Held to the District Court.

John Shemerdla, Charles Davis and Fred Koeher were yesterday taken before Judge Helsey to answer to the charge of grand larceny. The three defendants were the boys arrested for stealing a lot of goods from a Ninth street cigar store. The case against them was dismissed, but they were immediately rearrested on the charge of petit larceny. Koeher was again released, but Shemerdla was held to the district court in the sum of $100, and Davis was sent to the county jail for ten days.

In the Wrong Pew.

J. S. Phalen got drunk Wednesday night and wandered in the realms of the wicked. He attempted to force his way into the abode of a respectable family, taking it for a house of prostitution. He was arrested and yesterday morning acknowledged that he was drunk, but as the man who caused his arrest did not care to prosecute him, he was discharged.

He had on his person when arrested $62.80 and a 22-calibre revolver. The assistant city attorney thought that such a pepper box would scarcely come under the category of "weapons," so no complaint on that score was lodged against him.

For Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and Sore Throat use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and get the genuine.

The Prohibitory Amendment.

OMAHA, July 15.—To the Editor of THE BEE:—Will you please answer in your paper the following questions pertaining to constitutional amendments and oblige several readers of your paper:

1. Does it require a two-thirds vote of the people to carry an amendment to the state constitution of either Iowa or Nebraska?

2. Was not the prohibitory amendment submitted to the people of Iowa twice on account of some error of the legislature at first?

3. Must constitutional amendments be submitted to the people at special elections in either Iowa or Nebraska? A SUBSCRIBER.

1. No.

2. No. The constitutional amendment was submitted once and carried, but declared void by the state supreme court. Prohibition in Iowa is statutory, not constitutional.

3. No.

HOTEL MINNEKAHTA.

A Paradise in the Minnekahta Valley, Black Hills.

The Deadwood, South Dakota, Times of July 11th says: Porter Warner, proprietor of the Times, returned yesterday from Chicago. Mrs. Warner remains at Hot Springs comfortably located at Minnekahta hotel, the best conducted hostelry in South Dakota. The establishment enjoys a great run, and deserves it.

A number of Omaha people are at this great pleasure resort, among which are Euclid Martin, president of the board of trade, and family and Mrs. D. Cushing, Mrs. Martin's mother; Secretary W. N. Nason of the board of trade; Geo. S. Nason, E. L. Bierbower, Geo. P. Bemis, Miss Lizzie Hooker, J. M. Metcalf and wife, H. D. Brown, H. B. Lockwood and wife, J. G. Taylor, Louis Heller and family, Judd Grant and others.

They are all highly elated with the Hot Springs' surroundings, and are thoroughly enjoying the luxuries provided by their genial host, Don H. Porter, proprietor of Hotel Minnekahta.

THE MISSION PICNIC.

An Enjoyable Day Spent by the Waifs in Hanscom Park.

A day in the park.

To most of the citizens of Omaha who read THE BEE at their breakfast tables these words mean comparatively little.

But what don't they mean to the hundreds and hundreds of the city's poor children who have never beheld the scene of green fields, of shady woods, of fluttering birds and sheeny waters. To them the words above used are fraught with a meaning that the children of the rich and the well-to-do have never even imagined, and to whom the bare idea of a day in the park brings visions such as no painter has ever put on canvas since brushes were first wet in paint.

There is no care or worriment about such a treat for them. No dressmakers or tailors to enter into their calculations, and horses and drags and carts and servants to have part in their plans. For them it means a day of unalloyed delight, such a day of rest and comfort as they have never known in all their little luckless lives.

How many children do you imagine are in this big, bustling town who have no conception of rural delights other than that born from the sight of the dusty plants in the back windows of some tenement house, or from the close-cropped and scared sward in Jefferson square, or the wildernesses of jimson weeds and dog fennel on the suburbs?

It was to give relief to just such unfortunates as are denied the happiness of a summer outing in the fresh air, midst the sound of birds and perfume of flower, of grass and tree, that the Omaha City Mission was organized, and their picnic for the poor little waifs at Hanscom park yesterday in itself alone furnishes compensation enough for all the trouble and expense this noble work has entailed.

The mission is on Tenth street, between Dodge and Capitol avenue, and Dr. Leisenring is the superintendent, William Reynolds the vice superintendent and W. A. Lipe pastor.

The mission is composed of two schools, a Sunday and an industrial school, the latter being composed entirely of girls, who are taught to sew and do house work. There are in the neighborhood of 100 of the little ones in each of these schools—little orphan children, waifs of the street, arabs, gamin, white and black mixed indiscriminately.

These outings in the park are of regular occurrence, and of all the deeds of charity done in Omaha none gives more pleasure to the doners than these sylvan fetes, and none leaves in the mind and heart of the little beneficiaries sweeter and more grateful remembrances than these little expeditions out in the cool woods beyond the walls of brick and stone, and grime and dirt, and into the unexplored realm that nature affords.

And what a time they had yesterday! There were nearly four hundred of them. They went out per the motor, and what a scene they presented when once turned loose upon the velvety sward, neath the refreshing shadows of the trees. They crammed the swings and shouted in juvenile glee at the sight of the ducks and the boats on the miniature lake; they screamed and shouted, imitated the birds, skipped and jumped and danced with joy. Such an exuberance of spirits, such incomparable happiness. Leisenring was there and so was Reynolds and so was Lipe and while they kept a watchful eye on the little waifs they fairly distended their little stomachs with lemonade and ice cream, pickles, chicken and cake. My what a day they did have.

Volumes might be written upon the antics of these little men and women, gathered from the most poverty stricken districts of the city, and given for the first time in their lives a pic-nic in the woods. There would be a matchless humor in such a book and a pathos too, and such a phase of life illustrated as would amaze those who think they know what low life is even in this, their own fair city.

May the shadow of the mission never grow less, is the song that trums through the heart of many a little one.

SECREST TAKEN HOME.

The Injured Mason Removed from the Merchants Hotel.

L. O. Secrest, the man who has suffered so terribly for the past month, through the injuries he received by being pitched from a hotel window by his friend, J. H Werner, was removed yesterday from the hotel to the Burlington depot and taken to his home at Hebron.

Ever since the wounded man regained consciousness he has been begging and imploring those around him to take him home, but it was deemed inexpedient to attempt doing this until yesterday. He has appeared so much better for three or four days that his brother and attending physician thought the risk would not be too great and undertook the removal. The use of the patrol wagon was requested and obtained, and lying on a mattress in the body of the vehicle, Secrest was transported to the depot with but little jar. At the station he was made comfortable in a sleeping car, an soon after began his voyage homeward. Secrest stood the short journey to the depot very well, and there was every indication that he would reach his journey's end no worse than when he left the Merchants' hotel.

Reopening a Thoroughfare.

In order to guard against results utterly subversive of health, it is absolutely essential that the grand thoroughfare or avenue of the system, the bowels, should be re-opened as speedily as possible when they become obstructed. If they are not, the bile is misdirected into the blood; the liver becomes torpid; viscid billious matter gets into the stomach and produces indigestion; headaches ensue and other symptoms are produced, which a prolongation of the exciting cause only tends to aggravate. The aperient properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters constitute a most useful agent in overcoming constriction of the bowels and promoting a regular habit of the body. It is infinitely superior to the drastic cathartics frequently used for the purpose since it does not, like them, act violently but produces a natural, painless effect, which does not impair the tone of the evacuatory organs, which it invigorates instead of weakening. The stomach and liver, also, indeed the entire system, is strengthened and regulated by it.

The Mother's Victim.

The inquest over the remains of Herman Bruch, who was killed by the motor on Wednesday, was set for 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and the witnesses were all summoned, but when the coroner attempted to gather a jury he met with refusals to serve from all sides. He scoured the neighborhood, but every man refused to act, giving as the reason, that the county commissioners had refused to allow any fees to jurymen, claiming that this was a duty each man owed to his country. Those approached suggested that the county commissioners come down and spend a little of their loafing time as jurymen on inquests or else provide men who are willing to leave their business for several hours at a time, without any remuneration merely to comply with a whimsical notion on the part of the commissioners.

The coroner tried for some time to get a jury and scoured the entire neighborhood, accosting every man he met, but there seemed to be a unanimity of opinion on the question and all refused point blank.

Meantime the body of the unfortunate man laid in a rough box in Heafey & Heafey's back room, the stench emitted rapidly becoming stronger, although every known artifice had been resorted to to preserve the body.

The coroner was of necessity compelled to postpone the inquest and set the time for 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Henry Langwin, MacManey John Fogarty, Fred Schroder, W. W. Allen and G. W. McKenna were finally persuaded to act as jurymen in the afternoon and the inquest proceeded.

Fred W. Bunsen, a passenger on the car which ran over Bruch, was examined. His story was substantially the same as that given in these columns yesterday.

Adolph Fraser testified that he questioned the injured man and learned who he was, etc, and gave the information thus derived.

Two more witnesses were examined, but their testimony was unimportant.

The inquest was then postponed until 10 o'clock this morning on account of the absence of several witnesses. These people had been served with subpoenas in the morning, but for some reason failed to appear. The coroner will invoke the aid of the officers of the law to compel these parties to appear before him and testify.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

An Arrest That Grew Out of a Tussle Over a Bill.

Wednesday Rev. J. S. Phillips, pastor of the Free Methodist church, had Theodore F. Gallagher arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

The trouble grew out of a dispute between Gallagher and a laboring man named John M. Parish, who had worked for Gallagher in the capacity of day laborer and held his time check showing $505 to be due him. Wednesday he presented his check to Gallagher for payment. The latter refused, saying that he had paid Parish once. Parish denied this and Gallagher produced a receipt signed by another man to prove his statement. Parish insisted that he had not signed a receipt and finally Gallagher told him that he would pay the time check if he would get some one to identify him. Parish got Rev. Phillips and a young man named H. A. Emerson. When they returned to Gallagher's office the latter said that he had decided not to pay the time check until he could find the man who signed the receipt that he had shown them. A few words as to the methods of Gallagher in business were passed and he, becoming enraged, struck at the minister and a general tussel followed in which Gallagher was overpowered. Subsequently Gallagher was arrested for assault. Yesterday in retaliation Gallagher had Rev. Mr. Phillips and his two associates arrested, charging them with robbing him of $11 during the tussle.

The defendants were not taken to the station and locked up, but were allowed to visit police headquarters by themselves and arrange their bail. The case was set for hearing yesterday afternoon, but Judge Helsley dismissed it as soon as it was called, there being no evidence to substantiate the charge, and all the indications pointing toward spite work on the part of the prosecuting witness.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

Rev. Father Moriarty's Denial.

The Rev. Father D. W. Moriarty, priest in charge of St. Bridget's and St. Agnes Roman Catholic churches, was seen by the representative of THE BEE in regard to the communication published Wednesday evening in regard to the board of education matters. "I wish it distinctly understood and positively stated that I have never been consulted by Mr. Carroll nor anyone else in regard to the course pursued or action taken by Mr. Carroll," said Father Moriarty, "nor did I even know that Mr. Carroll had appealed from Judge Shields' decision till long after the appeal was taken. Neither directly nor indirectly have I been consulted, influencing or acting in this matter."

Plattsdeustcher Verein.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Plattsdeustcher Verein was held in Blum's opera house last night. The verein decided to give a picnic Sunday afternoon in Germania hall and gardens. The members will meet at Blum's opera house and at 2 o'clock, with the Bohemian band, will march to the gardens. Among the contests and amusements, for which prizes will be given, will be catching the greased pig, sack race, stepping on eggs and ten pins. Committees as follows were appointed: General arrangements, Messrs. Henry Martin, Peter Broemern and Julius Mueller; on games, Messrs. John Friedt, Henry Peterson and Frank Stammer.

A New Newspaper Building.

The prosperous Stockman has bought a lot from C. F. Fahs on Twenty-fourth street, just north of the Brandes block, and will commence at once the erection of a fine newspaper building. The structure will be of brick, three stories high, twenty-four by sixty feet and fixed up with all modern conveniences and improvements. A fast Cotter & Babcock press with a capacity of 14,000 an hour will be put in. When completed the Stockman expects have the finest office in the state outside of Omaha.

A Magnificent Showing.

Some idea of the magnitude of the business being done at South Omaha may be shown by the Armour-Cudahy packing company curing July. Forty-three cars of provisions were shipped in one day while the shipments made during the first two weeks of the month took 364 cars or 182 a week. The value of the product is about $375,000 per week or $19,500,000 a year. The prepaid freightage amounts to $5,000 per month.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

A WORD TO FATHERS

It may be that some fathers who read our proposition will be so engrossed in business that they will not give the matter that consideration it deserves. Don't think that because you have managed to get along without a good Cyclopædia so far that your wives and children will have no use for one. That would be a great mistake for you to make. While you may not have the desire nor time for reading, yet they may have, and nothing would afford them more pleasure than to have a good Cyclopædia, such as the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, at hand for consultation on all imaginable subjects. If you can't appreciate a good thing, find out if they would like it. If so, order it without delay and thus add to your own happiness.

A WORD TO MOTHERS

Mothers should see to it that their husbands' attention is called to the great proposition of "THE BEE," and impress upon them the importance of a good Cyclopædia in the home and have them order at once. This proposition will not last always, and if you do not remind them of it every morning they may neglect it until it is too late, and your children will be forced to do without while your neighbors will have one, and it will always be a source of regret that you did not make your husband get a set for your children. "A word to the wise" is sufficient.

A WORD TO Children!

Children there is nothing that will be more useful to you in getting an education than a good Cyclopædia in the home. There is no subject in the whole range of human knowledge but what is discussed in the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, the latest, cheapest and best Cyclopædia ever published, and the arrangement is so simple that you can find any subject in a moment you wish to read about, and thus gain the knowledge or information you might be in need of without having to spend hours reading some old history and perhaps be disappointed in the end.

Be sure that your father calls at The Bee office and orders a set. Ask him to, and if he neglects it, just remind him of it when he comes home at night. Ask him questions about places, persons and things that you may read about during the day. Ask him when and where George Washington was born; when and where he died. Ask him when and where George Washington was first inaugurated president of the United States. Ask him who planned and built Brooklyn bridge and what it cost, how long it took to build and its length. Ask him about the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty and the history of the donor. If you will ask such questions as the above, simple though they be, we guarantee he will order a set of the Cyclopædia for you without delay.
