The North Platte Reunion.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Sept. 16.—[Special Telegram to The Bre.]—Our reunion is a grand success. Extensive preparations were being made all day Monday for the reception and entertainment of the old veterans. The business houses and dwellings were profusely decorated with bunting and flags and the whole town assumed a heliday attire. Several hundred tents were pitched and everything made ready for camp life. The town was filled with strangers last night and people are coming in from every direction today.

Tonight the Grand Army of the Republic held their camp fire at the opera house.

Senatorial and representative conventions will be held at the court house at 7 p. m.

Fradshaw Sufferers Protest.

YOUK, Neb., Sept. 16 .- [Special to THE Ber. |-The people of Bradshaw are dissatisfled over the manner in which the committee disposed of the money sent to the cyclone sufferers. The citizens of the town held a public meeting Monday and passed strong resolutions denouncing the work of the committee. They charge that the committee has donated $1,500 to the school board to be used in the erection of a school house, and that much of the money has been squandered. The committee is now asked to furnish an itemized account of all receipts and disbursements, that the donors throughout the country may know what disposition has been made of the Milwaukee 6, Omaha 5. Poor old, ill-fated, abused, down-trodden.

descrited, desolate, dispairing, hopeless Omaha! Lucky Milwaukee!

Yesterday afternoon in the first of their last series here, the Brewers, for some unaccountable and mysterious reason, were allowed ten men against the Black Sox' regolar nine.

This extra man was Bandle, the umpire. The reason, probably, that Milwaulcee was accorded this unprecedented courtesy was because she had only won fifteen straight from Omaha, and it would mar her record to have this glittering chain of victories broken at this late day.

The game opened up with a dash and a vim that quickly aroused much of the enthusias m that has been lying dormant in Mullen's peanut factory for the past two months, and the thousands who crowded the stands and bleachers made the earth and atmosphere vibrate with their resounding cheers. Dun Honin's mouth resembled Murmoth ave and the ro ar that came out of it was pigger than the new city hall building. Hoodlum Griffith was in the box for th risitors and for the two first innings it was biff ! smash! bang! and when the smoke and just cleared away five big aldermanic runs hone forth from the bulletin board and the propie cheered again.

They were so happy. Milwaukee was to be beaten at last!

That's what they thought. But, poor deluded mortals, they didn't oberve the bashful smile that played about the classic mouth of the umpire and never once realized that the brightest day could be made as black as Erebus by the simple wave of his preternatural wand.

But it was ever thus, In the sixth inning Milwaukee came in and ied the score—tied it in a double-bow knot. They made four runs, three of them by the grace of Bandel's miserable work. No body, however, would be malicious enough to charge that this precedure on his part was intenional, for it was no t.

He was only mistaken in his judgment, and t is as human to make a mistake as it is to eat a beefsteak. cat a beefsteak.

Then again in the eighth repetition of this nightmare allowed big, red-headed Morrissey to trot across the plate with the winning run, and sore and disappointed, and breathing male-diction deep and broad and long, the throngs dispersed and sadly made their way home ward in the softened light of eventide.

It would hardly be the right thing, how ever to close this poem without a stanza devoted exclusively to the playing of the two teams.

In the first place, Eiteliory, who pitched for Omaha, put up an admirable game, and but six of the ten hits charged up against him were really hits. The other four were the results of some of the most blockhead misplaying on the part of his support ever on a ball field Don't look for an elucidation in the error

olumn, for you will fail to find it there, for the damage was all due to unaccepted chances, or bluffs at playing ball would be a better On the other hand Milwaukee constructed an almost erroriess game, and yet, as anomalous as it seems, could not have won with anything like eqitable umpiring.

ARANSAS HARBOR.

It is Destined to Become a City of Great Importance. ARANSAS HARBOR, Tex., Sept. 16.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The great question which has agitated the people of the south west for years is at last about to be solved, and it is now an absolute certainty that deep water on the Texas coast will be secured at this point within the next eight or months. Fifty of the leading of the country, with Russel men B. Harrison as president, have organized themselves into a company to carry out the grand project, and an army of workmen is about to engage in the glorious enterprise

Governor Ireland and Lieutenant Governor Wheeler of Texas are active laborers in the great undertaking, and seven congressmen as well as other distinguished citizens from various parts of the country nave joined in giving this section the greates commercial boom that could possibly advance the interests or prosperity of the Lone Star state. The city of Aransas Harbor, which was only dedicated a few days ago, has already made tremendous strides and property within its boundary is on the wildest boom. At the sale of town lots just closed the greatest excitement and closed the greatest excitement and rivalry prevailed, and in the eager-ness of the great gathering to purchase a slice in the future metropolis they fell over the tables and benches, many of those pres-ent buying as many as fifteen to twenty high priced lots before they left. They had whatever they wanted. Of the most spirited bid-ders were a number of ladies, including Mrs. J. A. Jones of Corpus Christi, who bought a magnificent lot, on which she will immediately erect an office and engage in the rea estate and insurance business. Judge R. Sutton of St. Louis conducted the sale and says that in his experience as an auctioneer he never saw so much enthusiasm manifested to secure lots and never saw a grander site for t great city than Armsus Harber. Buyer, from eleven states as well as from the re public of Mexico, were in attendance, and Senor J. L. Veristime of San Luis Potosi had an agent on the ground who purchased several lots. Many buyers were presen from Rockport and all the neighboring towns and the people of Corpus Christi chartered a special train, came eyer to the sale in a body and were among the most liberal investors in the entire gathering. Everything passed off Everything passed off in a most satisfactory manner, and the sale closed with bayers clamoring for more lots. The number of purchases made chanot be given, but be-yond all doubt the transactions were the most extensive of, any sale that ever took place in the southwest. THE NEW TARIFF COMMISSION

A Lively Time Expected in Conference Over the Senate Amendment.

M'KINLEY MENTIONED FOR CHAIRMAN.

A Measure Passes the Senate Subjecting National Bank Notes to Taxation by States -Miscellaneous Notes.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMAHA BEE, 513 FOURTEENTH STREET, Washington D. C., Sept. 16.

There will probably be a lively fight in the conference on the tariff bill over the senate amendment creating a tariff commission. There are to be five commissioners at a salary of $7,000 each, three of them to be repri sented by the party in power. If the con mission is appointed there is a general sentiment in favor of Mr. McKinley as chairman of the commission in the event of his defeat at the November election. There is a very good precedent for his appointment. will be remembered that Mr. Morrison of Illi nois was made head of the interstate commerce commission. Mr. McKinleyholds practically the same position now that Mr. Morrison did when last in congress. At that time Mr. Morrison was chairman of the committee on ways and means and as such was the exponent of the democratic party's ideas on the tariff. Failing to secure a re-election, Mr. Cleveland promptly selected him as one of the members of the interstate commerce commission. Colonel Bayne of Pittsburg, at present a member of the ways and means committee, who has declined renomination has also been named prominently for a position on the commission,

TAXATION OF NATIONAL BANK NOTES. A bill of considerable importance passed the senate nem con a day or two ago. It was to subject to state taxation national bank notes and United States treasury or legal tender notes. The bill was originally introduced by Senator George of Mississippi, but as passed it was a substitute proposed by the committee on judiciary. It provides that all circulation issued by or under authority of the United States shall not be exempt from taxution by any state or territory, provided that such taxation shall be in the same manner and at the same rate that other money is

THE ANTI-LOTTERY BILL. Postmaster General Wanamaker achieved the triumph of his official life today when the senate took up the anti-lottery bill and passed t without division, the whole operation tak ing less than five minutes. No one spok against it and there was no yea or nay vote The bill was called up by Senator Sawyer, read and passed, so that the Louisiana lottery company seems to be done for at last, or, at least, thoroughly wounded in every respect. Senator Voorbees had intended to speak against the bill, but Mr. Sawyer dis-suaded him from doing so. One or two other senators had intimated a desire to introduce some amendments, but Mr. Sawyer succeeded in persuading them to do otherwise, so that he succeeded in having the bill passed just exactly as it passed the house. It now goes to the president and will probably become a law before the week is ended. Some very interesting stories are told of the last frantic efforts that were made by the Louisiand lottery company to defeat or postpone the passage of the bill. It is known that a few days ago one of the representatives of the lot-tery company sought to obtain an interview with a certain senator, that senator being in ignorance of the identity of his visitor.

After some preliminary skirmishing the visitor stated to him boldly the purpose of his visit. The company, he said, was willing to spend $15,000 to see the anti-lottery bill referred to the senate committee on judiciary Of that $15,000, he said. $5,000 was for him (the agent of the company) and the senator who secured the reference. It is the senator who secured the lobbyist failed in the agent of the company) and $10,000 for needless to say that the lobbyist failed in his purpose. It is equally well known that a day or two ago a prominent senator in whose state there is just now a very lively campaign affecting his scat was approached by this same agent and was told if he succeeded in having the bill postponed until next session the company would spend $25,000 in this sen-ator's state and to pledge a legislature favorable to the senator's return to the senate. The prompt passage of the bill today in the senate shows how unsuccessful have been all efforts to even return the bill.

There is considerable indignation felt here at the remarkable tardiness of the United States district attorney before whom the postoffice department has place an enormous amount of information regarding th work of the lottery company in this district. Mr. Hoge has up to the present time given no intimation that he proposes to do mything practical in the matter and the postoffice authorities have about abandoned hope that anything will come during his administration from all their laborious investigation. HOUSE TARIFF CONFEREES. After two days' carnest consideration of the matter, Speaker Reed announced the house conferees on the tariff bill just before adjournment this afternoon. They are the for senior republicans and the three senior demo crats of the committee on ways and means. Th delay in selecting them was due to the desire of many members and interests to have ex-Governor Gear of lows placed on the list. A place was made for him some days ago by Mr. Bayne, who stated that he did not desire to act as one of the managers for the house but later the members of his delegation de manded that he should take a place in the conference owing to the great interests of Pennsylvania in the bill. He deferred to the wishes of his colleagues and told the speaker he would expect to be named. Then it be came a question between Burrows, the ond member of the committee and Gear.

The former presided at the meetings of the committee in the absence of Charman McKnley, took a deep interest and active part in framing the bill, is speaker protein and altogether too important a person to be left off the commit-tee, except by his own request, which was not forthcoming. Dingley had to have a place as New England's representative, so no place could be found for Gear. Another thing that operated against his selection was the fact that Allison, one of the senate con-ferees, is from his state (lowa) and trepresents, of course, the same interests as would the ex-governor. The senate conferees do not expect to progress so rapidly in their work as if Geur had been chosen, and Monday is the earliest day now set for agreement and report. Some of the senate conferees would not be surprised if a disagreement was had in conference on the sugar question and a reference to the two branches for settle ment. In that event they say there is no doubt the house would vote as the dividing line instead of No. 16. THE APPRAISERS' ACCOUNTS APPROVED. The accounts of the Omaha postofile building site appraisers have been approved by the department of justice and the court officers at Omaha have been so notified. There is one account still pending, however, and that is the hill sent in by the district attorney for his services. This has not yet passed the hands of the accounting officers and the reason is that it is on a different basis from the accounts of the appraisors themselves. The latter had their awards made by the court and the approval of these awards was simply a matter of formality. The atterney general himself passes upon the district atterney's account, and until he approves that the bend cannot be discharged nor can the service money in the hands of the court be paid over call congress together in extra session early in November in case adjournment is had without action on certain measures. It is bewithout action on certain measures. It is believed that the president, personally, is not inclined to bring congress together before the date fixed by the constitution for reassembling, and that if he is considering the question of issuing a call it is due to the pressure brought to bear upon him. At the senatorial conference which decided to abandon would call an extra session to consider not only the election bill but other measures that could not be disposed of at this session. Mr. McKinley said the probability of a call depended upon how far congress at this session went toward disposing of pending questions. He acided, being questioned farther, that he thought it likely that not much would be done this session after the tariff bill was dis-

About two months ago the president nominated Louis Desmaries to be coiner of the mint at New Orleans. He is at present cashier at the custom house, a posi-tion he held before the admin-istration of Mr. Cleveians. The nomi-nation has been held up in the committee on finance by charges preferred by the same people who approved the confirmation of ex-Governor Warmoth's nomination as collector of customs. The charges include allegations f immorality and affect his business reputation as well. One of them charges forgery on a pay roll. Collector Warmoth, who is in Washington with a delegation of Louisiana sugar planters, says the charges are not true in any respect and that one colored Louisiana politician will likely find himself behind prison bars as a result of his connection with them. When Warmoth's nomination was be-fore the senate committee on commerce four Louisiana state senators appeared and charged Warmoth with being connected with he Louisiana lottery company. In the course of his speech, referring to the recent agricultural depression, besides the largely increased production, he found further cause for H in the speculators to corner markets. county fair grounds. As engine No. 76, in charge of Engineer H. M. Stewart, and pulling a train of twenty cars, came around the curve in the cut just west of Sherman avenue and north of the fair grounds the engineer noticed some thing coming along the side of the track a few rods ahead of the eagine. He saw as he approached that it was a man very much under the influence of liquor, as he staggered stupidly along. The engineer at once blew the whistle to notify the man of danger, but it had no noticeable effect. When within about ten feet of where the engine met him the man sturnbled headlong over upon the track and the engine and six cars passed over him before the train could be brought to a standstill. The victim was picked or rather gathered up by the train men and brought to the yards at Grace street, where Heafey & Heafey, the undertakers, were notified to meet the train and take charge of the body, as the coroner could not be found.

The man was terribly mangled, having both legs broken below the knee, and his left arm torn almost from the body. There was not a spark of life in the man when the trainmen reached him. He appeared to be about twenty-eight years old, was a large, powerful man with a thick, stubby, brown-colored moustache. He were rough clothes, a straw hat and a pair of new shoes. On the collar of his shirt was found the name "Doyle" and the bar "Hob," He had all pockets. The fun
