THE CENTRAL COMMITTEEMEN.

Views of Several of the Members on the Anti-Monopolists' Demands.

Some Favor an Early Convention and Declare for More Stringent Railroad Regulation, While Others

Want Theirs "Straight,"

ALL OF THEM DENOUNCE PROXIES.

Immediately after the conference of antimonopoly republicans at Lincoln last week, Tus Ben sent to each member of the republican state central committee a card requesting their views on the action taken by the conference, especially in regard to the resolutions on proxies and an early convention. Below are given the replies so far received.

Unalterably Opposed to Proxies. CRETE, Neb., May 24 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: In response to your inquiry, I beg leave to state that I am in accord with the action of the conference respecting proxies. Some twelve years ago I introduced the resolution at a meeting of the central committee which has since been appended to every state republican call for a convention, viz.; that no proxies should be recognized except such as were held by persons residing in the counties where the delegate was elected. Prior to that time certain men had been in the habit of gathering up proxies for several counties and the unorganized territory. The resolution stopped that evil. But of late years other evils have crept in which should When county conventions, by nearly a unanimous vote, have instructed delegates to the state convention to support a cortain candidate, we have seen the instructions brazeniy violated and the people instead of being fairly represented have been woefully misrepresented. I think the committee should recommend that no proxies be recognized, but that the duly elected delegates present should be empowered to cast the entire vote of the delega-While this would avoid the evils above named it would work no injury to any county As to an early convention. That is a question susceptible of an honest difference of opinion. I do not believe the republican party is afraid of an early convention, neither should it nominate men who cannot stand the test of a long campaign or the most circumspect investigation or criticism. In my opin-ion July 8 is too early a date. It would entail too much time and expense upon the candi-dates; it would throw us into a needless political campaign almost in midsummer, of almost four months duration, which would more or less infringe upon the regular routine of business. It strikes me that a convention held the middle of August would be an "carly con-vention," and ought to satisfy the craving of the most ambitious politician or the most fastidious farmer in the state. While in the main I am fully in sympathy with the views entertained by the leaders of the socalled anti-monopoly conference and believe the committee should seek advice and council that, in the implied threat in the resolution, the conference arrogated to itself a power which exceeds any authority which said conference ever received from the people whom it claims to represent. I believe the commit-tee is fully aware of the sentiment of the rank and life of the party and is wise enough, patriotic enough, and has the interest of the success of the party close enough to its heart to call a convention at a reasonable and a seasonable time, without being placed in the attitude of being an enemy of the people or coerced by a threat of some men who are not toriously noted as having been standing candidates for some office in nearly every county, state and congressional convention. I am, respectfully yours, H. M. Wells.

Favors an Early Convention. NORFOLK, Neb., May 24 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: It is difficult for me to express in concise manner my views on the action taken by the anti-monopoly convention at Lincoln. In my judgment it may result in great good to the republican party, or may be fraught with great danger, and result in disaster, at least temporarily.

aving been with the minority in the "Hastings" convention last fall, and feeling perhaps as keenly as any one our defeat, I am not at a loss to understand the causes which led to the calling of the conference at Lincoln. Such a conference, it occurs to me, might with propriety be called at any time, and perhaps if the body of republicans in the state met, more frequently and consulted together fully, fairly and honestly, with a purpose of correcting evils in the party, great good would be accomplished in the purification of our state politics.

The difficulty, however, which I anticipate might arise, would be in attempting to ac-complish personal ends and transforming such conferences called avowedly for publi weal into caucuses in the interests of ambitious politicians. I am not pleased with the action of the conference with reference to the calling of a convention for the reason that it savors of the revolutionary. Good republicans will al-ways bow with submission to the will of the

I am in favor of an early convention and being a member of the state central committee shall favor an early call. But if for any reason the committee should fail to comply with the demands of the conference it could certainly be productive of no ultimate good for a self appointed committee to issue a call which no good republican would recognize, and which, if recognized, would only place a third ticket in the field and render the election of a democratic ticket not only possible but extremely probable.

The republican party has always been found great enough to correct evils within itself. Instead, therefore, of disrupting the party by the proposed course, it would be in-finitely more desirable and productive of much more good if the great body of the people of republican affiliations would arise in their might and assume control of the party and through the proper channels secure the nomination and election of men to the various offices of the state who will correct existing evils as far as may be. This can be done if the electors will attend the primaries and select delegates who will represent them. As to the question of denying the right of representation by proxy, I have some doubt as to the expediency of an arbitrary rule of that character, but I have no doubt that many of the evils of the proxy system would be overcome by the selection of alternates.

D. A. HOLMES.

The Resolutions Demand Respect. YORK, Neb., May 24.—To the Editor of THE BEE: While I have given little thought to the question of an early convention, I believe that the opinions of the men who met in Lincoin on the 20th should be respected as far as the interests of the party will admit. It may have been good policy for them to attempt to force the republican central committee by threats of an independent convention, but it was not republican, and in my opinion, will not have as much influence with the committee as the sections which preceded it.

Experience has taught us that proxies are dangerous to the interests of the people and the party. A proxy feels no responsibility to the constituency which chose his principal, and actually represents no one but himself in the convention. I am heartily in sympathy with that portion of the resolutions which op-poses the admission of proxies. The object of the state central committee should be to give all republicans a fair and equal opportunity to be heard in the party councils and to assist in the selection of party candidates, and I have no doubt this will be the aim of the committee. T. E. SEDGWICK,

In Accord with the Resolutions.

OMAHA, Neb., May 24 .- To the Editor of the BEE: In reply to yours of May 23d, desiring my views on the action taken by the anti-monopoly republican conference in regard to the resolutions on proxies, and an early convention, I will say; . At the last republican convention in Donglas county I advocated a resolution against Favors Regulation of Railroads, Avoca, Neb., May 24.-To the Editor of THE BEE.-Your card asking my views "on the action taken by the anti-monopoly republican conference" at hand. I am in hearty accord with any movement in the republican party having the object of proper regulation of the railroads of the state. I think, however, the proper way to arrive at that regulation is through a state commission, chosen by and responsible to the people, and am in favor of an amendment to the constitution providing for the same. The reason I am in favor of this is that from my knowledge of the workings of legislatures I am satisfied that after giving the hundreds of bills submitted at every session the consideration which is necessary to protect the interests of their constituents, there is not time enough left to master the details and technical knowledge necessary for doing justice in an intelligent manner be tween the people and the railroads. A commission, well paid and personally responsible would be able after a reasonable time to bring to the problem that mastery of the question In regard to proxies, I think we might safely try the experiment of leaving them out this year at least. The editor of The Bee knows I have no personal reason to admire

In regard to an early convention I have been in favor of a reasonably early date, enough to give ample time for the canvass of the abilities and trustworthiness of the candidates. I think, however, the conference made a mistake in its resolution demanding a date not later than July 8, and coupling its demand with a threat of calling a state con-vention if the central committee should for any reason fail to call the convention by that

In the first place I have farmed in Nebraska long enough to know that for actual farmers that or an earlier date would be as inconvenient as could possibly be picked out just in harvest time, when a farmer is almost compelled to give his time and attention strictly to his business, so that I should fear from the masses a small attendance at the primaries.

Secondly, the conference was, as I understand it in the interest of the republican party, and I think, however great my respect for the gentlemen composing it, that, upon no theory of which I can conceive they had the right to say that in case the constituted authorities of that party, for whatever reason, should fail to call a convention at a certain date (and that date, to say the least, of questionable propriety), that they, self-constituted, should proceed to act for the

I should like to see the convention called at a time that would be the most convenient to the men who work; any time will suit the other people.

I should like it to be composed of thoughtful, earnest men who have the welfare of the state, and not altogether their personal ad-vancement, at heart, and I should like it to nominate men who will command the confi-dence of the people and receive a good ma-jority, for I believe the republican party is the people's friend, and within its ranks all true reforms will be carried to a full fruition. ORLANDO TEFFT.

Will Seek Information. ENDICOTT, Neb., May 25 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: My views relative to the action of the anti-monopoly conference are simply

That the republican party is and has been composed of men who have had, and still have, the general welfare of the masses in view, and that history of our state for the last twenty years will record the fact; that such interests have been reasonably well protected and cared for, consequently my faith in the deliberations of our party has not abated in the least.

Further, the present republican state committee was selected by a convention that represented the party and so far as I am concerned when they meet June 4, I have confidence in in their ability to determine whether it is to the best interest of the party to hold an early or late convention, irrespective of the interests of any would-be candidate for governor, or any other state office.

As a member of said committe I shall make an effort to gain all the information I can in the matter pertaining to what in my estimation would be to the best interest of the people in general and to our party in particular, avoiding the advancement of any candidate for office and will govern my actions in accordance to the above statement of principles. Respectfully yours. H. C. Dawson.

BLUB HILLS, Neb., May 26 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: In answer to questions propounded in circular, will say: I am in full accord with the resolutions as to proxies, and Australian pallot system of voting. I can see no reason for or against an early convention. I am just now interested in good crops, fair prices and equitable rates. I am anxious to see the republican party carry out their promises made to the people—maximum tariff, free coinage of silver and liberal pensions to the old soldier. Yours truly,
John S. Hoover.

Columbus, Neb., May 27 .- [Special to The BEE. ]-A special train bearing some two hundred and twenty-five Omaha business men and their ladies left the Union Pacific depot in Omaha this morning at 9:12 for this place, upon an invitation extended by the Columbus land and investment company. The train was in charge of Messrs. Moore, North and Fleming of Columbus and E. I. Littlefield, the Union Pacific passenger agent. At Fremont some twenty passengers were added to the excursionists.

Columbus was reached after a two hours and thirty-five minutes' ride. The citizens turned out ca masse to welcome the excursionists. Carriages awaiting the party were in front of Hotel Fleming, opposite the depot, and immediately the visitors, preceded by the Columbus band and the reception committee started for Highland Park additio., one-half mile distant. After driving through the principal streets Highland park was reached and there Judge G. G. Bowman, on behalf of the citizens of Columbus, tendered a hearty welcome to the visitors. He said the citizens of Columbus had taken up a new life, after having been content to stand by and see others forge ahead. Columbus needed fac-tories, foundries, wholesale houses, etc.; it also needed the experience and zeal of Omaha people to put into these new enterprises, and especially Omaha money, as Columbus offered facilities unexcelled, being located in one of the most beautiful valleys of the world.

refrained from voting, The house then went into committee of the whole on the river and harbor appropriation

Mr. Houk of Tennessee offered an amend ment providing that John Cowden and associates may, on certain conditions, at their own expense, construct an outlet for the flood waters of the Mississippi river from a point about ten miles below New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico, through Lake Borgne, on such lands as they may own or acquire. Such outlet to be not less than one mile in width, with an average cross sectional depth of ten feet below the gulf level and sufficient capacity to discharge the flood water of the Mississippi river at that place, and to be provided with proper levees or embank ments from the river to the lake to preserve the lands immediately above and below it from inundation. Mr. Houk in advocating his amendment said the outlet would not cost the government I cent until it had been pur into operation and proved to be successful

After a brief discussion the amendment was Mr. Holman of Indiana offered substan-

These four gentlemen will all be on hand with their fly ers, besides four or live other good ones. The race will come off at 2 o'clock sharp.

Reading Will Go After Them. Ned Reading, the soldier bicyclist, has applied for discharge from the army and will get it. He intends to confine his attention strictly to professional wheeling, and will be entered in the great races that are to come off at the new Madison Square garden, New York, this summer. Max Roeder, who has manifested a lively interest in Reading, con-siders him a world-beater with anything like an equal show, and stands ready to back him against any or all the so-called champions. THE BEE. ] - Lee Cheney now professes to be willing to back Billy Meyers against Jack McAmiffe or Jem Carney for $5,000 a side, but it's all bosh. Billy Meyers' defeat at Andy Bowen's hands has laid the Strenter lad on the shelf, so far as his claims for the championship honors are concerned. Bowen was six pounds lighter than Meyers and hadn't been heralded for a couple of years throughout the country as a world beater. Meyers' stock is way below par and he may well afford to be satisfied with a match for a reasonable stake with Jimmy Lindsay of Omaha or Louis Bezinab of Cin-cinnuti. Lindsay, it is said by judges who have seen him fight, is good enough to go against any of them and would have been way up the pugilistic ladder long ere this had be had the right kind of management. Chency's gaseonade about what Meyers can do will not go hereafter until he beats some ordinarily

Royal Baking Powder Leads All.

The United States Official Investigation

Of Baking Powders, made, under authority of Congress, by the Chemical Division of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and recently completed, furnishes the highest authoritative information as to which is the best baking powder. The Official Report

> Shows the Royal Baking Powder to be a cream of tartar baking powder, superior to all others in strength and leavening power

The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, made from the most wholesome materials, and produces finer flavored, sweeter, lighter, more palatable, wholesome and delicious bread, biscuit, cake, pastry, etc., than any other baking powder or leavening agent.

Being of greater strength than any other baking powder, it is also the most economical in use.

These great qualities warrant you, if you are not using the Royal Baking Powder, in making a trial of it.
