More Horrors in China.

It is evident from the reports from China that the horrors of the Yellow river floods will be repeated along the Yangtse-kinng this season. The heavy rains have caused the river to rise with phenomenal rapidity, and hundreds of thousands of acres are inundated, says the San Francisco Chroniele. The loss of life in a single city like Wenchew is given at 500 families. With their usual fatalism the Chinese are doing nothing to repair the damages or to drain the flooded lands. The foreign missionaries willsoon be after contributions, an will give us batches of letters deulcting the awful sufferings of the starving thousands.

White Owls and Bad Weather.

There have been many predictions to the effect that the coming winter will be a cold one, says the Portland Oregonian. The latest is based on the fact that four snowy owls, the white owl which occasionally comes down to this region from the far north, have already been sent to Captain S. S. Douglass to be mounted. Three were killed down about Cape Hancock and the other was sent down from near Walluia. As this is early for the Arctic visitors to arrive, it is supposed that the cold has set in early and "had" up north, and it may be expected that we shall get something of the same in Oregon. However, one swallow does not make a summer, and three snowy owls cannot revolutionize the climate of the web-footed elysium. Snow birds have arrived and the thermometer has a downward tendency nights. It will do no harm for any one to prepare for a cold snap anyhow. White Owls and Bad Weather.
