of a revolver close to the preacher's head and graffly demanded all the money in the house. The pastor began to back away from the door and to par-ley with the robber, while his aftright-ed wife siternately screamed and begges for her husband's life. At this innetures the daughter, elde onty in her night-dress and armed only with a police, came bravely to the researe. She said to the robber, "I knew you and I'll see you hanged" at the same striking at him with the noker.

you hanged?' at the same striking at him with the poker. Perhans the fellow thought he was recognized in spile of the disguise, or feared that the outeries of the women would bring the neighbors on the secret. He absorded his purpose and basily retreated from the house. The plucky pirit followen him out into the yard, whereupon, probably in order to fright-en ner from farther pursuit, he fined two shots in the air and startied off on a dead run and soon disappeared in the dispuss.

darkness. The affair greatly excited the people is all the country round about, and every effort is being made to capture the would-be robber, but so far without

A lady and La Grippe. A lady and La Grippe. We know a collard and cultured woman whose molesty will not permit my newspaper menion of her name, who was as miserable as one could well be last week. Her whole body was racked with pain. Her hendache was masmodic in character, but whon it did ache the pain. Her hendache was ranked with pain. Her bendache we of the nose was in a high state of infla-mation. Her cough, especially sariy in the morting, was painful and her expectoristion was copious, Sho had an exaggerated case of hay fever. It destroyed her ap-patite and drove her at last to bed. At one time her family became serionsy alarmed, as her symptons had assumed, it was leared, a dangerous character. She relowed to have a physician called, and halt: "Chamberlain's Cough Remi-edy hal heped her out of avery bad cold," and she weuld try it any how. There was a botte of the romody on tho stephoard, but it was half gone, and as it had not been used for some time it was suggested that its strength and cir-sisted and at last she was permitted to have her way. She began taking it in the evening, and the uset morting.

sisted and at last she was permitted to have her way. She began taking it in the evening, and the next morning, though the medicine seemed to make her slightly dizzy, she was wurch im-proved. The cough had consed and the smeezing was infrequent, loss in dura-tion and violence. The next night she slich soundly and arose the next morn-ing realizing that though she was wenk "La Grimpe" had retired from the con-flict.-From Mail and Times, Des Moines.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Novel Styles in Combination-Evening

Trimming -Furs. New costumes of rich material now show peculiarities that have already been noticeable in gowns of loss expensive fabric. In both there is combination of handsome striped silk, in the former class with solid colored veivet, satin, peau do sole or heavy silk, in the latter, with plain wool, and in one as in the other a distinguishing feature ap-pears—that of a seam directly down the front of the skirt, the sides of the two meeting breadths being sloped away so prove-that of a scam arrectly down the front of the akirt, the sides of the two meeting breadths being sloped away so as to bring the stripos together with Eiffel tower offect. Frequently the dress is completed by a wustcoat of silk to match the front breadths while the remainder is of plain goods. Such dea has brought about or perhaps is the re-sult of new princesse dresses where the uniting of two materials is marked by a line that divides cask from front all of one fabric on one side and all of the other on the opposite. Happily such penitentiary like disposition is modified by the sleeves which made usually in some full shape, are of the broade with touches of plain goods. Biss sense up the front of plaided skirts have for sometime imparted special chic, and in the future, this innovation will be played upon considerably, as it is comparatively novel. HARIN DRESSING. The hair is generally arranged in op-posite extremes-either very high or very low, and in the latter case may a ribbon or eranment, or where the hair curls anturally, it may once more be allowed to flow as sature intended it, with some small confining below the happ of the nock. High arrangements give more opportually, however, for tho wearing of joweild or ranments of flowers, while the liberty of him pre-vailing in dross, forbid too close fol-lowing of any particular edicts, and those who prefer it, wear a low braid or coll or a classic arrangement with fillets of gold, sliver or jowels, ribuons or envings of small flowers. Flowers are very much used on evening dresses but of course are more suitable to light fabrics than in henry tolets where bro-cades come in with floral effect. Two and tashion of fur trimming for acca-ing shows no abatement and for the opera, a light fluid yoo about the need is indeed a protection and can be thrown off or drawa cioser at will. Mrs. Cloves
