Discuring the City's Claim

Disputing the City's Claim.

The controversy reparding property in Midland addition has culminated in the institution of legal proceedings in the district court. This controversy man previously taken the form of a lively dispute as to the right of the city to open a streat across this addition without first cuptesming the property and settling the dismages. The city maintains that a street is already located and established there, vis: a portion of South Twentuch street, but the property owners protest against this very vigorously. They have frequently fenced up the street, and the council has just as often ordered them to remove the obstructions, and they have been from own. On the occasion of the inst demonstrate of the forces, about ten days ago, the marshal even filled up the pest soles and curied away the material.

Acting under instructions from the council, he has given it out cold that no more fonces could be built there. It is understood that orrangements were made to arrest anyme who attempted to replace the obstructions. The property owners have reasted the marshal for being over realous in executing the orders of the council, and have informed him in vigorous language that his work would not amount to anything in the end, as the question would use to be settled in court. This marshal would smile severely and affix its thumb to the extremity of described to the fight along into court and not waste their time on him. Thus matters have progressed for several days and now the case has ended in court. The case shows on the appearance decket as that of George Hebbington vs eity of Council Hints. The pationer prays for a writ of temporary mignation to restrain the defound of from gradiant or otherwise improving a street or sidewalk across the property and content which they was seen if the marshal or other employees of the city from in any way interfering with the owners of the property and common that that the rights of the lawful owners by protected.

The Union Avenue Line.
The report is again current that the Union Pacific Railway company is seriously contemplating the discontinuance of their dummy service on this side of the river, and the consequent abandonment of the Union avenue line. The ordinance granting the company a right-of-way on Union avenue provided that a half-boarty passenger service should be made at the intersection of Sixth and Union avenues. A forfeiture of all the rights and privileges granted by the ordinance was to result in case these conditions were not complied with. The half-boarty passenger service has never been given, and it is a matter of conjecture whether or not any other failure to compily with the conditions would result in an annualment of the company's privileges. It is known that the line has not paid since the openiae of the motor line, and it has been supposed that the company was maintaining its dummy service for tway.
