

THE OMAHA BEE. IN AND ABOUT THE BLUFFS

COUNCIL BLUFFS OFFICE NO. 12 PEARL STREET. Delivered by carrier in any part of the city...

MINOR MENTION. N. Y. P. Co. Gleason cut. Council Bluffs Lumber Co. coal.

Thatcher coal, see advertisement. The station store for holiday goods. Best coal and wood at C. H. Puel Co.

Carbon Coal Co. wholesale, retail, 10 Pearl. Joseph Wardlaw took a building permit yesterday for a 700 cottage in Heers' addition.

Wanted—A good yard for general house-keeping. Good wages paid. Mrs. Dr. Hanchett, 130 Fourth st.

Another case of diphtheria was reported yesterday at No. 614 Myrtle street, in the family of Mrs. Criley.

The case of assault and battery against Lee Deenberger has been set for a hearing before Judge Aylsworth next Monday morning.

A meeting of Scotch residents of this vicinity will be held this evening at the office of Dr. Macrae to arrange for a celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns.

The case of John Holman, who was recently placed under bonds to keep the peace, was to have been heard by Justice Hendricks yesterday, but owing to the fact that the prosecuting witness, Guili, was unable to be present, it was continued for a week.

Bush & Gert's pianos, 58 Broadway. The Manhattan sporting headquarters, 418 B-way.

Finest line confectionery, fruits, nuts and holiday groceries in the city. S. T. McAttee's. C. H. steam dye works, 1013 Broadway.

P. C. Miller, boot paper hanging and decorating. The best in the cheapest. Blank books, all kinds, ledgers and journals, 1 to 12 quires, at less than cost.

Hereafter the dining room of the New Pacific will be run in semi-European plan. All meals served at 25 cents each.

Don'tly Hereover. Charles, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Worcester, No. 721 Fifth avenue, died last night of diphtheria.

The little fellow was an unusually bright and winsome child, and was the pet of everybody in the neighborhood. He was in the best of health until Monday last, when he was taken sick with the malignant disease that has scourged so many homes in the city in the past few weeks.

He died after an illness of only four days. This is the second death in the family from the same cause in the short space of three weeks, the oldest daughter, a lovable girl of twelve years, having also succumbed to the dread disease. The doubly bereaved parents are well, but heart-broken, and make their grief known as deeply with them in their sad affliction. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the residence, but was private. Services were held at Fairview cemetery.

Fountain cigar, a strictly 10c cigar for 5c at the Fountain. Try one. Have you tried McCurdy's Pastry Wafer Soda? They are delicate, crisp and delicious.

A. D. Telegraph Co. All persons in the city who have telephones can call on McCurdy for messenger boys, cabs and express wagons, etc. Prompt attention guaranteed. C. G. Robinson, manager, No. 11 North Main street.

Holiday goods and books as low as the lowest at Dell G. Morgan's, 743 Broadway. Neumeier hotel, first class, reasonable rates. The Ross Investment and Trust company.

Miss Mary Gleason has removed her dress-making parlors to the rooms lately used by the public library, No. 14 Pearl street, where she will be glad to see her old friends.

Showing the Green Goods. Much excitement has been caused by the discovery of the fact that an organized confidence game has been operating in the vicinity of Macedonia, this county, for some months past.

Their plan was to offer to sell money printed upon alleged stolen government plates and bait their victims with small sums of genuine money, giving two or more dollars for one, which of course would pass all rights wherever presented. Then when the victims would take the bait, they would lose what they put down. Losses to the amount of $2,000 have been discovered. One of the victims was a farmer named C. E. Denton, whose loss was $1,000. The loss was reported in October as a robbery by masked men. In the light of events of the last two days the alleged robbery was but a blind to cover up the truth in regard to the loss. Two of the rogues have been arrested and upon examination found over to the most terms of the crime.

Money loaned at L. B. Craft & Co's loan office furnished with 10% margin. Personal property of all kinds, and all other articles of value, without removal. All business strictly confidential.

Five stock of watches and jewelry for the holidays at Wollman's, 533 Broadway. Saddle Rock restaurant, 402 Broadway, open day and night. First class. J. E. Yancy, proprietor.

Roller, tailor, 310 Broadway. S. M. Williamson sells the Standard and domestic sewing machines. 103 Main st. Solid gold watches cheap at Wollman's.

Death of Mrs. S. H. Smith. At 3 o'clock yesterday morning another old resident of the Bluffs departed this life. Mrs. S. H. Smith had resided in this county for thirty-two years and the news of her death came as a surprise to a very wide circle of friends. The fatal illness was due to pneumonia. She was survived by a husband and three children, Walter, Ernest and Mrs. W. H. Ware, who are residents of this city. A younger son, Ernest L., died but a few weeks ago.

The funeral will take place Sunday from the family residence on South Seventh street and the hour will be announced tomorrow morning.

Drs. Woodbury have removed their dental office to 101 Pearl street, up stairs. Snokers' presents at Moore & Bowman's.

Shoes. Perry. Shoes. Will sell gentle fine shoes at less than cost until January 1st. Broadway and Main, under the bank.

Fine perfumes, scented powders and toilet bottles for the holidays at Dell G. Morgan & Co's, 743 Broadway.

Always on Time. If you wish to purchase a good and reliable watch 25 per cent less than club rates, and on easy terms, then call at once and make our own selection at C. S. Jacquemin & Co., 27 Main street.

A successful Rooster. The residence of James Wickham on Franklin avenue was the scene of a pleasant sociable Thursday evening under the auspices of the St. Monica society. A literary and musical program was rendered as follows: Solo, Mrs. D. J. O'Neill; recitation, Mrs. J. S. Stephens; Mrs. M. J. Moore; piano solo, Miss Josie Duran; card playing and dancing followed until a late hour. The attendance was large, 250 people being present.

IN AND ABOUT THE BLUFFS

Sheriff O'Neill is Fined for Forcibly Ejecting Suspicious Characters. Who LOITER ABOUT THE JAIL.

Diphtheria Claims Another Victim—Green Goods Dealers Get Into Trouble—Death of Mrs. S. H. Smith—General and Personal.

The Sheriff's Case in Court. It does not frequently happen that the sheriff is made the defendant in a criminal case, especially on the charge of assault and battery, yet such was the case yesterday when Sheriff O'Neill was summoned before Justice Harrett to answer to a charge preferred by one Frank Grady. The facts in the case, as shown by the evidence introduced, are that Grady and his brother went to the county jail yesterday noon and wanted to see Kelly and Lewis, the two men who made such a desperate fight when arrested by Captain Anderson of the merchants' police, for the money which they had stolen from stores in this city a few weeks ago. The two Grady boys were strangers, and were as tough-looking individuals as are often seen. The sheriff suggested that the two men be taken into the jail on several occasions of late, refused to allow the men to see the prosecuting witness, Guili, was unable to be present, it was continued for a week.

As Kelly and Lewis had already secured counsel the sheriff was advised that something was wrong, and ordered the strangers out of the building. They persisted, however, until the sheriff's patience was exhausted, when he slapped them both in the face and ordered them to leave. This act was the result of an information and the issuance of a warrant.

Messrs. Myntzer, Lindt & Seabrook appeared for the prosecution, and Sheriff O'Neill defended his own case. The court room was filled, and the case was an amusing one for the audience. The sheriff, in his testimony, admitted that he had ordered the men to leave, but that he had not intended to strike them. He was fined $100 for the assault, and the case was dismissed.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

When Lindt declared it an outrage that any one should be refused the privilege of seeing a prisoner in jail the sheriff informed him that he was not a jailer, but a sheriff, and that he was not to be interfered with in his duties. Lindt was ordered to leave the court room.

ing with the family of W. H. Bradley, in this city. L. T. Gering, esq. of Hastings, Ia., was in the city yesterday.

P. H. Knotts and his wife, Des Moines are visiting relatives in the Bluffs. F. M. Hunter, clerk of the federal court, left Thursday evening for Keokuk.

Mrs. Theodore Irving of Glenwood, is visiting Mrs. Richard Turabill on Lewis street. Captain F. H. Hart of Minneapolis, is here on a short visit, the guest of his father-in-law, Judge Clinton.

Miss Nellie and Lath Thurston, Bertha Morrison, Harold Stahlfield and Edna Butcher, all of Creston, are the guests of Mrs. J. H. Atkins.

Little Jimmie Sims, son of Jacob Sims, was very successful in his fishing, and his crop and friends were very anxious and fearful as to the result.

Police Officer Fowler, against whom certain unpleasant charges were preferred a few weeks since, has tendered his resignation as captain of the force to take effect January 1. It is understood that he will continue in the city as a patrolman.

Miles Vegole, the erratic young man who recently attempted to shuffle off this mortal coil by running his left lung with a pocket knife, has so far recovered under the careful nursing of the Sisters at St. Bernard's hospital as to be able to be moved from there, and is now again boarding at the Neumeier hotel.

C. E. Friedman and wife passed through the city on Christmas eve bound for the east. Their many friends here would gladly have entertained them, but Mr. Friedman's failing health made it necessary for him to press on toward his home in Connecticut. Since leaving here he has not regained his former health by life on a Wyoming ranch.

To Soften Hard Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy, it is rarely resorted to for softening drinking water. For this purpose boiling has the special and additional advantage of insuring the destruction of any minute germs of disease that might contaminate the water.

To Soften Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

hand, slipping them on and buttoning them, and scrubbing them briskly with a dry flannel to quicken the process of drying them. But I don't think that they will dry as much time, and no matter how early in the morning, no one ever looks well after it is cleaned. I think, on the whole, it is cheaper to throw them away, or rather never to buy them."

Nobody Knows but Mother. B. C. Dougherty Detroit Free Press. Nobody knows of the work it makes to keep from getting into a sweater. Nobody knows of the steps it takes, Nobody knows—but mother.

Nobody listens to childish woes Which kisses only another; Nobody's pained by naught but blows, Nobody knows—but mother.

Nobody knows of the sleepless care Which makes a mother's hair gray; Nobody knows of the tender prayer, Nobody—only mother.

Nobody knows of the lessons taught Of loving one another; Nobody knows of the patience sought, Nobody—only mother.

Nobody knows of the anxious fears Which make a mother's heart so true; Nobody knows of the life after years, Nobody knows—but mother.

Nobody knows at the throne above To thank the Heavenly Father; For that sweetest gift—a mother's love; Nobody can—but mother.

To Soften Hard Water. When, as is most commonly the case, this hard water is used for the preparation of large proportions of the carbonates of lime and magnesia, it can be recognized by the extent to which the water becomes turbid, or forms whitish scum or incrustations when boiled.

For softening water that is hard and "curdle the soap" from this cause, and this fact is well known to housekeepers, but owing to the inconvenience of the application of this remedy,