WHAT WILL IT COST?

In advocating the ship subsidy bills before congress Senator Frye submitted estimates of the cost of the proposed policy to the government.

The difference in the estimates of the commissioner of navigation and those of Senator Frye are suggestive. It is simply impossible to say with any degree of accuracy what the probable cost of this subsidy business would be in any year or for a series of years, because the effect of the policy in stimulating ship building is wholly uncertain.

APART from the objection to the principle of subsidies, which the large majority of the American people regard as essentially hostile to our governmental system, this uncertainty as to cost is a reasonable ground of opposition to the proposed policy.

Among the prominent Americans of a past generation few occupied so large a place in the attention and esteem of their countrymen as the late General John C. Fremont, who died in New York on Sunday, after a very brief illness.

THE WATERLOO trust, with headquarters at Atlanta, has suspended. Customers refused to honor drafts for consignments, giving reasons that molasses were of inferior quality.

RICHARD J. HINTON, who has recently made a thorough study of the geography and topography of the west at the expense of the government, expects to see the Pacific become an American Mediterranean.

THE BEE does not want to kick a corpse, but if the friends of the defunct persist in holding him up as a model of integrity, sobriety and true temperance, we may be compelled to enlighten some of the deluded people over whose eyes he has pulled the wool so successfully.

OUR amiable contemporary has been wasting its sympathy upon Paul Vandervoort as a victim of misplaced confidence, and Mr. F. E. Herl came in for his usual share of abuse as a man who betrays his dearest friends.

DOUGLAS county has selected a clean and intelligent delegation to the state convention. Other counties will be equally well represented.

date for the presidency. For a quarter of a century he had been little more than the public eye, though not all the time inactive, and not the least useful part of his labor during this time was the preparation of his memoirs.

THE OMAHA REPUBLICAN has improved itself to some extent by cutting down its margins. In fact, the more there is cut away from the Republican the better it is.

MISSOURI deeply interested. A rule providing foreclosure of debate in the senate at the will of the majority would save Missouri considerable humiliation by keeping Vest and Cockrell under reasonable restraint.

THE COLD SHOULDER. It is said that Francis Murphy has done more for temperance than any other man in the United States, yet some of the Nebraska prohibitionarians give him the cold shoulder because he refuses to dance to their music.

THEIR CHERISHED HOPES. The arguments of Messrs. Rosewater and Webster at Beatrice this week against prohibition were of the most satisfying kind.

SHOWED THEIR GOOD BREEDING. The prohibitionists showed their breeding by inviting John L. Webster and Ed Rosewater to debate with Sam Small and Prof. Dickie on the prohibition question.

THE SPASMODIC SENATOR. The vote in the house on the free coinage bill puts that body in a notable contrast to the senate, and it shows clearly that the former and not the latter is now the conservative branch of congress.

THE LIBERAL COMMISSION. Had anyone thought that there was a strong probability that A. G. Wolfenbarger, the great Lincoln prohibitionist, receives a liberal commission on all the money collected in Nebraska to pay the New York Voice to fight for prohibition in this state?

PREF-ER FICTIO TO FACTS. On Saturday and Monday last there were heated discussions on the prohibition question held at the Beatrice Chautauquians.

A CLEAN SWEEP. In the republican primary fight in Omaha yesterday, Dr. Mercer carried every ward against ex-Mayor Broatch.

NAME AS SHE IS UNDERSTOOD. The exploit of a Harvard student in springing 40 yards in 43 seconds at a park in Boston the other day has conferred deathless honor on Cambridge.

JUST LOOK AT THIS. Package houses are springing up like mushrooms all over the city.

SERIOUS PROPOSITIONS. The tariff bill that is to be discussed in the senate this week, when carefully analyzed, shows that some commodities are given the preference.

ALL SHOULD READ IT. Everybody should read the great prohibition debate held at Beatrice Saturday and Monday by Messrs. Dickie, Rosewater, Sam Small and Webster.

LONG AND HONORABLE SERVICE. In the list of candidates for governor there is none better fitted for the position or more thoroughly in accord with the reforms demanded by the people than the present incumbent, General John M. Thayer.

FOR A LARGE AUDIENCE. It must be conceded that the reports of the great joint discussion on the prohibition question were faithfully reported in THE BEE.

THIS question, and he has been even more honorable toward his opponents who insulted him with hisses and jeers.

MORE than two weeks ago Paul Vandervoort engaged eighty rooms at the Capital hotel for himself and the Douglas delegation of Tammany braves.

out in this way: "Unless the corporate influence in politics is arranged to capture the republican convention by storm, the congressional honors of the convention will be given either to N. V. Harlan or D. M. Nettleton."

THE Hartington Herald brings Judge Norris out for congressional timber in the Third.

THE Pierce County Call takes this view of an important matter: "Judge Kinkaid has informed the public through his friends that he is not a candidate for congress.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Hooper wants telephone connection.

Grant, the capital of Perkins county, is to have a new school house.

Some 400 head of cattle have been received at Hubbell for feeding purposes.

Hay Springs is without a marshal and the hoodlums do about as they please.

County warrants in Dundy county sell at 75 cents and the county owns but $1.00.

It is a poor town those times that hasn't a baseball team or a candidate for governor.

The date for holding the Sarpy county fair has been changed to September 17, 18 and 19.

E. A. Crum, after two years in the harness, retires from the editorial chair of the Knox county News.

The farmers of Cheyenne county have organized a vigilance committee and horse thieves are in demand.

The county commissioners of Otse county have called for a meeting on August 19 for the purpose of voting on bonds for the construction of a wagon bridge across the Missouri river.

The Furnas County Agricultural society offers a premium on the best of the county. The prize is $15 for first and $10 for second.

The fight over county commissioners in the present county of Lexington and Lehigh, the two contestants, do not appear as they pass by.

Liberal premiums on agricultural products were offered by the county of Lexington and Lehigh, the two contestants, do not appear as they pass by.

A call has been made for a democratic convention to be held at Papillion on Saturday, July 28, for the purpose of electing five delegates to the congressional convention at Leavenworth, Mo.

As a pointer to what may be expected in Nebraska, the following item from Stella is instructive: Mr. J. W. Wilson sold and delivered to G. F. Adler during the week a wagon load of hogs, averaging 175 pounds to the head. He had one in the lot that weighed 550 pounds.

Two farmers of Polk county are frightened over the prevalence of glanders.

A wild man of the woods has scared people in the vicinity of Keosauqua almost out of their senses.

A reunion of the survivors of the Twenty-ninth Iowa infantry will meet at Malvern August 12 and 13.

The census shows 339 Indians in Tama county. The oldest is 108 years and the youngest was born the day before the census was taken.

There were fifteen infants baptized in one of the Omaha City churches Sunday, and the Herald remarks that it wasn't a very good day for babies, either.

A petition to the city council of Gage to state the baying of a jackass quartered in the heart of town was cruelly refused, the officials deciding they had no authority in the matter.

Two ladies took the census of Mt. Pleasant and they are now looked up to by the balance of the female population because they know so much more than anybody else about their neighbors.

A farmer near Orange City is quite extensively engaged in cauliflower culture. He says his crop will be worth $200 per acre and would have been worth $100 per acre if it had not been injured by cut worms.

While Benjamin Case of Le Claire township, Scott county, was hauling hay to the barn, the axle broke and he was thrown and he was thrown and he was thrown.
