

THE SPECULATIVE MARKETS

Wheat Begins the Week Steady But Only Fairly Active.

WEAKNESS IN THE CORN PIT.

A Good Advance in Pork, With Lard and Short Rib Prices Unchanged.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKETS.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Special Telegram to THE BEE.—The wheat market was steady and fairly active today. A cold wave is said to be again pointed this way, cables are firm, an improved export inquiry at New York is reported, fifteen hull leads were booked in Baltimore in a greater week.

The corn market was active and the interior movement is not coming up to expectations. The increased farmers' deliveries that were to swell the receipts after the first of January do not show up anywhere. Had roads are mentioned as the reason why farmers have not brought in their wheat, but bad roads do not prevent them from bringing in corn, oats, or hay, or from driving their hogs to market.

The corn market was again weak and falling, but a slight recovery was seen in the afternoon. The market was active and the interior movement is not coming up to expectations.

The regular market for oats there was fair activity. The market was active and the interior movement is not coming up to expectations.
