Better Support, Better Ball.

The disgruntled baseball cranks who are continually croaking and kicking about the work of the Omaha team this season should cast their cagle eye over the situation before they do any more roaring and roasting. The Omahas today are but three won games be hind the leaders, the Sioux Citys, and but four lost games. That surely isn't so bad, and a single week's play is sufficient to reverse the order of things. That, however, would be unreasonable to expect, in just now, would be anyfact. thing but a desirable happening, as the Omahas will draw much better if they but move up a peg or two and run along neck and neck with the teams struggling for first, second and third place. A dead sure winner becomes as monotenous and wearisome as a con tinual loser, as Omaha has had forcibly veri fied upon her own grounds during the past two seasons.

Again : why don't the kickers take a glance at the condition of things in the other associations, and compare it with that of Omaha? The effect would certainly be salutary. The winners of the pennant in the last season are way down league the foot of the list and yet they have a strong team. The Chi-cago Brotherhood team, supposed by some to be the best ball team ever banded together, is enjoying a chain of defeats that is unaccount-Up to last Saturday, when they man acced to beat the Bostons, they had dumped seven straight games. But if Omaha doesn't win every game they are dubs and farmers and shoemakers, and everything else but ball players, and should be sent back into the brickyard to complete their trade. The mantoo, who are really doing every thing in their power to strengthen the team comes in for a liberal reasting, and they are charged with the criminal intent of endeavoring to make a dollar, instead of giving the handful of cranks who have so far regu-larly attended the games, the very finest pase ball in the magnet. This is all wrong, the Omaha management is keenly alive to the situation and exerting itself to the utst to secure new and better players, and today they have succeeded in getting the team in shape that compares favorably with any team in the Western association. What the base ball public should do now is to turn Friday and give them a rousing re-ception, and there is but little doubt but what hey will adequately respond in the way winning play. The better the team is sup ported, the better work they will do, and the more the management will feel like going down in their pockets for the simoleons necto secure stronger men. The con essary month will be a busy one on the local dia ond, and it is to be hoped that the club will be accorded the most liberal support. would Omahans turn for summer amusement if she had no ball club! last evening for the lightweight championship of Nebraska, between Charlie Davis and Alfred Golden, alias "the Bloke," was a corking good one.

The men stripped, Davis at 136 and Golden at 122, and stepped in the ring exactly at 10:15. Davis was esquired by Ed Dutton and the Bloke by Patsy McGee, Jack Ryan officiated as referee. The first round was a rushing one, in which the little fellow had much the best of it, and had he followed up his advantage he have knocked Davis out. In the second round Davis' superior weight and reach began to tell on Golden, although he made a game and plucky fight and got in a number of honey olers on the mug and frame of his big antagonist. There were six rounds fought, in the last of which Davis knocked Goldendown and then deliberately fouled him by striking him before he had risen. The claim of foul was made by McGee, and Ryan awarded Golden the battle.

A Burning Barn Causes the Death of Two Brave Firemen. LINCOLN, Neb., May 26.- Special Tele

The flames were discovered bursting from the roof shortly before 10 o'clock by John Cox and almost at the same moment an unknown man was seen to jump from the second story where the hay is stored. The fire depart-ment was called out and the fire was found to be confined to the upper floor where was stored nearly a hundred tons of baled hay. Several streams of water were directed against the flames but the bales absorbed it like so many sponges. About 11 o'clock it was supposed that the free was subduced and the crowd dispersed when suddenly, with a deafening crash, a portion of the second floor gave way and Joeph Thornburg and Clarence Protsman who were directly under it were crushed to death

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL

It Passes the Upper House After : Spirited Debate-Burrows Made Speaker Pro Tem-Banker St. John's Scheme.

WASHINGTON, May 26 .- In the senate immediately after the reading of the journal the oath of office was administered by the vice president to Mr. Carlisle as senator from Kentucky for Mr. Beck's term. Senator Carlisle was then conducted to his seat. His desk is in the second row on the extreme right of the president of the senate and was decorated with a large basket of handsome roses. He was then congratulated by a number of democratic members of the Kentucky delegation in the house and other democratic representatives who were present to see him sworn in.

Mr. Sherman presented petitions in favor of excluding from the mails the Police Gazette and similar publications.

Mr. Plumb introduced a bill to provide for the purchase of silver for use as lawful money and said that it had been prepared by Banker St. Johns of New York. He desired it introduced with the endorsement of St. Johns on account of his recognized position on financial questions. It also met his approval. The bill was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Plumb offered a resolution instructing the finance committee to prepare and report in connection with the tariff bill, a statement showing duty levies under the existing law, the duties as they would be under the house bill and the duties under the free to be re-ported by the committee, such duties to be stated in parallel columns.

Mr. Reagan moved to amend the resolution so as to require, in cases of compound duties, specific and ad valorem, a column showing he equivalent ad valorem amount of duty. Mr. Allison moved to insert in Mr. Reagan's mendment the words, "where practicable." The amendment as modified by Allison's suggestion was agreed to. The resolution was further amended by making it apply also to reductions of duties and as thus amended it was agreed to. Mr. George from the judiciary committee reported bills subjecting national bank notes and treasury notes to state taxation. Placed on the calendar. The resolution heretofore offered by Mr

Call, calling for information as to the landing of an armed force from the revenue cutter McLean at Cedar Keys, Fla., was taken up, modified and agreed to.

The senate then resumed consideration of the naval appropriation bill, The pending question was Mr. Cockrell's amendment to strike out the provision for three heavily armed battle ships at $4,000,000 each. There was a lengthy debate on this in which Mr. Cockrell commented on the rec ommendations of the secretary of the navy for the construction of a large number of vessels. "There is no occasion," said Mr.

Cockrell, "for the construction of coast de fenses or the increase of the naval establishment." It was well for the senate to remember that the surplus was already gone. When the legislation of this congress was finished there would be no surplus and the people of the United States might be Very happy if the taxes did not have to be in are a second and the second and the second s rely on securing justice without any mani-estation of physical or visible force. Mr. Voorhees said the American people no ore favored the increasing of the navy, and aving a great standing navy than they in favor of having a great standing army. He had faith in the ability of the American peo-ple to get ready whenever an emergency Mr. Butler spoke wigorously in opposition to the amendment and regretted that it was not in his power to vote for eight instead of three battle ships. He hoped all our diffi-culties might be settled by negotiation or arbitration, but so long as human nature was tablishing a coffee house and the new idea would be put in effect very soon. Mr. Murphy then took the platform again. "There is a sort of divine madness upon me tonight," said he, "so look out. If I get up and shout you may know I am all right," Mr. Murphy then introduced Rev. Willard Scott. Mr. Scott said ba didn't more of any

Scott, Mr. Scott said he didn't know of any man who could talk God and bring as many people to hear him as Mr. Murphy. He had tried it for seven years, but couldn't do it. He didn't know how it was, but had come to the conclusion that it was because Mr. Murphy put himself into the people's hearts, and he intended to try it himself.

Mr. Richard Hodd, a former traveling man, addressed the meeting and said he had resolved to quit drinking.

Judge Reed was presented by Mr. Murphy who told him to instruct the jury. The judge said that was a different kind of bar from the ue he had been practicing before. the story of his experience during the past twenty-five years, during which time he had drank from four to twelve glasses of whisky overy day. Mr. W. Frank Higgins, another convert, was the next speaker. He spoke fluently of his fall from an exalted position in the priest-hood of the Roman Catholic church to that of a common drunkard, but he said that he had solemnly resolved never to touch another drop of liquor. He touched upon his life in this city, during which time he had occupied many positions of trust and confidence, but had lost all of them through drink. He con-cluded by saying that some might think an appearance at a meeting of the character of the one at which he spoke was a quasi denun-ciation of his faith, but he did not so regard it. He had feasted upon the flesh pots of Egypt but he had resolved to turn away and take the back track which led to happiness. The bald headed man which led to mappiness. The bald headed man which had said he drank every day, but never was drunk, rose again and said he did not wish to be taken for a toper, but he took whisky as a medicine. He would not sign a pledge as he had resolved years ago never to sign a pledge, but he said he had always done all in his power to save men from drink.

Mr. Murphy then sprung one of his sur-rises on Mrs. Clark, president of the prises on Mrs. Clark, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, who said she was no speaker but she was a Baptist and would say "amen" to everything which had been said.

An attorney from South Dakota addressed the meeting, ringing in many comical re-marks which convulsed the audience with laughter. He recited two verses of a poem which he had dedicated to Francis Murphy

He said there were thousands of young men who were exposed to the flames of hell and appealed to every ac to help save them. At the close of Mr. Murphy's talk an opportunity was given to sign the pledge and there were about one hundred and fifty signers.

FRANCIS MURPHY'S LECTURE.

He Will Address Union Pacific Shop men at Noon To-Day.

At the outer door of Boyd's opera house last night stood Trueman Barnes, the chief templar of Lifeboat lodge of Good Templars of this city, distributing prohibition teacts, extracts from addresses by Frances E. Willard and other documents bearing upon this question. He stood in the doorway and pushed the papers into the hands of every person entering the house. There were many expressions of disgust heard from those attending the meeting at the axhibition of the quintessence of gall on the part of this young man. Inside the house was filled from pit to dome. The meeting was opened by singing, after which Mr. Murphy read an extract from the New Testament and Rev. Willard Scott led In prayer, invoking the divine blessing upon the work of Francis Murphy. After singing unother song Rev. Asa Leard announced the collection.

Mr. Murphy addressed the meeting while the collection was being taken, saying this John E. An unusually large batch of bills, which had accumulated during the preceding two weeks, were read and referred to the proper committees. The Goodman drug company was allowed bills for supplies furnished during March amounting to $265.47. The committees on poor farm and charity submitted a joint report on the January bill of Mount & Griffin, from which $161.65, on account of overcharges and orders not turned in, had been deducted. The report stated that the firm had produced the orders and recommended that $153.65 be allowed overcharge of 1,000 pounds on orders for 500 pounds was acknowledged by the firm to be an error and they yielded to a deduction. The report was adopted. H. C. Barnes, O. Davis and Eli Johnson were awarded the contracts for running graders Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Sheriff Boyd was allowed $41 on account of ounty and insane prisoners. The sheriff's bill for boarding prisoners during April, amounting to $578.20, was re-ported on by the finance committee, with a reduction of $48.96 for the use of the jail for foreign prisoners. It was stated that the board had not been officially informed of the decision of the district court on this matter, and it would not recede from its position on this point until directed to do so by the court The report of the committee was adopted.

The judiciary committee submitted a re-port on the bills of John Gorman, John Cor-coran and Sam Chambers for fees as witnesses at the investigation of Mount & Griffin's coal bill. # FATHER MARTIN'S FREAKS.

The Montreal Priest Returns to the Church Only to Again Desert It.

MONTREAL, May 26.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- The leading sensation in religious circles for the past three weeks has been the disappearance of the Rev. Mr. Martin, formerly a priest of the Roman Catholic church, but latterly identified here with va-rious Protestant bodies. The sensation was increased yesterday when it was known that Mr. Martin appeared with his wife, whom he recently deserted, at the morning service at a French Presbyterian church on St. Catharine street. Mr. Martin said last night that, having become discouraged through illhealth and inability to support his family, he made an agreement with the arch-bishop to return to the Catholic church on the condition that his family would be provided for. He then went down to Antigonish, N. S., to the Trappist monas-tery, where the abbot had been instructed to receive him as a priest going into retreat. But there he found his domestic ties were too strong and accordingly he returned to his family. The archbishop was seen by a correspondent and informed for the first time of priest's second apostasy. He could offer no reason for his strange conduct. The Proestant clergy are much perplexed over the man's vagaries and not a little chagrined at the faithlessness of their protege.

A BARBAROUS JURY CUSTOM.

Why a Majority Verdict Should Be Accepted as Sufficient.

Altered circumstances, resulting from the march of progress and the development of civilization, should result in an propriate changes of legislation. the matter of the administration of the law do we stand still, writes Sig-mund Zeisler in the Forum. We have given up the barbarous practice of subecting jurors, while deliberating, to hunrer, thirst, and cold; why not give up the other relie of barbarism, the sense ess rule of unanimity? The propriety of the rule of unanimity has been a subject of grave doubt for more than a century. Emlyn, as early as 1730, in his preface to the second edi-tion of Howeli's "State Trials," makes an eloquent appeal for the abolition of the rule. Haliman, in the supplemental notes to his "Middle Ages," designates "a preposterous relie of barbarism." The English common law commissioners of 1831 condemn the rule in very positive language, and propose that the jury shall not be kept in deliberation longer than twelve hours, unless at the end of that period they unanimously agree to apply for further time; and that at the expiration of twelve hours, or of such prolonged time for deliberation, if nine of them concur in a verdict, it shall bo taken. Dr. Francis Lieber, taken. Dr. his "Civil ba and Liberty self-Government," and more par ticularly in an article in the American Law Register for 1867, is outspoken in his condemnation of the practice of requiring manimous verdicts. Bentham, in his "Essay on the Art of Packing Juries," says it could hot have been the work of calm redection, working by the light of experience, and calls if "no lessmuffiins, and paneakes broiling will form the lessons; joints, vegetables and pickled meats will go with the pots, and bread, rolls, rousts, poultry and pastry with the oven. Muddy coffee, leathery steak, sodden biscuits and sour bread will be sufficient cause for suspension, and during the training each pupil be charged with the dishes she breaks or chips and the material, whether food, fuel or gas, wasted,

Babies will be borrowed from indus trial schools and bathed, dressed, fed and cared for in class. Every girl will have the encouragement of a trial as a pupil, but no pupil will be retained or given a diploma who is not healthy, honest, sober industrious, clean and capable. Deserv-. ing, promising and painstaking women will be assisted by special training, provided with good positions and permitted to make their home in the school when out of employment.

It is the intention of these publicspirited ladies to offer sufficient inducement to bring from the country towns and tenements of the city those bright, young, intelligent girls who go to the factories and shops and waste their youth and energies at tasks that searcely yield a sufficiency to sustain life.

Charmed by a Snake.

A daughter of Edson Perkins, of this place, narrowly escaped being bitten by a poisonous snake, says a Litchfield Conn., dispatch to the New York Herald. The snake was a sissing or flathead adder, and was the largest ever seen around here. It measured three feet in length, and was five inches round at the largest part.

Miss Perkins was charmed by the reptile, which had caught her eye, and she could neither move hand nor foot. She went into the woods with her brother to gather arbutus. The brother took a gun with him and was looking out for woodchucks. He wandered away from his sister, and when he returned saw the snake, with head erect creeping toward his sister, and shot the entile Miss Perkins says she was bending over to pick flowers, and as she tried to rise she saw the adder gazing at her. She tried to run away but could not, and she was not even able to turn her head. As her brother came up, she says, she was growing dizzy.
