Sioux City's Mayor Swooded Down

on by Female Prohibitionists.

Sloux City, Ia., Oct. 3 .- An incident that brought vividly to mind the great temperance crusade of several years ago took place in this city Thursday night. Miss Frances Willard had been billed for a temperance address and a good-sized audience had gathered to hear her. But the appointed hour came and went and the apostles of sobriety came not. Finally a message arrived saying that she was unable to reach the city in time to address the meeting. Some of the local enthusiasts were then invited to speak and were getting along swimmingly when some one suggested that in view of the fact that there are over 100 places in the city where liquor is sold openly over the bar it would be a good idea for the meeting to take action and ask Mayor Palmer to use the powerin his hands to close these places up and to see to it that the prohibitory law is enforced.

The suggestion was a popular one and the other proceedings were at once lost sight of.

Tire Insurance Agents to Take Issue with the Companies.

PROSPECT OF AN INTERESTING FIGHT.

Why the Compact was Formed and How It Operated Against the Interest of the Agents.

There is a prospect of an insurance war. If war comes, however, it will be between the agents and the companies.

As noted in THE BEE there was a meeting of local underwriters last Wednesday, the esult of which was the organization what is to be known as the "Omaha Underwriters' exchange," with the following officers and incorporators: Charles Kaufmann, president; Theodore L. Ringwalt, vice-president; M. J. Burns, treasurer; D. H. Wheeler, jr., secretary; John R. Webster, John R. Hamilton, J. P. Williams and M. C. Nichols, directors.

The object of the exchange is to secure harnony, correct practices, the prevention of careessness and the improvement of the business of fire insurance; also to ald in the attain-ment of a fire patrol, and the improvement of ire risks in Omaha and vicinity. The mem-pership fee was fixed at $100.

When asked how this new organization would effect the old compact one of the principal men in the new organiztion said:

"It is opposed to the old compact, which is now dissolved, and was composed of both companies and agents together. In effecting the new organization we have taken the ball right by the horns and we propose to cling to those horns until we become masters of the tuntion. We are tired of being ruled by the companies and propose to do a little rul-

"If the men composing the old compact-I refer particularly to the company officersmake up their minds not to like this new deal, why, they can dislike it."
"What will be the result if the companies decide to dislike it?" was asked.

"In that event," was the reply, "I suppose they will try to get an entirely new set of men to represent them in this city." "Can they do that?"

"That remains to be seen. You can bet at thirty of the leading and locost agency men in Omah biggest agency men in Omah would not take so bold a step as this unless they could figure down to a fine point just where they were coming out, no matter which way the cat hopped. A committee consisting of Captain H. E. Palmer and Captain John R. Webster has gone to Chicago to see what the companies are going to do, and no one can tell wheter we are going to do, and no one can tell wheter we are going to do. have peace or war until this committee is

The difficulty between the agents and the companies is of long standing. The latter have formed a local underwriters' association over whom they have placed a manager. This manager's power is held by some of the agents to be almost autocratic. Through him the companies hope to maintain rates and do away with rebating and cutting in which agents sometimes indulge for the accommodation of good patrons. In exercising this power some agents say the manager has put up rates so high as to kill their business. There are several cases on record in which agents offered to accept a certain hazard at a certain rate only to be told by the manager that the risk was too great and a higher rate should be charged. This, of course, acts to the best interests of the companies but interests of the companies but interests of the companies but interests. the dest interests of the companies but in-juriously to the agent who sees his patron go to a rival who will probably slash his commis-sion in order to gain the patron.

The outcome of the controversy will be hwaited with interest.

fore 11 o'clock. Mayor Palmer received them graciously and listened attentively to what they had to say. They quoted scriptures and laid down the law, but when they made the demand that he close the saloons at once he told them that they had the remedy in their own hands that he was ready to enforce the law if they would swear out informations. They asked him if it wasn't his duty to see that the law was enforced and he said it was, but that he must be furnished with evidence that the law was being violated and that it was not his duty to search for crime. They asserted that the people wanted prohibition and he mentioned the fact of his election he mentioned the fact of his election over a prohibition candidate by a big majority. "Why," said he, "600 of the leading business men of the city—the men who have built the Corn Palace—have petitioned me to let the saloons run, and I propose to do it without interfering with the law, which I will enforce when informations are sworn out. No doubt there is a law on the statute books of Lowa prohibiting the sale of books of Iowa prohibiting the sale of iquors, and I stand ready to enforce it, but I won't turn myself into a policeman to do it.
You say if I see the law violated and don't take action I share in the violation. You also say that you see liquor sold every day, yet you refuse to swear out informations against what you choose to call criminals."

After some further parleying a lady asked permission to pray for the mayor, that he might see the error of his way. He cheerfully assented and she knelt down and offered up a supplication for his enfightenment. One woman remarked that it was casting pearls before a swine, but even this did not ruffle the mayor's temper, and a few minutes later, seeing that nothing could be done, the crowd dispersed. On leaving Mayor Palmer bid them a cheerful goodnight, said he was glad to have met them, and would be pleased to see them again at against what you choose to call criminals." and would be pleased to see them again at

Today the saloons are open as usual. The proprietor of each place is arrested once a month under an ordinance forbidding "loud and obscene take" and cheerfully pays a fine of $50, and that is the way the prohibition aw works here at present.

But we shall not be satisfied, or should the country be satisfied until a free coinage bill is passed. The people who oppose it under the belief that it would mean an immense importation of silver are ignorant of the facts. There is no silver to import. India wants all she has and more too; so do all the other countries, South America included. China and Germany will absorb the product of Mexico. Yes, it is true that the present bil will consume about all our output; still, it is essential that we should have a free coinage on a parity with gold. And it must be so placed, and when it is dene in this country an international biometalic congress will doubtless be held, and a bimetalic standard
