What "E. & W." Means. The old, familiar trade-mark, "E. & W." on collar or cuff, means something else besides the firm name of Earl & Wilson. It means that the article is not only perfect in form, claim the makers, but of superior quality and finish. For years they have been used by men who know how to dress, who know how important it is that a becoming and thoroughly correct collar should surround even the most expensive coat. They have been worn by men who cling to the good, old-fashioned shaped that never seem to change their curves, and by the younger generation who buy by the million the latest thing they see with the E. & W. mark on it. The latest advertised novelty of the firm is the Otsego collar, which has been bought by the thousand dozens as a practical holiday present for any young man, either in or out of the family. In cuffs, those thick, handsome, board-like wristbands of splendid linen, everything that meets with the approval of the day, can be found in the same "brand." To know them and their wearing qualities one is to never use any other.

Corsets and Co. notices. The Dubois county, Indiana, teachers' institute, recently in session, passed the following resolution: Resolved, That we are in favor of and ask that a thorough course of instruction on the effects of light lacings and painting the face with injurious cosmetics be introduced in the public schools, and that we, as teachers, denounce tight lacings, chewing gum, of using face, cream, and a vast mass of deceptions in regard to beauty of form, and of bustles to occupy unnecessary room in every conveyance, and the unnecessary use of such expensive material for dresses, and these habits as not worthy of imitation by the children of Eve, believing that "nature unadorned is most beautiful."

The People's Clothing House Fire. Some of our finest pants and vests belonging to suits have been totally destroyed by fire, while the coats are not damaged in the least. If you can use an extra fine odd coat we can sell you one for less than the material cost. PEOPLE'S CLOTHING HOUSE, S. Arnette, Prop., 1303 Douglas St.

The Day at the Nuptials. At a recent fashionable wedding in this city, the family dog was elaborately decorated with white satin ribbons and took a prominent part in the festivities, says the Detroit Free Press. A group of weddings a young society couple, who were married a few days ago, drove down to the Michigan Central depot, after a reception at the house, and ostensibly took a car for New York. What they really did was to take a circuitous route to the home of the groom, where they are improving their time by getting acquainted with each other.

Removal Sale. We will remove from 1314 to 1510 Douglas street February 1, and in order to reduce stock we will sell all trimmed and untrimmed hats, bonnets and toques at half price at the old and new number until March 1. Also, ostrich plumes, tips and flowers.

Why He Wants Damages. General Brooke, a resident of Palmyra, N. J., got on a train in the Camden depot to ride to his home a few weeks ago, he undertook to make his usual soft seat. As he sat down he fell in violent and sudden contact with a hole where the cushion ought to be. The suddenness of his stopping gave Mr. Brooke such a shaking up that he found it difficult to get up. He has now brought suit in the New Jersey supreme court against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, claiming $10,000 damages for his injuries. He says the car lights were so dim that he did not notice the absence of the cushion.

MRS. J. BENSON, 15th, Near Douglas. CROWDED HOUSES. Greet the Ossified Man at the Eden Musee. The crowds at the Eden Musee during the past week have been so large that many have been turned away, the utmost capacity of the house not being sufficient to entertain all who came. The chief attraction was Jonathan Bass, the ossified man, who is described by all who see him as the most remarkable creature ever seen in this city. A well known clergyman of this city says: "Everybody should see him and learn one of life's great lessons." Bass is the wonder of all and has baffled all the surgeons and scientists of the day. In reality he is a living statue of bone. Because of his great interest Mr. Lawler has consented to retain him another week in order that those who could not see him last week may get to see him.

The ossified man will remain one week longer. But this is not the only attraction of this week. All of the seven mammoth departments will be replete with features. The two theatres will present unusually good bills. Lottie West, Ireland's queen of song, will be one of the features. Charles Schilling will appear in his latest musical novelty, Morris & Lamar, the greatest of all mind readers, will astonish the masses and puzzle the scientists. And all over the popular family resort will be features of exceptional interest. Manager Lawler has succeeded in arranging for the best of everything in the west, and as usual one dime will admit to all.

WILL LAWLER, MANAGER. CORNER 11TH AND FARNAM STS. Week Commencing Monday, Jan. 20th. Population of Omaha, 130,000. Of these 32,700 Have Seen and Wondered at Nature's Mysterious Whim. JOHN R. BASS, THE OSSIFIED MAN. THE CITY FAIRLY STARTLED. LEADING SCIENTISTS BAFFLED. SKILLFUL SURGEONS PUZZLED. The Bible tells us a great deal concerning that patient mortal Job, whose lot in life was pleasant compared with this afflicted individual, and reader, if
