A Lincoln School Marm Arrested for Whipping an Urchin.

THE M'ALLISTER WILL CONTEST.

Overwhelming Evidence That the Testator Had Been Insane for Years—The Registration Contest.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE.

Miss Anna Beecher, one of the teachers of the high school, was arrested this morning on the complaint of Mrs. Mary Hyatt charging her with assault and battery.

It appears that Miss Beecher whipped Clarence Hyatt, the complainant's son, on last Wednesday. The complaint is strongly worded.

Miss Beecher appeared before him and asked for a continuance until Monday, which was granted, and she will have her trial at 4 o'clock on Monday.

Friends of Miss Beecher, however, assert that the provocation was very great and that she will be able to make a showing that will change the current of public opinion. The case will attract lively interest.

It is understood that Prof. Lewis, principal of the school, will stand or fall with the arrested teachers.

Public opinion is with the heirs to the estate. Overwhelming proof has been introduced as to the insanity of the deceased, not only at the time of his death and immediately prior, but for the past dozen years. As has been stated, insanity and undue influence in the disposition of his property are the grounds in chief for the contest.

Registration Contested. Considerable interest is manifested by politicians, both in the city and Omaha, regarding the probable outcome of the state election. Timothy J. Mahoney, county attorney of Douglas county, and James G. Riley, a resident and qualified elector of the Fourth ward of the city of Omaha vs. Alexander Melutosh, C. V. Neenan and E. J. Parrott, supervisors of registration of the second precinct of the Fourth ward of Omaha.

The proceeding is in the nature of a quo warranto and the petition recites that Timothy J. Mahoney, county attorney of Douglas county, who prosecutes in person and on the relation of James G. Riley, and states that on the 24th of October, and for five years last past, the petitioner has been a citizen of the United States and an elector and resident of the Fourth ward of Omaha, and has had, and still has, all the qualifications of a voter for city, county or state officers.

The petitioner further represents that the defendants have been appointed supervisors of registration of the ward and district cited, have qualified by oath and undertaken the duties of the pretended office, that of registering the voters of the district, and will continue to exercise the powers of the office for the rest of the year

1889; that no valid law exists for the appointment of the supervisors of registration, and for their exercising the powers assumed; that notwithstanding this fact defendants continue to act as such supervisors, for the purpose stated, at stipulated times, and without any authority or warrant of law. Wherefore the petitioner prays their appearance in court to answer by what authority they claim to exercise the liberties, privileges, offices and franchises stipulated, and that a judgment of ouster against them may be pronounced.

IN THE WORLD OF MYSTERY.

The Bee Discusses Things of Interest to Lodge Men.

THE PYTHIAN AFTERMATH.

The Business Transacted at the Grand Lodge of Ruth Rebekah Degree, With a Variety of Other News.

K. P. Grand Lodge Echoes. The precedent was broken in the case of the election of W. A. Howard to the office of grand prelate, as he was not a representative of his lodge at the grand lodge. It is a remarkable fact that none but representatives were selected as officers. In the case of Mr. Howard it was generally supposed, by members of the grand lodge, that he represented his lodge at Kearney.

Grand Vice-Chancellor Christy, of Sterling, distinguished his fitness for that office when he introduced the query: "Can a brother sit in the lodge without the semi-annual dues word?"

H. M. Bushnell, the newly elected keeper of records and seals, was in the city during the week and moved the office to Lincoln. He was great surprised to find such a large amount of material which it was necessary to move.

John Morrison, the supreme representative-elect, was a visitor to Omaha this week on business connected with the courts.

Number 1, of the grand chancellor's decisions, which was approved by the grand lodge, forbids one kind of instructing another in the signs, grip or rank passwords. This is a matter which should remind members of the order. There is much carelessness in this respect.

Another of the grand chancellor's decisions embraces a much mooted point of law, which is that a brother's duty is to be at the time he is created a knight. All of the grand chancellor's decisions were approved by the grand lodge. They were but five in number.

The expenses of the session inclusive of two grand chancellor's jewels, for which appropriation was made, footed up $2,355.

From reliable sources it is learned that the manner of procedure of incorporating the grand lodge is decidedly questionable, and may result in future trouble. If the grand lodge is incorporated upon the plan adopted, it seems that the law compels this action to be taken by at least two-thirds of the members of the grand lodge, irrespective of the voting and legislative portion of the body.

Only about a hundred of the members voted to incorporate, while the grand lodge of Nebraska has in its membership about five hundred past chancellors. It is claimed by the best legal authority of the order that all of these should have a vote upon the matter.

Lodges will now find it very convenient to get their withdrawal cards from the grand lodge of free of charge. The great portion of the members who voted upon this bit of legislation are doubtless aware that the grand lodge will now furnish withdrawal cards to the subordinate lodges free of charge.

It will be very convenient for deputy grand chancellors, who institute lodges hereafter to be obliged to confer the three ranks upon fifteen candidates. This will do away with much of the hard all-night work in the institution of lodges, and was a very thoughtful piece of legislation on the part of the grand lodge.

Sixty days is as long as any subordinate lodge can now have credit with the grand lodge, so with that body. A lodge whose indebtedness to the grand lodge has run longer than sixty days, cannot be invested with the semi-annual password until such indebtedness is liquidated.

The Tean Fund. The Independent Order of Tean Bund is the name of a German organization which is rapidly coming to the front in this city.

Decorating a Knight.

Mt. Calvary commandery, Knights Templars, held a reception and banquet last week, for the dual purpose of building Good-templars to St. Augustine, Fla., his future home, and welcoming the Sir Knights returned from the convolve.

Among those present were E. Sir Frank G. Brown, acting commander; V. E. Sir James S. France, acting captain general; Rt. E. Sir Robert C. Jordan, past grand commander; Rt. E. Sir A. B. Smith, past grand commander; V. E. Sir William H. Bowen, grand recorder; Sir John J. Merce, grand master of N. C.; Sir Chris Hartman, grand treasurer; E. Sir Gustave Anderson, grand commander; E. Sir Henry C. Akin, past commander; E. Sir J. R. Stafford, past commander; E. C. E. Goodman, past commander.

Sir Knight House was presided by Colonel W. A. Akin with a beautiful presentation jewel, emblematic of his office. In making this presentation Colonel Akin spoke as follows:

Several years ago there came to Omaha a stranger hailing from the beautiful county of Wayne, New York. This stranger bore a letter of introduction to me from a friend and companion of my youth. I greeted him and bade him a hearty welcome among our number.

The name of this stranger was Rev. T. M. House, for whose sake we have assembled here to-night and to which we might give him some of the honors and rewards that await the true templar.

The Sir Knights of the commandery have watched your career since that time and feel like expressing the opinion they have formed of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Therefore, in behalf of Mt. Calvary commandery, whom you have so faithfully served, when called upon, I present you with this beautiful jewel, emblem of your life work. Take it, Sir Knight, and wear it next year, ever remembering the letter of introduction to me from a friend and companion of my youth. I greeted him and bade him a hearty welcome among our number.

On the 24th of November, 1889, at the last Friday night meeting of the commandery of the Scottish rite of America, its territories and dependencies, was initiated in all the degrees between the fourth and thirty-second inclusive. The doctor is one of the best known Masons in the state, having been identified with the craft for the greater part of a quarter of a century.

Resumé of the Rebekah Convention. At the recent state convention of the Rebekah degree of the I. O. O. F., held at Grand Island, an important change was effected in the matter of voting on the admission of applicants.

Heretofore a bare two-thirds of the members present and voting was sufficient to elect an applicant, and the consequence was that a large number of applicants were rejected.

A resolution was presented, by the commandery appointed for that purpose at the last session, and adopted. The state convention while we greet you joyfully here to-night, the meeting comes that we must soon part; probably, in this world, forever. But you bear with you our hearty wishes for your success and welfare, and may will be the times that our thoughts will wander far away to the sunny south, which is to be your home, unselfishly congratulating the country which is to have the happiness of your presence.

And now, Sir Knight, we bid you goodbye, and the members of the commandery have selected and engraved on your jewel, "God speed thee on your way."

Sir Knight House was overcome by his feelings at this evidence of esteem on the part of his brethren and Sir Knight R. W. Breckinridge responded in his behalf.

Sir Knight Stanner, then welcomed the pilgrims and congratulated them upon their return from the Mecca of all Templars, incorporating in his address an appropriate section from the past hours.

Sir Knights Gustave Anderson and William R. Bowen responded on behalf of the pilgrims.

The toastmaster then called upon Sir Knight T. S. Clark, who responded to the toast, "The Sir Knights who stand at home, keep the state from slipping up." His response was very witty, and elicited a great deal of laughter.

Sir Knight S. S. Strawn responded eloquently to the toast, "Templarism, as followed by a new Sir Knight." Sir William R. Bowen, to the grand commandery of Nebraska, "The grand lodge of Nebraska." The toast "Dakota" was responded to by Sir Knight Taylor.

Speeches were also made by Sir Knights Richard Smith, James S. France and John Butler.

In the absence of Eminent Commander A. P. Hopkins, Sir Knight D. F. Brown presided.

The festivities continued until midnight. The occasion was one of deep interest to the Sir Knights of Mt. Calvary commandery because of the close bond of union existing between Sir Knights of the grand lodge and fraternal, he having been closely identified with the interests of the commandery, and being one of its most indefatigable workers.

The grand lodge of Nebraska met in this city, at the corner of Lincoln and Saunders streets, on the 5th of January next. The supreme lodge meets in St. Louis on the first Tuesday in February.

A. F. & A. M. The grand lodge of Kentucky convened in annual session in Louisville during the past week. The grand master's address was quite lengthy, and occupied the greater part of the time at the opening session. The subject which received the most attention was the well-known question of "Carnegieism!"

He took the ground of priority of occupation, and said that the matter of legitimacy was not germane to the question. He also held that the grand lodge had a right to decide upon the legitimacy of independent rite. Reference was made to certain constitutional amendments, one of which affects the Carnegie bodies, as it announces the right of the grand lodge to determine what bodies are regular or otherwise.

Dr. John Tempay, of Fort Robinson, Neb., and a member of Montezuma lodge, A. F. & A. M. No. 1, South Platte, N. M., at the last Friday night meeting of the commandery of the Scottish rite of America, its territories and dependencies, was initiated in all the degrees between the fourth and thirty-second inclusive. The doctor is one of the best known Masons in the state, having been identified with the craft for the greater part of a quarter of a century.

of Rebekahs is yet in its infancy and is just getting its affairs in proper shape.
