South Dakota Legislatur

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 6. - (Special Telegram to Turn Birg.) - Consideration of the tommer-ance bill was resumed in each branch of the legislature today. The senate finished on the bill, making only one important change before putting it on its final passage. The change consists in striking out section 26, which prohibits liquors being kept in private dwellings or other places for the exclusive use of the occupants or owners, and pro-vides for the use of search warrants to ena-ble officers to go mto any premases whatsoever in search of liquors and to then first fine or im-prison the person discovered kcoping them. This was considered the most radical feature of the bill and a strong fight was and eagainst it, the vote by which it was defeated being almost at lo. The senate set the date on which the law should become operative on May 1, which will necessitate a conference committee between the two bodies to agree. Meanwhile un restriction can be put on the sale of liquor in the state except such as the general government pro-vides through a heaven in the state except such as the general government pro-vides through a heaven in the state except such as the general government pro-vides through a heaven in the state except such as the general government pro-vides through a heaven in the state except such as the general government pro-vides through a heaven and the state except such as the section 26 in a coord-ance with the senate, subove stated, after a long debute and a close vote, in which the person of the section 26 in accord-ance with the senate, subove stated, after a long debute and a close vote, in which the dister a vote of the section 26 in accord-ance with the senate, subove stated, after a long debute and a close vote, in which the bill, as it now stands, is much milder in form, and the opposition to the measure con-sider that they have won a signal victory, hough the law will be stricter than any that now stands en the statute books of any other state. ## GOLD ALL GONE.

GOLD ALL GONE. An Abandonet Gold Field Which In Now a Pracefol Vulage. The abandoned gold field near Beach-worth, Australia, spreads its bare ster-ile surface like an oasis in the center ef-a hilly region of densely-wooted ranges. It is some 300 miles up-country from the emptal, and 5.500 feet above the level of the sea. Primeval forest lies altaroand. Standing on a near elevation, trees, and nothing but trees, seen to stretch away in counties leagues on either hand to the distant horizon. Yot through this wilderness the gold-escort in the old days had to make its way to the solard.

through this wilderness the gold-escort in the old days had to make its way ta the scaboard. A cluster of forest giants in the non-foreground stands like scalinois along the ridge beyond which a steen deelly-ity runs down to the sinuous steens which a little farther on has a fall of 450 feet. Today the wasted stream manders at the foot of the irregular wooded hills beyond an penefully as of did, before its ancient way was rudely dis-turbed by the sudden irruption of strange men who hore no resolublance to the wandering native tribes who had reared their min-mins and lighted their foreat fires beside its undrid banks for coundless ages. On the sheltered side of one of these slopes beneath the trees are a few grave mounds, indicat-ing where some of the fallen slope. Appropriately enough, the stream is of a brownish-yellow color and quild oraque, stenling noiselessly along unit, with a sudden, mather-like spring, it makes its great leap, a taway mass of turbid water, without sporkle, as though still thick from the washing of the di-gers creades. It is soon lost in the winding recesses, and again trees, ever revealing in measured gradation, until bleat in the deep blue haze of the Aus-traling back.
