

TOOK INNINGS TO DO IT. But the Black Sox Finally Succeeded in Snatching Another Victory.

ROWE'S BIG MOUNTAINERS HUMBLED. A Pierce and Stubborn Contest From Beginning—Other Hall Games—Uncle Bob Wins the Amer...

Following is a correct table of the games won and lost, with each team's per cent up to this morning. The table was received last evening by telegraph from Secretary Roche and is therefore absolutely correct:

Table with columns: Team, W, L, P. Ct., G. Includes rows for Minneapolis, Denver, St. Paul, etc.

NATIONAL LEAGUE. Played, Won, Lost, Per Ct. Includes rows for Cincinnati, Boston, Philadelphia, etc.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION. Played, Won, Lost, Per Ct. Includes rows for Rochester, Louisville, Columbus, etc.

PLAYERS' LEAGUE. Played, Won, Lost, Per Ct. Includes rows for Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, etc.

Omaha 7, Denver 6. You have probably heard the old fable about the blind hog and the acorn.

They play ball, that must be admitted, and if they keep on playing they are liable to stumble on to a victory one of these fine days.

But let us hope the accident will not occur in Omaha. The Black Sox were again on their mettle yesterday, and about as stubborn as a contest as one ought to wish for, they managed to beat the Mountainers on the second time.

But it required ten innings to do it, and ten innings of as fierce a fight as you ever looked at.

A great crowd took advantage of the Saturday half holiday and journeyed up to the park to see the battle.

And they were not sorry they made the trip, for they saw the Champions win the most exciting game of the season.

The day was just right for a ball game, and the players were all feeling good and the crowd at its best.

And the ladies were there by the score and transformed the reserve department into a very picturesque beauty.

And they went out to the bat and found their old comrade, Jack Fanning, hard to fathom. Canavan and Walsh sent the ball into the air only to see it fall into the vengeance of Clem Hines.

Kearns made three successive apertures in the air big enough to drive an ice wagon through.

And their half none of the visitors saw first, either. Cleveland Garay McGlone out at first, McClellan waited and Willis took care of Comanche Tredway's fly.

charged with electricity. Billy was safe, and how the crowd did cheer. Clarke followed with a safe one inside the diamond, which reached Big Dave's outstretched hands.

Then you ought to have heard the volume of sound that arose from grand stand and bleachers.

The ladies flaunted their handkerchiefs, while the men and boys stood up in their seats and indulged in a yelling match.

For a moment the uproar was deafening. Quiet came with Walsh's out to Curtis, and when Tommy Kearns also gave up on a high fly for the touch of the team settled over the park.

For the Deveners, Reynolds sent up a little fly which Walsh, Canavan and Clarke all three went for, and the result was neither got it, and Reynolds got his base.

Gracious goodness! Was Omaha to be beaten after all?

This bit of luck at once restored Denver's nerve, that was patent to all, and it was evident she meant to hurl her home into the fray.

For a moment it looked as if the result would be just as the crowd was despairing. While hit a grounder to Walsh, which Walsh pounced upon like a cat.

He grabbed it up, threw it to the first baseman, and then to Canavan, and Jimmy, without waiting to say "Thank you, Josie, old boy," fired it to Andrews, and about the inebriated double ever since.

Finney, on the long ground, fired a high fly, and the result was neither got it, and Reynolds got his base.

the public has been clamoring for, and now that they have it, let them turn out and encourage the boys with their presence.

Game for the Fourth. The Crane Company-Chicago Whiting game on the Fourth will evidently prove a rattling one, as the list of players attests:

NAMED AFTER HIS TALE. The Splendid Lyre-Bird Enchants All Listeners. Once my friend suddenly drew rein and motioned me to do likewise, writes a traveler from Australia to Harper's Magazine. For a few seconds I heard nothing. Then sharp and clear through the silence rang the crack of a long whip and I expected to see some stock-driver, or perhaps some strayed packman, issue from the scrub.

But with a quick "hush!" my companion whispered that what I had heard was only the note of a lyre-bird (and that what he wanted me to see was a lyre-bird, whose native note he had heard a moment before close at hand. Very shortly a somewhat low but sweet burst of melody, though within a limited compass, rang over a glade to the left, the greater part of which was shrouded from sight by intricate fern-tree growth; with rapid transitions the song there-after rose and fell, now imitating the joyous freedom of the magpie, now the laughing gurgle of the jayhawk, now other familiar notes of the forest.

Again silence, and then—right in the midst of the fern glade—I saw for the first time a bird which I had often heard of and which I was anxious to see. The lyre-bird or mountain pheasant (Mammis lyrebird), is extremely shy, and though he is not so much of a shy bird as the lyre-bird, is nevertheless extremely shy. It is in size it closely resembles the common pheasant and is of an auburn-brown color, but it would not be a specially attractive bird were it not for the large and delicate graceful tail feathers, which, when fully extended, exactly resemble an instrument after which the bird is called.

Like the shark, and perhaps the cuckoo, the mountain pheasant is generally accompanied by a satellite, in this instance the latter being a small, jerky little bird, popularly called the "whip-tail," whose note, when such was visible to our eyes on this occasion.

The whip-bird, or the coach-whip-bird, referred to is generally heard in the scrub proper, and has received its name from its habit of ending its loud cry or note with a sharp crack, exactly reproduced by the long lash of a stock whip.

FLIES CALL THE GUESTS. An Englishman's Tale About the Queerest Hotel on Earth. "The queerest hotel in the world is in Guatemala City Central America," said an English tourist stopping at the Richmond, a Chicago Tribune reporter. "While there a few weeks ago I stopped at the hotel, and I have never since met more surprises than I have previously encountered in my trip around the world. The house is built only one story high on account of the earthquakes. It is constructed in the form of a hollow square with a central courtyard. The interior is with trees and flowers. The exterior presents the appearance of a prison. After pounding a high knocker on the outer door you are ushered into a scene of veridical beauty. The hotel was formerly the private residence of one of the richest and noblest of Central America, but the owner was banished by President Barrios for an alleged conspiracy against the government. Around the interior were balconies overlooking a garden filled with trees and flowers. The fare was good and we had our choice of pancakes with honey, fish, poultry, fruits, and chocolate. You can't eat there if you are in a hurry, though. Only one thing is served in a hurry and that is a trout. Now, if you leave a call for 7 o'clock your tram is opened at 7 o'clock and the flies go in. Do they wake you? I should say so. The sensation is like that of being sand-bugged. In five minutes from the time you are awakened from your sleep you are in the arms of the proprietor. It doesn't do any good to kick, though, for that system has been the custom for years."

THE PLAGUE OF GRAPE VINES. A Peculiar Blight Upon the Vineyards of Southern California. There is something wrong in the vineyards of southern California. For four seasons the grape growers have met with heavy losses. A disease, sudden in its coming, swift in its working, fatal in its results, has been doing its worst. Now, if you leave a call for 7 o'clock your tram is opened at 7 o'clock and the flies go in. Do they wake you? I should say so. The sensation is like that of being sand-bugged. WORSHIPING FLOWERS AS GODS. A recent traveler in India gives the following description of flower worship as practiced by the Persians, who in flowing robes of blue, and on his head a scepter-like hat—black, glossy, curly, the fleecy ends of which would flutter in the wind meditatively over every flower he saw, and always as if half in vision.

AND WHEN THE VISION WAS FULFILLED AND THE IDLE FLOWER HE WAS SEEKING FOUND, HE WOULD SPREAD HIS MAT AND SIT BEFORE IT, AND SIT AND PLAY THE GUITAR OR LUTE BEFORE IT, AND WHEN THEY WOULD ALL TOGETHER SING SHERBET AND TALKING THE MOST HILARIOUS AND SHOCKING SCANDAL LATE INTO THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT.
