THE CITY.

There will be a grand republican rally at the headquarters of the Second ward, Kaspar's hall, South Thirteenth street, November 2. All the candidates will be present. Every ward in the city will be represented. Andrew Chapman, aged thirty-one years, died Thursday of typhoid fever at the residence of his brother, O. Chapman, 1119 North Seventeenth street. The funeral will take place to day at 1 p. m. Friends are invited.

By common consent the arguments in the que warranto proceedings before the supreme court to test the legality of the registration law, were submitted Thursday at Lincoln, instead of November 25, the date originally set for the hearing of the case. A decision is not expected, however, in time to affect the county election.

Adelaide Gertrude's Whereabouts. "Mrs. W. C. Dallany, a heart-broken mother." is the signature of a letter received by Chief Seavey.

The letter asks for information regarding the whereabouts of Adelaide Gertrude Dougherty, the wife of Francis Dougherty, who formerly lived at 217 South Tenth street. The mother has not heard from her daughter for nine months and fears that something has happened to her. Mrs. Dallany is now living in Sioux City.

About Miss Williams.

A man in Stewartsville, Mo., writes to the chief of police for the address of Annie Williams, the woman who was recently tried here on the charge of infanticide and acquitted. He is of the opinion that Annie is an important witness in a case of arson committed several years ago at that place and desires to have her subposnaed. In the letter there was a protograph of the alleged Annie but it does not much resemble the present appearance of the female in question.

The First Arrest.

The first arrest made upon the indictments returned by the grand jury was that of Jerry Ryan, one of the contractors of the county hospital, who was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Grebe Thursday afternoon. The information filed charges him with having attempted to bribe Commissioner O'Keeffe by offering him an interest in the firm's contract if he would favor the contractors' claims then be fore the commissioners. The bribe is alleged to have been offered on the first of August. Ryan was taken before Judge Hopewell and his bond fixed at $1,000. He was re-leased upon ball, Dennis Cunningham becoming his surety.

The Omaha Coffin Company Articles of incorporation of the Omaha Coffin Manufacturing company were filed today with the county clerk. The capital stock is $50,000, $30,000 of which is subscribed, and the nature of the business is the manufacture and sale of all kinds of undertakers' supplies.

This company has purchased the plant and entire stock of the defunct Western Casket company, and will commence business at once. They propose to enlarge the plant and enter into the manufacture of first class goods with the energy and push characteris-tic of the men connected therewith. The officers are A. J. Montgomery, president; E. W. Dixon, vice president; A. F. Ross, secretary and treasurer.

Wade in Mud.

People living on Twenty-eighth street between Farnam and Dodge complain that they are forced to walk through mud on account of the autocratic action of Phelan & Co., who have the contract for grading that street. Half a day's work more would finish the job of grading, but Phelan has not made any attempt to complete the work for over six weeks, and the sections of broken sidewalks are piled up useless upon one side. The people in the vicinity have asked Paclan for the privilege of replacing the walks at their own expense, but, it is said, he declares he will tear them up if they put them down. The citizens thereabouts may have to wade through mud all winter, and they feel in anything but an amiable mood.

A HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

An Affecting Scene in the District Court Yesterday Afternoon. "He is not guilty! You shall not convict him! Oh, my poor boy! What a place is this for justice!"

These words were wrung from the very soul of Mrs. M. B. Dutton, the heartbroken mother of Edward B. Dutton, the young man who has been on trial in Judge Hopewell's court this week charged with grand larceny.

The mother has been a constant attendant at the trial this week, and also at the prebminary hearing in the police court some time ago. Traces of anxiety have been de-time ago. Traces of anxiety have been depicted on her face, but there was also a mixture of fear and hope, kind-hearted friends having cheered her up and assured her of the successful outcome of the trial.

The case was given to the jury about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after being out about twenty minutes they filed into their seats. The prisoner anxiously scanned the faces of the jurors as they took their seats, in a vain endeavor to read in their inmovable features some trace of the result. His mother, from her seat in the corner near the jury box, leaned forward, intent upon catching every word as Clerk Moores went catching every word as Clerk Moores went through his usual formula of questions. When the verdict was handed to the clerk the faces of both the prisoner and his mother betrayed the intense feeling under which both were laboring.

The jury returned a verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment," finding the value of the property stelen to be $263.66, and recof the property stolen to be $253.66, and rec-ommended the prisoner to the mercy of the

They were immediately excused, and not until then did the full force of the verdict seem to become plain to the two beings most

Dutton broke down and commenced crying. Mrs. Dutton ran to him and embraced him, giving utterance, amidst her sobs, to the exclamations which commence this article. Her grief was heartrending, and even the bailiffs, who see many distressing scenes, Her grief was heartrending, and even were touched and withdrew. The lawyers and others in attendance quickly withdrew, a suspicious moisture bedimming the eyes of loarly every man in the room.

Judge Hopewell directed one of the bailiffs to conduct the prisoner and his mother into his private room for a time, but even there the mother's heartbroken sobs sounded through the building. Expressions of pity were head on every side. In a short time Dutton was removed to the jail to await sentence, his mother going with him to see where he was to be imprisoned. During the interval between the exit of the jury and their return, another scene was enacted, which is an important step in a tragedy which had its beginning last June, when the little infant of Lena Marsh died under circumstances which led to the imprisonment of the mother on the charge of willful murder.

The young woman was brought before Judge Hopewell by County Attorney Mahoney, accompanied by her attorney. She was dressed in a neat black suit and showed no traces of her imprisonment.

The prosecuting attorney prepared to read the information, when the attorney for the prisoner asked that the reading be waived. Mr. Mahoney declined to grant this request and the information was read in full, reciting the facts as heretofore published, and charging the presoner with the milest make the mi ing the prisoner with the wilful murder of her unnamed infant, During the reading the young mother's face was averted and she bit her lips until it seemed the blood would burst from them. When the reading was finished the prisoner arose and plead not guilty, after which she was taken back to jail. Her atorney requested further time to prepare for trial, which was granted.

In the case of Shinn vs. Shields & Connors, a suit for damages for non-compliance with a contract, which was on trial all day before Judge Wakely, the defendant was granted leave to amend his answer, and the plaintiff was given until Monday to proceed to trial or ask for a continuance. Josiah S. McCormick et al. has commenced suit in foreclosure against William A. Frye and his wife to recover $700 on three notes. John L. Wiles and James Thompson have brought suit in foreclosure against Silas W. McCoy et al. A. W. Baldwin has filed a lengthy petition in the district court in which he alleges that he made a verbal agreement of co-partnership with Matthew Swerdfeger, in the business of conducting a chop house on South Thirteenth. On the 29th of October Swerdfeger drew all the firm's money out of the bank and appropriated it to his own use, and has at various times appropriated the con-tents of the till. Not satisfied with this income, Matthew executed a note to Uriah Swerdfeger and signed the firm's name thereto. Baldwin prays for the recovery of the note and an accounting of the business of the firm.

The case of Brown vs. Ryan & Walsh, a suit for damages on a contract in connection with the plastering of the new county hospital, is on trial before Judge Doane. In the case of Strasservs. Gray, where the nother sued her son upon a promissory note for $3.600, the trial of which occupied three days, the jury returned a verdict for the de-fendant after being out ten minutes. The defense was that there was no consideration for the note, and that the son, Mr. Gray, signed it at the request of his mother, when a minor. The jury found accordingly.

THE CONSOLIDATION.

The Motor Property Turned Over to the Street Railway Company.

Frank Murphy, president of the Omaha Street Railway company, returned from Boston at 10 a. m., and at 2:30 p. m. a meeting of the directors and officers of the two street railway companies was held in the power house, when the plant, machinery and tracks of the Omaha Motor Railway company were formally turned over to the Omaha Street Railway company, and became its permanent property.

From 2:30 until 6:30 p. m. the directors were closely closeted in executive session.

The time was mainly spent in drawing up the papers, and as there is considerable de tail work in connection, all were not finished and they remain yet unsigned. An adjournment was then taken until 9 o'clock this morning. No action was taken in regard to the changing of directors or other officers, Mr. L. B. Williams and Senator Paddock have announced their intention of resigning their positions as directors, and it is the un-derstanding that they will be succeeded by Dr. Mercer and J. J. Brown, of the Omaha Motor Railway company. As Dr. Mercer is the only person who knows the workings of the motor company in detail, it will be neces-sary to make him a member of the board for sixty days at least. The account of yesterday's proceedings, written in advance and published in an enterprising evening paper, was the subject of considerable merriment among the members of the board last even-ing, as none of the business mentioned was

The Atlantic express on the Union Pacific was delayed over four hours from the west, and No. 4, from the same direction, at 8:40 last evening was reported indefinitely late.

SMIRCHED SNOW-FLAKES.

How Judge Berka Disposed of Some of Them Yesterday.

Judge Berka sat meditating as he looked through the dirty windows of his court room at the large flying snow-flakes and revolved in his mind whether or not he should accept the nomination of police judge again.

"De gang's all ready," shouted Court Officer Keyser, and then the judge ceased thinking. He cast his eagle eye over the docket and sorted out the name of John Drago. Why he should have picked out John was not explained, but the burly hack driver ambled forward and granned. The court looked at John, and then the court smiled. "Didu't l fine you vesterday?"

"Yes. What do you fellers want? I'se done been tapped for $10 and is willin' to settle, but you can't rap me for a second round afore I gets out."

It was a mistake. John had been fined Thursday night. He was allowed to settle and got out.

Then came forth Joe Casey. He had swiped a red lantern from a ditch in South Omaha and was fined $10,50. There has been considerable of this sort of petty larceny going on of late, but Casey was the first one to be caught in the act. A. Bryan and Z. Baker are complained of by Joe Michael, a deputy plumbing inspector. The charge is fighting and disturbing the peace. When Officer Haze placed the de-fendants under arrest the men resisted and assaulted the policemen. They were finally overpowered, however, and locked up.
