Council Binffs joins in the general how about the census. It seemingly has as just reason for doing so as any city, and in some respects more than many. There are many traveling men, railway men and others whose occupations keep them away from home much of the time and who are being ignored by the numerators, although they are residents and

One of the enumerators came out of a railway men's boarding house, with an ear-to-ear smile across his face. He had listed thirteen boarders. A business inquirer asked him how many there were in the proprietor's family. "Only two; he and his wife-no children." "How many servants, cooks, etc., have they?" "Ten in all," "Do you mean to say that it takes twelve people to do the work of boarding thirteen?" "Well. it

The proprietor of the boarding house was then questioned, "Business pretty good with you?" "First rate." "Why, I understand you have got only thirteen boarders, and that you have to keep tweive others to do the you have to keep tweive others to do the work for there thirteen? Do you call that good business?" "Pshaw! I've got nearer seventy boarders in all. Only thirteen lodge in the house, and those are the only ones whom the enumerator would take." "Where do the others sleep?" "They sleep in their cabooses. They only get their meals of me, and are here when they are at this end of the Toute." "But do these men vote here?" "Why yes, there is nine out of ten that yotes "Why yes, there is nine out of ten that votes bere, get their mail here and call this home." Another large boarding house patronized largely by railway men was found to have furnished about a dozen names when their books show their regular boarders average about eighty. The enumerators are not tempted by the munificent sum of 2 cents a name to go prowling around the railroad yards and sitting down among the stracks waiting for some caboose to come in with its crew, so as to get the ages. birthplaces, color of hair and other needful details. The easier way is to let them go unrecorded, There are a large number of clerks and others who have rooms in various buildings. The restaurants and boarding houses where they take their meals are visited, but their cames are not caught there. Their rooms are vacated during the day when the enumerators are at work, and the occupants of these rooms are at their places of business or labor.

Several instances are cited where well known citizens are left off because they chance to be away on a visit. One banker, whose household would furnish five names, as been skipped because the enumerator lever finds any one at home in daytime, the panker's family being away on a visit, and he pending only his nights at home. Another ell known citizen, who has been spending he winter in California, returning from there have weeks ago, finds that he is no longer a sitizen of Council Bluffs, by the standard of he enumerator of that district, although he ias his home here and large property inter-he effect here, as well as elsewhere, to cause mumerators to be anxious to send in a final report, when the thickest and richest part of he crop is gathered. On the other hand some of the enumerators will be unable to anvass their districts thoroughly within this week, and additional help is denied them. Supervisor Hight was seen regarding the situation, and was told that it was reported that himdreds of citizens were being over-coked by the enumerators. "It is very probthic," said he, "that the enumerators will niss some of them, but it will not be done inentionally. I have talked with all of them and they all seem to be fully as much inter-sted in giving the Bluffs a good showing as anyone could be. I believe it is impossible for folks to tell yet whether or not they have been enumerated. The work should have been completed last Saturday night, but only four of the twelve enumerators in the city thing been show wind that hatelet ne through before the last of the week. That means that there is yet considerable territory to be gone over, and folks who are afraid that they will be let out in the cold will yet be visited. I can readily see how a great many could be enumerated and not know it. The enumerator goes to a bearding house and takes the name of the lodgers. The lodger knows nothing of it, and when he is asked by a friend if he has been enumerated he naturally replies that he has seen no enumerator. Then it is ascertained that the enumerator has been through the district and a hor and my is reject that visited. I can readily see how a great man his district and a hue and cry is raised that a citizen or half a dozen of them have been overlooked. I don't say that this is what is done

but I see how it might very easily be the ease "I am very desirous that the census shall be complete, and I shall do all in my power to prevent anyone from being overlooked. Of course, we all know that everybody will be lisappointed when the returns are all in, but that will be the case all over the country, more particularly in the west. The popula-tion of all western cities has been largely in flated by report, and in many of them I ex-pect to see it cut right in two in the middle. I don't say that this will be the case in the Bluffs; in fact, I am not allowed to say any thing about the returns. No, I can't ever hazard a guess. We are bound right down and are absolutely prohibited from divulging even the slightest information as to population, returns, or anything of that kind as soon as the returns are all in they will be revised and the blanks will then he boxed up and sent to Washington. Superintendent Porter will have a force of about 2,000 clerks and promises that the work of tabulation shall be pushed just as fast as possible. It may be the latter part of August or first of September before we will know the final resuit. The superintendent wired me to knew if any persons had refused to answer the questions, and I reported that there were only two in this district. I have received instructions to immediately lay the matter before United States Prosecuting Attorney Lewis Miles of Corydon, Wayne county. He is now at Keckuk getting ready for a term of the federal court, but will probably be here before very long. So far as the matter of com-plete returns is concerned, I would be very glad to have sufficient interest manifested by the general public to report all names that have not been secured, as it is to the city's in terest that no one shall be overlooked."

To Telephone Patrons. We have adopted a plan in Council Bluffs which we hope will prove beneficial to all concerned. Each day, commencing at 10:30 a. m., all subscribers who have not-had occas-ion to use their telephones will receive a call from the central office operator, who will re-ply, thus testing the line. You will readily see the object in calling your number. If any line should be down or instruments not in good working condition, we will take special pains to note same while working such test. As soon as all lines have been examin erly inspectors will start out to rectify an troubles thus found. In addition to this daily test all subscribers who may notice any trouble in the working of instruments, will confer a favor by notifying the manager by postal card, giving the nature of trouble, or call by wire, telephone No. 2. I prefer notice by postal or letter, and I will give the same immediate attention. Employes are expected to be courteous and obliging over the wires. Please report any violation of this progress respectfully, Charles A. Atkins, Manager Nebraska telephone company, Coun-cil Bluffs, Ia.

A Bold Burglary. A most audacious burglary was perpetrated about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of Arthur W. Cowles, corner of Third avenue and Ninth street. None of the family were at home and the bold burglar effected his entrance by breaking in the side door. So much force was necessary as to tear off the asing of the door and loosen the hinges. The house was thoroughly ransacked from top to bottom in the search for money or valuables. Every bed and trunk was rummaged and turned inside out, Several articles were carried away. The depredator left an old, wornout pair of shoes and took a pair belonging to Mr. Cowles. He also appropriated some of that gentleman's ciothing. The fellow was seen in the yard by a servant gid, complyed, by one of the nighta servant girl employed by one of the neigh-bors, but she did not know what he was about bors, but she did not know what he was about and did not give the alarm. The police have been furnished with such a description of him as she could give and are now working on the case. A Colored Politician Lynched for Advising Negroes Not to Vote. NEW ORLEANS, La., June 17 .- [Special Telegram to The Ber. |-George Swaysee, colored, formerly a leading republican politician of this state, was lynched at Black Creek, on the parish line of East and West Feliciana. Swaysie in former years was the political boss of Feliciana, representing that senatorial district in the legislature and afterward being supervisor of registration dur-ing the political trouble of 1876. Charges were brought against him of murdering W. D. Writers, a prominent white lawyer. Swaysic left the parish to escape the mob. He was warned that if he ever returned there he would be killed. He came to New Orleans and lately has been employed in the custom house. A few days ago he returned to Feli-ciana and was engaged there in distributing circulars advising the negroes not to vote in the senatorial election which takes place to-morrow and wherein the contest is wholly

MURDERER EYRAUD. Chained Like a Wild Beast He is Con-

[Coppright 1800 by James Gordon Bennett.] HAVANA, June 17. — [New York Herald Cable -Special to Tue Bee. |-I think more than I did of the Spanish police-so does Eyraud. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the prisoner was already in the hands of the detectives on board the Lafavette. At 3 o'clock in the morning I was awakened by a messenger from the police, who said: "Come; we move Eyraud in twenty minutes." At the prison I sat outside in the starlight until 4 o'clock with veyed on Ecard Ship.

Superintendent Cerro and Inspector Solano. As the clock struck the hour we entered the The great door swung back and files of soldiers saluted. We turned to the right and ascended the stairs, eight persons altogether. Our approach caused a sensation. One murderer, celebrated for his resem-blance to the picture of Christ, pressed his face against the bars with an effect that was startling in the moonlight. The assassin, who is to be garroted this week, and who has a rooster for a companion, trembled, thinking his hour had come. We found Eyraud standing up near the door. "You must come with us," said the superintendent. His reply was, "Very well." Then he was ironed and the soldiers stepped out from the shadow of each corner, saluting with their drawn swords. Eyraud arose silently, only saying "Farewell, Cuba, I am content." At the wharf he walked over a plank which was carefully held and was taken to a cabin on the lower deck. There he broke down, weeping like a child. "The world thinks I am an assassin. I know I am not, but when I think of my little daughter my heart breaks. Turning to me, he said: "And you, too, deceived me, letting me think you were a detective, and in La Loucha you were quoted as saying I was brutal looking, yet I have a heart that is not brutal. I am not convicted yet."

Talking to Soudais he said: "The first time you were in America you would have caught me, but I read in the Herald of your arrival and fled to San Francisco."

I explained to Eyraud that I was forced by the Spanish authorities—not to tell him I was the Spanish authorities not to tell him I was from the Herald, fearing he would infer that the detectives were here. Eyrand said: "I knew the detectives had come from a stupid admission of the attachee of the French consulate and from listening to the guard."

Eyrand and I sat together in his berth chatting. He said he knew the Herald well and I was wrong to deceive him. He would not speak of the crime except to say he was innocent and that Gouffe was hanging in the room when he got there. He asked particuroom when he got there. He asked particularly if my dispatch would be sent to the Paris edition and insisted that Bonpard was an angel and Margot was nothing to him.

He promised Soudais that he would not attempt suicide. The cabin was awfully warm and I gave him my fan, for which he was very grateful. Soudais looked it over very carefully to see that it conveyed no means of A Cuban messenger offered him a cigar, but Soudais interceded, saying: "No smoking on this deck." Fire will be kept from Eyraud. While he was talking to Eyrand the electric light went out and he was seized by both detectives. They have confidence in his promise not to commit suicide, but they will watch each movement. The cabin is eight feet square and very close.

"Regard my hands," he said, when I gave him the fan. "It will be difficult to fan myself, still I am only handcuffed, not con-victed."

At this hour there are crowds of people in front of the prison. They do not know that Eyraud has been already removed. The whole affair has been a great sensation here and the Havana police congratulate them-selves on having successfully delivered Ey-raud to the French authorities. Now comes the voyage and the chance of settling the predictions made that Eyraud will commit suicide. He has nothing to live for and if he does not kill himself it will be due to the vigilance of the French detectives

Outline of the Agreement Between England and Germany. London, June 17 .- Lord Salisbury's dispatch to the British ambassador at Berlin, ontaining the agreement with Germany declares that Germany's claim that where one power occupies a coast the other may not, without consent, occupy unclaimed regions in the rear, cannot be allowed in cases where the country is already occupied by Englishmen, but where there are no English settlements England has no title to advance against German claims. The agreement in substance is as follows: England retains the Stevenson road, which will be the boundary between the English and German spheres—a line stretched from the mouth of the Bokura, on the west shore of Lake Nyassa, to the mouth of the Kilambo, on the south shore of Lake Tenganyika Northward Germany retains the region as far as the Congo state and along the first degree of south latitude, the boundary diverging around the western shore of Nyanza to include the mountain of Mfumbiro, in the British sphere, in order to make the frontier coincide as nearly as possible with the region covered by Stanley's treaties. In all the East African territories equal rights of set-tling or trading shall be conferred by the two powers respectively on their sub-jects. The details of the frontier between Ngamiland and Damaraland remain to be set-tled, but it is agreed that in the latitude of Lake Ngamai, up as far as the eighteenth de gree, the German frontier shall coincide with the twenty-first degree of east longitude. In Tongoland the frontier is rectified, securing the mouths of the Volta to England and giv-ing Germany access to the Volta river at the higher point of its course. Germany codes Witu, the islands of Manda and Patta and Somoli, comprising a coast line of over two Somoli, comprising a coast line of over two hundred miles to England, so that except the Congo state there will be no competitor with British influence between the first degree of south latitude and the borders of Egypt along the whole country lying south and west of the Italian protectorate, Ger-many consents that England shall assume exclusive protectorate in the subtracts of exclusive protectorate in the sultanate of Zanzibar, inclosing the islands of Zanzibar and Samea. England will assist Germany to obtain the cession of the German coast line hitherto rented from the sultan. England, considering Heligoland useless since she lost Hanover, will cede it to Germany, subject to the consent of parliament. The present customs tariff will be continued twenty years. The other colonial disputes in Africa are re-served for a friendly settlement and a status quo will be preserved pending the ratification of the present agreement.

On Mr. Wheeler's resolution the city offices were ordered closed in the afternoon on Thursday during the ceremonies attend-ing the laying of the city hall corner stone. Mr. Wheeler also offered a suggestion that each councilman furnish his photograph, to be enclosed with a copy of the city ordinances and other documents in the corner-stone

Mr. Chaffee thought that $2 a day when the street commissioner was pretty good pay. Mr. Morearty was enthusiastically in favor of the eight hour movement, not from the standpoint of the politician, he said, because the laboring men knew him, but he thought the men on the street should not be required to work more than eight hours a day when the werk more than eight hours a day when the werk more than eight hours a day when the high priced clerks of the city worked from four to six hours a day. Mr. Davis said he was looking forward to the time that the eight hour system would become universal, but he was not in favor of introducing the

In the course of half an hour Rockman left the house, remarking that he could not send the screens up before Saturday, and at that time he would send a man to put them in, and that the money for their payment would be and their contents scattered about the floor. This excited her suspicions, and in searching the room she discovered that a diamond ring nd a pin, of the value of $165, had been stolen Knowing that Rockman was the only peron who had entered the room during afternoon suspicion rested upon him as the thief. She at once came down town and upon visiting her husband's store was in-formed that he had not sent any person to the house to do any work. house to do any work.

The robbery was at once reported to the police, and last night Rockman was arrested at Twentieth and Cuming streets by Detectives Haze and Horrigan. Upon being taken to the station he acknowledged the commission of the crime and informed the police that the ring had been sold to Bon Band a jeweler at 508 North Sixto Ben Band, a jeweler at 508 North Six-teenth street, and that the pin had been left with a lewd woman on Ninth street.

Later in the evening the property was recovered by the officers.

This morning Rockman will be arraigned on the charge of grand larceny. Wanted in Nebraska City. Yesterday Judge Helsley allowed a badly wanted criminal to go free. Monday night Mounted Officers Haze and Shoop arrested a colored man, John Mounds, on suspicion. Yesterday morning, when he was called before the police judge, he told a tale of woe, adding that he was the only support of an aged mother, and this so melted the court's heart that he not only released the man, but sent a blessing with him. A couple of hours later a telegram was received from Nebraska City stating that on Sunday night Mounds broke into a jewelry store and succeeded in carrying away nearly

A Petty Forger.

Officer Zack Ellis left for Chicago last night to bring back with him Robert Lisbon, a young man who until two weeks ago was a depth in the Nebraska clothing store.

Ten days ago Lisbon concluded to take a little outing, and the next day he started for the east. Monday morning a check for $12 was presented at the store, purporting to have been signed by the firm. It was at once ronounced a forgery, and upon an investiga-ion it was ascertained that it had been drawn by Lisbon. The matter was at once placed in the hands of the police, and yesterday the young man was arrested in Chicago, Building Permits. Permits to builders were issued as folows by the superintendent of buildings yes terday.

Drew His Salary in Meat. Several days ago C. W. Matson, a butcher clerk, working for Van Gilder & Co. at Twentieth street and St. Mary's avenue, was by jury in the police court and the man acsitted. The evidence showed that Matson was to receive $5 per week for his labors and what meat he and his family could eat. The second week of his employment he succeeded second week of his employment he succeeded in getting away with twenty pounds of steak. His employers regarded this in the nature of a theft. The jury looked at the matter differ-ently and so returned the verdict,

NEW YORK SNUBS OHIO.

The Masonic Grand Lodge Throws Out a Hint to Ohio. The committee upon foreign correspondence of the grand lodge of Masons of New York state, says the New York Mercury, in its report to the grand lodge, has managed to enunciate, although somewhat weakly, the sentiments of the Masons of that state relative to the disturbance of the Masonie peace through introduction of the Scottish rite controversy into York Masonry in Ohio and eisewhere by a strong declaration of disapproval of interference by blue Masons in a matter beyond their jurisdiction. The titular committee of foreign correspondence of Ohis last year, while pretending to review the proceedings of sister grand lodges, virtually published a collected at Mr. Lewis' store on South Thir-teenth street.

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Lewis, on going to her room to dress, noticed that the drawers of the dresser had been pulled out sons of New York against his re-election as grand treasurer. This intrusion by Ohio into the affairs of New York caused considerable ill temper at the time, while at its re-cent session the ill advised an un-Masonic conduct has been signally rebuked by the grand lodge openly in type by the reporter on foreign correspondence, and more de-cisively by the unanimous re-election of Judge Gorman to the responsible position of grand treasurer, ranking so the third of the grand officers. It is to be trusted that this amicable demonstration of opposition on the part of New York will produce a cessation of hostilities at the west, otherwise this juris-diction will assume a determined stand towords suppression of persecution.

Grand Chapter, O. E. S. The grand chapter of the Order of Eastern Star convened at Freemason's hall last evening. About 100 delegates were in attendance Dr. Eleanor, Daily, the worthy matronelect of Vesta chapter, Omaha, delivered the welcome address, which was replete with beautiful sentiments and was well received. The response was made by Mrs. Addie M. Billings, W. M., of Geneva chapter No. 28 of Geneva, who spoke briefly and to the point, voicing the sentiments of the delegates in a casing manner. The remainder of the session was devoted to the appointment of committees and othe routine matters, and was followed by refresh-ments furnished by Vesta chapter. The session will continue today and this evening. The day session will be devoted to the transaction of such business as may com-up for consideration and in the evening the legree work will be exemplified, Nestlehouse in Trouble Again. Lee Nestlehouse was locked up last night n the charge of having assaulted a German Joe Rock. Nestlehouse met Rock in Horn berger's saloon, where the two shook dice for a dollar a shake. The German was getting the best of the game, and after winning $4 proposed to quit. Nestlehouse would not have it that way, and as Rock started to run, he followed him into the alley back of the saloon, where he gave him a most unmerciful
