WHY GRANT WAS GREAT.

Due Recognition When True Merit is Once Established.

Was Grant a great general !- conceded. What made himsof.

What made himsof When U. S. Grant was hauling cord-wood into St. Louis his neighbors did not imagine he would become the most famous man of his generation. When he was managing the little tannery in Galena no one of his inti-mates recognized in him a future hero. But he displayed qualities which should have satisfied them he was no common man. What satisfied them he was no common man. What was there about him! If you start to build a single story shanty the defendant could not secure a fair trial in that county or in any other district court in the state on this account.

If you start to build a single story shanty you pay little attention to the foundation; you may lay stringers in the sand, with little fear the building will fall. But if you pro-pose erecting a tenstory block, your archi-tect will tell you you must go to the rock for the basis of your foundation, or the stately structure is liable to tumble about your ears. The foundation of a great man is moral force-character; this is the rock founda-tion. The shiftless man lacks it: henever succeeds. Grant never used an eath-a sure indication of moral character. He never indication of moral character. He never told, or listened to, if he could help it, a vulgar story; this showed peculiar moral fibre, an unusual strength of character. He was a man of opinions- as his wife said, was obsti nate; in other words, he had will power force.

These qualities, with good judgment, well balanced mental powers, and peculiar execu-tive ability, supplemented by a military eduappointed by the court in 1888 to adjust the differences between the cable transway comcation, fitted him for the emergency when it came. As soon as his merits became known pany and the o'd horse railway company. It will be remembered that the two companies settled their difficulties by consolidating. The came. As soon as his merits became known success was assured. This is always the case, with things as with men. "I well know the value of Warner's Safe Cure," writes M. Carr, of the Hotel Bennett, Bing-hanton, N. Y. "In 1884 I had difficulty with my kidneys. The doctors did not help me. I was badly out of rig. One day a traveling man from Utica advised me to try Warner's Safe Cure. The first bottle did so much read that when my family doctor called I costs in the case were paid, but the company failed to liquidate the claims of the three city, Thomas Corrigan, a Kansas City street railway expert, and Louis Clements, a San Francisco civil engineer. An order was made by the court at the time requiring the comgood that when my family doctor called I threw his medicine out of the window while he was present. I continued to use War ner's Safe Cure until I was entirely well." The test of merit is the accomplishment of the matter in hand. The best is that which is most certain. SEAMAN'S MANIFESTO.

He Scores Prohibition Organs for Their Disreputable Practices.

Since the publication of W. T. Seaman's card in THE BEE, denouncing the Leader, an Omaha prohibition organ, for its sensational fake in regard to the Omaha census, there have been rumors to the effect that Mr. Seaman had also renounced the prohibition party and would vote against the prohibitory amendment.

As Mr. Seaman has been the mainstay of the Leader, and was supposed to be one of the political leaders of the prohibition party in the state, this was received with some surprise and a good deal of satisfaction by leading citizens who are strongly opposed to the passage of the amendment. One of these gentlemen said: "It is time that Seaman came to his senses. His property interests are too important to be thus jeopardized by any action of his, and I understand that his business is being injured by his open fight for prohibition. Maybe this has something to do with his action, which, on the whole, is a very sensible one, so far as he is concerned."

To vorify this report a BEE representative called upon Mr. Seaman yesterday morning. In reply to the question as to whether the report that he would vote against prohibition were true or not, Mr. Seaman replied:

were true or not, Mr. Seaman replied: "It is not true. I shall vote the prohibition ticket, according to my well known princi-ples, but I emphatically denounce the methods used by some of the party papers, particu-larly the Veice, the Leader and the

it. I cannot approve, however, of his vote on the McKinley bill. If he was right in that vote, Senator Manderson and Repre-sentatives Connell and Dorsey were wrong. That bill was the product of the best intelli-remes of the sentalized and the best intellivestermay to hear motions in cases where both sides were represented. The session was held in the judge's chamber and several attorneys were present to request orders. George L. Osbora of Davenport, Ia., appeared by attorney and asked that the case of George H. Helton against George L.

That bill was the product of the best intelli-gence of the republican party. In voting against the conference report Senator Pad-dock voted to retain the old law, which im-posed a duty of 2½ cents per pound on binding twine, whereas the McKinley bill reduced it to 7-10 of I cent per pound. One thing is certain, his voting against the bill has been one of the strongest campaign arguments of the demo-cratle party in the west, and it h s made it very much harder for republicans to win in this campaign." Osborn be transferred from the district court of Boone county to the United States court of Boone county to the chine States court. This is a suit to set aside a deed. "The McKinley bill is being misrepresented, not only by democrats, but by many republi-cans who have never read or compared it with the old law. In my judgment it is only necessary for any reasonable gash to compare the two acts in order to satisfy himself that the McKinley bill is a material reduction of the tariff, and that it has only increased the heriff on a few manufactures, in order to enthere is a strong sentiment in this state among the farmers, and especially in the farmers' alliance, against foreign loan com-pannes. He further says that the farmers' al-liance is a well organized and farreaching tariff on a few manufactures, in order to en able the Americans to manufacture their owr goods. The republican party stands for the McKinley bill, and just as soon as the coun-try has an opportunity to study its provisions and witness the effect of its enforcement, the American people will be enthusiastically in organization and it would be impossible to se-cure a jury in Boone county which would not include a member of the alliance within its number. Are already a necessity. In the medium weights we never had such a variety as we are showing this season. There is not a store in Omaha or anywhere else in the west that occupies the floor space or has anywhere near the room that we have. The assortment of overcoats we display on our second and third floors, is greater than any two large stores combined can show you. We make a specialty in overcoats, and our prices cannot be touched by other houses.

One glance at our prices and at the quality and make of the garments, will convince you that you would be doing an injustice to yourself if you buy an overcoat outside of our house. Our variety is immense; we have all grades and can suit the rich and the poor. Our lower priced garments are all of durable material and substantially made, We want it distinctly understood that we handle no satinett or shoddy goods of any kind.

In boys' overcoats we also show a larger assortment than you can find elsewhere, and at no time were such low prices put on them. We are determined to make our boys' department the busiest place in town. The quantity of boys' suits we have sold already this season, is simply amazing; and we want to sell as many overcoats. At our prices everybody can afford to dress his boys neat and warm.

To judge from the way our Men's Suits are selling, they must be very attractive, and people must find them cheap. We have never done a heavier business in our suit department than we did so far this season. We are already getting in duplicates of lots sold out, and every day we open up new shipments. The advantage of coming to us for your fall suit is, that besides getting it so much cheaper than you can buy it elsewhere, you will find in our store every day something new in pattern and style.
