SUGGESTIONS

Another Crist of Opinions on the Duties of the Anti-Monopoly Conference.

SOME ARE AFRAID TO TALK.

Many of the Old Railroad Crowd on Hand with Suggestions, Which Are Given for What They Are Worth.

There are few close students of Nebraska politics who have not asked the question: What will be the course pursued by the conference of anti-monopoly republicans at Lincoln May 201"

As a means of getting an intelligent solution of this weighty question THE BEE has addressed the following query to its special correspondents in every county in the state: What action should the anti-monopoly republican conference (at Lincoln, May 20) take for the best interests of all concerned! Please see leading republicans of your community and propound above question to them. Give preference to anti-monopolists, name each man interviewed and quote him correctly. Get all pertinent suggestions pos-

Suggestions Worth Considering.

Beateice, Neb., May 9.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Mr. C. G. Dorsey, not the congressman, but a prominent republican here, stated his opinion of the course to be pursued by the anti-monopoly conference as follows:

The meeting of republican anti-monopolists at Lincoln should recommend and strongly urge upon the party to adopt a platform and policy in touch with the rapidly growing sentiment of the time on economical subjects. These are all the subjects about which the people are now concerned. The day of sentipeople are now concerned. The day of senti-mental politics is past. For many years the republican party could run a campaign on the detestable record of the democratic party. It was not necessary to show the voters how much the republican party would do for the good of the country, but it was sufficient to call attention to how much the democratic party had done to accomplish the country's ruin. But that day has passed away and a generation has arisen that knew not the democratic party in its days of power and corrup-tion, and when it had well nigh wrecked the country, and this generation demands living

The great questions that now interest the people are the reduction of the cost of living and the increase of the earnings of the peo-ple; in other words, how to better the condition of the people. Everything ultimately depends upon the condition of the farming interest. Times will never be really prosperous anywhere or with any large class of the people until farming comes to pay again, and farming can only be made profitable by reducing the cost of getting farm products to market and by reducing the cost of articles that are of prime necessity to the people. Put all such articles on the free list. Sugar should certainly go on the free list. The idea that all the people of the United States, sixty millions or so, mostly poor people should pay double price for their sugar in order that one Oxnard should be enabled to start a beet sugar factory or that a few rich millionaire planters in Louisiana should be enabled to pile up more wealth is a kind of bosh that has been perpetrated upon the public about long enough, and they won't stand it much longer. If the republican party does not shake itself loose republican party does not shake itself loose from the influences that now surround it and assume an advanced position in favor of tariff reform it will fail to elect another president of the United States. The other thing to be done is to reduce the rate of freights, both in and out, so that farm produce can be put into market at a cost that will leave a margin to the producer, and that fuel, lumber and all he producer, and that their many part of nerchandise can be laid down in any part of Nebraska at the minimum of cost. Our Nebraska at the minimum of cost. Our freight should be no higher in Nebraska than in Iowa.

A Scheme For Organization.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 9 .- [Special to THE Beg. | Said Mr. C. G. Dawes: "I am glad THE BEE is calling attention to the meeting of May 20. As the meeting is to be held in the evening the time for business will necessarily be limited, and unless men come to the convention with clearly defined ideas there is danger that they may drift into a discussion of grievances rather than of the methods to correct them. A preliminary discussion in The Bee of the plans which should be adopted by republicans opposed to the railway power olities might to have the effect of faciliin politics, ought to have the effect of facili-tating the business of the May 30 meeting in a marked degree. My idea of the methods which this meeting should adopt to crush railroad corruption in the republican party is this: It should appoint committees—one for each county in the state, each committee composed of not less than five men known to be opposed to railway dictation in politics and unpurchaseable. Let each county committee appoint sub committees for each precinct in their county.

The meeting should appoint also a state central committee to which the county committees should make weekly reports and which should aid the county committees by literature and if necessary by speakers in points where determined efforts are made by the railroads to capture the party organization. Let the business of raising the funds for litthe meeting instruct the various committees forming this organization to work together for the following ends: First, the appoint-ment of only such delegates from the different counties of this state as will pledge oppo-sition to the railway element in politics, and make a further piedge to attend the state make a further pledge to attend the state convention in person, preference in appoint-ments being given to farmers who have not directly or indirectly been in the employ or pay of any railroad company.

2. The passage of a rule in each of the county conventions that in case of the ina-bility of an appointed delegate to attend the state convention, his vote shall be east by a najority vote of the remainder of the delegation and not by proxy. By some such plan as this the sentiment of the majority of the republican party can be reached, and a plat-form and ticket formed through which the will of the people can be expressed next fall. All noist admit that an attempt on the part of All anist admit that an attempt on the part of the people to express their will in the matter of railroad politics through any other channel than that of the republican party, endangers not only that party, but the movement as well. A thorough organization such as we have outlined is needed to convince the people that honest republicans are terribly in earnest in their movement to put down the bribery and corruption which brought about the result of the Hastings convention. I am firmly of the opinion that the 20th of May meeting will end the dictation of the railways in the politics of this state for the simple reason that it will devise the means whereby we will have majority representation in the republi-

TECUMSER, Neb., May 9.-[Special to The BEE.]-Hon. D. F. Osgood, candidate for attorney general, in speaking of the anti-monopely republican conference to be held in Lincoln May 20, says: "They should suggest to the republican convention to be called by the republican central committee that the railroad rates be fixed at a fair compensation of the cost of the roads, and not fixed upon wetered stocks or inflated values."

Mr. Osgood expressed great faith in the republican party as the great party of progress, believing that immediate relief can be obtained only in the republican ranks, Clarence K. Chamberlain, one of Johnson county's young republicans, speaks favorably of the anti-menopoly conference May 20, believing that for the good of the republican party the measures asked for by the farmers should be considered favorably by the party.

From the fact that Johnson county politics have been for years controlled by railroad cap-pers, who carry Johnson county in their ekets to the state convention, a young man who expresses an opinion adversely to them is immediately set down upon.

York County Opinions Yone, Neb., May 9.—[Special to Tue Bee.]—The following expressions were obtained from some of the most prominent republicans of York county as to the action to be taken by the republican anti-monopoly conference to be held in Lincoin May 20:

w. H. Reader, county clerk;—What we want to do is to send men to our county conventions who are not "cocked and primed" for the state conventions. Endeavor to place a delegation in the state conventions that have the interest of the people at heart instead of some individual or corporation. While corporational deserve fair treatment they should not be allowed to control all our hey should not be allowed to control all our

M. C. Frank-What should they do?-They should be conservative. Should measure their words, so that it cannot be said of them, their words, so that it cannot be said of them, "They are office hungry cranks." The best thing to do is to atudy out some plan to get the tollers to attend the caucus. Honest men are tired of the cut and dried mode of electing delegates. Adopt a plan which will put every voter on an equal footing with one another. Men want to go to the caucus, but turn away disgusted at "hoop 'em up" methods, whether a system of voting by ballot from start to finish will cure the evil of wire pulling, I don't know. If the right kind of delegates are elected to attend the county conventions don't know. If the right kind of delegates are elected to attend the county conventions there will be no question about the selection of good anti-monopoly republicans to attend the state conventions. There is no doubt at all but that a large majority of the republican voters want their party to live to settle the issue between the corporations and the people. They are sick and tired of mouth farmers, and demand some clean business methods which will assure them that the caucus can talk to the state convention and be

George B. France-Bellamy's theory is the only salvation for the anti-monopolist. The great trouble with honest delegates to state conventions is that when they arrive there their honesty is too often carried by or left at

E. A. Gilbert, ex-representative-I suppose lawyer's opinions are not esteemed very Hence I hardly dare to express an opinion on a subject that may involve their interests. But I will venture to say I think the paramount demand is for good men in public office. If the conference at Lincoln can devise some scheme or form an organization by means of which the bummers and scalawags can be left out and good, straight men (no matter what their vocations or amiliations, whether they are farmers or of any other pursuit) elected to fill the positions of trust, they will do a good work for the state. I think the crying need of the hour is clean men, true men, men who have convictions and courage and honesty enough to act upon them, men who will do what they say they will to the letter. My observation leads me to think this is at the very foundation of any rue reform, and is the first thing to be looked

THE STATE OF BEATRICE.

Colby, Griggs and Pickerell Still Found at the Old Stand.

BEATRICE, Neb., May 9 .- [Special to THE Bee.]-Your correspondent has obtained the following interviews with republicans: Watson Pickerell-My honest impression is that the so-called anti-monopoly republican convention, conference or whatever you may choose to call it, should adjourn before it con-

choose to can it, should adjourn before it con-venes, and if there are any republicans in it, to stand by the regular nominees of the straight republican state convention. Hon. John Wardiaw—I am not thoroughly prepare to express a full opinion on the subject of an anti-monopoly conference; in fact, I was not aware that such a conference was contemplated. There is, however, a demand for something that will better the financial condition of the farmers. It seems to me that this could best be done by some judicious money or financial legislation. I am decidedly in favor of more liberal pension laws, because by such means money comes more freely into the hands of people who are liable to put it into circulation immediately. This conven-tion or conference could very consistently recommend measures looking toward legislation that will relieve the prevailing financial distress, and it seems to me that the pension question is one of the practical solutions of

Hon. N. K. Griggs-I did not know that such a confirence had been suggested, nor can I see any very imparative necessity for such a conference in the republican party. The a conference in the republican party. The effective way of securing any reforms for the betterment of the general people is through the republican party. It is the great engine of reform in this country, its history and traditions are rich with the record of solid and enduring reforms. If the anti-monopol-ists are strong enough in the party let them send delegates to the regularly constituted convention to be called by the regularly con-stituted anthorities of the state republican rganizations and fight their battles there think with The Bee, that Mr. Van Wyck made the great mistake of his life when he started out on this unwise crusade against the republican party to which he owes so much. He is like a campaigner who, starting out to vanquish the enemy, has burned his bridges behind him and has made no provis-ion for a possible retreat, and like one who has invaded the enemy's country without his ammunition wagons and is destitute of any means to wage a respectable warfare and is without facilities to even forage off the without facilities to even forage off the enemy. I believe that it is unwise for honest republicans to permit themselves to be beguiled into any independent move that is very evidently fathered by enemies of the republican party. I believe that there is much that can and should be done for the financial and commercial improvement of the country and at the same time I honestly beieve that this can best come through the republican party. It seems to me that such a conference as that proposed is unnecessary, and that it will be fruitless of substantial reand that it will be fruitless of substantial results. Anything that is right will win in the republican party, and that which is not right will not win in that or any other party.

General L. W. Colby—I have only incidentally learned of such a conference, and am of the opinion that if it does meet that it should immediately adjourn and the members of the conference of the their homes and wait of the conference go to their homes and wait of the conference go to their nomes and wait for the regular convention of the republican party and then and there ventilate their views on such subjects. If this anti-monopoly movement is of such formidable strength in the republican party its adherents should send its delegates to the state republican con-vention and fight its buttles in that body like men. I am very free to admit that I believe this so-called conference of so-called repub-licans is engineered by democrats with a view of creating a schism in the party by which the democrats hope to prosper. There is the democrats hope to prosper. There is ample room in the republican party for any and every reform looking to the alleviation of every distress that afflicts the public welfare.

And such relief can come only through the straight republican party.

Postmaster G. M. Rigg—I think it unwise for true republicans to let themselves be de-terred or persuaded from their party loyalty by any such a movement as is contemplated by the Lincoln conference on May 20. The remedies demanded by the anti-monopoly republicans, if there are any such, can best be considered in a straight republican conven-The republican party has always been equal to the emergency of the hour, and has ever been foremost in every movement where the public good was to be conserved. Nothing enduring can be accomplished by side issues. They aggrevate the very evil they seek to remedy. The field for the alliance and antiremedy. The field for the alliance and anti-monopolists to cultivate most freely is that of the regularly called republican conventions through that party, which is the dominant political factor in this western country, must the relief asked for come. Let the alliance and the anti-monopolists send brainy men to that convention. Let them make themselves heard and felt in the convention, and compel a recognition of their views in the platform of the republican party. It can thus with of the republican party. It can thus with the aid of a great party organization secure the rights so persistently demanded, and can do so only by that means.

Mayor J. L. Tatt—Great reforms can best be accomplished through the dominant party, which is the republican party. I cannot be brought to believe that an anti-monopolist conference, like that proposed at Lincoln, can accomplish anything effective. There is, however a great and crying need for some however, a great and crying need for some stringent and effective legislation in the agri-cultural, commercial and financial interests of this western country, and especially for Nebraska. The transportation question is one of vital interest. The republican party should take some decisive steps toward se-curing the relief demanded. There is entirely too much discrimination in freight mat-ters against the interior cities of the state of Nebraska. We should be given the same justice that is accorded to Iowa in this im-portant matter. The interstate commerce law should be publicly enforced in this state, and especially as regards Beatrice. Our people are becoming aroused to the injustice done us. The election of the leading manufacturer and shipper of Heatrice to the presidency of the board of trade means that we shall insist upon our rights under the interstate com-merce law with no uncertain or vascillating voice. We shall demand its rigid enforcement and shall call upon our law makers to see that justice is done us fully and fairly. The republican party, to which we have always been loyal, has the power to give us the relief we ask and we propose to send men to the straight republican convention that are solidly secure on this very important ques-tion. I do not think that any good can be accomplished through the anti-monopolist accomplished through the anti-monopolish movement and consequently can see no neces-sity for such a conference as that suggested for Lincoln on the 20th, unless it be to defeat every measure for public relief that could be made effective were the united energies of republicans centered in the one great party that has always shown a disposition to enact laws in the full interests of the people, and thus by concentrated effort command, demand and enforce such legislation as will militate to the public good.

Henry Albert—I think that whatever can be done to solve the transportation questin should be done. This is the great question that vitally interests the farmers of Nethat vitally interests the farmers of Ne-braska. I think that this reform can be ac-complished through the republican party, and believe that the wisest thing the proposed anti-monopoly could do would be to recommend the straight republican convention to take decisive steps toward securing an casing up of freight rates and that the re-publicans of that conference seek and demand such reforms through the only available source, the republican party. I sincerely source, the republican party. I sincerely question the expediency of any third party move in this direction. It will only weaken the conservative strength of the republican through which such reforms must come, if at all.

Hon. I. W. Funk—I never have been sympathy with any movement calculated to fivide the strength of the republican party. I believe the regular republican organization is equal to any emergency of public reform. The Burrows and Van Vyck's are simply agitators who take selfish advantage of the general depression of business and endeavor to foist themselves upon the dissatisfied people as God given apostles of reform, and as the Moses to lead them out of the wilderness of distress. The place to begin reforms is in the primaries and caucuses of the regular parties. If the anti-monopolists are not strong enough to make any appreciable impression in their own parties, they surely cannot do so by any independent organization. In acting as a third party they are simply giving aid and comfort to their natural political enemies and crippling the party that can give the re-lief required, and which will give that relief if a concerted report is made to demand it of the is made to demand it of the party to which all reforms owe allegiance. I cannot see any necessity for such a move as an an anti-monopoly republican conference.

Alex Graham, chairman board of supervis ors—I do not see just what they expect to ac-complish by holding a convention. As I understand it, this convention is to be composed of republicans and I think could ac-complish more for the anti-monopoly cause by exerting the same energy within the ranks of the republican party than by any attempt to form a union with any other political faction or party. The republican party is broad enough to embrace all the live issues of the day and intelligent and brave enough to the day and intelligent and brave enough to deal with them fairly.

S.C. Smith—My opinion is that the inspiration comes from democratic leaders, and when this fact becomes established republicans generally will take but little stock in the movement. Many no doubt will attend the convention out of curiosity, but curiosity, you know is a thing easily satisfied. You you know, is a thing easily satisfied. You will always find in every political party two classes of individuals ready to take up anything new in this line. One is the disappointed politician, the other is the sensational fellow, always aspiring to be a leader, but never quite making the mark. No, I have great faith in the material of which the republican party in Nebraska is composed. The boys are pretty good stayers. The old soldier element is a strong guaranty of this fact. When the time comes for business you will find them on hand. A few individuals may be humbugged, but not so with the masses No matter what action may be taken at this convention, it will have no serious effect upon the party vote at the coming election, either with reference to state officers, the congressional, or legislative tickets. I am in favor of sending to the legislature clean and able men, selecting the best material and giving every interest fair representation. Nebraska as an agricultural state should have a majority of her legislators selected from the farming class, but the manufacturing and commercial interests should not in any sense be overlooked. There never was a time when party loyalty was more desirable than the present. Congress is working earnestly in its effort to secure favorable legislation upon the silver question, with every prospect for success in increasing the circulation of the country. Give this country a currency circulation equal to $40 to $50 per capita and the effect will be to stimulate values, or rather restore 'currency" I do not mean national bank cur rency specially. If the people prefer some other kind I am with them. Silver certificates and gold certificates based upon coin or bullion will be just as acceptable to the banks if the people prefer it. Any one who has watched congressional proceedings closely during the past sixty days has discovered the republican party foremost in this matter. They will have discovered also that the pension list has been largely increased. There has never yet been an emergency which the party has not met and mastered. relied upon for good work in the future and the people know it. The convention at Lincoln will cut no special figure in Nebraska politics.

The Rain Interfered.

The threatening aspect of the weather yesterday afternoon kept the crowd away from the ball grounds. There were a couple of hundred fans on hand, however, and the game commenced in a lively manner. There were three innings played, when the floodgates of heaven were opened and the rain came down in terrents. The diamond was quickly flooded with water and Umpire Henderson was compelled to call the game. Omaha went out in one, two, three order in the first, but Kansas City got in a run. Hoover went clear round to third on a wild throw by Fanning to first of his little funge hit, and scored on Elmer Smith's sacrifice second was also a goose egg for Omaha, The second was also a goose egg for Omaha, and again Kansas City scored. Hick Carpenter led off with a two-baser down the left field line, went to third on a fumble by Walsh and home on Manning's out to second. In the third Omaha tied the score. Moran struck out, but Urquahart got to first on an error of Conway, the Cowboy pitcher. Then Fanning drove the ball to short, and in his eagerness to make a double Nick Smith falled to catch either Urquahart or Fanning, Canavan either Urquahart or Fanning, Canavan forced Fanning at second, then both runners came home on an error by Nick Smith, and the game was tied. The rain at this juncture put a stop to further proceedings.

Notes and Comments.

The Kansas Citys are a fine looking body of men, and they are bound to come up with a rush. Poet Burns is considerably heavier than when he played in Omaha, and is fielding his poition out of sight.

Chub Collins has been signed to play second and captain the Omaha team and will join the boys at Des Moines on the 15th. Manager Hackett of the Kansas City's says he is a very competent man, that he is well posted on all points of the game, and knows how to take advantage of them. He is also a hard hitter and a base runner par excellence. Co. lins' engagement will send Tommy Kearns to the field, but no one is to be released.

Tom Nagle was released by Captain Anson of the Chicagos yesterday. He has played miserable ball, and he was displaced in Thurs-day's game right in the middle of the contest. Danny Stearns has as much to say as ever during the progress of a game and the umpire should call him down in his incessant chatter to the pitcher.

The Omahas started in to win yesterday, and it looked as if they would, but the rain

IOWA NEWS.

The Railroad Commissioners. DES MOINES, Ia., May 9.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The railroad commissioners made five decisions this morning. Or the application for joint stations for freight and passengers at Conway crossing, on the "Q" and the Humeston & Shenandoah, there was a hearing before the board on April 9 and about 1,000 signitures from both sides were presented. The case has been hotly contested and the commissioners decided that that country was sufficiently accommodated by four stations within a circuit of ten miles and a station near the crossing of the Humeston & Shenandoan, and there was no evi-dence of a demand for transfer facilities at the junction, which is an overhead crossing,

The commissioners declined to order the erection of a station. There was a decision on the removal of a station in the case of F. W. Pierce et al. against the Des Moines & Kansas City railroad. The complaint in its present form is dismissed by the commissioners without prejudice to the complainants. The case of J. I. Decker et al. vs Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City railroad company for stock killed, was closed, as the company had settled for the stock.

A complaint was made by the Hampton milling company vs the Iowa Central rail-road company, the grounds being a refusal to switch a car to the Chicago, St. Paul & Kan-sas City railroad. The opinion of the com-missioners is that the shipper should have paid the company for its trouble and the com-pany switch the car to the transfer.

Complaint was filed with the commissioners by Smith & Shaul of Quincy vs the Kansus City, St. Joe & Council Bluffs railway for overcharge on goods shipped. The commissioners called the attention of the respondents to certain rules. On April 14 the complainant acknowledged satisfactory settlement of the overcharge and the case was closed.

A Freight Wreck. LE MARS, Ia., May 9 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-A freight train wreck occurred at 5 a. m. today two miles east of this place, at Willow Creek, on the Illinois Central road, Freight train No. 20 from the east was coming through less than one hour ahead of the west bound express, when a defective bridge gave way and thirteen box and flat cars were piled up in a broken mass. About three lengths of the track went down and a car of hogs went off and two of them were killed The cars were jammed in a shapeless mass.

Trains were delayed all day. No lives were lost and no one hurt. The engine broke loose just behind the tender and the four rear cars, including the caboose, were left on the

Who Owns the Wallet?

DES MOINES, Ia., May 9 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The clerks in the state treasurer's office this morning found a wallet under the west steps of the capitol, containing a deposit check from a Warren county bank for $1,000, also a note for $112.50, which bears for $1,000, also a note for $112.30, which bears the signatures of C. F. Conway and William M. Richardson. A paper in it bears the name of A. P. Vansyne, who is thought to be the owner. The discovery has created some ex-citement, as no loss of that kind has been reported. It is suggested that the owner of the pocketbook may have been killed and the oney secreted. There is evidently some mystery connected with the affair.

The Joint Rate Question.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 9.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The railroad commissioners received a letter this morning from Thomas Wright, general attorney of the Rock Island railway, announcing that the several companies having headquarters at Chicago have under consideration the formation of certain joint tariffs under the permissive section of the Iowa joint rate law, but without reference to or recognition of any other por-tions of that law. The commissioners interpret this as meaning that joint rates will be voluntarily put into effect at all of the most

AMUSEMENTS.

Rhea was warmly welcomed at Boyd's opera house last night by a large and fashionable audience. She presented for the first time here her new play, "Josephine, Empress of the French." It is a strongly written historical drama, dealing principally in facts connected with Josephine's divorce from Emperor Napoleon and events that followed up to the time of her death. Inasmuch as the author has dealt exclusively in sad, cold facts, the story is rather heavy at times but always interesting and full of intensely emotional life. A better acted, finer staged prettier costumed production has not been seen this season. In the title role Rhea appeared to great advantage. Some portions her work reached the topmost heights of artistic excellence. The scene wherein she takes final leave of Napoleon was most effect-ively done, though not until her meeting with Empress Louise, when she pronounces a curse on the head of that false dame, did she arouse the spectators to an enthusiastic pitch of admiration.

The Napoleon of Mr. William Harris was also a fine impersonation. His make-up of the part is an exact imitation of the world-famed conqueror. J. M. Francoeur likewise de-serves praise for the smooth manner in which ceptive prince. All the other parts were so well taken that it was throughout a very enjoyable, satisfactory performance. The piece, however, was written specially for the benefit of a star; therefore all its characters are incidental to and in support of Josephine. While Rhea fills ever expectation, is an actress of wonderful power and sustains all the requirements demanded by this popular empress of France, one feels that Napoleon ought to figure more prominently than he does.

Tampered With Exemption Laws. By tampering with the exemption laws of Nebraska, David Jerman and Mike Hitt have got into trouble. L. W. Fetter is in the em ploy of the Union Pacific company, working at the transfer in Council Bluffs. He had hard luck, and, like some other men, got into debt, owing N. B. Benson the sum of $60. Benson wanted to sell the account, and Jerman and Hitt became the purchasers.
They next learned that Fetter had $55 due him from the company and brought suit in Justice Barnett's court, at the same time attaching the money in the hands of the railroad company. Bonds were given and the money was turned over. Fetter now claims that as he is a married man and a res-ident of Nebraska, the wages were exempt from levy and attachment, and to prove this the two men have been arrested. The case the two men have been arrested. was called in police court yesterday and continued until the 19th inst.

DUN'S REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Little Change in the Business Situation the Past Six Days.

AN ENORMOUS VOLUME OF TRAFFIC.

Continuation of the Heavy Movement of Meats-The Dry Goods and Shoe Trade of Full Volume.

NEW YORK, May 9 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-R. G. Dunn & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

During the past week the business situation has changed but little. The outward manifestations vary somewhat, but the leading facts are still the enormous volume of traffic in progress, the expectation of monetary expansion and the absence of forces at present seriously disturbing even in details. The chief and most potent of the present favoring influences is still the prospect of increased monetary use of silver in some form. Labor controversies cause less interruption than has been anticipated. It has come to be recognized that the injury to winter wheat may count for 50,000,000 bushels at least, but spring seeding has covered an increased acreage and a larger yield of that kind would naturally fol low higher prices. Cotton is a shade weaker than a week ago and accounts of injury less impressive. Iron shows no great change, the radical facts in that branch being the transfer of part of the production to southern in stead of northern fields. The increase in the wool supply this year cannot be large, but the expectations of higher prices so generally entertained by growers tend to embarrass the manufacture. Boston sales were large, with prices stiff.

The movement of meats continues heavy— at Chicago 2,000,000 pounds of dressed beef against 940,000 last year, and for the year thus far 50,000,000 pounds against 18,000,000 pounds last year. Beef cattle eave reached the highest point for the year. The re-ccipts at Chicago are nearly double, and hogs grow stronger at the west. In general the operations in products are remarkably large, with advancing prices, but mainly because of expected loss in production this

The dry goods business continues of full volume, at Chicago larger than last year, and the shoe trade is also larger. The volume of all trade shown by exchanges outside New York remains about 10 per cent above last year's, which in turn was the largest on record. The reports from interior cities indicate fairly maintained activity, with money mar-kets nowhere stringent, though at Chicago and some other points closer about May I than before on account of settlements and preparation for assessments for taxation. Here disbursements about May 1 were larger than ever before, approaching $50,000,000.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days numper 209, as compared with 211 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the fail-
