THEY PAID IT ALL BACK.

The City's Destroyed Pavement Fund Returned. There is at present $4,300 left in the hands of the city treasurer of what was originally received from the street railway company for the financing of pavements. Yesterday amount is awaiting the disposition of the city council.

Early last season ordinance No. 2,000 was passed by the city council requiring street railway companies laying tracks on paved streets to pay in full for all paving to be taken up before they were given a permit, and the sum of $51,500.00 was paid in by the companies, but all under protest. Later the council passed ordinance No. 2,002, repealing ordinance 2,000 and establishing a sliding scale for the amounts to be paid for pavements torn up, the age and material of the pavement being taken into consideration.

Still later ordinance No. 2,007 was passed requiring the street railway companies to make good pavement paid under the first ordinance that would be in excess of the rates established under the second ordinance. This ordinance was repealed by ordinance No. 2,008, which was returned to them, leaving but $4,300.72. Since that time no pavement has been torn up and consequently no money paid in.

At the meeting of the south side improvement company Monday evening a remonstrance was made by some citizens that they were not receiving their share of improvements which were expected to come from the money paid in by the street railway company, into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfulness. THE TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

The Annual Election of Officers Held Wednesday Afternoon.

The Omaha typographical union held its regular election Wednesday at Washington hall. It was a most orderly one, being conducted under the Australian system. There was no noise or confusion. The polls opened at noon and closed at 7:30 o'clock last night. During this time no demonstration of any kind occurred which would indicate that an important election was being held. There was no peddling of tickets, as the legal ballots were to be obtained only from the judges and were not to be sold or given away. These tickets contained the names of all the candidates for office, and bore the seal of the union, so there was no chance for fraud. The interest in the election was very great but it was not manifested by any boisterous demonstration.

The election was arranged on one side of the hall, and to these the voters retired after they had secured their ticket, and made such change as he saw fit. The ticket was then folded and handed to the judges, who deposited it in the box.

The judges were John C. Thompson, John Egan, and P. A. Rankin, vice president, Arthur Pickering, recording secretary, M. T. Fleming, financial secretary, James Bernady, treasurer, S. K. Egan, executive committee, George W. Farrel, chairman, A. E. Tuttle, W. C. Corwin, sick committee, W. S. Ripley, chairman, Albert Williams, Frank Anderson, vice president, J. J. O'Connell, secretary, to the International convention, Elmer E. Riland and William E. Rudek.

Merchants' Carnival.

The young ladies who are to represent the firms of the city at the merchants' carnival today and tomorrow have for the last two weeks been hard at work under the direction of Mr. W. H. Alford drilling and mastering the intricate movements of an exhibition drill, the novelty and precision of which will be a surprise to some of the most inveterate theater-goers.

Thirty-two of the prettiest girls in Omaha, each one dressed to represent one of the leading firms, take part in the performance, and those who attended the carnival last year will remember the success which crowned the enterprise. The Omaha girls, under the command of Captain Schaff, will give one of their military drills.

Out of the names of the thirty-two young ladies who are going to participate in the drill the programme must be consulted, and as these can only be obtained at the exhibition hall during the performance, all those having any curiosity on the subject should attend and be prepared for one of the most unique and novel entertainments of the season.

Reception to the Retail Trade.

The reception to the retail trade by the Young Men's Christian association on Monday evening, March 21, are now almost completed. An interesting programme, including athletic exhibitions and other novel features will be rendered. All persons engaged in the retail trade, proprietors, salesmen, clerks, bookkeepers, etc., are cordially invited to come and bring their lady friends. Admission will be by ticket only. A large number of tickets have been sent to different firms, but some have been unavailably omitted. The invitation is to all, and in order that those who have not already received tickets may be supplied the following firms will issue tickets on application: Joplin & Co., 368 Sixteenth street; Sherman & McCann, 1212 Dodge street; J. C. Cullen, 1304 Farnam street; and Raynor & Cullen, 324 South sixteenth street. Tickets may also be had on application at the Young Men's Christian association building, corner of Sixth and Douglas.

HE SIGNED A BLANK.

And the Document Turned Out to be a Mortgage. H. E. Cole, real estate agent, is defendant in a suit Judge Shields' court in which some interesting developments are promised. The case is a suit brought by J. L. Watson against Mr. Cole for the possession of a lot of household and office furniture under a bill of sale. Mr. Cole's defense is that the bill of sale was obtained by fraud on the part of O. G. Madison, a former clerk in his office. Mr. Cole says that in May, 1888, while he was sick in bed Madison sent a blank bill of sale to his house asking him to sign it and representing that it was for a lot of old office furniture.

Mr. Cole signed the paper and thought no more of it until it was presented a few weeks ago by Madison. Madison's bill included all of Mr. Cole's household and office furniture. The bill of sale now bears what purports to be Mrs. Cole's signature, which Mr. Cole denies and declares is a forgery. He proposes to fight the suit on the ground of fraud and says he will commence criminal proceedings against the party responsible for the fraud.
