It Was a Rat.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning a good deal of excitement was occasioned on the corner of Broadway and First street by the efforts of the police to capture a burglar who was supposed to be in the cellar of Kelly & Sounkerman's grocery store. A belated citizen was waiting near the corner for the last motor train, and his attention was attracted by a noise beneath the grating over the cellar window upon which he was standing. It was alonely hour and he was, timid, and the ghostly glare of the electric light aided his imagination. Something suddenly protruded between the iron bars and he had no difficulty in realizing it to be a human hand thrust up to remove the grating. He left the spot hur-riedly and ran across the street where a po-liceman was keeping his lonely vigil. The officer was informed that a burglar was in the cellar and he was asked to capture him, but that was a bigger job than he wanted to undertake alone, and he called the officer on the adjoining beat. One went to the front end of the building and the other to the rear, and they waited with drawn weapons for the burglar to show up. He didn't show up, but they heard him thump-ing around among the barrels and boxes in the cellar. Every fellow that came by stopped and in a few moments a crowd of twenty-five men had gathered. They armed themselves with every kind of missile to be obtained and waited. He would have been a sick burglar if he had showed his head to that crowd. But he neglected to give anybody an opportunity to hit him with a brick and amused himself by scratching on the boxes and barrels and rolling potatoes down the cellar chute. Fin-ally the suspense became too great and one of the crowd was dispatched to the residence of Mr. Kelley, one of the proprietors, and he was routed out of bed to open the store and give the officers a chance to catch the bold and provoking burglar. The officers invaded the cellar with cocked revolvers and searched every portion of it, but found no burglar. Lights were brought and the whole crowd invaded the cellar and the search was kept up for half an hour. Finally a terrified rat was started up and successfully ran the gauntlet

A Mammoth Enterprise. A move is now on foot which, if successfully carried out, will secure for Council Bluffs the location of a mammoth enterprise, The proprietors of a big hat factory at Danbury. Conn., desire to move their plant west, and will locate here if the necessary inducement is offered. They will put in $50,000 cash and want a like amount of stock subscribed here. When the proposition was made to the board of trade that body very suddenly wilted and the Omaha board of trade experienced a similar weakening of the backbone when the project was broached on the west bank of the Missouri. Mayor Macrae has a scheme, however, and will work it for all it is worth. He proposes to turn in fifty acres of the Union driving park at $1,000 an acre, thus making up the amount asked. He will correspond with the eastern parties and see if they would The electric motor company has received ten new open motors from the Pullman shops. The land is well worth $1,000 an acre and he regards it as a very feasible scheme, The factory is now employing 2,000 men and the company will agree to employ at least 1,000 operatives after they relocate. They are now making about 15 per cent on their investment, but claim that by moving west they could increase their profits to 25 per cent. They now sell their goods to a New York house, but propose to do away with the jobbers and put men on the road to sell direct to the retailers. The company wants more room than they now have and Mayor Macrae thinks that Council Bluffs can furnish it. It strikes him as the most feasible scheme yet proposed for settling up the west-ern part of the city and would pay the present stockholders of Union park a handsome return on their investment. Desirable dwellings located in all parts of the city, for rent by E. H. Sheafe & Co., Broadway and Main st. up stairs.

Miss Robinson's Concert. Miss Bella Robinson was unfortunate in her selection of an evening for her concert, for last evening was one of the closest and hottest on record, but notwithstanding the heat of the evening a fair-sized audience gathered in Masonic hall and they were well repaid for the sacrifice of personal comfort. The audience was not coldly critical. Miss Robinson's audiences in this city have ceased to be critical, but are sympathetic and enthusiastic from the start, and last night encore followed encore until the performers grew weary of responding.

The first number was a trio, a nocturne, b etude a la valse, by Misses Bella and Virginia Robinson and Mr. John S. Brown of Omaha. This was followed by one of Miss Robinson's most brilliant performances, that won round most brilliant performances, that won round after round of applause and brought the lady repeatedly before the curtain. The audience seemed determined to show her that her genius was perceived and appreciated, and the encore that followed was most hearty.

The Union Depot. The eventful June 18 has come and gone, and it was not as eventful as was expected. It was the day set for a meeting of the union depot committee and representatives of the various railroads. There were present at the meeting in the office of Mr. Wright, Hon. W. H. M. Pusey, Hon. George F. Wright, Samuel Haas, W. C. James, T. J. Evans and John Churchill of the union depot committee; A. J. Earling, general superintendent of the Milwaukee; Thomas L. Kimball, third vice president of the Union Pacific; J. M. Whit-man, general manager of the Northwestern; A. Kimball, general manager of the Rock Island; W. C. Brown, superintendent of the Iowa lines of the Burlington, and Captain W.

L. Bedison, general auditor of the Wabash. The meeting was called for 10 o'clock, but owing to a washout on the Milwaukee Mr. Earling was unable to arrive until after noon, and the meeting adjourned until 2 o'clock. It was proposed to turn over the union depot site to the railroad companies, but it seems that there is a great deal yet to be done in the way of fixing up minor details before that can be carried out.

The first question that came up was that of right-of-way for approaches. After a long discussion all of the roads with the exception discussion all of the roads with the exception of the Milwaukee expressed themselves as in favor of having each road purchase its own right-of-way from its main line to the union depot grounds proper, instead of having the approaches owned jointly by the union depot company. Mr. Earling of the Milwaukee stated that Mr. Miller, the president of his road, had understood when he signed the contract that the approaches were to be owned by the depot company, and that therecontract that the approaches were to be owned by the depot company, and that therefore he could not consent to such a change without consulting Mr. Miller. The matter was dropped unsettled, and will again be taken up after Mr. Miller has been consulted with reference to it.

The question of how the Milwaukee, Rock Island, Wabash and Kansas City roads were to get into the union depot was then taken up.

to get into the union depot was then taken up. The right-of-way must necessarily be through the Burlington yards, and such a right-ofway the latter company will not sell, but they offered to give a lease of two tracks for ninety-nine years for a rental equal to 7 per cent on $75,000. This would make a yearly rental for each of the other roads of from $1,200 to $1,5000, and that caused a kick. It was finally referred and will be determined was finally referred, and will be determined at a meeting of the railway presidents in Chicago. The meeting then adjourned until July 10. when another meeting will be held in the same place. Mr. Wright stated that matters were going along nicely, but that it would probably be the lst of September before all the little details were arranged and the site transferred to the railroads.

Says Davis Did the Cutting. County Attorney Organ yesterday morning interviewed "Big Julie" Smith in her cell at the police station. The woman is held as the accomplice of her paramour, Sam Davis, in his murderous assault on Albert Smith. The woman admitted that Davis did the cutting, but said she did not know what weapon he used. She told how she went with Davis to Big lake Sunday afternoon and heard him threaten to carve Smith and every other white man on the grounds. She will be held as a witness, and her testimony will go hard against Davis.

PARIS CHILD SLAVES.

The Juvenile Beggar Bureaus Likely to Be Abolished. Last year a society was organized in Paris to prevent the trade in children among professional beggars. In the first report, just published, the secretary of the society has catalogued a varied lot of Parisian institutions which are occupied exclusively with the employment of little boys and girls in street beggary. Several saloonkeepers and proprietors of small cafes, the report says, have long had a bureau in the Rue Marcadet for the employment of young girls as flower

The ages of the girls range between eight and eleven years. They are let to the bureau for the day by their parents. They are sent out on the boule vards in small squads, and are expected to return at night with at least three francs each clear profit on their sales says the New York Morning Journal. Children whose receipts fall below the average are sent back to their parents without wages for their day's work.

The bureau employs now about one hundred and twenty girls.

Another bureau, situated near the Pantheon, hires girls between ten and fourteen years to play musical instru-ments in the low resorts of the city. The girls are usually taught to strum on a violin or harp in the bureau's quarters during the afternoon, and from 9 to 2 o'clock at night are kept on the run from dive to dive. At 2 o'clock the children return to the bureau and are taken home by their guardians or parents. Each child earns about seven francs in an evening, and receive three francs wages. This musical oureau has sixty children at its disposal most of the time.

A third bureau deals in boys between eight and twelve years. The little fellows do ordinary begging and collect cigar butts. At dark the boys hand in the money and the refuse tobacco they have got together during the day. Four hours every evening the young vagrants are kept busy cutting, tearing and sorting the cigar ends. They earn about one franc each daily, and are expected to net to their employers about twice that amount. At present 150 boys work for the bureau. The most reprehensible bureau of which the society received information makes a business of hiring babies in arms with women beggars. Whatever the weather or temperature, the little crea-tures are exposed by the women in charge of them on the street corners, doorsteps and bridges. The bureau pays each woman with her baby two francs a day. Each pair brings in six (r seven francs every evening. A child usually endures nine or ten weeks of this outdoor service and then dies and sending them out into the streets

The society has attached the name of each bureau proprietor to the account of his establishment, and has called on the French government to take measures at once to break up all Parisian institutions which buy, sell and hire children for debilitating and demoralizing employ-

That Decision Again. Chicago Tribune: "I have had a delightful evening," he said as he took his hat and rose to go. "May I call again?"
"I shall be glad to see you," she replied with a blush.

As he walked out into the hall he saw in the mirror of the hat rack a reflection of the roguish girl slyly throwing a kiss at him, and he turned back. "I must have that in the original package," he whispered. He was a Kansas young man and he could make the yellowest errors. Smith, Hoover and Gunson were the only ones to escape with a clean score, In marked contrast was the play of the Black Sox. They pranced and curacoled over the green sward like a lot of thorough bred racers, running the bases, swatting the ball and fielding with a brilliancy that sent their stock upward like a rocket. Young Martin was in the box for Omaha and he did magnificent work. Not only was his pitching par excellence itself, but he fielded his position in elegant style and made a nice single. Urquahart caught him faultlessly. But the game.

As has been the case for some time back, he contest opened promisingly for a stubborn fight, for it was not until the third inning that Omaha made a run. Swartzel was very cunning and up to this juncture he almost completely outwitted Leonard's lambs. Martin began the third by reaching first Martin began the third by reaching first on an inexcusable error by Mr. Fresh, known in exclusive diamond circles as Danny Stearns, Canavan was neatly decapitated on a throw from Carpenter to Donahue, but on the play the Galesburg youth reached second. Swartzel made a bad muff of Waish's attitudinous popup, which also let Omaha's curved rotator to third. Kearns forced Walsh at second, and then both base runners were driven home on then both base runners were driven home on a beautiful single by Hines.

That was what the spectators wanted to see; you could tell by the way they opened their faces and filled the summer air with yells and cheers.

A fumble by Donahue let Mike to second. but there he stuck, as Andrews banged three gapping fissures in the atmosphere and sat

That ended Omaha's half.

And K. C. drew her third consecutive In the fourth, after Willis and Cleveland had been retired, Urquahart and Martin both hit safe, but neither got home, as Stearns threw Canavan out at first.

Elmer Smith, for the visitors, went to first on four wide ones. The Poet's out from pitch to first helped him down to second, and to first helped him down to second, and Hoover's sacrificial drive to Kearns, on to third, whence he scored on Stearns' red hot single. Danny stole second by a good skate on his vest buttons; but Carpenter's out put a check to further advancement.

Swartzel delivered but three balls in the fifth. The first one Walsh drove to Manning, who threw him out at first; Kearns did the same on the second, and the third Hines lifted high up toward the blue empyrean, and when it come down it lodged in Manning's fins, and the Cowboy manager walked in just fins, and the Cowboy manager walked in just as if he owned the earth. But it was neat work, say what you will.

For Kansas City Donahue made a hit. Gunson fouled out to Urquahart, then Swartzel fldget in their seats.

And well they might, for Elmer Smith was next to bat. The action of this young slugger on the day before, when, under circum-stances similar to these, he cleaned the bases at one fell stroke, yet lingered vividly in their minds.
The first ball Martin sent at him, the Cincinnatian struck at wickedly but missed by a foot. The second one he hit in the same place, and the third he didn't strike at at all, but the umpire suid "out."

Then there was a roar.

Manning grew red, white and blue in the face and protested that Smith wasn't out, but the umpire maintained that he was, and the spectators cheered the great Cowbey until he was glad to get back to the bench. The Poet then ended the agony by going out from Walsh to Anderson.

And maybe the cranks didn't yell then. And maybe the cranks didn't yell then.

Base ball's a great game, isn't it!

Still Another Pitcher.

Manager Leonard, who has never ceased in is efforts to secure new talent to assist in trengthening the Omahas, succeeded yesterday in signing another new pitcher in the person of George Kettle of the defunct Texas league. Kettle has been pitching good ball and comes to Omaha highly recommended. His engagement will now give Omaha one of the strongest out-fields in the country, for as soon as Collins is able to go on second, Cana-
