Hampton Has Done Her Share. Hampton, Neb., June 13.—To the Editor of THE BEE: Seeing the noble interest taken by the good people of Nebraska, and especially of Omaha, in behalf of the sufferers of our afflicted neighbor, Bradshaw, which was destroyed by a cyclone June 3, 1830, and not seeing any mention made concerning help given from this place, I feel constrained to say that our doctors, D. S. Woodard and J. B. Hashow, were the second on the ground, not by the railroad, but by their own conveyances, and without money or they could to alleviate the suffering, and are today treating at this place some of the wounded. Many of our citizens are also working at Bradshaw gratuitously and have been since the storm. The people of this place have sent in cash $363. I write this to place have sent in cash $263. I write this to let the world know there is such a place as Hampton and we have charitable people who live here.

DOLLARS IS FRANCS. French Amateurs Jealous of Ameri-

[Copyright 1820 by James Gordon Bennett.] Paris, June 12 .- | New York Herald Cable -Special to THE BEE. |- One and a half million francs-in exact figures, 1,589,900-were realized by the sale of fifty-three paintings at the Crable collection at Sedelmeyer gallery today. representatives of all the big firms of London, Berlin and New York were present. Among the Americans were Messrs. Savery, Jun R. Knoedler, G. K. Armer, Hodges of Reichart & Co., and Keonand, Mr. Christ. Delmonico's agent. The battle between American dollar and French france was the feature of the sale. Schurz's Sweat Box. 'Squire Schurz laughs when asked about that suit for $5,000 damages brought against him and others for alleged conspiracy to evade the laws of Nebraska concerning the exemption of laborers' wages. "I don't know much about that suit except what I read in yesterday's Bes. I see that such a suit has been started, but I haven't been served with any notice, and the fact is that it don't amount to anything. Here, you can see all there is to the affair right here on my docket. D. C. Tucker, who lives here, had bought a note signed J. H. Coffman, and as this note was past due, he commenced an action to guarnishee the wages of Coffman, who worked for the Union Pacific. The Union Pacific made answer that there was about $55 due Coffman. This man Taylor comes to the front, representing himself as attorney for Coffman. He said he could not fight the justice of the claim, it being a straight note, and so confessed judgment for $30. Then Taylor filed a petition of inter-$30. Then Taylor filed a petition of intervention, claiming that he had advanced money and rendered services for Coffman to the amount of about $42, and that Coffman had assigned to him the wages due, so that he was the one who ought to have this money, instead of Tucker. I allowed Taylor most of his claim, the amount allowed being about $37. So you see if any man was to be blamed for getting Coffman's wages by any sources. for getting Coffman's wages by any squeezo it was Taylor himself, as he was awarded nearly all the money, In fact, so far as I know, Tucker has never received any of these wages Tucker has never received any of these wages in payment on the note, which is admitted by Taylor, Coffman's attorney, to be a just claim, as he confessed judgment. There's the whole business right there on the docket. It's supremely ridiculous for this man Taylor after getting about $40 of Coffman's wages by this very suit to kick about the suit and say it was a conspiracy to deprive Coffmann of the necessary money with which to buy broad and all that, and to start a suit for $5,000 damages."

Says the Mountain Home (Idaho) Mail "Thousands of head of sheep are being shipped east over the Short Line. Some of them are going east direct to market, but the greater number of them will be unloaded in Wyoming and driven on through to feeding stations in Nebraska. A large number of stock cars are being sent west, from which we infer that heavy shipments are to continue."
