he had witnessed to the clerks, and then went into the rear office and related the story to President Hassan

H. Wheeler. Just as he was finishing he was seized with convulsions, and would have fallen had not Mr. Wheeler caught him. "Mr. Thompson was very much excited when he came in, and his discription was so vivid that it made me shud-der," said Mr. Wheeler to a World reporter yesterday. "He had just said, There were thousands of people look-ing on at that poor fellow's sufferings and not one dared to venture up the pole to release him.' When he leaned forward, with his teeth set and his hands clinched, I thought he was illustrating the actions of the dying line man. Then he staggered and I realized that he was ill. Jumping from my chair at the desk, I caught him as he was falling and I placed him upon the floor. The reporter saw Dr. Little, who said that Mr. Thompson had received an apoplectic stroke, brought on by the excitement and shock of what he had witnessed in New York, and that he would probably die. Dr. Bunker said that while the patient was somewhat better during the morning his condition was very crit-

Own Country. While Mr. Edison has been greatly honored by all classes of Frenchmen, and leading citizens have vied in conferring distinctions upon him, says a Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune, Mr. Pasteur and Dr. Brown-Sequard have not been so fortunate. The papers here never showed great confidence in the reinvigorating virtues of Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir. They admitted that the aged doctor, who is really seventy-two years old and looked as much, had courageously experi-mented with his elixir on himself. But they showed that the pop-ularity which the elixir achieved was primarily due to Dr. Variot, who first announced that he had tried the elixir on some of his patients with great success. Unkind critics have hinted that Variot reported in this way to bid for the influence of Dr. Brown-Sequard in the French Academy of Medicine, as

THE GOAT FOUND THE GOLD. Singular Discovery of the Ramshoru Mine In Idaho.

DEVELOPED BY OMAHA MEN.

What Idaho's Mining Interests Owe To Capital and Enterprise From Nebraska's Metropolis-Hard Winters But Delightful Summers.

Idaho Mines.

CLAYTON, Idaho, Oct. 19 .- [Special to THE BEE, |-From the earliest history of Omaha her citizens have been noted for their energy and enterprise in reaching out into new fields of business. I have lately been looking over the work of some of Omaha's well known citizens far up in the mountains of Idaho, which will interest some of their many friends. All through the mountains a small incident may give a name to a locality, and it is from such that many odd names have been given to towns and mining districts.

Years ago, when this part of Idaho was overrun with Indians, so hostile that white men staid away, a man mounted on a large bay horse passed brough the country and reaching Salmon City, told of camping one night on a creek where he saw indications of gold. Although nearly a hundred miles away, the country then was so little known, and miners were so eager for "placers" that a prospecting party was soon on the way thither. All they knew about the place was what the unknown man with a "bay horse" had told them, and the description was so plain that they found no trouble in going to the spot, outside of the hard climbing over hills, through deep gorges and the fording of the river. Once there, they named the creek and guich Bay Horse, but found no placer gold to pay for their trouble, but there was lots of such game as deer, bear, goats and sheep. Climbing to the top of a mountain skirting the creek, a mountain sheep was started up, and running close to the precipice was piercea by a ball from the unerring aim of a rifle and he fell far below. The hunter soon made his way down to the animal and was rewarded, not only by finding a prize of excellent venison, but the sheep had struck and knocked off some galena ore with his horns. The animal had not only uncovered some of the riches of this mountain, but his horns and the incident suggested the name for the

which has since yielded millions in silver, gold and lead. This was some ten or twelve years ago, and when the country was only reached by saddle and pack animals. Now there are good roads and great trains of wagons, while stage lines make access easy. It was soon after this singular discovery of a mine that Omaha men began to take an interest here. Rich ores from the Ramshorn mine sent to Omaha for smelting attracted attention, and E. W. Nash, Captain C. B. Rustin, General W. W. Lowe, A. T. Crook, Messrs. Barton, Wallace, and others, became interested in this country and their money put in operation a smelter at the town of Bay Horse. This has since passed into other hands and been developed into considerable prominence, while the Omaha men have opened up a very successful plant for smelting ores at Clayton, eighteen miles farther up Salmon well as to secure the custom of decrepit people anxious to recover the strength Captain Rustin and others went by trail and built wagon there roads and bridges costing several thousand dollars, which the company afterwards donated to the general public. More than this, they have developed the country, giving employment to hundreds of men, built other roads, and the present company, made up chiefly of Omaha men, is sending to Omaha a regular stream of rich bullion for refinement. To do this requires a line of great freight teams between Clayton and Ketchum, the nearest railway point, distant eighty miles. These teams of sixteen or eighteen mules draw four wagons, loaded with about forty thousand pounds of freight, such as coke, mining supplies and goods, when coming in, while bullion furnishes them loads going back. They operate a half dozen mines and own two or three times that number of mining claims. General Lowe and Captain Rustin were of which there are two at one place and another a few miles distant, are real curiosities. The one best known as Red Fish lake is a deep chasm in Lake gulch, near the town of Sawtooth. It is nearly a mile wide and three miles long, with water so clear as to show sea o water weeds forty feet down. Its greatest depth is not known, since a half-mile line failed to reach the bottom or give signs of the "bob" having struck The curious feature giving the lake its name is the appearance about the 10th of August each year of myrinds of red fish twelve to sixteen inches long which swarm in the lake, and rush up the creek a few miles. After spawning and remaining in the lake and creek until in October, such as do not die disappear as suddenly as they came. Going down Salmon river one is part of the time in a broad valley, but occasionally this narrows into a difficult canon.

A friend four years ago had a small silver stamp mill which he wanted to remove up the river only fourteen miles. It could not be taken over a narrow trail and there was no road, so it was loaded on wagons and taken by a roundabout course of roads

OVER THREE HUNDRED MILES.

This incident illustrates the difficulties of mountain travel. It is differentnow since such men as have been spoken of in this letter have constructed roads by blasting out the rocks and building bridges, making more di-rect routes of travel. There is no more delightful country to camp out in, hunt. fish and enjoy grand scenery than along Salmon river, from its rise in the Sawtooth mountains down to its union with Snake river, amid the canons piercing the rugged mountains of the Seven Devils country, over five hundred miles from where the melting snow starts on its way to the sea. Most of this distance, on either side, the moun-tains are either clothed with pine and fir trees, or else have fissures filled with minerals that will some day be extracted and enter into the commerce of the world. Around Bay Horse, Clayton, in the Yankee Fork country (a tributary to the Salmon), many mines have been opened and become profitable, while there is a country around two by three hundred miles in extent so inaccessible that but little is known of the great wealth it contains. This vast great wealth it contains. This vust region is destined to fall under the scrutiny of prospectors, and in view of the wonders already revealed we are at a loss to calculate what we may expect in its development.

The coal dealers of Council Bluffs would most respectfully say in explanation of the reduction in price of coal made by A. T. Thatcher, of this city, that Mr. Thatcher has heretofore claimed to sell coal by wholesale only, and that many of us have purchased coal from him at the market prices, and would still continue to do so, if we could get a good article of coal that would please our trade, but with coal bought from Mr. Thatcher we have had a great deal of trouble and complaint, and those of us who have handled his coal have been rom him or lose our customers.

To resent this and coerce the dealers into buying an inferior article of coal Mr. Thatcher has come into the retail trade, and is now offering his coal at a less price delivered to consumers than he charged us for it at his yards, and also at ower prices than we could purchase Merchantile Coal elsewhere. We are prepared to furnish a statement fully verified as to the correctness of

A Flattering Prospect.

The building permits issued last week amounted to over $23,000. When informed of this fact yesterday, a city official remarked: "And yet some folks are kicking, and calling the city dull and dead. I can tell you that it is one of the liveliest cities in the country. The amount of building going on shows this, and the real estate transfers are not a bit behind. There is every prospect of a new hotel and a new city hall next year, and if these are built you will see such a boom as you never saw in any town before in your life. It is easy enough to see which way the wind blows, and I tell you that the coming year will octipse anything the Bluffs has seen yet."

The Motor on Upper Broadway.

Yesterday afternoon the electric motor company finished putting up its overhead wire on Upper Broadway, from First to Oak street, and so much of the proposed Pierce street loop is ready for operation. The poles and cross wires were put up some months ago, so that comparatively little time was required to get the line ready to operate. The old flat street car rails on this street will not be changed, except where the old sidings are toru out to put in a straight single track, at which points the new girder rails will be substituted. This work has already been done at siding No. 6, where the paving is yet to be replaced, and work will at once be commenced at siding No. 7. The Main street cars will to-day begin running as far as siding No. 7, and when the work at that point is com-pleted will run to the east end of Broadway, eventually continuing around the loop as soon as the track is laid on Pierce street. Work will be prosecuted on the Fifth-avenue line at he same time, as the company proposes to have both there lines in active operation before winter sets in.

The choir of the Congregational church furnished the music. Among the hymns rendered was the following, which was composed by Rev. Mr. Crofts especially for the occasion:

Our brother sleeps his last long sleep He ne'er on earth shall wake again; His weary eyes no more shall weep-Forever free from care and pain.

The department was called out a few minutes after 12 o'clock yesterday by a fire on North Eighth street, between Avenues H and I. The location is nearly a mile from the nearest hose house, and three blocks from the nearest fire hydrant, so the fire was well under way when water was first turned on. How ever, the building, which was a small one-story frame of very little value, owned by Mark Williams, was saved of youth. They allege also that Dr. Variot some years ago attached his name to a quack specific for destroying marks of tattooing, and that his experiments with the clixir were made him as official physician of the Centra infirmary of the state prisons upon poor and ignorant people, and not in the presence of other doctors.

Pasteur has fared even worse with a minority of his countrymen. While it that a splendid building was is true erected in which he might prosecute his researches with regard to hydrophobia, it is also true that violent oppo sition was shown in the Paris municipal council against making any grant for such a purpose. He has, moreover, just been snubbed in his native place, the town of Arbois, in the department of Jura, where the municipal couucil has decided by a vote of 12 to 4 that the Rue Pasteur should lose its name and be called hereafter Rue do la Gare, or 'Depot street."

An Infallible Cure.

A remedy for diphtheria is given as follows: Take ten grains of permanganate of pottassium and mix with one ounce of cold water. As soon as dissolved it must be applied with a rag or sponge mop or swab to the whitish places in the tonsils, and other parts that have the diphtheria membrane on. Do this very gently, but thoroughly every three hours until better; then every six hours until well. It does not give pain, but is rather nauseous to the taste. If the tongue is coated white I mix one drachm of hyposulphite of soda and five drops of oil sassafras in four ounces of syrup made of sugar and hot water, and give a tenspoonful every one to three hours as needed, when awake. If the tongue is not coated white I mix twenty drops of tincture of phytolacca in four ounces of cold water, and give a teaspoonful every one to three hours, as needed, when awake. The phytolacca is the common poke root of the south, and as it loses its strength by drying and age, the tincture should be from the fresh root or it is worthless.

It is well to apply a little sweet oil on cosmoline to the outside of the throat to protect from the action of the air, as the patient must be protected from all danger of getting chilled. In the beginning of the disease in mild cases the above solution of permanganate of potassium is all I use, and that is needed, as the disease is local at first, but rapidly affects the whole sys tem when seated. In the stinking form of diphtheria this solution soon destroys all smell, and in every case it destroy the diphtheria membrane without leav ing any bad effect behind.

can, with all the disadvantages of being far in advance of supplies, but they laid the foundations for enterprises to last for many years to come. Miningshere is only in its infancy, even if the lodes have given up millions in value during the past ten or fifteen years. New pro cesses of smelting and the still more im portant one of concentrating ores to save cost of transportation and smelting has done much for this district, and now only a railway is needed to give very rapid development.

Let me attempt a description of the country. Nearly one hundred miles to the southwest the great Sawtooth range in its trend northward forms the rim o the basin drained by Salmon river. At an elevation of 10,000 feet above the sea winter storms store away the supply which supplies this river, a big, rapid stream, during all the balance of the year. Even at this elevation prospectors have found min eral ledges, inviting miners who have been for years delving in the rocks and despoiling the dense timber in the gulches and mountain sides. Three winters ago a friend kept the record of storms, snow fall and temperature. That winter's experience was enough for him, and in early March he walked out on snow shoes, resolved not to return again to spend a winter there.

Eighty-six days' continuous suows, measuring as it fell over ninety feet in the aggregate, and packing down to nine feet on the level; seventy-eight days in which the sun was seen but twice, and fifty-three days without a ray to cast a shadow certainly was enough to make life gloomy, and yet there was the added danger of being in the track of a great snow slide, should one start in that locality. But go there in the bright days of summer and the scene is enchanting. Great meadows of native grasses, enough trees to enliven the landscape, flowers everywhere, an atmosphere pure, clear and exhilerating, while numerous streams of limpid, cold water, filled with trout, and several beautiful lakes make this a delightful summer resort for pleasure. Even in the warmest days the elevation and great patches of snow on the hills make a warm fire and heavy kets comfortable at night. Bear, deer, wolves, antelope, fish, ducks and geese are so plentiful as to offer rare sport to huntsmen. It is over 1,000 miles by the Columbia, Snake and Salmon rivers to this land, from the Pacific, and yet salmon trout and big salmon come all the way here from the ocean to spawn. At times the river is fairly alive with these migratory fish, while later, about this time of the year, the shore is lined with dead ones.

A Hanson county farmer, says the Scotland Citizen, living ten miles north of Alex-andria, has a flowing well. In his own way he irrigated five acres and sowed it to wheat When he thrashed it he got thirty-eight bushels of wheat to the acre. If the general government will give us $7,00° = 00-which is mly half of what it gives to the Sioux dians-we can sink two artesian wells in each township of our wheat lands and rais from twenty-five to forty bushels on every acre, regardless of the weather.
