How a Bright Chicago Boy Journeyed Across the Continent.

HIS FARE COST HIM ONLY $1.25.

When His Father Chased Him From Home With a Batcher Knife Joseph Friend struck Out For Himself.

It was a diminutive specimen of hu manity that stood before Chief of Police was Joseph Alfred Friend, aged fourteen years this month. But he had the brains of a full grown man, and had seen more life than thousands of men five last wandered from Chicago, his home, to Jacksonville, and from there to this city at a total expense for railroad fares of$1.25. At present he is being cared for by Mrs. Rulofson who conducts a bonbon store at 237 Kearny street, but it is probable that before many days he will start on a journey homeward. Joseph worked in Chicago as cashboy in the establishment of Charles Gossage on the corner of Washington and State streets. One day he had a fight with another boy and came out victorious but minus his position. When his father who is a printer, learned that Joseph had been discharged, he chased the boy out of the parental abode at 284 South Rovey street with a butcher knife.

The little fellow not wishing to have his anatomy divided into fractions con-cluded to tussle alone with the big world, and with that end inview he went to New York. There he was seized with is grippe and stayed for months in the New York hospital.

On his recovery he started home on foot, but seeing a sign which read "To Jacksonville, Fla.," he turned his steps in the direction the finger pointed. He found railroad conductors generally to be a good hearted set of men, who allowed him to ride free. Whenever he encountered a knight of the punch who insisted upon him paying fare, the boy usually for sook the comfortable interior of the train and continued his journey on the brakebeams beneath the cars. The first large city he encountered after leaving New York was Cleveland.

O., from where he went to Chattanooga, Tenn. Having read of Lookout mountain, Joseph decided to visit the famous battlefield, and went there. Looking over the ground was a pretty young lady, accompanied by her father, Joseph told them of his adventures, and the lady kissed him and took him to din-

"Did you object to the kiss?" asked the chief of police.

"Well, I don't think you'd kick about being kissed by her if you'd seen how pretty she was," answered the boy, and the chief joined in the laugh.

Macon, Ga., was the next place visited by the youthful globe-trotter, who went from there to Cordalle, in the same state, where he worked in a hotel. Leaving Cordalle he went to Lake City, Fla., and from there to Jacksonville in the Peninsular state. Between the two points last named he paid his first railroad fare, the amount being $1.25, which was all the money he possessed. He arrived at St. Augustine, Fla., with empty pockets and stomach, but a boy was wanted at the Cordova hotel and Joseph ecured the position. President Harrison's wife was a guest at the hotel, but Joseph did not care to become personally acquainted with her, "because," said he: "I didn't want her usband to know that I'd run away from home.

purchase. Polite language fails to do justice to what I have endured since I donned it. Talk about a divided skirt being easy to walk in and not impeding one's movements! Why, it's the clumsiest, floppiost, most draggery article that a woman can put on. Each section gets wrapped round and round like a loose suil winding about a boat's mast. When you go up and down stairs it sags down until you tread on the hem and trip up if you're not carefal. The fullness is set onto a circular yoke, which is forever hunching up about your waist. And then the ugliness of the garment! Venus herself would scare crows clad in its ungainly volume of silk or cotton that hangs without form and might as well be void, since it obliterates all distinction of beauty, a woman Crowley the other day in San with the most exquisitely molded limbs Francisco and said his name and anold girl with props like kitesticks being alike hideous when envel-

His it on or off, and I've never had the courforte is travel, he having since October age to take a second look at it in the glass. Really, the divorce laws in this state ought to be amended for the relief of men whose wives so disfigure themselves. Why do I continue to wear it? Because I am resolved to get my $7 worth out of that bad bargain and at the same time teach myself not to run after strange gods in the matter of se-called dress reform."

The medical profession of Shelby county has been deeply interested for some a case that was feared to be leprosy, and yes terday two of the physicians were in the city consulting with doctors here about it and describing the symptoms of the patient, who is a Swede true, the head of a numerous family, who have receatly moved near the town of Shelby. The Des Moines Register of yesterday announced the fact that the state board of health had investigated the case and pronounced it to be the genuine leprosy in its most dreaded form. The strictest rules of the board will be used to isolate the unhappy man, but it is feared the contagion will spread in spite of all that can be done to prevent it.

The rumor that springs up with perennial vigor every few days that the Union Pacific railroad company has determined to abandon the Broadway depot and Union avenue, was revived again yesterday. It received the usual semi-official quietus from Agent Ousler. The Union Pacific railroad company is a corporation that has not built up a very exten-sive reputation for giving things away, and the people who are camping along Union avenue for the purpose of being the first on the ground to pro-empt a lot or two when the railroad lets go and moves out, may as well return to their homes. They can buy a corner lot on Broadway and pay for it at the rate of a cent a year sooner than they can get it by waiting for the Union Pacific to give it to them by abandoning Union avenue.

The expressmen of the city are having a rocky time of it just now. Their position somewhat resembles that of the dove that Noah sent out from the ark—they cannot find a place in the city upon which to rest the weary feet of their horses on account of the ordinances that followed each other in swift succession during the past few months preventing them making a stand on the various streets that intersect Broadway. Yesterday a number of them grew desperate and determined to make a stand on the cor-ner of Main and Broadway and defy the city or at least make a test case. The police quickly made a raid on them, and one of their number. Bert Poland, was arrested and taken to the station. It is said the express-men have decided to employ counsel for his defense and make a bitter fight for what they esteem to be their rights.

Three Ladies Hurt.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. George Hewitt, wife of Attorney Hewitt, was driving a horse on trial with the intention of buying the animal if he suited. The horse was furnished by Dr. Cady, and was known to be very gentle. The lady invited her two sisters to accompany her on the drive. They got along until they turned up South First stree with the intention of going up to Mrs. Hew-itt's residence. When about half way up the treet they imagined a motor train was com-ing down ahead of them, and they attempted ing low a sound quickly to avoid it by getting on a side street until passed. The turn was made too abruptly. The carriage was over-turned and the three lables were thrown out on the paying with a great deal of force. All of them were considerably bruised, but Mrs. Hewitt suffered a dislocation of the shoulder. The buggy was badly broken up. The horse did not become excited or altempt to run away or much more serious consequences would have resulted.

The Scheme Needs Help.

It is definitely decided that Council Bluffs will have no representation in the Creston Blue Grass palace this season. The board of trade last season gave $750 towards defraying the expenses of the exhibit made, but there will not be a dollar from that source this year. In fact the probability seems to be growing into an uppleasant size that the board will do nothing towards assisting, or even encouraging the horticultural exhibit deter- a mother.

music will be furnished. Charles Kissel, whose name is not unknown on the police court records, had an exciting chase with Officer Bowling on Pierce street yesterday afternoon. Kissel was anxious to clean out the street, and had been the aggressor in two or three alternations when the officer left his beat on Broadway to arrest him. At the sight of the blue coat his courage evaporated, and he started to run. chase continued for about thirteen blocks with Kissel constantly widening the space between them, when the officer gave it up. The need of a dirt bank inspector received another vivid illustration yesterday after-noon. A gaug of men and several teams were working on an excavation for J. Q. An-

"She is a Simple Home Body." Sometimes one hears it said of a good wife and mother that "she's a regular The phrase is simple, but home body. what a world of ennobling qualities it indicates, and what a universe of frivoli ties it excludes, says the New York Ledger. The matronly home-body is, indeed, "heaven's best gift to man, "and the husband capable of maltreating so true a helpmeet is only fit for such companionship as Nebuchadnezzar found in the Babylonish pastures. Dashing ladies, whose mission it is to set the fashions, won't you look in upon your gentle sister as she sits in her well ordered nursery making the children happy with her presence? Notehow she adjusts their little difficulties, and admonishes, encourages, instructs, amuses them, as the case may require. Do you think any nurse-maid could produce such harmony in that little circle? Is she not an enchantress? Verily, yes, and her charm is "love stronger than death" for those sweet young faces, where you may see her smiles and frowns (though she seldom has occasion to frown) reflected in glee and sorrow, like sunlight and cloud shadow in a quiet pool. What she is she will teach her daughters to be. and blessed are the sons that have such

He saved his life, however. There was a fire in the hotel one night and Joseph gave the alarm, besides assisting to keep the flames in check until the e gines arrived. He was rewarded with 5 given by a jeweler.

The next place in which Joseph found himself was Mobile, Ala. Then he conceived the idea of coming to California, and with Sacramento as his objective point, he started out. Along the southern route he traveled, never paving a cent for railroad fare, never walking a mile, but very often hungry and wishing himself home again. Sacramento was reached finally, and employment was secured in the service of Chief of Police Drew. In the capital city Joseph saw the Examiner's special train and achieved the rare distinction of leading one of the prize helfers in the parade. The manager of the train wanted to take the lad to Oregon and offered to give him employment on this paper, but Joseph did not think he was built for a journalist.

"I left Sacramento and came 'Frisco,' said the little fellow. "I got here the day after the Charleston sailed for Honolulu. For a few days it was a case of 'Who steals my purse steals trash.

"It was what?" "O that's what Shakespeare makes Iago say. Don't you think I know anything about Shakespeare? I can quote from all his plays; my mother read them to me, and she taught me to read music and play the piano. I'm educated, I am

Selling papers supplied him with the staff of life for a while and then he was taken to the Boys and Girls' Aid society 'I like my freedom," quoth Joseph; "so I put up a job to go down town with another boy. I gave him the slip, though, and did not go back to the society. went to work as messenger for the San Francisco telegraph company, but they discharged me because 1 was not acquainted with the city. About a month ago Mrs. Rulofson took me in, and as she gave me a good home and treated me very kindly I remained with her. Joseph's accomplishments testify thas he has a good mother who cared for his mental welfare. Mrs. Rulofson vouchet for the fact that he is a fair planist and that he reads music at sight, besides being a manly, bright and thoroughly honest lad. Mrs. Rulofson communicated with Mrs. Friend, who replied to the effect that her husband had left home and had not been heard from for over three months. Mrs. Friend is anxious to have her only child at home again, but has not the money to pay his fare. When Joseph learned that his father had left his wife he wanted to beat" his way to Chicago, saying his mother would need his support, but Mrs. Rulofson will keep him here until sufficient money can be secured by subscrip-tion to send him home.

When Joseph was seven years old he was driven away from home by his father and made his way as far west as Montana, but became disgusted and returned to Chicago.

THE DIVIDED SKIRT.

Theory Very Nice, But Practice Far from F1 sasing.

"O, that it might be given me to tell the exact truth about the divided skirt!" wailed a charming woman the otherday, says the New York World. "When I bought one, certainly the
