are being changed to broad gauge, which in the past has meant the bulk of the cattle in the other direction to Kansas City. Omaha would have received many more cattle from New Mexico, and several large herds had been gathered for shipment here when the terrible storm of a few weeks ago broke over the country and dispersed the cattle.

Not many cattle are being fed around (100-150) here, but the market is still very tight and the price of cattle is still very high.
