THE DAILY BEE.

Sworn Statement of Circulation: State of Nebraska, County of Douglas.

George H. Tschickler, Secretary of The Bee Publishing Company, solemnly swears that the circulation of this paper for the week ending January 11, 1890, was as follows: Sunday, Jan. 6, 1890, 23,300 copies; Monday, Jan. 7, 1890, 23,300 copies; Tuesday, Jan. 8, 1890, 23,300 copies; Wednesday, Jan. 9, 1890, 23,300 copies; Thursday, Jan. 10, 1890, 23,300 copies; Friday, Jan. 11, 1890, 23,300 copies; Saturday, Jan. 12, 1890, 23,300 copies.

From to before me and subscribed to in my presence this 11th day of January, A. D. 1890. Notary Public.

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, I, George H. Tschickler, being duly sworn, depose and say that he is Secretary of The Bee Publishing Company, and that the above is a true and correct statement of the circulation of this paper for the week ending January 11, 1890.

OMAHA is not much in need of more bridge charters as she is in need of more bridges.

The weather clerk has succeeded in striking an effective blow for the ice men.

OMAHA has practically anchored another boat and shoe factory. A tannery is now in order.

The agony of office-seekers is becoming painfully keen as the day approaches for the announcement of appointments by the new mayor.

LOCAL as well as national movements tending to benefit the colored people serve to show that the race is afflicted with a surplus of self-appointed leaders.

The proposed new treaty between the United States and Canada, if ratified, will destroy the usefulness of the dominion as the source of American defaulters.

As chairman of the banking committee of the house, Congressman Dorsey displays the characteristic hustling qualities of the west. It would not be surprising if he succeeded in revolutionizing the banking laws of the country.

The destruction by fire of one hundred thousand dollars worth of fancy household in Kentucky is not credited to electricity, probably because modern science has not yet been able to measure the voltine power of an active blue grass mule.

The preparations which are being made by the bankers of Omaha for the entertainment of those who will attend the impending state convention of bankers leave no room for doubt that the gathering will be made a memorable occasion.

The contractors combine that has captured the organization of the council is very naturally creating serious alarm among taxpayers who apprehend a raid upon the city treasury that will make taxes so burdensome as to almost compensate people's property.

HERKHOPE the council committees have almost absolutely controlled a certain class of public improvements. This is why the contractors have made themselves so busy in organizing the new council. Now they are concentrating all their influence upon Mayor Cushing.

GENERAL CROOK is again brought under the fire of all the newspaper warriors between the Rio Grande and the headwaters of the Platte. These distinguished warriors are terribly exercised lest captive Apaches should be treated with ordinary humanity.

General Crook's career as a soldier and Indian fighter is too well known to be affected by scurrilous newspaper assaults. As far as his last campaign against the Apaches is concerned, the record furnishes a complete justification of his course.

There can be no question that none of these prerequisites to an enlarged and profitable trade with south America are beyond the enterprise and energy of the manufacturers and merchants of the United States.

There are few courses more likely to provoke public disfavor than that of constantly professing apprehension that the peace will be broken. This truism applies to the conduct of those who predict that the movement of the labor federation for the enforcement of the eight-hour rule will cause riot and bloodshed.

THE IOWA LEGISLATURE.

The Iowa legislature convenes today. It promises to be one of the most important general assemblies in the history of the state. The first matter of interest relates to the organization of the house, regarding which a deadlock is threatened and possible.

Regarding the election of a senator to succeed Senator Allison, there appears to be no question of the re-election of the senator. If there is any opposition to him among republicans it is not manifested, and it is said that democrats enough have signified a willingness to support him, in case there are any recalcitrant republicans, to settle the question of his return to the senate.

The session promises to be of unusual interest for the people of Iowa, and to develop features that will command a much wider attention. The daily record of deaths at home and abroad forbids the influenza being treated as a trifling epidemic.

PRELUQUES TO TRADE. A staff correspondent in Brazil of the New York Tribune points out that one principal reason why our trade with that country, and indeed with the South American countries generally, has experienced such a slow development, is the lack of adaptability on the part of American manufacturers and merchants.

THE big four have had their say for the world's fair, but beyond exposing a large discrepancy between the amounts pledged and promised, the orations had no effect in determining the location.

It is not merely free from lawlessness, but has the sanction of explicit laws, both state and federal. The leaders of the union say that the union is not a mere economic one. If so, there is opportunity for solving it. There is certainly no cause to prematurely solicit about possible lawlessness during the strike.

CRIME OF POVERTY. Philadelphia Inquirer. Poverty is not a crime, but it gets more punishment than crime does.

Important Southern Discovery. New Orleans Times-Democrat. The north obviously needs a federal election law quite as much as the south.

Allison a General Favorite. Boston Herald. If it comes to a choice between Mr. Allison and Gov. Larrabee as the former's successor as United States senator from Iowa, sensible men of both parties will be apt to prefer Allison.

After the Unofficial Ballot. New York Tribune. The unofficial ballot is what vote buyers and purchasable voters both desire.

Not Satisfied With the Earth. Toronto Mail. On every dollar's worth of plate glass that was imported into the United States last year a tax of $1.44 was levied.

STATE AND TERRITORY. Nebraska Journal. The Perkins county fair has been located at Matt City for the next year.

THE Feds City Journal celebrated its two-third jubilee last week by making a change in form and discarding patent insides.

UNAPPROPRIATE ABORIGINALS. A number of Ulysses parties contemplate organizing a large and increased number of delegates in states where delegates were elected prior to the revision of the constitution.
