Judge Hopewell's Impatience Over Delay in Securing Witnesses. There was a delay in getting at the crim nal docket in the district court. The state was not ready with any case Thursday, and Judge Hopewell took up a civil case and gave the county attorney's assistants until yesterday morning to get a case ready. The case against Wilson Lindley, charged with having forged D. Withnell's name to a check which he passed, was called. Assistant Prosecutor Moriarity didn't know whether the state's principal witness was in the city or not. "Do you want me to sit here and wal until you find out?" inquired Judge Hopewell, with some warmth. "You had all day yesterday to get ready for the case, and your first step would naturally be to locate your principal witness."

your principal witness."

Then young Mr. Grebe explained that he had not had time to find out whether Mr. Withnell was in the city or not. He had had to work days and nights, he said, to keep the four courts running properly and thought he should be excused occasionally for such little mistakes as a failure to get witnesses.

The case proceeded, however, and was given to the jury, which returned a verdict of guilty, but recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court on account of his

"Where do you get all the old bony horse you accumulate every fall!" asked Judge Berka of John Stevens, who had been ar raigned for cruelty to animals. "Dat is my pusiness," replied John.

"But Goldsmith says you do not."
"Goldsmith is a liar. He wants te get my horses for himself."

"I shall fine you $3 and costs, and if you are brought before me again on this charge I will fine you the full limit of the law." erty Holders. The Missouri Pacific people object to the building of a viaduct over their road at Leavenworth street. The construction of the viaduct, however, is the condition upon which the property-owners west of the track have donated a number of acres of land for park purposes.

The company looks upon the viaduct project as one originating with the propertyowners to save the grading of the street in front of their land.

H. B. Wiley, who is one of the land-holders in question, denies the imputation.

He says he knows the other property-owners were never approached on such a scheme. The viaduct at the place is a neces-sity. The hill on the west runs down to the track, is shaded on both sides with trees, and several hair-breadth escapes have taken place by teams running on the track unaware of approaching trains.

The park commissioners will accept the ground, provided the viaduct is built. Otherwise they will decline it, preferring to do without a park than establish one at a place where it could not be reached without jeop-ardizing life and limb.

The estimated cost of the structure is $12,000. One-fourth of it would extend be-youd the city limits, and for this the county commissioners have expressed a willingness to pay the county's share. An Absolute Care.

moreover, they are vocally far in advance of anything ever produced in this country. One of the most lavishly dressed of any is "Rose of Castile," which Miss Abbott is making a of Castile," which Miss Abbott is making a feature this season, and this will be the opera on the opening night of the engagement here, on October 30. MUST REPLACE WALKS. Otherwise, Graders Will Not Receive

Their Estimates. Complaints are made by citizens in different parts of the city that the grading contractors do not replace the sidewalks torn up by them. After the sidewalks were torn up on Geor gia avenue, the graders, it is stated, carried off many of the boards for fire and kindling. After the work was finished none of the side walks were replaced, except where some citizen paid for the work out of his own pocket. As a consequence, nearly the entire street is without a plank crossing from Leavenworth to Hickory. In muddy weather pedestrianism is out of the question.

Complaint has been made to Chairman Balcombe, of the board of public works, of this condition of affairs.

City Engineer Tillson, who was present at at the time, insisted that it was just as important to replace the sidewalks as it was to have the grading done, Major Balcombe agreed with him, and declared that hereafter no grading contractor shall have his estimates allowed until he guarantees that he has replaced the sidewalks torn up and left them in as good shape as he found them.

THE REPORTERS WITHDREW. The Dress-Reform Lecture by Mrs.

Jenness Miller. Mrs. Annie Jenness Miller, the great apostle of dress reform among women, lectured at Boyd's opera house yesterday afternoon to a large audience composed entirely of ladies. This was Mrs. Miller's second appearance in Omaha within a short time. She launched into her subject with a persuasiveness which carried conviction with it. She herself, as she appeared before the audience in all the graceful ease of one who has the muscles and members of the body under perfect control, with no restrictions in the form of tight corsets or binding bands, was the most powerful argument in favor of the system of which she is the originator and ardent advocate. She is tall, graceful in every motion, and has a queenly head, adorned with a wealth of raven black hair.

Mrs. Miller is the sworn enemy of the corset, or, more particularly, of the corset-steel. According to her statement, this steel is the cause of a majority of the ills which afflict womankind. It is responsible for the headaches and oackaches in a large number of cases, and it makes it impossible for a woman to have the free use of her arms, because it binds the ribs and throws them out of place, pesides throwing the internal organs, out of their proper position. It also causes the collar bone to become more prominent than it should be, resulting in an unsightly neck any shoulders.

The custom of hanging the skirts from the shoulder was also censured, Mrs. Miller expressing sympathy for the poor men who are the weeking of the provider of making of the provider of making of the sympathy. the victims of this practice of making the stories to his own barn and fed them. Last the victures of this practice of making the winter the police shot four horses for Stevens, because they were almost starved to death. The old man seems to have a mania for worthless and broken down the hips and shoulders. To accomplish this she has a foundation waist upon which the dresses are constructed.

During the course of the lecture Mrs. Miller changed ber costume several times, appearing each time in one more bewitching than the last. Her costume at the beginning was of dark green plush, made in Di-rectoire style with a low neck, displaying to the test advantage the finely chiseled throat and the perfect blend of the neck and chest lines. The next costume was one she called a "school dress," and was of a delicate pink stuff of light weight. It, also, was made in the famous Empire style and was bewildering in its arrangement.

In order to show the ladies where the mysterious opening was, by means of which the garment was donned, Mrs. Miller unfast-ened it on the left side, showing the foundation waist beneath.

As she did ihis an elderly gentleman who had secured a seat where he could see all that transpired, covered his eyes with his hand and quickly withdrew, leaving the audience composed entirely of ladies and two

Quite a bustle of excitement was created by the discovery of a norrid man in the audience, and after it ceased Mrs. Miller ap peared successively in a street costume, tea own, evening dress and a traveling cos-

After this she requested that all the gentlemen in the audience withdraw, as she was about to exhibit to the ladies the style and arrangement of the under-garments, which constitute an important part of the costume which she recommends as the one dictated by common sense.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."
