Another Injunction Prayed For.

A petition was filed in the district court yesterday in which E. W. Davenport is plaintiff and George F. Wright, H. J. Chambers, James O'Neill and Maria F. Davenport are defendants. The plaintiff alleges that his wife is in collusion with the other defendants to deprive him of his interest in certain real estate. The petition states that he purchased a certain piece of property in 1868, which was deeded to his wife, and in which he yet has an interest as her husband.

Last year Mrs. Davenport contracted to sell the land to George F. Wright, and a few months ago Wright began a suit to compel the performance of this contract and asking for judgment for $2,500 for failure to so comply with the terms of the agreement. Mrs. Davenport failed to appear, and the case went to the plaintiff by default, as Davenport himseif alleges, with the collusion of Mrs. Davenport. A writ of execution has been issued, and next Monday, if nothing is done, the sheriff will sell the land without paying any attention to the interest Mr. Davenport may have in the same. This Davenport wants stopped, and he asks for judgment enjoining the sheriff and the county clerk from such a proceedure, and a finding that he has an interest in the land as he claims.

A Disastrous Runaway. W. H. Millard's grocery team became unmanageable yesterday afternoon and dashed down Glen avenue at so rapid a gait that they could not turn the corner at Broadway. They ran across the street and collided with the building at 300 Broadway, occupied as a restaurant by Walter Dunn. A large plate glass window was shattered, and the force of gass window was shattered, and the force of the collision threw the driver, Ben Foley, against the side of the building with such force as to render him unconscious for sev-eral minutes, but fortunately he escaped without serious injury. The wagon was broken and the horse was cut in several places by the glass. The building was dam-aged to the extent of about $50, and the damage to the wagon and harness was about half that amount. Several parties who were half that amount. Several parties who were in the restaurant at the time were badly frightened, but none of them were injured. although the glass from the broken window

Equalizing Assessments. The board of equalization held what was intended to be the final session yesterday afternoon, but they did not dispose of all the business that was on hand and will meet again Monday night for that purpose. Mayor Macrae was not on hand, and the aldermen present were, Messrs. Casper, Woods, Everett. Smith and Lacy. President Everett occupied the chair Directors Wright and Evans of the electric motor compay were there to secure a reduc tion of the company's assessment, and an affi-dayit of Mr. Evans was read, stating that dayit of Mr. Evans was read, stating that the improvements made by the company during the past year amounted to $69,000, which on the basis of a 33% per cent assess-ment would only increase their assessment over last year $23,000. As their last year's assessment was $60,000, they therefore asked that it be reduced from $125,000 to $89,000 for this year. All of the alderment present were this year. All of the aldermen present were in favor of the reduction with the exception of Alderman Everett, who did not believe that the assessment should be made on any such basis, but that on the contrary it should be made with reference to the cash value of the road as shown by the traffic that it was

"That would be all right if this was a steam railroad company, Mr. Everett," said Mr. Wright, "but it is a street railroad and you can't assess it that way. We don't want to have to go into court and contest this case, but we will have to unless you give us a fair and souare trial."

and square trial."

Alderman Lacy then stated that the company had done a great deal to build up the western part of the city and he did not want to antagonize them. He thought the tendency had been to tax enterprises out of the city and said that such was the policy pursued with reference to the Union Pacific. He would like to see a 5 cent fare just as much as any one, and believed that it would benefit both the company and the city, but at the same time he appreciated what they had already done by reducing the fare from 25 to 10 cents. He thought that the city must make concessions if they wanted to get them, and was in favor of not only reducing the assess-ment to the amount asked but to a still lower figure if the company would settle for the paving taken up by their tracks.

Mr. Wright wanted to get in a word right there, and stated that the company was also anxious to have the settlement, but they had about five hundred property owners to settle with, and no two of them would agree to settle on the same basis. He thought they would have to have a test case in court to decide what basis the cases should be settled on. He did not think that the company should pay for new paving on streets that had been paved for two or three years before the motor company laid its tracks on them, and he also thought that some allowance should be made because they relaid the Broadway paving in better shape than it was before.

Evans stated that money had been laid aside for that purpose and a settlement would be made whenever the city or property owners would agree on a just basis of payment. It was mentioned incidentally that settlement ins already been made with some of the property owners.

The discussion was quite lengthy, but no new facts developed. The matter was finally put to a vote and the motion to reduce the essment to $89,000 carried by a vote of A petition from the Nonpareil printing company for a reduction of assessment from $5,000 to $4,000 was also on hand, but before it be read Alderman Casper had himself excused and there was no longer a quorun present. Alderman Casper lost no time in getting away and without him no business could be transacted, although George Gerner of Jacquemin & Co. wanted the assessment of that firm reduced. Alderman Casper stated

Tribute to Miss Lizzie Brown. At a meeting of Chapter H, P. E. O., the following was presented, ordered spread upon the records, and the secretary instructed to send copies to the sorrowing family and have the same published:

The death of Lizzle Brown, one of our charter members, is the first missing link in the golden chain binding together the sisterhood of Chapter H of the P. E. O. Words, however rich the tribute, cannot give true outline or color to her character as it will ever be pletured in our memories. Loving the sunshine she bravely entered the shadow. Ever sought by friends, she unselfishly sought out the friendless. Happy as a child, brave as a hero, combining strength of beauty with beauty of strength, her life was a herole poem, giving inspiration as we read its lines, and sorrow when we close the volume.

Yet the poem is not finished, though the human beok is closed. The link is missing, not broken. The darker the croad the brighter the star. Somehow, somewhere, sometime, we the star. Somehow, somewhere, sometime, we all shall be initiated into those greatest mys-teries which she has entered but a little bere. She will be our charter member there, eady to greet us with the friendly grasp. In our first and greatest sorrow faith points us to our last and greatest joy. While we encircle with tender sympaty the saddened fireside, et us all look to the Great Author for the joy tet us all look to the Great Author for the Joy of the unfinished song; let us follow the golden chain to the great rock where the missing link is now secured; let us look up from the flickgring ember of the fireside to the never fading star beyond.

THE GREAT BUCKEYE SPECIAL

Aultman, Miller & Co.'s Grand Pageant and Triumphal Tour.

FORTY. FINELY DECORATED CARS.

The Largest Shipment of Harvesting Machines Ever Made at One Time-An Imposing Start and a Continuous Ovation.

Notwithstanding a little complication that occurred at the end of the run, which led to the announcement Friday evening that the great "Buckeye special" train would be broken up at Pacific Junction and not come to Council Bluffs, it did come in ou schedule time, 2 o'clock 'yesterday afternoon. The complication was largely due to the fact that the Buckeye agents throughout southwestern Iowa and Nebraska were so impatient to get the machines ordered that it was necessary to get the cars to their destination as soon as possible. The train was partially broken up at the junction, and only those cars consigned directly to Council Bluffs were brought here. This comprised twenty cars, the remaining twenty being sent direct to the points, where the impatient farmers were to get them. The train, when it reached here, was stripped of many of its gorgeous features, but notwithtanding this it was the most remarkable ever prought into the city, and excited greatenthuslasm among the big crowd of people, who ssembled at the depot to meet it.

The progress of the train from the time it. Akron, O., until it reached Council fs, was marked by a continuous ovation. It left Akron on Tuesday morning and made daylight run to this city. The Akron Daily Beacon of that date has the following conerning the event:
Barnum has been outdone at last and must yield the palm of triumph as an advertiser to the great Buckeye manufacturers, Aultman, Miller & Co. of Akron. This week three mammoth special trains containing the aggregate almost one hundred cars, were sent forward from the Buckeye works admidst the applause of thousands of spectators, Two of the trains went westward while the third one was bound for Australia. All of them were heavily loaded with Buckeye binders and mowers. No freight cars were ever more claborately or gorgeously decked with bright and dazzling colors. Streamers, flags, bright banners, placards and Buckeye mirrors flashed in the smilight like some royal pageant of old. A band of music enlivened the flattering home demonstration and reports along the line show one continuous ovation. The people have turned out en masse-a flattering encomium to Messrs. Aultman, Miller & Co. and the famous Buckeye harvesting machines. At the rear of one of the trains was attached a passenger coach, containing railway officials E. C. Janes of the C. A. & C., William Leland of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Mr. Lewis Miller, jr., of Ault-man, Miller and Co., a representative of the American Farm News, and other members of Beautiful souvenirs and advertising matter are distributed along the line at the various stopping points, and also thrown to the farmers in the fields who are attracted by the passing pageant. No occasion of this character has ever attracted such universal attention, farmers especially coming many miles to witness the impressive and important event. While immense shipments of Buckeve machines have been going forward for months past, this last special occasion has capped the climax. While the flattering outlook for crops has had much to do do with the demand for the Buckeye it may not be generally known that the movement among farmers for the betterment of their condition has inured largely to the advantage of this machine. In some instances the farmers' alliances have publicly endorsed the Buckeye. This probably accounts for the unprecedented demand. Reports from certain sections of the south, where the harvest is near at hand, indicate that the Buckeye machines have all been sold, although shipments have been greater to that section than ever before.

The Buckeye hustlers all along the line had telegraphic advices of the advent of the train and hundreds of them went several stations beyond their towns to meet it and returned with it. Mr. L. H. Hanscom, general manager here, went to Streator, Ill., Monday and accompanied it on its grand triumphal tour over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

The 'Q' officials gave it as much attention as though it had been bearing its load of royalty in firsh instead of forty cars of royal Buckeye machines. The train was decor-ated from the pilots of the two great mogul engines to the palace coach and dining car at-tached to the rear. The decorations com-prised thousands of yards of bunting streamers and banners, besides 2,500 beautiful shaped banners with a mirror in the center above which was printed in colors the antiers of a royal buck. These were nailed to the the sides of the cars, but even the nails didn't protect them from the rapacity of the souveneir hunters. Whenever the train would stop men would run up with hammers and pull them and workmen along the track never lost an opportunity to pry them of with their shovels. Even the ladies clipped the wings of the streamers and carried them away as souveneirs, and when the train rolled here yesterday it was pretty well denuded of its decorations.

No presidential train ever created more interest than this splendid industrial exhibit did as it rolled over the fertile prairies of 41linois and Iowa. No station was so small that it did not turn out a crowd, and at the larger cities multitudes congregated, while at the crossings throughout the country the farmers congregated to see the brilliant meteor flash by. At Burlington, Assistant Superintendent J. M. Bechtel of the Chicage, Barlington & Quincy, joined the pageant, and with W. F. Webb, assistant general freight agent of the C. A. & C. railroad, accombanied the train to its destination. At Creston the party was joined by O. P. McKesson, L. A. Devine and the remainder of the local hustlers who have made the Buckeye a household word as well an agricultural necessity in the great territory covered by the Council Bluffs branch. At each station between here and Creston all the town and half the country turned out to see the show.

It requires but little effort when one is acquainted with the facts to realize the vast it fluence the Buckeye machines have upon the ommerce and agriculture of the world. Peo-de who saw forty cars loaded with the machines en route to fill the early—senson orders of one branch of the firm alone had a forcible illustration of it—special trains—accompanied by private palace cars carrying the head of ficials of the most powerful corporation in the world and people of four states leaving office, store, factory and farm to give it an ovation—influence enough to stop for the time being the daily avocations of thousands of people ranging in station—from the highest to the humblest in life.

Another significant thing—that must not be overlooked is the fact that these machines are not going, like the product of other factories, to overload warehouses, but to the purchaser and into the field. And recollect that this is only one out of a series. On next Tuesday a similar train of forty cars leaves Akron and comes into this territory over the Northwestern road for distribution on the Fremont & Elkhorn.

BUCKEYE SPECIAL NOTES. Miss Reid the handsome daughter of Tom Reid, the hustling Buckeye representative at Corning, went with her father to meet the train at Creston. She was dressed in a white satin costume that was trimmed with buckeve nuts in an elaborate manner. She wore over nuts in an emborate manner. She work a necklace and bracelets of buckeyes, while a girdle of the same highly polished ornaments encircled her waist. She divided the atten-tion and admiration attracted by the train. J. E. Skavan of Malvern, agent for the Buckeye for the past eighteen years, was highly pleased with the exhibit made and the life shown by the company he has so long Clarence Johnson, the hastling agent at Clarinda, went to Villisca and together with the agent, Ed Ward, at that place, viewed the train, and returned with new vigor to con-tinue the campaign. Last season two car oads of Buckeye machines were sold at each A these places.

Robert McLaughlin, Red Oak's representative citizen and a veteran of sixteen years as agent for the Buckeye, was corraled by the court as grand juror and could not visit the train, but the crowd or Red Oak citizens as-sembled at the depot—showed the standing of the world's victor and no doubt they will tell

The location has not yet been determined on, and the selection lies between this city and Des Moines, and both places are anxious to get it. The necessary requirements are reduced hotel rates, a suitable place for holding meetings and about $250 or $300 to cover expenses. The board of trade assured Mr. Clayton that the desired offer would be furnished, and he left for home last evening to see what the latest offer from Des Moines included, a telegram having been received stat-ing that the Des Moines committee had just sent another letter with reference to the matter. The Protest of Local Insurance Men Proves Unavailing.

There was a lengthy and very important meeting of insurance men in this city yesterday. Strictly speaking, it was a meeting of insurance commission No. 4 of the United States to investigate certain dissatisfaction alleged to exist regarding the compact manager in Omaha, Jacob Geyer.

There were present representatives of the eading insurance companies of the country and about thirty leading agents in this city. It seems that some time ago D. H. Wheeler,

M. C. Nichols, E. E. Howell and D. V. Sholes signed and sent to the managers or head officers of the commission a petition asking that Mr. Geyer be removed but making no specific charges. Instead of acting on the matter from a distance, the managers came out here to look into the case. In addition to considering this special matter the gentleman from abroad talked over the matter of rates and that of one company having more than one agent in the same

No decision was announced in the Guyer matter, though it was ascertained that the representatives of the commission will not remove the compact manager. The visitors advised the dissatisfied brethren to do less quarreling and more saving of words. They advised the sustaining of rates in Omaha, saying they were lower here than in any other city of a like size. The meeting was in session nearly

The Dog Got a Shock.

The electric light wire running into Holmes & Smith's store came in contact with the iron front of the first story of the building about 7 o'clock last night. The fluid was transmitted to the iron doorsteps and from them to the iron grating in front of the store. Just at that moment a dog stood on the grating and received a shock that yielded several yelps of 1,000 volts each. The dog's cries attracted a crowd of passers, who enjoyed the amusing sight. Everything now in the vicinity became charged with electricity, necessiating the services of an employe of the electric light company to remedy the trouble.
