THE STATE CONVENTION

In response to the very general demand for an early convention the republican state committee has directed its chairman to issue a call for a state convention at Lincoln on Wednesday, July 23.

This will enable county committees to give from thirty to forty days' notice to the rank and file of the party for holding their caucuses, primary elections and county conventions.

The state committee has abolished the obnoxious proxy system which has in the past been the source of corruption and misrepresentation. It now remains for republicans who desire to redeem the party from corporate control and place its machinery in the hands of men whose sole aim shall be to maintain the supremacy of republican principles to put their shoulders to the wheel and restore the party to popular confidence.

THE LAW WILL BE ENFORCED.

As was expected, the census takers in portions of the country have found their task a very difficult one, and a few of them have found it also dangerous.

The census bureau has been advised of violence being used in several cases toward enumerators, and there doubts have been many instances of this kind not yet reported at Washington.

The senate has decided to investigate the management of the fish commissioner's office. From what has been stated regarding the practices in the office, which is not responsible to any department of the government, there would seem to be most substantial reasons for a searching inquiry.

THE section of the city which the Tenth street viaduct will benefit most, is the section between the railroad and the city hall.

MONOPOLIES are odious in any form. The attempt of the Seventh ward to control the city offices should be vigorously resisted and rebuffed.

THE industrial activity of house-breakers tends to confirm the suspicion that our amiable police is constitutionally opposed to physical or mental exertion.

THE Union Pacific has lately shown such a decided capacity for absorbing railroad junk that it would surprise no one by swallowing the Central Pacific.

OREGON responded nobly to the desires of the republican party. The expected offer of indifference failed to materialize and the state rolled up majorities equal to the presidential vote of 1888.

THE washouts and cave-ins on paved streets, caused by the recent storms, will make a serious haul on the city treasury for repairs.

There is universal objection to question 23 in the list of queries to be propounded by the census takers, and many lawyers say nobody can be compelled to answer it.

IN THE ROTUNDA.

Tom Cook, one whose fragile frame seems almost as if it were to be crushed under the heavy, ironed ropes, shot in and out of Omaha yesterday. It seems that the enumerators in this city had gotten into some kind of a teapot tempest wrangle, were not doing their work just right, didn't understand it and were grumbling that the pay was about three scores any ten smaller than the labor.

"It's a—ho," was Mr. Cook's first exclamation, as he finished reading the little piece. Then he became meditative for a moment, after which he added, "Come to think about it, I did show collateral papers to several Omaha men, because how did I know anything about who was who in Omaha?"

"Well, then, to whom did you refer those letters of applicants for positions as enumerators?"

"Oh, I don't know—yes I do remember some of the men. I showed 'em to Dave Mercer, to Vanheyvoort, and the postmaster, Gallinger, I think."

"And they decided pretty much whom to select?"

"I guess so—what else could be done? But there, I'm in too big a hurry to catch my train to discuss this any further—it's a sort of a blamed if you do and blamed if you don't business. I asked those for information whom I thought could give it, and I wasn't disappointed."

Hon. Jack McGill of Lexington died at the Millard yesterday. He is an ex-Postmaster at New York, and said he didn't know anything about the specific duties of a central committee meeting until he got a line on the train coming into the city yesterday. He thought that the proper thing for him to do under the circumstances was to refrain from any comment whatsoever.

Coloel John B. Finlay, a capitalist of Pittsburg, Pa., who has owned several thousand dollars worth of property in Omaha ever since 1837, is at the Paxton. He has put five more thousands in real estate here today or tomorrow as the result of the "jinks of things." His Omaha investment, however, has brought him better profits than those he has made in other cities of similar size.

Coloel Finlay, the newly elected mayor of Nebraska City, was in the Paxton's guest list yesterday. He is very enthusiastic over the success of the new saloon closing order which has recently been put into effect in his home city. The order corresponds with that in force in Omaha, where he says the Nebraska City idea was obtained from Mr. Ireland.

Bogan Knocks Out Hawkins. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 5.—Dan Hawkins and Fred Bogan, bantams, who fought a seventy-two round draw in the city hall on Monday night, continued the fight last night. Hawkins was knocked out in the fifteenth round.

The Dog It Was That Died. John Pryor, then a lad, left Omaha, Wash. county, thirty-nine years ago, says a Glens Falls, N. Y., dispatch to the New York Herald. He has long been supposed to be dead. Now it is known he is still alive and has reached his old friends there through his youngest son, Edward, a young sailor from New Zealand.

Wanted Himself Adjudged Insane. Zachary Taylor, an old man, appeared before Judge Howland of the circuit court at Indianapolis the other day, asking that he be adjudged insane and sent to the asylum. Taylor was before a lunacy commission once, and was sent to the hospital from which he was discharged as incurable, says a dispatch to the Chicago Herald.

Minerva R. Young asks for a divorce from her husband, as she has been married six years. She says that she is entitled to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors and when in that condition has abused her body, compelling her to sleep in the clothes press.

A One-Armed Man in the Ring. A crowd of 200 left Cincinnati shortly after 11 o'clock the other night to witness the prize fight between Bob Minor and Sam Razor, two one-armed men of this city. The moon was bright, and aside from a solitary candle there was no other illumination, says a dispatch of the Chicago Herald.
