Yesterday thirieen petitions were filed in the district court by Lottie Benson for the forcelosure of mortgages on lots in Railroad, Benson's first and Benson's second additions, na well as on property in other localities.

The defendants number about twenty-five,

Clerk Chambers to the following persons:

J. W. Wild and Luetta Thompson both of this county; D. M. Martison and C. Rasmussen, both of this city; D. E. Sell of Omaha

The assembly have decided to give a series of parties the present season, the first of which will take place this evening at the Castle hall. A strange coincidence appears upon the probate records of the August term of the district court, 1881. Upon one page appears the domestic will of Joseph Sankey and upon the very next, the two pages facing, appears the foreign will of Edward R. Moody. Neither of these names mentioned are those of the great revivalists, but the coincidence is there just the same. Members and friends of the Women's Christian Temperance union caunot afford to be absent from this afternoon's meeting, October 2, at 3 o'clock, room 6, Merriam block. The team was stopped near the

Only Two Terms.

The fatmers' alliance of this county at a meeting at Neola on Tuesday passed several resolutions, among which was one protesting against any third termism in either national, state or county matters. The only man on the county ticket which this hits during this campaign is Recorer Thomas. It seems that the most of the opposition to Thomas will be on this issue, two terms being deemed sufficient. There seems no intimation but that he has served well enough, but the fight opens against him on the ground that he has served long enough.

THE OMAHA BEE THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

The Republican Convention at Avoca Names the County Candidates.

THE TEACHERS ARE PAID AT LAST,

But No Change Occurs in the School Board Situation-Anti-Third Term Resolutions Passed by the Farmers' Alliance.

For the first time in many years the republicans held their county convention outside of Council Bluffs, Avoca being the hounded site chosen. The morning trains brought into the little city a goodly crowd, with a fair amount of enthusiasm. Walnut's delegation brought their band with them, and a procession was formed at the depot, procceding to the opera house where the convention was held.

It was after 11 o'clock when Mr Hazleton, as chairman of the county central committee called the con-vention to order. He congratulated the convention on the large attendance, especially in view of the fact of its being an year. The fact was encouraging that so many carnest republicans should gather to nominate candidates who, under ordinary civcumstances, might fear to enter a contest with the candidates already in the field. He was satisfied that they would enter the race with a determination to make a magnificent showing on November 4. The trouble last year, as shown by the figures, was that the republicans did not turn out to vote. The emocrats had an increase but the republican vote fell off. This convention was an indica-tion that this year the republicans would be out and in tuli force.

D. M. Putnam of Grove township was made temporary chairman, and Charles Bardsley of Neola temporary secretary. In preparing to organize an attempt was made to follow the usage established two years ago, the county being divided into dis-tricts, and the delegation from each district aming one man on each committee. L. S. Axtell of Boomer made a red hot apcal for the convention to return to what he termed republican simpliciay and have the chairman same committees from the convention at large. He denounced the districting cheme as one arranged for the special enclit of Council Bluffs. He sai Council Bluffs wanted to play big Indian and have everything its own way. After scoring the Bluffs and denouncing the new order of things he took his seat and a vote was had. It was unanimous in favor of having the hairman same the committees, and the terific fusilade seemed to have been needless The following committees were then ap vention.

The committee on resolutions presented a report, endorsing the republican national and state platforms; the administration of President Harrison and the reciprocity idea of James G. Blaine, who was pronounced The greatest statesman of the age

The committee also reported a resolution doing away with the district plan of conducting the county convention. It was prepared ing the county convention. It was prepared by Mr. Axteli and received the approval of the committee, with the recommendation that it be referred to the next county convention.

The report was adopted. The work of nominating candidates was then taken up. Charles Bardsley of Neola was nominated by acclamation and unanimously for the position of county recorder.

For county clerk Colonel Linut presented the name of Fitz Henry Warren, whom he believed would beat any democrat who ever run.

Mr. Hazleton explained to the convention he reasons why Mr. Chambers, the present clerk, would not accept a renomination, and also reasons why Mr. Warren would not ac-cept. The reasons in both cases were personal, and both gentlemen had positively de-clined to accept, even if nominated. Mr. Chambers is at present at the bedside of his father, who is dangerously ill. Further than that, the duties of his office are such as would prevent his making a personal canvass, and he would not accept a nomination under these circumstances. Mr. Warren's reasons were that his business relations were such that he ould not accept without breaking a contract with his employers.

Mr. Hazleton nominated John Ahles of Council Bluffs, explaining that he did not know as Mr. Ahles would consent to have his name used as he was not a republican but a magwamp, or independent.

a mugwimp, or independent.

Mr. Ahles was called out and made the speech of the convention. His earnestness and eccentricities called forth cheers and laughter and laughter and cheers. He said he didn't want a nomination at the hunds of the convention. He didn't deserve it, as he was fresh from the grown pastness of democracy. fresh from the green pastures of democracy. The republicans had done some good things in congress, such as the anti-lottery bill and the election bill. The rulings of Speaker Reed seemed to suit Mr. Ahles.

Mr. Ahles, in declining to have his name considered as a candidate in a republican convention, spoke with freedom and force and yet he took care not to abuse the courtesy extended him, being very judicious in his stepping upon what was naturally another man's field. He acquitted himself so that he was the recipient of many compli-mentary expressions, and certain it is that the convention enjoyed, even if they did not endorse, all of his speech.

After Mr. Ahles' speech the convention went at the work of securing a nominee for county clerk. There seemed quite a disposition to force the nomination upon Mr. Warren in the face of a telegram from him positively declining.

The names of W. B. Butler of Center, Ambrose Burke and J. H. Jenks were presented.
Mr. Jenks declined. Mr. Burke's name was withdrawn. Some of Mr. Butler's friends said he was in Des Moines and that they know he would not accome. thew he would not accept.

Then Mr. Ambrose Burke's name was reinstated and a motion made to nominate him by

W. J. Trotter nominated the present deputy

With this suggestion the name of Mr.
Burke was withdrawn.
Mr. Lindt said he had not withdrawn the name of Mr. Warren and did not propose to The chairman explained that Mr. Warren had positively declined, but if the conven-tion, in the face of this fact, wanted to force the nomination on him they could vote him, of course. The roll was called on a formal ballot and was so overwhelmingly for Jenks that it was made unanimous on motion of Colonel Lindt.

Mr. Jenks accepted in a modest little speech, stating that he realized the difficulties of the situation, but he would make the best fight he could.

Colonel Daily gave a tribute to Lindt. Colonel Daily gave a tribute to John P. Organ, the present incumbent of the office of county attorney, and stated that the convention might as well face the situation. Mr. Organ had filled the office even beyond the expectation of his friends, and he could not and ought not be beater. Colonel Daily moved, therefore, that no nomination be made for that office. Colonel John Lindt protested against coming to a republican convention to applaud democratic officials. Mr. Organ was a personal friend, but he would not admit but that there were republicans who could do just as well as Mr. Organ was a personal friend, but he would not admit but that well as Mr. Organ.

The motion not to make a nomination was laid on the table. Colonel Lindt named J. H. Henry of Council Bluffs, paying him a tribute in which he pictured him as "a young man who was always born in Iowa."

The nomination of Mr. Henry for county atterney was made by acclamation.

was presented.

A good natured laugh went round, and the colonel placed in nomination Erasmus Campbell of Keg Creek. The roll call gave W. B. Butler the nomination, he receiving eighty-six votes and Mr. Campbell fifty-two. The nomination was

The Teachers Get Their Pay.

School Treasurer Peregov took the matter of the payment of the teachers into his own hands yesterday, and notified them that the bank would be open until 6 o'clock for the purpose of paying their orders, and that he would enderse all the orders presented to him and order their payment, that is, all but Superintendent McNaughton's. The same notification was given the janitors, and there was abusy scene around treasurer's office for an hour after the close of the schools vester day afternoon. Nearly all of the teachers and janitors came forward and secured their montey

When they came to count it each discov ered a slight deficiency. It did not amount o very much, but they came back to the treasurer for an explanation, and were in formed that he was acting in accordance with the instructions of the board and had deducted the amount of their salaries for the first two days of the term upon which they did not teach on account of the ruction in the board, which made it necessary to postpone the opening of the schools from Monday o Wednesday. The teachers were very indignant and protested vehemently against it, declaring that they were ready to enter upon their duties and were prevented through no fault of their own. It did no good, for however willing the genial treasurer was to give them all of their salaries, he was not permitted to do so unless he made up the deficiency from his own per sonal funds. The teachers declare they wil bring the matter before the board and insist on payment for the full time or be permitted to make up the full time during the present

There is a good deal of satisfaction evinced by the action of Treasurer Peregoy, and there is no fear that he will not be sustained by the members of the board regardless of other differences. There was a meeting of the primary teachers in the office of the superintendent after the close of school yesterday afternoon. It was in response to acall issued by Prof. McNaughton, and the teachers who attended it did so in direct violation of the orders of the teach ers' committee, who had previously notified them that any attempt made by them to rec-ognize the superintendent or attend his teachers' meetings would be considered insubordi-nation, and all knew that insubordination means dismissal. Notwithstanding this there was a large number present to receive the superintendent's instructions in their school The attendance would have been larger, it is said, if the teachers had not been so anxious to go to the bank and get their long past due salaries. The situation has not simplified itself at all within the past twenty-four hours.

The three members of the board who are anxious to get McNaughton out of the city schools are depending upon doing so by the proceedings they have instituted before County Superintendent Cooper, before whom they expect to try Me-Naughten upon the charges they have preferred against him. A prominent attorney in talking to The Bee about the matter yester day said: "Cooper bas no sort of jurisdiction over the case at all and he will find it out be-fore he gets fairly started. It is a well establighed rule that the appellant of court cannot entertain a case until it has been brought up to it by appeal from the trial court. Then it cannot try it, but only re-view it. Cooper is the appellant court, and has no power to try the case. He can only review it after the board has passed upon it and review the board's action. The board has not passed upon it, and conse-quently there is nothing to review. The case will not reach nim, mark my words. The only way the accusers of McNaughton can get the action they desire is to sue out a writ of mandamus compelling the board to investigate the charges. This writ is not like an injunction, that can be obtained in a few minutes from a judge, but must come from a court after the regular preliminary proceed-ings have been had. If the application is ings have been had. If the application is made to the district court it will be about three years before the court can get around to grant the writ, if they are etitled to it. If they take it to the superior court they may get their hearing about January I, and then a month will be consumed in taking testimony, by deposition and the arguments. At the very best they can do the terms of all the members of the school board will have expired before they can bring their case to a successful terminacan bring their case to a successful termination, if they have sufficient evidence to sus tain their charges. "Under the circumstances it is apparent that some sort of a compromise should be effected. It certainly will not do to keep the city schools in such a permanent condition of disorganization as this fight has already Adopted Two Lovely Children. Articles of adoption were filed with the county recorder yesterday in which Mr. and Mrs. James H. E. Clark assume the responsibility of parents to two motherless little children who have been inmates of the Christian Home in this city for the past year or two. One of them, little Gracie, has been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Clark for more than a year and has endeared herself to them to such an extent that they could not give her up. She is a lovely little child, with long yellow curls and an angelic face, and has just passed her third birthday. The father of the children is Charles Wesley Merwin, who lives in Sheldon, O'Brien county, Iowa. His wife died shortly after the birth of little Gracie and left a family of four little

He declined, however, stating that he would accept no nomination, not even for president. He had never accepted but one, and that was for the good of the party and not for his own good. It cost the party and not for his own good. It cost and Mrs. Clark have anxiously desired to ones on his hands. He was unable to keep them together and brought them to the home in this city where they could be cared for until he could make other arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have anxiously desired to adopt the little girl but the father would not consent to it. He finally agreed to it, but little Gracie wanted her youngest brother with her. To please her, and also to fill the yearning in their hearts, the couple, who are childless, concluded to adopt both children. Yesterday the articles of adoption were signed and recorded and the children given the names of their foster parents. The boy is nine years old and is a bright, mally little fellow, and today there is not a happier little fellow, and today there is not a happier family or brighter home in Council Bluffs than this one. Mr. Clars is manager of the Carbon Coal company and is amply able and thoroughly capable of providing for every want of the children.

Owing to the large increase of business of the First National bank of Council Bluffs its apital has been increased from $50,000 to 100,000. Mr. George P. Proceedings of the Council.

The third attempt since Monday evening to secure a quorum of the council was successful last evening, and all the aidermen with the exception of Caspar and Mikesell were present. In the absence of the mayor, President Everett occupied the chair.

Four additional fire hydrants and the nec essary extension of the water mains were ordered on North Twentieth street between Broadway and Avenue G.
A new departure was taken at the suggestion of the city attorney in regard to the methods of ordering street and other public improvements. The custom has heretofore been to simply order the work done by the passage of a resolution. This was not strictly in accordance with the municipal constitu-tion, and last evening when it was desired to order Twentieth, street filled to grade the work was ordered by the passage of an rdinance.

The matter of payment for the supplies for the supplier court was considered. The unordinance. the superior court was considered. The un-paid bills for the various blanks used amounted to about $500. Alderman Kapher moved that the city attorney be instructed to bring suit against the county for that amount. Alderman Everett thought the council should take some steps to abolish the superior court. He considered it to be a very expensive and unnecessary luxury. This brought out the fact that the enmity cherished by the chief of police toward Judge McGee had caused the chief to file a great many cases in the justice courts instead of the superior and police courts, and that this little personal spitework on the part of the head policeman had cost the tax-payers of the county over $500 within the last month in justice fees alone, and that Special Constable Fox had secured $100 from the county commissioner for a month's service in these city cases. On motion of Knepher the police and marshal's forces were instructed to file all city cases in the superior or police ourts hereafter. Property owners on High street were ranted an extension of time for completion f work ordered on that street. The city engineer was instructed to give the grade stakes on Avenue D.

The work of the motor company on North Sixteenth street leading from Avenue A to the driving park was called up for discussion. The company had filled the street where it laid its double tracks and had practically blocked it to all other traffic. On motion of Lacy the city attorney was instructed to draw up an improvement ordinance ordering the street and intersections brought to grade.

SILVER CERTIFICATES,

Heavy Trading on the New York Stock Exchange. New York, Oct. 1-Trading in silver cer dificates was very heavy today, 1,190,000 ounces being sold on the New York stock exchange, and there was equally heavy business between brokers outside. The sharp change in the situation since yesterday morn ing was a decided surprise. At one time yesterday the prospect appeared decidedly unfavorable. One of the most promiment German houses sold nearly one million ounces and forced the price down to $1.09%. It was said that this selling was for account of the pool, which had been carrying a large block down from around $119, and silver dealers say that when this silver was known to have been sold they were willing to begin buying again and buging orders came in from many source and buging orders came in from many sources today, carrying the price up to $114½. Brokers ascribe the improvement to the removal of the pressure hanging over the market, to the higher market in London and to the purchases by the government for the October quota. A Forgotten Naval Hero.

Everybody hears of the curious in scriptions to be found on the ancient burial slabs in old Trinity churchyard, but the most quaint and pathetic of the still existing memorials of departed dust is to be found in the churchyard of old St. Patrick's cathedral at Mott and Prince streets, says the New York Sun. Upon a plain white marble slab is graven cross, and beneath is the inscription: 'A la memoire de Pierre de Laudais, Ancien Contre-Amiral au service des Ulane Unis, Qui Disparnt Juin, 1818, age 87 ans. No one knows who it was that erected this monument to the memory o a man who underwent forty years of poverty and shame in this city before he 'dlsappeared,' and whose story was as pathetic as that of the fabled "Man Without a Country." A midshipman in the French navy and of noble ancestry. Pierre de Laudais entered the service of the American colonies when war broke out with England, was made rear admiral and had command of a frigate. In the battle between the Serapis and Bon Hemme Richard de Laudais insisted upon fighting his vessel by the technical rules of the French service and not with American dash. He was summoned before the naval committee of congress, and thrown out of service because they could not understand his explanation. The Fitz-John Porter of his day, had no influential friends to push his case, which he presented before each succeeding congress. Passing rich on an annuity of $104 a year received from his prize money, threadbare as to his linen, but refusing all offers of help, he kept up to the last the habits of a gentleman, and when on the Fourth of July and the festival day of St. Louis, he donned his old continental uniform, with the skirts of his coat touching his heels, he was a sight to all beholders. Proud, solitary, chivalrous, the life of Admiral de Laudais was answer to the accusation of cowardice, yet the busy world had forgotten him when he "disappeared."
