

TWENTIETH YEAR.

BOYD STILL IN THE LEAD.

Seventy-Six Counties Give Him a Majority of Nearly 4,000 Over Richards.

A VERY CLOSE TRIANGULAR CONTEST.

Powers Develops Extraordinary Strength and Crowds His Opponents—Latest Returns From the Congressional Districts.

Seventy-six counties in this state give the following vote on government: Boyd, 68,945; Richards, 65,057; Powers, 64,873; Boyd, 68,945. There are thirteen counties yet to be heard from. These gave a vote for Harrison two years ago of 4,810; Cleveland, 3,498, making a total of 8,308 votes. These counties are all located in the remote western section of the state and it is doubtful whether they will poll as full a vote as in the last presidential election. A fair estimate of the total vote of these counties would be 6,000. It is very difficult to make any reliable forecast as to what these counties have done this year for either of the three gubernatorial candidates. The total vote of the state will be from 205,000 to 210,000, and the candidate who receives 70,000 votes is certain of election. Boyd is now in the lead, but still lacks 1,055 of that number, but his chances are that his vote will exceed 70,000, because the alliance in the western part of the state is chiefly made up of republicans.

Table with columns: County, Boyd, Richards, Powers. Lists 90 counties and their respective vote counts for each candidate.

HOW PROHIBITION WENT.

So Far the Majority Against is Nearly Forty Thousand.

Returns on the prohibitory amendment are rolling up an overwhelming majority against prohibition. The returns presented below, as received up to 12 o'clock last night, give a majority against of 38,912, and it is almost certain that the majority will reach 40,000. This is on the direct vote as cast for and against prohibition. Several thousand votes failed to vote either way, and such votes also count against the prohibitory amendment.

Tangled Marriage Bonds.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—A pretty, dark-eyed blonde walked to the witness stand in Judge Collins' court room this morning. She was Mrs. May E. Graham, but to the public she is better known as one of the Bangs sisters—spiritualist. Her husband, George W. Graham, a divorcee from Henry H. Graham, a wealthy chemical manufacturer, the marital relations between the two are somewhat tangled up and the present case is the latest. According to the story of Mrs. Graham, she was taken to New York in 1889 by Graham, then a young man, and she was formed. She thought she was legally married, but subsequently she was informed that the marriage was performed by a friend of Graham's name when she was only 17 years old. In November, 1888, she insisted on a legal union and they went to Racine, Wis., and were made one under the law. In a recent case, the Graham family grandly alleged before starting, fell to rest. On Saturday last an electric light wire on the starboard side came in contact with the wood work on the deck, and for two hours there was a blaze that kept the firemen busy until the vessel was at anchor. London, Nov. 5.—[Special Cablegram to The Bee.]—Speaking at Carlisle today, Mr. Gladstone said that the clause contained in the licensing bill submitted to the house of commons last spring by the government had become a law, it would have cost the country £200,000,000 to purchase forfeited licenses from publicans. Parliament, he said, is now working out its duty in the matter of the avoidance of dissolution as a man will a law that avoids destitution. WILEY'S SUGAR REPORT.

Washington, Nov. 6.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Prof. Wiley of the agricultural department has presented an interesting document showing the importance of the effort to build up the sugar beet industry in the United States together with a full discussion of the soil, climate and fertilizers suitable for best culture. "In my judgment," said Prof. Wiley, "the work of experimental stations, in respect to the beet sugar industry, should, for the present consist in the careful study of soil and climatic conditions and experimental methods of production of the best methods of producing beets for sugar and for feed. There is no necessity for an experimental study of the methods of manufacturing sugar from beets on a large scale. If the stations can teach by actual demonstration the proper methods of best culture and seed production, it is but what can reasonably be asked of them. Whatever plant may be selected for the American sugar industry, beet, sorghum or cane, the stations should be so that all results brought first to the standard of yield of sugar per acre."
