IN ANNEXTION'S INTEREST. Last Night's Meeting in South Omaha and the Speeches Made.

Omaha's Visitors Few in Number But Well Provided With Orators—Interviews With Business Men.

First Gun for Consolidation. South Omaha was out last night in full force.

South Omaha was out last night in full force. It was a question whether to remain separated and be robbed in taxes or to annex and get the benefits of a large city.

They were disappointed when the Omaha visitors arrived to learn that nothing in the line of extended or statistical addresses would be made touching the absorbing subject of annexation.

David Anderson called the meeting to order and named Mayor Sinaas for chairman.

Christ Hartman, president of the Omaha real estate exchange, was the first speaker introduced.

Mr. Hartman's address was that of a larger attendance than the committees appointed in Omaha to agitate the question of annexation.
