GAETIES OF THE WEEK.
Charles Metz Entertaining His Friends on Top of a Tally-Ho.
 A jolly party filled one of Stephenson's tall-ho last evening and then driving through the streets, kept the air in vibration by means of merry laughter and frequent blasts of horns. About twenty young ladies and gentlemen participated in the fun upon the invitation of Mr. Charles Metz, by whom the outing was given. The coach was first driven to Council Bluffs and after returning traced the streets of Omaha. Before disembarking the party stopped at the rooms of the Deutscher club where refreshments were served. Those who enjoyed the ride were the Misses Pomy, Tschuck, Schmidt, Lund, Gerner, the Misses Smith of Davenport, J. A. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Geyer and Messrs. Charles, Fred and Arthur Metz, Tschuck, Lund, Charles Gyger and Arthur Smith of Davenport.

A Reception to Miss Cleland.
 A most delightful reception was given Thursday evening at the home of William Darst at Thirty-ninth and Cass streets, in honor of Miss May Cleland of Peoria, Ill., who is visiting the family at whose residence the reception was given. The attractive party were heartily decorated with flowers and greens, while in one corner, half hidden by the foliage, stood the punch bowl filled with a cool, delicious beverage. Later in the evening an elegant lunch was served in the dining-room. The Mandolin club added to the entertainment of the guests.

Those present were: Misses Beatrice O'Brien, Eppenhart, May Cory, Virgie Morrison, Carrie Cummings, Edwina Pullin, Nettie Haverly, Etta Moore, Arzie McDermott, Maggie Cunningham, Annie Cunningham, Pearl Page, Clara Riley, Helen Sharp, May Charles, Misses Prof. Sullivan, Fred Smith, Charles Beadbury, Sherman Yule, Guy Axtel, H. Parsons, Frank Steiny, James J. Taylor, Edward Darst, Henry Cleland, Quincy Knouse, John Cotter, Henry Lotter, William King, William Whitehorn, Richard Jones, J. F. Higgins, John Eppenhart, William Darst, Thomas Riley.

Miss Cleland will leave for her home in about two weeks.

On Friday at Syndicate Park.
 An outing at Syndicate Park. The party was given at Syndicate Park in honor of Miss Ruth Kimball of St. Paul. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Jeff. W. Redford and Mrs. E. F. Seaver.

A very pleasant boat ride was taken upon the lake, then refreshments were served after which the party amused themselves by using the swings and enjoying the romantic beauties of nature's park.

Besides Miss Kimball there were present: Misses Jessie Russell, Sallie Lyman, Edwina Lou Fitch and sister, Mamie Bedford and Miss Robertson of Kansas City; also Messrs. F. William Bartlett, S. Arion Lewis, H. A. Finney, M. L. Patterson, Henry W. Pennock, Frank M. Beach, Silas Cobb, Dr. Wix and Mr. Robertson.

Omaha People go A-fishing.
 Mrs. Augustus Pratt offered the prizes at a second fishing contest that occurred at Lake Okecho last Tuesday afternoon at Mineral Point. There were fourteen small boats and one steamer engaged in the contest and this time three Omaha people took prizes. Mrs. Clement Chase won the first prize for a fish catching the largest fish, a fishing bait trimmed with hooks and lines. Mrs. Edwin Baum took the best fish, a box full of frogs with the suggestion that they are "good bait for bass." Bert Gray, son of F. W. Gray, won the gentlemen's trophy, a sailing bag of corn meal and a tin, minus the tin. The other prizes, a fine fish scale, a hook extractor and a compass went to other than Omahans. After the prizes had been awarded, a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Pratt.

A Cobweb Party.
 Thursday evening Miss Margaret Brown gave a "Cobweb" party to the tennis club of which she is a member. Those invited were Misses Mary Buck, Margaret Cook and Ethelwynne Kennedy and Messrs. Paul Ludington, Larimore Denise, Arthur Montmorency and Howard Kennedy. After patiently waiting to its end the tangled silken thread entrusted to him, each one found some dainty prize awaiting him. Silver scarf pins, bangle bracelets and other pretty gifts rejoiced them all. Refreshments were then served and the club adjourned, unanimously voting that of all their pleasant meetings this was the most enjoyable.

Rawitzer-Keeler.
 Mr. C. M. Rawitzer and Miss Lizzie Keeler were united in marriage Sunday, August 3, Rev. Savage officiating. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, and was witnessed only by the relatives and most intimate friends of the contracting parties. Mr. Rawitzer is connected with the Omaha tent and awning company, and Miss Keeler is a young lady well known to a host of friends in Omaha. Soon after the ceremony the bride party left for the east, and will be at home to their friends about August 15, at 316 South Tenth street.

A Pleasant Affair.
 A surprise party was given last evening at 977 Twenty-seventh avenue to Jennie E. Bennett, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bennett. There were present Misses Lyle and Ada Maginn, Pearl Riley and Ella Egan and Messrs. Guy and Rolfe McLean, Guy and Ward Baker, Arthur Savage and Albert Wallace of Chicago. Music, dancing and plays occupied the evening. Refreshments were served by the mothers of the youths.

 From the cool mist in shifting shadow
 Its winsome pinnas drift a-down the dale,
 Over the stream and through its peairy veil,
 Under the sere hemlock, Ivy-grown,
 By crannied nooks, where happy insects
 drone;
 Light as a moonbeam on the dreamy gale,
 It eddies on ward like the favoring trail
 Of a thin cloudlet through dim distance blown;
 Flings the finest floss of Samarcand,
 Soft as the kiss of twilight on the world;
 While it is twirling through the pensive
 gloom,
 It seems some visionless spirit with nimble
 hand
 Spins it with lightest, ariest spin-gold
 To a bright fabric on the west wind's

WILEY WILLET POTTINGER.
The Career of a Nebraska Pioneer, Recently Drowned.
 The late Wiley Pottinger of Plattsmouth, for years one of the best known lawyers and politicians in the state, affords a good subject for an interesting sketch, a sketch that could be made to abound with pathos as well as humor, and furnish a moral fit as an argument for any tale.

He was drowned in the Missouri river some three or four weeks ago with a sight of his home. Mr. Pottinger was always an enthusiastic follower of Isaac Walton, and for years he had his "rod" lines strung along the river, it being a legend that his catches exceeded those of any fisherman along the Big Muddy for, say a stretch of one hundred miles, either up or down. It is supposed that this was in pursuit of his favorite pastime—the passion for which has remained dominant even in the confinement which always accompanied old age—that he was out seeking to his "rod" during his last illness, and in the excitement of the moment, he fell overboard from the masher rig. He was too weak and unsteady to battle with the powerful current and was swept off to death.

In his early days Pottinger was much more than an ordinary man, and always took a conspicuous part in the affairs of the territory. He was a lawyer, too, and one of our wonderful orators and force, shrewd and perspicacious in drafting his laws and decisive and brilliant in their execution.

Indeed Pottinger was no ordinary individual, but a personage who should have attained great heights in the place of public life had he but that he had gone his fables and faults and the profligate phases of his "rod" were gone with him, and he will have a place in Nebraska's history that will live long after his bones are dust, for it was by his peculiar ingenuity and bold action that he saved the territory from the hands of the Hon. T. M. Marquette. He owned several shares in the original Plattsmouth bank in 1856, and for a number of years he was a member of the board of the Hon. T. M. Marquette. He owned several shares in the original Plattsmouth bank in 1856, and for a number of years he was a member of the board of the Hon. T. M. Marquette. He owned several shares in the original Plattsmouth bank in 1856, and for a number of years he was a member of the board of the Hon. T. M. Marquette.

Pottinger was a quaker man in many particulars, shrewd and serious, a man of unscrupulous in the attainment of his ends, shrewd and astute in all his manipulations and devices, a smooth man with his linguistic powers, and generally successful in all his undertakings. He was not troubled very frequently with any qualms of conscience.

In 1856 he was one of the canvassing board for Cass county, when the adoption of the state constitution was voted on. As will be recalled by the old-timers and all those familiar with Nebraska's early history, the democrats, true to their instincts, were rabidly opposed to the proposition.

They would have defeated it, too, in all probability, had it not been for Willet Pottinger's never-failing ingenuity.

By some mysterious hook or crook, an irregularity of some nature or character was discovered in the returns from Rock Bluffs, in Pottinger's county, and it was Pottinger's preternatural discernment that discovered this irregularity in the returns. He was composed of Pottinger, County Clerk Spruiell and J. A. Chapin. The vote was held back until it was learned to a certainty that by throwing out the vote of Rock Bluffs the whole affair would be changed and the constitution would be carried and all the offices of the state fall to the lot of the republicans.

Was Willet equal to the emergency? Well, history says that the Rock Bluffs returns were thrown out and Nebraska came into the union through the acquiescence of Pottinger. It was rocky on Rock Bluffs, but what all the same, and Nebraska owes the wily canvasser a monument as high as the Eiffel tower.

The democrats charged Pottinger with the gross fraud, but Pottinger was a man with a good deal of the faculties in his composition, and the wrath of the lion-boss was the balm of Gilead to his soul.

It is also said that it was Pottinger's peculiar methods that made Phillips W. Hitchcock United States senator.

Hitchcock of Cass and Kennedy of Sarpy county were contestants for that honor. The election took place in the fall of 1888, and the election was held at Plattsmouth. He held his seat for part of the session, until, in fact, he had accomplished the object that had induced his candidacy, and that was to vote for Hitchcock for United States senator. On the final count of the vote for state senator, the seat was awarded to Kennedy, but in the interim the election of United States senator had been accomplished.

As a reward for this work Pottinger was appointed register of the land office at Salt Lake, from which he was removed on account of the bitter feelings of the Mormons against him, which animosity arose out of some of his decisions on land matters.

Pottinger was personally and morally honest, so all his old confederates hold, but was one of those men who think that all is honest and fair in politics as well as love and war.

He was fond of a joke, and fond of perpetrating 'em, and many a man has felt the sting of his keen satire and quick repartee.

This is told of him:

Schoenheit was a prominent lawyer of Plattsmouth, at least so Schoenheit himself thought, and he never failed to make himself heard and visible, too, on occasions of public meetings. He met and was introduced to Pottinger at Lincoln during his contest with Kennedy for the seat of state senator.

"Ah! Mr. Pottinger," exclaimed Schoenheit, "I have heard of you, but I never saw you before."

"Ah! Mr. Schoenheit," and Pottinger opened his small squinty eyes and looked into the face of the great man from Rock Bluffs county. "Ha, ha, ha, he," a laugh of Pottinger's when about to make a delicious morsel. "I've often seen you, Mr. Schoenheit, but I never heard of you before."

LABOR.
Screening Coal.
 The Knights of Labor assemblies of this city have received circulars from the miners' assembly of Rock Springs, Wyo., requesting all laborers to stay away from the coal mines. The circulars allege that the coal department of the Union Pacific railroad is trying to introduce scabbers, and because the miners want their coal weighed before screening, as was heretofore done, the company has shut down the mines and will not reopen until the miners come to terms or new men are imported.

Vermont Knights.
 The general convention of the Knights of Labor assemblies of Vermont, held at Burlington last week was one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings ever held in the state. Representatives from all the local assemblies were in attendance.

The report of the district master workman showed the order had increased its membership 75 per cent during the past quarter.

He advocated the educational movement be pushed among the assemblies of the state, and especially among the working men.

Before the convention adjourned the members decided to propose some of the candidates for the respective offices that are to be filled this fall unless they favor the following:

1. A weekly payment law.
2. An employers' liability act.
3. A law exempting improvements on homesteads to the extent of $5,000 from taxation.
4. Protection to workmen in the different factories of the state.
5. To repeal that portion of the law that amounts to a closed taxation.
6. Nine hours for a day's labor.
7. The enactment of laws that bear equally upon capital and labor.
8. A measure to prohibit the employment of a child under fifteen years.

Knights of Labor.
 The Knights of Labor are dipping into politics and after this year, propose having things their own way, to some extent, at least.

They are working on the mountains, on the hillsides and in the gulches. Before agreeing to support any man for office, they require him to pledge himself that he will support a bill that is to be introduced in the next legislature, looking to the improvement of the condition of the laboring man.

Some of the knights, in corresponding with their brethren, state they are making their influence felt and are greatly encouraged over the outlook.

The bill they propose to pass reads as follows:

Section 1. There shall be established a Bureau of Immigration, labor and statistics, which shall be under the charge of a commissioner of immigration, labor and statistics, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate. The commissioner shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed. The commissioner shall collect information upon the subject of labor, its relation to capital, the hours of labor and the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual and moral prosperity. The commissioner shall annually make a report in writing to the governor of the state of the information so collected by him, and containing such recommendations as he may deem calculated to promote the efficiency of the bureau.

Sec. 2. Not more than eight hours actual work shall constitute a lawful day's work on all state and municipal works.

Sec. 3. All labor of convicts confined in the state's prison shall be done within the prison grounds, except where the work is done on public works under the direct control of the state.

Sec. 4. The employment of children under the age of fourteen years is prohibited.

Sec. 5. No person not a citizen of the United States shall be employed in any industry or occupation, shall be employed upon or in connection with any state or municipal works.

Sec. 6. The legislature shall provide, by proper legislation, for giving to mechanics, laborers and material men an adequate lien on the property of their labor.

Sec. 7. The legislature may establish boards of arbitration, whose duty it shall be to hear and determine all differences and controversies between laborers and their employers, which may be submitted to them in writing by all the parties. Such boards of arbitration shall possess all the power and authority, respect to administering oaths, subpoenaing witnesses and compelling their attendance, preserving order during the sittings of the board, punishing for contempt and requiring the production of papers and writings, and all other powers and privileges, in their nature applicable, conferred by law on justices of the peace.

Sec. 8. The commissioner of Immigration, labor and statistics shall perform such duties and receive such compensation as may be prescribed by law.

Sec. 9. No armed police force or detective agency or armed body of men shall ever be brought into this state for the suppression of domestic violence, except upon the application of the legislature, or the executive when the legislature cannot be convened.

The O'Neill Case.
 The evidence in the case against John S. O'Neill, charged with obtaining property under false pretenses, was all introduced yesterday afternoon, and the arguments will be submitted next Wednesday between 11 and 1 o'clock. In the meantime O'Neill will occupy a suite of rooms on the parlor floor of the county jail.
