LENCOLN, Neb., June 6 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-Mrs. Thayer's symptoms yesterday morning were somewhat encouraging and the governor left her bedside long enough to make a flying trip to the storm-swept town of Braushaw to learn the wants of the sufferers. On returning to his home he found her condition less favorable and this morning her symptoms are very discouraging. Later in the day no improvement was discerned.

DISAGREEMENT ON DAMAGES. Soloman Gothelf, who runs a store below the Burr block, wants $8,330 damages from the Anglo-Nevada fire insurance company of San Francisco on account of the rayages of fire in his store a year ago last January. The insurance company thought that the damages asked for were excessive, and the matter was at first left to appraisers, who fixed the damages at $1,470. The company offered Gothelf $2,000 to settle the matter, but he refused this offer and sues for $8,330. The district court jury listened to the case.

his father-in-law. Such a comet is Cali-fornia's Incubus, and, though never careering high in the heavens, he has ploughed his vagarious way through mountain, valley and vineyard, until his own constituents cry "Halt!" The Incubus owns a paper, I think, in his own county of San Bernardino. This paper is edited by one who also holds the position of private secretary to said Incubus and the secretary to said Incubus, and who really has been largely responsible for the doings of his chief. In this instance the tail has waggled the little dog. Flattered into believing he was having his own way all the time, the little dog has not known he was not doing the waggling!

Recent advices state that, "owing to pressure of private business," the Incu-bus will not be a candidate for renomination. Strange that his name should have been at the head of his own paper "For Governor" up to the last day of

However, "all's well that ends well," and, now that California rejects an un-worthy servant, I forgive him the in-sults he attempted to cast upon me when, as representative of California's viticul-* tural commission, and with the moral support of the best brains in the country, I made a study of prohibition in all ages and advocated as a temperance measure the substitution of light, pure wines for strong alcoholic bev-He dared to assert orages. that I was hired to do work ignoble for a woman; he gave prohibition organs all the fuel they wanted to try to roast me alive. My association with the viticultural commission cost me far more than the small fee I accepted for months of earnest study on a vital topic to the nation, and has long been of a purely unofficial nature. Despite the truth, a clergyman in Boston recently told his audience that I was "dragging humanity down to hell for $1,500 a year," and the most mendacious of prohibition organs has within a month published the following editoral paragraph: Kate Field will have more time for editorial duties hereafter, as Charles A. Wetmore, her champion in the board of viticulture, who persisted in hiring her against the protest of Governor Waterman, has been dropped out, The board is not to be any more for temperance than before, but it will probably be made up of men who, like the governor, did not believe in hiring women agents.

In losing the services of Charles A. Wetmore, California's Viticultural commission suffers an irreparable loss. It was Mr. Wetmore who, at the Paris exposition of 1878, first brought California's noble industry into prominence. It was Mr. Wetmore who, at Washington in 1886, made legislators partly realize the excellence and necessities of this industry. It was Mr. Wetmore who took Mr. Arpad Haraszthy's place as president of the Viticultural commission when the Incubus had not sense enough to appreciate the value of Mr. Haraszathy in the commission and request him to remain at its head. Now that both Mr. Haraszthy and Mr. Wetmore have retired, the Incubus may put to his discredit that he has slighted two of the most intelligent and enterprising men of his state. No wonder California wants no more of him! My brains are not "hired," and this review will denounce prohibition as long as there is prohibition enough to denounce.

Incubus Farewell.

It is said that a well bred dog never waits to be kicked down stairs. He stands not upon the order, but, sniffing the kick as far off, goes at once. What a pity that California's "accidental governor" did not tear a leaf out of natural history and save himself the humiliation of being told by his party that his services were no longer wanted! ### A Lover's Fruitless Journey.

A strange story is told by Karl Schremer, a lad from Neustadt, Baravia, who arrived here in search of a sweetheart from whom he had been separated for a couple of years, and who he supposed had sent for him from this place, says a Wichita dispatch to the Globe-Demoerat. Karl has two brothers here, which probably explains how Wichita came to be chosen in connection with the trick which seems to have been played. Karl and Tabers Toaker were lovers in Neustadt, though the girl's parents protested against the proposed match. One day Tabers was removed to a distant part of the country, whence, however, she managed to correspond regularly with her lover. Finally the letters ceased, but just as Karl was about to set out in search of his girl he got a letter from Hoboken, N J., purporting to be from her. In a couple of months he reeived a second letter, this time dated Wichita, telling him Tabers was here with friends and would awast his arrival, when they could get married. Karl im-

His brother knew nothing of the girl. nor of his coming, but the letter had given the name of a well known steamer apply for the whereabouts of his guest. agent here, to whom he was directed to agent was as ignorant as the rest. Karl has inserted an advertisement in a German paper here, but he has given up all hopes of finding the missing Tabers, and has decided that the letters were forged for the purpose of getting him out of the way. He intends to return home without delay.

Cannibals with sharpened teeth and flint-lock guns were among the unpleas-ant things encountered by the party which went to Africa on the United States steamship Pensacola to observe the eclipse of the sun, says a New York dispatch to the Chicago Herald. The es gathered on the hill-about the camp 600 strong threatened the Americans destruction. One party even d into the camp but was modified savages sides and with rushed into the camp, but was pacified with five old fruit cans and a little Por-tuguese money. The English expedi-tion at Cape Ledo was greatly astonished at the complete equipment carried by the Pensacola. In the instruments used the Pensacola. In the instruments used by the Americans for photographing the sun the length of exposure was regulated by a roll of paper about six feet long and nine inches wide, pieceed with several parallel series of holes, somewhat resembling the paper bands used in automatic organs. Du ring the two and one-half minutes of the total two and one nair minutes of the total eclipse 300 sensitive plates were ezposed. No photographs of the totality were ob-tained, however, on account of the cloudiness. Prof. Taylor, the director of the English party, did not attempt and did not get a thing during the eclipse.

MR. BORGLUM'S GEMS. The Great Works of an Artist in

Whom Omaha Has an Interest. J. G. Borgium, the talented son of Dr. Borglum, is in Omaha on his way to Europe, and is exhibiting his pictures and those painted by his wife at the Lininger gallery. Mr. Borglum is a slender young man, nervous temperament, and with all the genius of the artist shining from his blue eyes. His enthusiasm for his art is apparent on the first introduction. His wife, of whose talent he is very proud, has a number of excellent still-lifes in the collection which are far beyond the average in

For six months past Mr. Borglum has been engaged in the preparation of a series of il-lustrations for the Century on California life and scenery. Some of them will be wash drawings, others in pen and ink and oils. They will be produced in a few months. The most ambitious picture in Mr. Borg-lum's collection he calls "Staging in Califor-nia." A stage drawn by six restive horses ina. A stage drawn by six restive horses is swinging around a turn on a mountain road, the dust flying from the wheels. The passengers beside the driver are elinging to their seats, and below them, over the side of the precipice, reach up the manzanitas and madvones. The sky, the atmosphere and the evenew are so traducible Californian that are scenery are so typically Californian that any person who has ever lived or visited that favored state recognizes it at once. This picture is, no doubt, Mr. Borglum's masterpiece, and is to be compared in fidelity o mountain scenery as painted with Elkin's best work. The portrait of General Fremont, while un-doubtedly faithful, is a triffe raw in color. Mr. Borglum does not excel in portraiture and his efforts in other directions show that best work. his love for nature extends to landscape and animal life.

To the lover of sporting animals, his por-traits, for such they must be called, of Lucky Baldwin's running horses, will be of special interest. They are beauties and splendidly painted; color and feeling being admirably expressed.

Some of Mr. Borglum's minor landscapes are especially charming, being studies direct from nature without the studio touch which so often ruins admirable effects. His marines, so often runs admirable effects. His marines, while not numerous, are admirable, the salt sea feeling and the dashing spray bringing one back to the day when he stood on the rocks and smelled the salt wind. "Moonlight," a study of Harry Meigg's wharf in San Francisco, an historical spot, is splendid. In all his work the artist shows such a true artistic feeling that one can but predict a great future for him.

Mrs. Borglum's work is in still life and her studies of California grapes oxeel anything in that line that has been shown in Omaha. Ream of Chicago, whose work in fruit has hitherto been acknowledged to be the best of its kind in the country, cannot show anything that will compare with her bunch of "Flaming Tokays," a very brilliant grape, peculiar to California. She also has a number of flower studies that are very beautiful. The pictures will be on exhibition tonight, to-morrow and tomorrow night, and are well worth a visit

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla - the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better ; delay is daugerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedics, and was treated by a number of physi-cians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and com-pletely restored my health."-Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

Boggs, Hoiman's Mills, N. C. "When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was rec-ommended to us for catarrh, I was in-clined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little ben-efit, I had ne faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was hadly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Satsaparilla, and re-ferred me to persions whom it had cured ferred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood." - Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.
