IT WILL BE AN EIGHT-ROOM BRICK.

A Resolution to This Effect Carries by a Vote of Eight to Five After a Long and Bits ter Fight.

The erection of a temporary building on the high school grounds was the one absorbing topic at the board of education meeting last Immediately after roll call a resolution passed by the Central labor union, requesting the board of education to take steps toward securing the location of a branch of the state normal school in Omaha, was read and referred to the committee on normal FOR A DIVISION OF POLLING PREschools. The committee on supplies recommended that the contracts for supplying lump coal be awarded to Havens & Co., and for nut coulto Mount & Griffin. Adopted.

The committee on claims reported with a recommendation that claims aggregating $4.895.83 be paid. The report was adopted and the amounts ordered paid.

The balance due William Cullen on the Franklin school site was ordered paid.

The report of the committee on judiciary, recommending the payment of $3,000 to Mr. Ambler as the balance due upon a school site, was resided and adorted. was received and adopted.

The committee on high school recommended the employment of Mr. Fred Perkins as engineer of the manual training department at a salary of $75 per month. The peport was adopted.

The question of erecting a temporary building on the high school grounds was thrown wide open by the introduction of the following resolution by Mr. Coryell:

ing resolution by Mr. Coryell:

Resolved, That in order to relieve the overcrowded condition of the high school building, and to provide necessary room and school facilities, a one-story, eight-room, brick, metal roof building as an annex to the high school building, for high school, college and other equcational purposes, be erected on the high school grounds; that the committee on buildings and property be instructed to furnish plans and specifications and report at this meeting.

Mr. Martin opposed the resolution, and

Mr. Martin opposed the resolution, and threw out some cutting remarks about exmembers of the board making themselves very officious inhobbying with the members of the board upon this building question.

Mr. Babcock took up the fight and answered Martin vigorously. Kelley also spoke in favor of the new temporary building on the high school grounds. He said that the city council had acted very inconsistently by extending the fire limits to the high school grounds in order to prevent the erection of a frame building there, while they permit three frame buildings to be creeted on South Eleventh street, close up to solid blocks of brick buildings.

Mr. McConnell spoke at some length and decidedly in favor of the erection of a bailding on the high school campus. He said that the condition of the Fourth ward at present was without a parallel in the history of Omaha. The people were obliged to send their children all over the city to secure facilities, and it is wrong for the school board to turn a deaf ear to the inst degrade.

wrong for the school board to turn a deaf ear to the just demands of the people of that

Morris Morrison also favored the erection of a building on the high school grounds.

Mr. Poppleton was in favor of the resolu tion, but offered an amendment to strike out all that part which referred to the building as an "annex to the high school" and to be as an "annex to the high school" and to be used for "high school, college and other educational purposes." Mr. Poppleton said: "We have a right to build a structure there for common school purposes, and let us go at this matter in a way that will set the minds of the people at rest for all time and give them to understand that those grounds are intended for school purposes and under the control of the bear. purposes and under the control of the board of education, to be used as the board may see fit, whether that be for high school or graded school purposes."

Dr. Gibts spoke in favor of the resolution, because he said he saw no other way by which the people of the Fourth ward could be accommodated. Morrison moved an amendment to limit the Morrison moved an amendment to limit the cost of the building to $7,000, and Dr. Gibbs moved that the limit be placed at $5,000. These amendments were lost.

The original resolution was then put to a vote and was carried by a vote of 5 to 5. Those voting in the affirmative were Babcock, Coryell, Gibbs, Kelley, McConnell, Populeton, Spaulding and Wehrer. Those voting in the negative were Coburn, Martin, Morrison, Points and Goodman.

The matter of transferring children from

The matter of transferring children from one school to another was placed in the hands of Superintendent James.

Mr. Babcock from the committee on buildings and property, although not chairman of the committee, submitted a report upon the resolution just offered by Mr. Corvell to the effect that the committee had considered the resolution and now recommended that the secretary be authorized to advertise at once for bids for the proposed building on the high sechool grounds in accordance with specifications submitted, and that the building be ready for use by October 15, 1890.

Mr. Martin was upon his feet instantly and t was evident that he was not a good humor. He called attention to the fact that the committee had met at 11 o'clock yesterday and made out a report upon a resolution that had bet come before the board until 10 o'clock last night. In short, the resolution offered by Coryell had never been before the committee, and yet the committee, brought was record. the committee brought in a report on the same. Martin held that it was impossible to accept a report in so irregular a manner. He also referred feelingly to the fact that he, as chairman of the committee, had not been asked to submit the report of the committee. After twenty minutes of wrangling, the resolution was recommitted, and the board took a recess of ten minutes to permit the com-mittee to consider the matter and bring in a report.

After the recess the same report was brought in by the committee, and Martin also submitted a minority report, in which he stated that in his judgment there was no necessity for an eight-room building on the high school grounds, and that facilities for the children of that locality could be provided elsewhere, and that the condition of the through the property will not warrant, the exfinances at present will not warrant the ex-penditure of the money necessary to erect this building.

The minority report was defeated, and the majority report was adopted by the same vote of 8 to 5. The board then adjourned.

It was more than Frank expected, but he couldn't com-plain seeing that he was a father for the first time. Under the Horses' Hoofs. A lady whose name could not be learned came very near being badly injured last evening at the corner of Sixteenth and Howard. As she crossed Sixteenth street a team and buggy driven by a lady came swinging around the corner and before the lady on foot was aware of her danger she was struck by the horses and knocked down. By the most astonishing activity she managed to spring up and out from under the horses before any very serious damage was done, although she was probably injured more than she would admit. Her dress was almost torn off and her electrical dress was almost torn off and her clothing was shamefully soiled. The lady was helped into the drug store at the corner and a physi-cian was called. The Advantages and Effect of Serial Sermons-The Financial Burden of the Park Place Congregational Church.

Rev. J. K. Turkle, who preaches his first ermon as pastor of the Kountze Memorial Lutheran church today, comes from Hillsborough, Ill., after a very successful pastorate of four years. He is about thirty years old. He attended Wittenburg seminary, and afterwards took a course at Yale college, where he graduated with honors.

He preached at Kountze Memorial church once during the past summer, when here simply on a visit. The members of the church were very highly pleased with his effort at that time. He was subsequently urged to accept a call from the church, and after due consideration and consultation with promient heads of the denomination, was confinced that It was his duty to come to Omnha. The people of his present congregation are ubilant over his acceptance, and that with he assistance of his wife he will be able to lo a great deal for the advancement of the Rev. Mr. Turkle arrived from Illinois yesterday and will preach both morning and evening at the church, corner of Sixteenth and Harney streets.

Serial Sermons.

Dr. A. W. Lamar of the First Baptist church has not taken a vacation this summer and his congregations have been large through the warm weather. He will leave this week for Minneapolis on a short vacation, after which he will open a series of sermons on "Character Building." At the close of that series he will begin another upon 'The Home." D uring the coming winter Dr. Lamar intends to preach still another series of sermons on "The Life of Jesus," and later upon "Typical Characters of the New Testament," He will also publish another book, taking for a theme, "Light on the Path of Life," or "Stumbling Blocks

Dr. Lamar has found the preaching of serial sermons very effective and profitable. He says that his congregation becomes very much interested in them and much more good is effected by a subject treated in that way than by preaching in the "hit-or-miss" fash on, Speaking of the results of Rev. Dowie's work in Omaha the doctor said:

"It is wonderful that Mr. Dowle did any good at all in Omaha, considering the wide-spread unbelief that prevailed here. The greater part of what Mr. Dowie preaches is not at all new. There are a number of men of world-wide reputation preaching substan-tially the same thing. I know personally of several very wonderful cures that were effected in Omaha. Mr. Dowie taught something regarding sickness that I regard as an exaggerated application of the scripture, but it would be impossible to overturn all that he teaches from a scriptural view."

Rev. Mr. Holt Resigns. About three years ago the church-going people who reside in the vicinity of California and Thirty-second streets saw the necessity of organizing a Sunday school in that vicinity. Classes were first held in a grove during the summer. When winter drew near the school had grown to such proportions that it seemed undesirable to dis band. With the assistence of church people in other parts of the city and other benevolently inclined citizens a lot was secured and a small chapel was built and the Park Place Congregational society was organized. Rev. M. L. Holt was called to take charge of the congregation. Since then the membership has constantly increased in members and in spiritual zeal. The financial burden, however, has been very in members and in spiritual zeal. The financial burden, however, has been very heavy. The city has not grown in that di-rection so rapidly as had been anticipated, and some of the members of the church have moved away from locality. This has, of course, weakened the congregation and the expense of keeping up both preaching and Sunday school has become too great for the Rev. Mr. Holt has, therefore, decided to resign his pastorate in order to lighten the burden and the Sunday school, which now has 140 children in attendance, will be continued while the congregation will patiently wait for better times, when the debt resting upon them will be lifted and the church again supplied with a pastor.

A Tribute to Dr. Ayres.

The following tribute to the late Dr. George B. Ayres was delivered at his funeral by Rev. C. W. Savidge and is reproduced by THE BEE at the request of the widow of the deceased:

We come here today as friends, neighbors and brothers to pay the last tokens of respect and love to the memory of Dr. George B.

I realize that I have lost a personal friend in this man. A few weeks ago, when I took the pastorate of Newman M. E. church, Dr. Ayres said to his wife as he saw me pass:

"I believe in that man. I believe he ishonest and sincere and I shall help him all I can and shall find my way to his church."

But the rider on the pale horse called for him and he answered tave !

A few years age I met Dr. Ayres in a mat-ter that concerned us both, and he deeply impressed me, once for all, with his splendid manhood. He was my ideal man in his permannood. He was my ideal man in his person—tall as to form with a refined and intellectual face, and, at all times, and in all places, and to all people, the courtly, chival-rous gentleman. He had a fine mind by nature and this had been matured and rendered most effective by profound study. It is admitted by all that he was an able physician and surgeon. Though he was only in the bloom and flower of his young manhood, he took very high rank in his profession. he took very high rank in his profession. He read disease as we read the pages of ar open book, and God heiped him to administer right remedies. In difficult cases of surgery he was atthome. Though he had a most tender heart he was also the possessor of nerves of steel which never failed him when human life hung in the balance.

He was devoted to his profession. When the blizzard of 1888 filled the roads with snow so that it was impossible for him to drive his horses, at the peril of his own life, in the dead of night, he walked long distances to bring relief to the suffering.

I said a moment ago that this man was aind-hearted—he was kind even to the lower orders of creation. He would not set his for on a worm that crossed his path. The last Sunday morning that he spent on earth, he was driving to the home of his parents in company with his beloved wife, when he saw in the roads little chicken that had wandered from the brood. Stopping his carriage, he alighted and returned the little lost one to its

Was it strange that men and women in-stinctively trusted this man! After he was dead his near neighbor said : "He never deceived me, he was incapable of falsehood."

A noted man in this city said "He was the best friend I ever had; he brought me back from the gates of death."

He was a busy man—a tireless worker. He never idled a moment. His hands were never folded until in his coffin. He was always at the bedside of the sick or in the study. He was a practical man. He attended strictly and faithfully to the defails of business. These who are to look complete. ness. Those who are to look over his books will find that he had the reins of his business well in hand and that he was wonderfully blessed in temporal af-fairs, adding one piece of property after another to his estate. To you who are his neighbors and friends and brothers, I would say:
"Let us be ready for the great journey he has taken." And if you ask me what that

OMAHA GETS A SHARE OF THE HONORS.

Report of the Second Annual Meeting of American Railway Accounting Officers at Cape May.

The report of the second annual meeting of the Association of American Railway Accounting officers, held at Cape May, N. J., in Suly last has just been published, and Omaha men have come in for their share of the places of trust. Mr. W. Randall of the B. & M. railroad is chairman of the standing pass: enger committee, and Mr. VanKuran of the Union Pacific rallway is on the standing freight committee.

The association is of comparatively recent origin, having been organized in New York in July, 1888, with M. M. Kirkman, vice president of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, as president.

It grew out of a general desire on the part of accounting officers for more uniform methods of conducting the accounting of railroad, steamship and other transportation companies, and a knowledge that such results could be the more readily consummated through an association that would bring its members in personal contact with one another and facilitate the exchange of opin-lons.

Realizing, from the experience of kindred organizations, how much of their success was directly attributable to the opportunities offered through their meetings for direct discussions of measures of interest and importance, and how largely misunderstandings or strong personal views were removed or modified thereby, the idea of an association of accounting officers was conceived and carried out, and it at once suranginto fayor and imat 11, 3 and 8 o'clock on Sundays, and 2:30 out, and it at once sprang into favor and im
