Senators Listen to the Message With Marked Interest.

MEETS WITH THEIR APPROVAL.

The Document Looked Upon as the Chart of Republican Action in the Present Session of Congress—Census Districts.

WASHINGTON HERALD THE OMAHA HERALD. WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.

President Harrison's message received a very thoughtful hearing in congress today. In the senate it was observed that the oldest and most sagacious of the statesmen listened to the reading of the document with the greatest of attention.

Senator Sherman scarcely took his eyes off the secretary from the time he began to read the message till the last word was uttered.

Senator Everts, Hawley, Ingalls, Allison and the Nebraska senators were among those on the republican side who sat almost motionless during the reading and drank every word of the document.

Senator Brewster, of Michigan, was the first to rise and in a few minutes he had read the message through to the end.

Senator Sherman, of New York, was the first to rise and in a few minutes he had read the message through to the end.

STANLEY WILL BE WELCOMED.

Great Preparations Making For the Explorer's Return.

LONDON WILL ENTERTAIN HIM.

A Grand Banquet and Other Honors in Prospect—Emin Pasha to Be Included—A Meeting With Stanley.

Honors Await the Great Explorer. LONDON, Dec. 3.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—Stanley will be welcomed with welcome upon his arrival in England.

Everybody desires to do him honor. At the next meeting of the council of the Royal geographical society arrangements will be made for a banquet to Stanley.

Emin Pasha will of course be included in the invitation should he come to London. A proposition will also be made at an early meeting of the common council of the city that Stanley be entertained at Guildhall on a date to be fixed by himself.

It will be remembered that the explorer was a freeman of the city on the eve of his departure to relieve Emin. It has already been decided that Stanley accept the invitation of the long of Heligum and visit Brussels he will be entertained by the burgomaster at a grand banquet.

The cost of the Emin relief expedition will not be met by the fund which was raised by public subscription and otherwise. When the list closed shortly after Stanley set out the total amount collected fell something short of £22,000.

Of this amount, it is said, only some £1,000 is in hand. As there yet remains the cost of the homeward journey and salaries to be paid it will be seen that further funds will be wanted.

A Meeting With Stanley. LONDON, Dec. 3.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—I have met Stanley and Emin, Dr. Parke, Nelson Bonny and 200 men, women and children here. Have found Stanley looking hearty.

He wears a Prussian cap and canvas shoes. I presented him with the American flag with which I was credited and it is now flying from his tent. Stanley's hair is quite white and his mustache is iron gray.

Emin is a light, dark man and wears spectacles. In a short conversation I had with him he told me that he did not wish for any honors for what he had done. He simply desired to be employed again in the khedive's service.

I have given Captain Cassel his letters. He looks well, but the hardships which he has undergone seem to have quite undermined his constitution.

All the other Europeans are well. We shall all proceed toward the coast day after tomorrow. Stanley, Emin and Casati were entertained at a dinner last night in this camp by Baron Grafenroth.

THE GREAT CRONIN TRIAL.

Judge Wing Lays Stress Upon a Technicality.

EVERY INCH OF GROUND FOUGHT.

The Defense Leaving Nothing Undone to Save the Necks of the Conspirators—Ingham's Apology.

A Legal Battle. CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Judge Wing resumed his argument in the Cronin trial this afternoon.

After touching a number of minor points, he took up the question of the cause of death, stating that the law provided that the cause must be proved in accordance with the terms of the indictment, else conviction could not follow.

In this case it was charged that Dr. Cronin died from the effects of the infliction of wounds and other injuries to the head. The speaker went on to argue that this allegation was not proved and that the experts in their testimony could not say that the nature of the wounds as inflicted by the assassin would cause such a necessarily cause death.

Judge Wing next took up the question as to whether or not the direct evidence of Judge Cronin was sufficient to establish the fact that the wound was human blood or not, and said the best evidence the prosecution could give was the testimony of the witnesses.

Dr. Ingham spoke at length of the killing of Cronin and the disposal of his body, and stated that the application of the law to the facts of the case was impossible. This closed his address and Ingham took up the argument on behalf of the prosecution.
