introduction of Evidence in Which a Little Revolver and Some Twenty-Two Calibre Cartridges Play

a Part.

County Attorney Mahoney said vesterday morning that he thought all the testimony in the Chronister case could be taken in a little more than a day's time.

Mr. Mahoney opened with a statement of he case to the jury. Mr. M. P. O'Brien of the counsel for the deense interrupted the prosecuting attorney to request that the court exclude Balliff Grobe, one of the witnesses in the case, from the court room The court and Mr. Mahoney did not con sider it necessary inasmuch as Mr. Grobe would not be called upon for any particularly nportant testimony. Mr. O'Brien insisted, however, and after further discussion the bailing was excluded. Continuing, the prosecuting attorney went on to give the story of the crime, which, told in a few words, runs as follows: The murder of William Chronister, a peddler, occurred at $300 o'clock on the evening of March 30 last, at a house situated about six miles south of Elkhorn station. Chronister was sitting in the house talking with Mrs. A. Reed when a shot was fired through A. Reed when a shot was fired through the window, hitting Chronister and killing him almost instantly. Tony Frank had boarded with Mrs. Reed before the latter had boarded with Mrs. Reed before the latter had separated from her husband, about a year be-fore the murder, and at the time the Reeds separated there were some weeks of board due him. When the separation came Frank re-mained with Mrs. Reed to finish the term for which he had paid his board. He staid longer than this term, became enamored of Mrs. Reed and asked her to marry him. She declined, absolutely While Frank was continuing his unage-While Frank was continuing his unsuc-cessful efforts at winning Mrs. Reed he went to work for a Mr. Babbit, who lives about a mile and a quarter east of where Mrs. Reed lived. It seems that he became jealous of Chronister, who stopped at Mrs. Reed's place in his travels over the country to get his washing, which Mrs. Reed was doing for

In Babbit's ' barn was kept an army musket, which had been bored out and mad-into a shotgun. It was there and heavily loaded on the day prior to the murder. was there the morning after the murder, but had been discharged. None of Mr. Babbit's family had discharged it, and only learned that it had been discharged when the fact was discovered by County Attorney Ma-

Just prior to the murder, Frank had been discharged by Babbit. At 6:30 o'clock on the night of the murder Frank started to walk from one neighbor's house to another a distance of about a mile and a half and in doing so passed Mrs. Reed's house where Chronister was due to stop and did stop. Ac cording to the prisoner's story it took him from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.—four hours— to walk this mile and a balf, and he says he says he did not stop on the way. A few days after the murder, and Frank's arrest, a child at a neighboring farm house near Mrs. Reed's and on the same road, acci-dentally found a small, 22-calibre pistol just under the corn crib near the road. to the knowledge of the authorities who examined it and found that the pistol examined it and found that the pistol was one that Mrs. Reed had traded to Frank a short time before the murder. The heads of two of the cartridges in the pistol when found by the child had been cut off and the bullets pushed out, it being evident that the cartridges could not be gotten out whole. Mr. Mahoney told the jury that he expected to prove that the two little bullets had been taken from that revolver by Tony Frank, put into Mr. Babbit's gun in order to make sure of the load, and by Tony Frank fired into Cronister's brain. Mr. O'Brien, for the defense, told the jury

there would be a dispute as to the bullots found in Chronister's brain having come from the pistol to which Mr. Ma-honey had referred; that there would to a dispute concerning the revolver in ques-tion being the one which Mrs. Reed had traded to Frank, and that the testimony which de-fense introduce would show that the wrong Jonus Fry, a constable at Elkhorn, first saw Tony Frank at Mrs. Reed's house March 31, when he was in the custody of Constable Poppenhagen. At that time Frank was wearing a pair of boots, which he changed for a pair of shoes. The boots were taken into the custody of the officer, and he taken into the custody of the officer, and he at once measured them and then compared the measurement with tracks made in the snow near the Reed house. The measure-ment of the boots and the tracks were identi-cal. Fry saw the shotgun and upon smell-ing of its muzzle was of the opinion it had been fired but a few hours before the exami-nation was made.

The footprints referred to were near the house and in front of the window through which Chronister was shot. In following them they were four to five feet apart and appeared to have been made by a man who as running. H. A. Knulte was at the Reed house the day after the murder and examined the premises, looking for footprints. Tracks were found in a ravine about eight yards from the hou

Austin C. Reed, the ex-husband of Mrs. Reed who figures in the case, was living near Millard at the time the Chronister murder was committed. Witness knew Tony Frank, he having boarded with Reed several weeks luring the past year. Frank left Reed's house on February 14 last, and went to boarding with Mrs. Reed on the Murray farm. Witness testified that a few days before Frank left his house he and Chronister had a fight, and from that time on they were enemies.

Instead of going to board with Mrs. Reed, Reed wanted Frank to stay with him, as he was satisfied that if he went with her he ould get into trouble

County Attorney Mahoney gave notice that as soon as Coroner Harrigan arrived and his testimony was introduced, the state would rest.

The coronor is expected to arrive in the city this morning.

TEN THOUSAND EACH. The Offer of a Boston Elevated Road for State Senators' Votes. Boston, June 13 .- The hearing before the senate committee investigating the charges of corruption in connection with the passage of the West End elevated railroad bill was resumed today. Sanderson testified that when Senator Fassett proposed to deliver the votes of ten senators for $100,000, he (witness) referred him to Dr. Moore. Senator Fassett had declared to witness that the sena-tors could be purchased for $10,000 each. Fassett was sworn and testified that he never had any conversation with Sanderson regarding the elevated roads and that the $100,000 interview had never taken place. At the interview in Dr. Moore's office no list of senators was presented and no reference made to the purchase. Another time Dr. Moore told him (Fassett) that they proposed to build a road and were ready to pay $100,000 or $110,000 to get a certain number of senatorial votes. He asked witness if he could furnish fourteen republican senators sure to favor the elevated road. Witness told Dr. Moore those tactics might do in New Hampshire, but not in Massachusetts. He voted for the east end bill bocause he believed the company alone model head the send would build the road. Representative Williams detailed the state ments, already given by Sanderson and Moore, as they had been made to witness as to what Moore said about the $100,000 proposition. Witness characterized it as the boldest of which he had ever known.

IN THE COMMONS.

The Debate on the Licensing Bill Continued. LONDON, June 13 .- The debate on the licensing bill was continued in the commons this evening. There was a long discussion on Acland's proposal to apply the compensation fund to education.

Gladstone made a vigorous speech. The opponents of the bill, he said, considered it distinctly a retrograde step in social reform and demanded that the funds be applied toward education. Public house values had already risen through the project advised by the measure, and the moment it became a law every public house in the counbecame a law every public house in the coun-try would be regarded as worth more than the market price. The bill would establish the principie that licenses might be bought up by money from the public taxes at prices virtually fixed by the license holders. The amendment that the legal powers of the magistrates remain intact was merely delusive in the face of the entire character of the bill. The amendment really means the endorsement of a gizantic interest at the expense of the a gigantic interest at the expense of the puble purse. It would entirely paralyze all hope of effecting a reduction in the number of public houses without a ruinous cost to the country. Goschen charged that the responsibility for the enhanced value of the public houses rested greatly with Gladstone, who had, he said, laid down the doctrine of compensation. Gladstone retorted that he had never spoken on the subject except in connection with local option and the extinction of public louses. Gosehen quoted John Bright as to the injustice of cancelling licenses without giving compensation therefor and declered that the fanatical opposition to the bill was due to Sir George Trevelyan characterized the bill as the worst proposal of the kind ever submitted to parliament and a severe blow to submitted to parliament and a severe blow to the cause of temperance. Finally, after a long debate, the cloture was adopted and Acland's proposal was re-jected by 275 to 243. The announcement of the figures was received with great applause by the opposition, who regarded the cutting down of the government majority as a dis-tinct victory for them. It is reported that if Smith resigns his seat in the cabinet he will be succeeded by Lord Hartington, and that Sir Henry James will succeed Matthews as home secretary.

succeed Matthews as home secretary. A Committee on Compensation.

LONDON, June 13 .- The government has consented to the appointment of a committee to examine into the question of conpensation in connection with the licensing bill and to report what is proper compensation. The Chronicle praises Lord Salisbury's moral courage in allowing the appointment of the committee and in allowing Mr. Hennelege's amendment preserving to the magistracy the power to cancel licenses without compensation. The Chronicle says these modifications of Mr. Goschen's odious proposal to endow the publicans will remove any further excuse for obstruction.

The Executive Committee of the Worl'ds Fair Discuss the Site. CHICAGO, Ill., June 13 .- The executive com mittee of the World's Columbian Exposition assembled tonight to hear the re 'rt of the committee on site. Excepting the lake front the committee criticized more or less all of the half dozen localities which have been discussed in Chicago for weeks. The lake front, the committee held, was an ideal site, barring certain legal tech-nicalities which are now in process of adjust-ment. The final recommendation, however, was not made, an extension of time being granted By the "lake front" is meant the tract bounded on the west by the business center of the city and on the west by the business center of the city and on the east by the waters of Lake Michigan. The idea is to add to this tract a square mile of territory to be re-claimed from the iake.

"The Lord," he said, "will come no longer with a sweet, peaceful face, but with an angry one to strike and purify his church. I am neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but I feel in my heart sorrowful presenti-ments. The sea of evil is about to beat arguing the week on which the church is against the rock on which the church is founded and will leave nothing to be seen on the horizen but the threat of anger of God. Prayer will not suffice to appease the Al-mighty."

It is in the interest of those preferred and elected to aid those who commit these dastardly outrages against the elective franchise. You, Dean, are but the tool of others. Persons higher in social and political positions gave you the method by which you were to commit the offences you are charged with. Your masters, if all could be reached, would be subject to a greater punishment than can be imposed on you. We cannot reach them and the court is sorry it cannot." Dean was sentenced to three years im-prisonment in the county jail.

She said that two or three evenings before the murder Frank had called on her, bringing a gun that looked like a shotgun with him and which he left out in the yard. She asked him whose gun it was and what he had brought it there for. He replied that he proposed to "always be fixed and looking out for people, and that the gun belonged to Mr. Babbit."

Mr. Mahoney then showed the little 22-calibre pistol to Mrs. Reed and asked her if Омана, June 13 - To the Editor of THE BER: The West Leavenworth park has not been formally named by the park commission. At a late meeting of the commission I suggested the name of Glendale informally. It was received with much favor, but no action was taken. I am already tired of it myself, as I believe other members of the com are. It lacks something—it is too light, if you please. Under the rules of the commis-sion names of parks and parkways must be first considered by the standing committee on designation of grounds, of which Commis-sioner Prattis chairman, and the naming of the new parks is now in the hands of that committee for early report and action.

Pinned to the Ground by a Tree, a Colored Man Suffers Torture.

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 13.-[Special Tele gram to THE BEE.]-William Lowery, an aged colored resident of this city, was found yesteaday by a party of woodsmen, in the forest near Onata, pinned to the ground by a tree which had fallen upon him. He had barely enough strength to speak to his rescuers and said he had lain thus four days without food and tormented by insects. Portions of his body swarmed with mag-gots, making a sickening sight. He was brought home, where he died this morning, death resulting from exposure and starva-tion, as the internal injuries sustained were not severe enough of themselves to cause

Assaulted His Customer.

John D. Gulp is a blacksmith out at Forty-fifth and Cuming streets. Yesterday he repaired a wagon for John Jacobson, and over the price charged for the work a dispute arose, during which Gulp chased his customer out of the shop, threatening to run a red hot iron into his eyes. Instead of waiting to be tortured in this manner, Jacobson rushed to the police court, where he swore out a war-rant charging Gulp with assault with intent to do great bodily injury. The assaulter was arrested and spent the night in jall.

The Only One.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway is the only line running solid vestibuled, electric lighted and steam heated trains between Chicago, Council Bluffs and Omaha,

The berth reading lamp feature in the Pullman sleeping cars run on these lines is patented and cannot be used by any other railway company. It is the great improvement of the age. Try it and be convinced.

Sleeping cars leave the Union Pacific depot, Omaha, at 6 p. m. daily, arriving at Chicago at 9:30 a.m. Passengers taking this train are not compelled to get out of the cars at Council Bluffs and wait for the train to be cleaned. Get tickets and sleeping car berths at Union ticket office, 1501 Farnam st. F. A. NASH, Gen. Agt. J. E. PRESTON Pass Agt.
