

THE CITY.

Hunter & McGee of Philadelphia have secured the domestic credit company to recover $523.77 for goods sold and delivered.

The republican county central committee will meet at the Millard hotel Saturday to decide upon a date for holding the county convention.

In the county court judgments were rendered yesterday as follows: D. C. Bryant vs J. L. Reor, $288.70; W. P. Munnbaugh vs E. F. Renner, $314.17.

The case of Edward Kane, charged with obtaining $300 worth of tobacco from Emil Wedeles on a worthless check, has been continued until October 30 at 2:30 o'clock.

Harriet Lyons has filed an information charging her husband, Theodore F. Lyons, with grand larceny. It seems that there was a family disagreement, and the head of the family took the piano away from the wife.

Yesterday afternoon workmen were set to work tearing down the old sheds on the postoffice site. Custodian Alexander promises that all of the buildings as far south as Thurston's barber shop will be removed this week.

Stella Cartwright, a Chadron woman who was arrested and brought to this city, charged with having sold liquor without first having obtained a government license, waived examination yesterday.

She gave bonds in the sum of $500 for her appearance at the next term of court, and last night left for home.

A WIFE'S SIGNATURE. On a Note is Valueless Unless in Her Own Interest. A very important decision and one that will attract attention, was rendered by Judge Hopewell in the district court yesterday.

The signature of a married woman on a promissory note is of no effect, whatever, except her own private and individual interests alone are to be benefited or are affected by the note which she signs.

The case was that of J. H. Johnson vs. Georgiana E. Crossie and H. W. Crossie. The defendants on December 15, 1898, gave F. R. Montgomery their joint note for $150, bearing interest at 10 per cent.

Montgomery sold the note the next day to Johnson, the plaintiff, and the latter brought suit on it in the lower court and obtained judgment. An appeal was taken and the case came up before Judge Hopewell.

Motion was made for non-suit as a continuance because of the absence of the defendant who had moved to Harlan county, but the motion was overruled, and the case went to trial without either defendant or witness.

After the plaintiff had put the note in evidence and had testified, defendant's attorney moved for judgment as to Georgiana Crossie, the wife, and the court sustained the motion, holding that a married woman could not be held on a note notwithstanding the enabling statute of this state, which allows a married woman to sell her lands, etc., without her husband's consent.

GRISWOLD-COBURN.

Marriage of S. G. V. Griswold of The Bee and Miss Gaudie Coburn. The breezy blue sky cleared itself by noon of all the big white sails which drifted across during the morning, turning the afternoon of a brilliant autumn day into genuine "bride's weather."

Just as the clock on the high school tower was striking midday, Mr. S. G. V. Griswold of The Bee and Miss Gaudie Coburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Coburn, entered the brightly lighted east parlor of the Coburn residence, Twenty-first and Webster streets, and taking a position midway between the windows, here stood in front of Rev. Dr. Duran of the First Congregational church, were united in marriage.

The bride looked charmingly pretty and girlish in a lovely gown of white India silk, trimmed about the throat, sleeves and bodice with duchess lace, the costume being very simply made, following the Grecian models, which are so very fashionable, the effectiveness of the costume being enhanced by full flowing white sleeves. At her right hand stood the little four-year-old sister of the bride, Miss Julia Coburn, who acted as maid of honor, and carried the bride's bouquet of white roses, here together by a broad ribbon of white silk. The little girl, who is a beautiful child, wore a nice dress of old rose, and demurely assisted in the important duties of the occasion.

Upon the completion of the ceremony, the friends of the bride and groom showered congratulations upon them, many of the bride's school mates being present to join in the happy event. Later very charming refreshments were served in the dining room, which was prettily decorated with smilax and cut flowers, as were all the other rooms of the lower floor. After the courses had been completed, the bride, in her modest manner, cut the wedding cake, all the guests being present and present as a memento of the day. And many of Mrs. Griswold's girl friends, who were present, will dream tonight upon the wedding cake and wonder who will be the next to follow in the footsteps of Gaudie Coburn.

At 4:30 the bride and groom left via the Northern for Boston, where they will spend the honeymoon, later visiting New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Mr. Griswold's former home in Cincinnati, returning about November 1, to be at home to their friends in their new cottage at Twenty-fifth and Farnam streets.

Something Brand New. Messrs. D. G. Doane and M. L. Parrotte, two well known young business men, have organized a bureau of information in Omaha, with the purpose to become the medium through which the man who has something to sell or rent can find the person who wishes to purchase or rent property, so that the transaction can be completed without the costly help of an agent.

The county jail report for September was completed yesterday. It shows the number of prisoners on hand August 31, number received and discharged during the month, the number on hand September 30 and from where received, as follows:

Table with columns: State, County, City of Omaha, United States Court, Transient, Inmate, Total.

The increase in the number of prisoners received during September over the number during August is due mainly to the return to the city of chronic vagrants who drift back here regularly every fall and willingly allow themselves to receive long sentences to the county jail.

ON THE BRINK. A Motor Collision, with a Narrow Escape from a Great Catastrophe. Two motor trucks on the Council Bluffs line collided yesterday on Douglas street bridge, and there was a narrow escape from a serious accident.

An east bound train, consisting of a motor and two trailers, heavily loaded, attempted to stop to allow a west bound train to pass on the siding, but for some reason the stop was not made, and the east bound train crashed into the motor of the other train just as it was passing over the switch. The east bound motor was hurled from the track against the timber that guards the side of the bridge, and the scores of passengers on board felt their hearts leap into their throats at the impending danger of the derailed motor tearing through the railing and over into the river seventy feet below.

Intense excitement prevailed for a few moments, but the train was stopped, and beyond a severe shock up no one was injured. The front end of the east bound motor was stove in and was sent to the shops. The other motor sustained but little damage, several windows were broken, and a few rays of paint scraped off.

It is said that the collision was the result of a mischievous trick and that the same motorman was guilty of a similar infringement of the rules about a week ago, although the collision at that time was a very slight one. The cars are an east-bound train to stop on the level track west of the switch until the west-bound train is upon the turntable. It has been charged that this collision, which was caused by the brakes not holding the train, would not have happened.

Fined for Insulting Ladies. Samuel Hansen is a good looking Swede about twenty-five years old. He wears a silk hat and pretty good clothes, but Sam likes beer to such an extent that he sometimes takes to much. He indulged Wednesday evening until he became imbued with the idea that he was a saint. He was rather and started out to parade every lady he happened to meet. He had gone but a few blocks on Sixteenth street, speaking to nearly every lady he met and asking the privilege of accompanying her home. Officer Hayes accompanied him to a call box and sent him to the station. Judge Holsley fined him $15 and costs.
