CLOSING SPORTS OF AUTUMN.

Western Association Baseball Affairs and Gossip.

THE FALL SPORTING SEASON.

Interesting Wheel Notes—Doings of the Amateurs—The Turf and Hing—Miscellaneous Sports.

The annual meeting of the Western baseball association, which was called for October 22 and postponed to November 1, on account of the League Brotherhood conference, will be held at the Millard hotel today. There will undoubtedly be a large attendance and a very important and interesting meeting.

Among the many momentous matters that will arise is the plan for a division of the gate receipts. During the next season the guarantee system was in vogue, but it was found to be decidedly unsatisfactory to all clubs but the two or three which went to the front and made money. Consequently a hard kick will be made against the receipt of Grand Rapids for next season, and a strenuous effort put forth in favor of the percentage plan. This latter is unquestionably the one that will secure the benefit of all the clubs and the association itself. It is the plan that insures the weaker clubs a chance to subsist, and makes an even thing for each club, the strong and the weak alike, while the guarantee plan is altogether insufficient and unjust to the clubs who are so unfortunate as to drop to the rear at an early date in the championship chase. Of course Kansas City, which was probably the only team in the country to make money during the last season, will fight the percentage plan tooth and nail, and it is not unlikely she will be aided and abetted in this by both Minneapolis and Milwaukee, although their latter management had a good taste of empty benches at their own park during the latter part of the season. Yet they labor under the hallucination that their team will remain in the front of the race another year, and consequently a great drawing card, and the percentage plan will be good enough for them. The same can be said of Minneapolis, Lincoln, St. Paul and Denver will most probably favor the correct system, which is the percentage, and if they have any sense, mod or mush in their craps, they'll carry their point. In struggling minor leagues the percentage system is the only one which carries with it the chance of existence throughout the season for all clubs alike.

All statements with reference to next year's circuit would only be guess work, so that subject will be but meagerly treated in these columns. The likelihood is that the circuit will remain exactly as this, with the exception of the installment of Grand Rapids, Mich., in Sioux City's place. And this, the honest confession must be made, looks to a man up a tree like jumping from the frying-pan into the fire. Grand Rapids will never last the season through, especially if the guarantee system should again prevail.

The association's whole code of rules will be revised and amended, particularly those touching upon the powers of selection and appointment of umpires. Last season's experience in this regard was enough to give the most imperturbable crank the horrors. Provisions for an honest, competent and respectable corps of umpires is imperative.

The election of officers for the coming year will be held at the association's meeting this afternoon and while the presidency will be easily and harmoniously disposed of, the fight for the secretaryship will be a hot and vigorous one.

Jack Crooks, who has been the organization's chief magistrate during the past year, positively refuses to again be a candidate. He declares that he has had an elegant sufficiency of the honors that position entails, and that Mr. Krauthoff or any other man who wants it is welcome to it.

Hy Hach of Minneapolis, and Ed O'Hara of this city, will make the race for the secretaryship, and the association couldn't do a

Clark's Famous Pack.

A. J. Clarke, who probably owns one of the best packs of foxhounds, of a fine old Virginia strain, to be found anywhere in the great west, is having magnificent sport this fall coursing wolves. With a party of gentlemen invited from this city a most exhilarating run was made on Thursday last in the well covered country southeast of the Bluffs. A big gray was jumped in a dense blackberry patch, and after a long and stubborn chase of over four hours duration Brer Wolf was run to earth in a rocky ledge near Bartlett. After the expenditure of vast deal of muscle and another two hours time, the gray was again routed from his refuge, but after a brief flight, was brought to bay in Mr. Allerton's yard, where he was shot.

The pack was like to break into the West, and the gray was shot in less than twenty minutes. H. B. Kennedy, who was the first rider in at the death, was awarded the brush, which in this instance included the entire pack. Another run is down for Friday next in the brushy district above Florence, which seems to be literally infested with coyotes this fall. It is a muzzie.

What the Cranks Are Saying.

And now they say that Danny Stearns of the Kansas City is a shoney. How the Irish do suffer!

Dave Rowe is still flourishing hopelessly in the Mulligatway, but he has hopes of bringing up in Lincoln next season. What David most needs is a muzzie.

Jack Crooks, who is in St. Paul for the winter, has resigned with Columbus for 1891. Jack knows on which side of his bread the oleomargarine is thickset.

Toledo voters are likely to break into the Western association, and the Western association would welcome her to the fold if it wasn't for her geographical drawbacks.

The crack second baseman of the Illinois Iowa league, Al Tebeau, may be found with Omaha next season. Negotiations are on—Sporting Life.

And so is O. P. Caylor's hen. Kansas City's downed Brooklyn, the champions of the league, but went under to derby boss club from St. Louis. That's what makes the national game so very, very funny.

Manager John S. Barnes of the champion Spokane team says that in the Pacific Northwest league is the foundation for one of the best minor leagues in America. If this man Barnes is connected with the league, however, the league will have to look a little out. His record with the Western was not of the most savory character.

A gentleman, who occupied a seat behind one occupied by Dave Rowe who is now shivering in the cold, baldly speaking, and Ed O'Hara, the Crazy Horse magazine of the league, but went under to derby hair-pullings and Kilkenny fights he ever witnessed, their's was the worst. Within a few miles of the capital, however, the white-winged dove of peace spread her plumes over the lovely pair and they spent the rest of the time "roasting" the baseball editor of "The

Mr. When "we three meet again" these ducks will tumble all over each other.

Martin Duke, who is at his home in Zanesville, O., denies that he has signed for next season either with the Pittsburgh players' league club or with Minneapolis club.

Mr. Duke—that was his maiden name—is only talking for an ad. Mr. Hach holds a contract with Martin's well known athletic coach attached and all further talk is idle.

According to Secretary Raeb's official averages Philon, who attempted to fill Omaha's right field for a time the past season, leads all the fielders of the association. This is most preposterous when it is recollected that Philon proved all but a total failure in both fielding and batting, and was regarded about the biggest louse who ever wore a bloom uniform.

Harry Hach of Minneapolis and Ed O. Brandt of this city will make the race for the secretaryship today. It is not at all likely that Hach is a good man, but Brandt still a better one—that is, for this onerous position. He is enterprising and industrious, well up in the game, and would minister to the affairs of the organization in a thorough and impartial way.

Charley Abbey, who made an excellent reputation in right field for St. Paul the past season, is located in Sioux City for the winter, having secured a good position in the office of the county treasurer. He is anxious to play in Omaha next year, and it is not altogether improbable that his wish will be gratified, as the local management think exceedingly well of his hard working, conscientious young player.

As President J. S. McCormick has put his foot down and will under no circumstances allow his name to go before the meeting today, it is without opposition he will accept, if not, not. The delegates are therefore urged to settle upon Mr. Krauthoff before taking up the election of officers. A better man, with broader views or sounder baseball knowledge could not be found in the whole country. Mr. Krauthoff's name will aid untold strength to the Western association.

Gossip Among the Amateurs.

Jellen will not pitch next season. Geist is in the silicon business in Iowa. Lawson leads all Omaha amateurs in batting.

Huff of the Evansvilles left for Texas last week. Swarts has been playing third base in good shape lately.

Mahoney and Jones of Nebraska City are in the Black Hills. Bradford will covershort for the Nonpareils next season.

Butler, Wignam and Bowles are the finest outfield in the city. Purcell got some home runs off Flanagan in the Deadwood recently.

The Cranes are the three time winners of the city championship. Kaufman and Klein of Missouri Valley will be in with Blair next season.

Purcell at short and Mahoney at third are the best team in the city. The Camp brothers are back from Seattle after a successful season.

Missouri Valley was not in it with the Omaha team this season. Thompson, Gatwood and Lucas will probably go to Kearney next season.

Beymer of Missouri Valley was hit hard and often toward the end of the season. Fremont's audition for next season is to have the champion amateur team of the state. Gatwood, who played with Nebraska City this season, is working for the Union Pacific.

The Cranes will have new uniforms and the best amateur team in the state next season. Van Aernam has been let out by the Eighteenth street Stars and Tew signed in his place.

Sidney and Wilson of the Nebraska City are wintering in Fremont and Kearney respectively. Manager Lawler of the Eden Musee is looking for some good amateurs to represent his home next season.

After a bright looking beginning the Eden Musee came to a very inglorious collapse owing to poor management. The Cranes will have new uniforms and the best amateur team in the state next season. Van Aernam has been let out by the Eighteenth street Stars and Tew signed in his place.

The Gun, Rod and Line.

Geese and ducks have at last put in an appearance along the Platte river in large numbers, and the sportsmen are in high feather. Myrads of Canada, Hutehins and white geese are reported swarming on the bars at Brady's and Willow island, at Gothenburg, Cozad, Rogers, Ashland, and in fact all points along the stream, and for a month to come shooting will be great. Thus far this fall wild fowl have been tardy in arriving, and gunners were apprehensive that all predilections of good shooting were going to fall through. The late flight of blue and green wing teal was uncommonly large. Now, however, reports from all quarters have dispensed the hunters' fears and parties are salting forth daily. The favorite haunts of the mallard, the pintail, wildgeon and blue bill are now fairly swarming with birds, and the commission houses are receiving heavy consignments daily. At Whiting the shooting is the Missouri this sport is also extraordinarily good.

The shooting, fine as it is, however, is not confined to wild fowl, as all the snipe grounds are teeming with jacks and quail abound in uncounted quantities in all the affording cover and feed. Good bars have been made within a short distance of the city. The fact that quail are so plentiful at $1.25 a dozen is ample proof of their unusual plentifulness. Sportsmen, too, who are partial to the strag and red, need sigh no more, for the bass and pickerel are taking the spoon with refreshing voracity at all the inland lakes and streams and excursions are being made to anglers as with the detestable of the dog and gun.

J. D. Smith of Ashland writes that the geese have not been so plentiful for several seasons. Jack Dummire is shooting quail and pheasants near the village of Cortland in northeastern Ohio.

Jack Townsend and P. Clark spent yesterday in the stables below Bellevue. They made a capital day. Start from club house at 9:30 a. m.
