Funeral of O. M. De Kay. The funeral of O. M. De Kay occurred yesterday at the First Baptist church. The remains were interred in Fairview at 10:30. just before the multitude had gathered to observe the rites of Memorial day. The funeral was under the auspices of the Royal Arcanum, whose members attended in a body. The funeral sermon was preached by William Aitchison. Mr. De Kay was a member of the first class that graduated from the Council Bluffs high school, and his death is the first that has occurred in that little class of young men and women. The other members of that class are Lena Barnett, now Mrs. Chase, of Weeping Water, Neb.; Kate Stone, now living in Washington, D. C., and John Baird, who lives somewhere in Nebraska. Sweet and impressive music was furnished by a choir consisting of Misses Mamle Oliver, Effic Moon, and Messrs. McGee and Spooner. The palibearers, selected from the Royal Arcanum, were E. A. Spooner, F. M. Corbalby, F. H. Orcutt, Thomas Bowman and T. E. Cavin. The remains were interred by the side of the parents of the deceased.

Decoration Day in the Bluffs.

The old soldiers and the citizens generally who turned out to assist them in the exercises attendant upon a fitting observation of Memorial day could find nothing of which to complain in the weather, as the day was as nearly perfect in every respect as could have been desired. The shower of the preceding evening had moistened the earth and dampened the streets sufficiently to insure them from the blinding clouds of dust that have sometimes in the past proved such a disagreeable feature of the day, and had also assisted materially in cooling the atmosphere. The forenoon was quite cloudy, but n t sufficiently to threaten rain or to deter anyone from turning out to the exercises of the afternoon, and ouring the latter part of the day they frequently afforded most agrecable shelter from the sun's hot rays. And the excellent programme as well as the manner in which it was rendered, was fully in keeping with the day. Shortly after 12:30 o'clock the line began forming on the streets about Bayliss park, in which beautiful resort fully two thousand spectators were gathered. Considerable time was consumed in getting the numerous organizations to their respective places in line, but this was finally in line, but this was finally accomplished without any serious hitch, and at 2 o'clock the procession started. The line of march was up Pearl to First avenue, to Main, to Broadway, to First street, to Wash-ington avenue, to Oakland avenue, to Fair-view cemetery, to Soldiers' park. The line was very compact and was about three-quar-ters of a mile long. It was made up in the following order:

Platoon of Police. Chief Marshal and Staff. Dalby's Band. Orators of the Day. Clergy.

Girls of Public Schools in Carriages. Floral Committee with Floral Designs, Band of Hope in Carriages.

Christian Home Children in Carriages, Butchers' Association Mounted. Fire Department. Citizens in Carriages.
The parade was witnessed by thousands of pectators who crowded the sidewalks along the line of march. Scores of the business houses were profusely decorated, and many of the private residences and grounds along the line were very prettily and tastefully adorned with bunting, flags and portraits of noted heroes of the war.

At Soldiers' park the exercises were hanged somewhat from the original programme, owing to certain circumstances over which the committee in charge had no cor trol. E. L. Shugart was to have been master of ceremonies, but owing to an acci-dent which befell him at his farm last Wednesday, by which he was injured b F. Sapp was selected to fill his place. Mr. Shugart was, however, able to be present and decupied a place on the platform. The exercises were held in a natural amphithenter just northeast of the soldiers' lot is Robrer's park. It is a charming little spot and is perfectly adapted to the use to it was put yesterday for the first time. A platform was built for the accommodation of the speakers, band, honored guests of the old the speakers, band, honored guests of the 614 soldiers, and the press.

After expressing his regrets over the accident that rendered necessary a change in the president of the day, Colonel Sapp announced a musical selection by the band, after which Rev. Dr. Pheips of the First Presbyterian church, offered prayer.

Colonel Sapp announced that owing to a railway wreek in Texas, Hon, John M. Thurston was mable to be present and that Hon railway wreck in Texas, Hon. John M. Thurston was unable to be present, and that Hon. John L. Webster of Omaha would take his place. He then introduced Mr. Webster, who made an excellent speech. He gave several interesting accounts of recent trips over the battlefields of the war, that deeply interested the lamense audience. He expressed the belief that when it came time for the prince of Wales to take his place upon the hereditary throne of Great Britain he would be met by three newly born republics, Ireland, England and Scotland, that would elect their presi lents and benceforth demand a governmen by the people. He referred to the republics of Central and South America, and notably Brazil. The western hemisphere was characterized as the birthplace and home of re-publics. The speaker thought that the stars and stripes should be the symbol of liberty, and should be looked upon as such by all na-tions. He closed with a stirring eulogy of the United States and the old flag, and heart-

At the conclusion of Mr. Webster's address Mr. I. M. Treynor sang "The Vacant Chair" in his usual pleasing manner. After music by the band the assemblage returned to the soldiers lot, where a handsome floral monu-ment and a floral mortar had been placed in side the battlement. The school children were grouped around the monument and chorus of 300 voices, under direction of Mrs D. J. O'Neill, sang several patriotic songs. Prayer was offered by Rev. D. C. Franklin, after which Hon, H. E. Deemer delivered an excellent address on "The Unknown." This concluded the exercises at the park, and de tachments then started out to decorate the graves. The line was reformed and marched to G. A. R. headquarters and disbanded.

NOTES. The marching of the public school cadets was very creditable, and occasioned much favorable comment. The boys marched like veterans.

Chief Clary tendered the members of th press the use of the patrol wagon during the afternoon. It was handsomely decorated, and the pencil pushers appreciated it. To the many solicitous friends who so kindly offered to furnish ball, the seriles return bearfelt o furnish bail, the scribes return heartfelt thanks and will endeavor to reciprocate.

The Dancho society made an excellent lowing. They turned out a large delegation, and their appearance in line was a surprise to those who had never seen them on parade The singing of "He Like a Soldier Fell. and "The Vacant Chair," by Mr. Marshal Treyor, was ample compensation for the dis appointment occasioned by the non-appear appointment occasioned by the non-appear-ance of the male quartette.

There were five companies of the public school cadets, numbering about three hun-dred. There were about three hundred and fifty of the girls, exclusive of the two score representing the states. Their fine showing reflects great credit upon the training of their teachers and Prof. McNaughton.

Mrs. Bryant provided each member of Dalw's band with a neat boutonniere, for which the boys return thanks.

The Dodge light guard already shows marked improvement in drill and bearing, and is to be congratulated on securing the services of so efficient a commanding officer as Col Dailey.

The platoon of police under Sergeant Safely was of great service. During the parade they loomed up like a stone wall. They have evidently learned how to march, which has heretafore been their weakest

Terribly Burned.

Yesterday forenoon as George Metcalf was passing the residence of John Shoentgen, No. 703 South Sixth street, he was startled at seeing a young woman run out into the yard, her clothes all ablaze. As he rushed to her he found her standing like a burning torch the flames surrounding her. He seized her, threwher on the ground and rolling her over to extinguish the flames at the same time tore her burning clothing from her. In his herois rescue his own hands were somewhat burned. but that was nothing as compared with the terrible suffermes of the girl, who proved to terrible sufferings of the girl, who proved to be Dina Greenabock, a housemaid in the em-ploy of the family. It appears that she was in the act of filling the gasoline stove some of the burners of which were at the time lighted. The can and reservoir at once blazed up, th flames catching her clothing. In her fi she rushed into the yard, screaming as flames about her increased rapidly. Dr Cleaver was called in at once and everything possible was done as speedily as possible to relieve her sufferings. Her body was found to be literally rousted in places, and it is very doubtful whether she will recover She is a German girl who has been in this country less than two years. The blazing up of the gasoline stove caused the cry of fire to be raised and an alarm was turned in. For some reason the wrong num ber came in and the department went rolling down Broadway. By the time the mistake was corrected the fire in Mr. Shoentgen's house was put out, the damage being but triffing as compared with the terrible misfor tune which accompanied it. Before the ar rival of the fire department Willie Gilbert had turned himself into a pretty effective fire department. He seized the garden hose connected with the residence and with this stream put out the blaze.

Hastings Coffege. Hastings, Neb., May 30.- Special to Tu BEE. |-Hon. A. L. Wigton, who has been attending the Presbyterian general assembly held in Saratoga, N. Y., writes home the following very gratifying news in regard to the Hastings college prospects and its standing n the assembly:

"Dr. Ganse's address before the general as embly on the work accomplished by the oard of aid for coileges during the past year showed grand work accomplished. In course of his remarks he said the board adopted the rule to help those institutions most that helped themselves. That institution showing the greatest advance, he said, was Hastings college, located in the center of a large and otherwise unoccupied college territory, in the midst of a rich and residity deceloring agricultural district at rasidly developing agricultural district, at a great railroad center in the state of Nebraska. He paid the board of directors of Hasting college a handsome compliment for its wisdom and energy in removing a burdensome debt and opening the way for the beginning of an endowment fund by the munificence of Mrs. C. H. McCormick. He recommended in this public manner before the entire general as-sembly of the United States, Hastings college with a few others that are out of debt, as being on such a solid financial basis and sure road to success that they should commend the attention of the wealthy who are seeking safe and desirable colleges on which to bestow their gifts.'

SECOND WARD CITIZENS.

They Hold a Meeting and Discuss the School Honds. The citizens of the Second ward had a rattling meeting down at Shull's hall last night. This meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the proposition of voting $250,000 worth of school bonds at the election to be held Monday.

After the selection of Judge Stenberg as hairman, the music commenced when Dan O'Keefe said, "The Second ward lacks places wherein the citizens can meet to discuss public matters, but we get there just the same. Today we have a fight on our hands, one in which it is necessary to harmonize all the different political factions in order to prevent a horde of vultures from swooping down upon us and robbing the treasury. In this ward we lack harmony, but for once let us join hands tomorrow and show the schemers that we are not in favor of loading down the tax payers with an enormous debt that is not called for at this time. Let us show the board of education that we condemn any action looking to an increased indebtedness The speaker was loudly applauded, after which T. L. VanDorn spoke.

Mudge Stenberg was of the opinion that the people should resent the insult they received one year ago. "To do this," said he, "let us cast a solid vote against the bonds. Will Holmes made a ringing speech, arraigning the members of the school board for the treatment they had tendered the residents of the Second ward, "and now," said he, "let us show that we resent the insult by defeating the measure which was conceived in iniquity by the members of the gang of persons who take pride in styling themselves as the "solid twenty-eight." At this point Mr. Van Dorn offered the follow ing resolution:

Resolution:

Resolved. That the action of the board of education has been such in the past that we distrust the ability of the members to manage the affairs of the school districts of the city, and that we will use our influence to defeat any measure looking to an increased school bond indebtedness.

The resolution: The resolution was discussed at length, and valle nearly all the members of the meeting were in favor of its adoption, it was decided that it was too searching, and the following substitute was adopted in its stead: Resolved. That we, the citizens and taxayers of Omaha, will oppose the issuing of my more bands until the question of prohibiton is settled by a vote of the people.

A motion was then carried that each man istitute himself a committee of one to work at the polls and oppose the issuing of bonds, after which the meeting broke up. Democrats Oppose the Bonds. The democrats of the Seventh ward held a caucus last night at Didam's hall, corner of Twenty-seventh and Walnut streets. About twenty-five of the unterrffied gathered at the rendezvous, and the meeting organized by electing J. B. Huse chairman and H. R. Newcomb secretary, Delegates

Waggoner, H. R. Newcomb, Phil Smith and The delegates were instructed to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of Oscar H. Devries as a candidate for the school

The school bond election then came up for onsideration.

J. J. Mahoney introduced a resolution re citing that it was the sense of the voters of the Seventh ward that they would use all means to prevent the carrying of the bonds.

Judge Langden spoke in favor of the resolution. He said the residents of Windsor Place had petitioned the board for a school in that vicinity, but no attention had been paid to it for over a year, and now the board proposed to buy a site. He supposed it would be two or three years longer before they would put a building on the site. The board proposed to spend $75,000 on the high school but had none to put a school in a por-tion of the city which was entirely destitute. enough to put up buildings wherever they are needed. are needed.

ensation in the supernatural line which has failed to collapse under the most vigorous investigation, even by parties who take no stock in ghost stories writes an Independence, in., correspondent of the Chicago Herald. Until recently the family of P. Caskey, conststing of himself, his wife and a daughter, aged twenty-live, have occupied the premises where the supposed disembodied spirits have dis-ported themselves. These premises are not of the regulation tumble-down character. On the contrary, the place is one of the finest in the city, surrounded by spacious and handsome grounds. The correspondent of the Herald called at the Caskey residence and received the story told from Mrs Caskey, a kind, motherly lady, whose manner carries entire conviction of her truthfulness. On the 3d of April the amily moved into the place, and were annoyed more or less for four weeks, but for the last two weeks there has been no cessation. When the Caskey family was retiring for the night the whole sleeping apartment would be flooded with a mellow light as brilliant ! as an electric are light. Not understanding this they went into other rooms, and they entered each apartment would be lighted up as brilliantly as the one left, the color sometimes varying from white to red and blue lights. The cupola of the barn was also seen to be illuminated. When first seen they expected the expected the strange lights could be accounted for next day, but the morning's sun brought explanation and other nights restlessness followed. The head of the family at first made light of the fears entertained by the wife and daughter and commenced investigation, became mystified and then nervous, as night after night the manifestations continued without interruption. The lights would often change to small, flickering blue lights dancing in the fireplaces and streams of fire shooting upward from shrubbery within ten feet of the house until they reached a distance of fifty to seventy-five feet, then turn and descend. After the family had been in the house about four weeks the sound of opening and closing doors, turning of door knobs and steps on the porch were heard in addition to the ghostly lights, and window blinds would be violently thrown open, but any search for something material was in vain. Later shadowy forms were seen in the shrubbery outside of the house, and all efforts to eatch the invaders were in vain. The pranks were continued every night from 11 o'clock until 4:30 in the morning, until the occupants were utterly worn out and were obliged to move. In their new quarters they enjoyed the first night's rest in six weeks. The haunted house is still empty
