ANOTHER VICTIM OF FAITH DOCTORS.

Frank A. Boehmer, administrator of the estate of Charles J. Gustafson, deceased, filed his petition in the district court this morning against T. J. Thorp, Jennie E. Blythe and about a dozen others, most of whom are heirs of Gustafson. The petition sets forth that Gustafson had contracted with the defendants. Thorp and Blythe to sell lot 8, block 4, C. C. LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 14 .- [Special to THE BEE. -A gentleman passing by the corner of Seventeenth and G streets about 7 o'clock last evening was horrified to discover lying a few feet from the curb, and in the roadway, the apparently lifeless body of a boy. The face and nead of the youth were covered with blood, but life was not extinct, and hurriedly getting assistance he had the boy taken to his home. The lad was recognized as Ralph, son of Dr. J. R. Haggard, living at 1390 G street, and medical assistance was close at hand. The boy was unconscious when found and is still in that state.

From what could be learned it appears that Ralph had been out riding in the evening and when coming home was either thrown or fell from his horse. He alighted on his head and shoulders, and was badly bruised. One ear was torn almost off the head, and there are other injuries which render his recovery very doubtful. Ralph is a bright little fellow, a favorite with all who knew him, and his afflicted parents have the sympathy of all. He is accustomed to riding a great deal, and his horse must have become frightened at some object, and shying quickly thrown him to the ground. Several doctors have been in attendance all day at the boy's bedside, but they say that as his skull is fractured they cannot give any hopes of his recovery.

A VICTIM OF PAITH DOCTORS. Two gentlemen, one elderly and the other a comparatively young man, were callers at the court house this morning. They had the court house this morning. They had come to swear out an insanity warrant for Hannah C. Lounsbury, the wife of one and the mother of the other. The story they told was a sad one. Their home is in Aurora, Hamilton county, whither they were journeying, but they were compelled to stop off in Lincoln last evening, owing to the serious that were the serious when the serious that the serious when the serious that the serious that the serious that the serious the serious that the s turn to the woman's malady. They were evidently well-to-do people. They alleged that about three months ago Mrs. Leunsbury, who has been an invalid for the past seven years, went to New Haven, Conn., on a visit and to consult with physicians regarding a tumor with which she was afflicted. While there she became acquainted with some women who were enthusiastic advocates of the efficacy of the faith cure, and she was in-duced to put herself in the care of one of the noted doctors, a Miss Jackson. The treat-ment was given for a month without appreci-able benefit, and during the second month her mind became unbalanced first on the sub-ject of faith as a curative power, and later in other channels

She was soon turned over to the authori-ties, who sent her as far as New York. From that point a telegram was sent to her hus-band, who immediately started for his wife. They arrived in Lincoln last night, but the They arrived in Lincoln last night, but the woman became raving and had to be taken to a safe place of refage. This morning she accompanied the men to the court house, but while waiting for the insanity commission to convene she became very violent, and it was necessary to take her in a hack to the asylum. The commissioners went out this afternoon to hear the case. to hear the case.

Mrs. Lounsbury is about sixty years of age, but her malady is deep-scated. She imagines at times that she is married to God, and at others to Jesus Christ. She aimost constantly harps on the subject of faith cure, and also appears to be impressed with the virtues of the water cure. It is her husband's opinion that she has been made the victim of unscrapulous and designing women, and he and his son are both grief-stricken over the poor woman's condition ATTEMPTED SAFE BLOWING.

Harry Copley, a jeweler, of 1504 North Nineteenth street, was called by the defense to testify as to the value of the silver. said the market value of old silver was 93 cents an ounce. The prosecution showed, however, that silver table ware such as that stolen by Carroll was of much greater value than simply old silver which is not in a con-dition for use. It was inforred that the time had passed long ago when a person could steal good goods of any kind, whether tableware, jewelry, clothing, or what not, and then have it shown and counted when the case came to trial as poor, second-hand stuff of a value such as a junk dealer might place upon it. The object of the counsel for de-fendant is to depreciate the value of the goods stolen and thus reduce the gravity of the offense.

THE LOCAL FEELING.

Officials Hold Varying Opinions Gould's Purchase of the U. P. So many conflicting reports have been re ceived concerning the alleged deal by which Jay Gould has secured controlling interest in the Union Pacific road that the, officials of the company here and others interested in management of the system find difficulty in arriving at any conclusion. Some of the officials have about decided that the reported deal has been consummated while others are equall you nore positive that the rumors are without foundation in fact.

Among the holders of the latter belief is a prominent Union Pacific official who is as near as any man in the west to President Adams and would in all probability have any information on the subject that the president possessed. In speaking of the reports he said:

"I do not think that there is any real foun-"I do not think that there is any real foundation for the rumors. I cannot understand how such a change could be brought about. You will remember that when Jay Gould lost control of the Union Pacific six years ago, he left the road like a sucked orange, just as he has left every other road that has been so unfortunate as to fall into his hands. The Boston contingent that took hold of the road at that time has done a power of work in putting the road in good shape. The result is that today we have the finest transcontinental line in the world; we have made immense improvements in almost every western state Boys' shoes, $3.90, worth $5.

If you want a solid, good wearing shoe for solid service, this $3.90 shoe will in the world; we have made immense improvements in almost every western state and territory and now have absolutely more business than we can handle as well as we would wish. Each year the present management of the line has put from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 in improvement of the company's facilities and it don't stand to reason that these men now propose to sellout their interest just because the stock of the company has been depressed by a panicky condition of the seen depressed by a panicky condition of the narket. The stockholders who have refused to sell at 70 and have held on at that figure for six years or more will hardly sell now because by a sudden movement the stock has been forced down to 45, especially as they must know the increasing value of the stock and must know that there-will be a reaction that will soon more than offset this temporary depression.

"When the bottom of these reports are reached I think you will find that the roads that have been boycotting the Union Pacific are at the bottom of this agitation simply in the hope of forcing this road into more favorable (to them) arrangements."

But there are other officials who are very positive that there is a tangible basis for the positive that there is a tangible basis for the reported change in the company's manage-ment and these believers also had strong arguments to advance in support of their opinions. Reports from New York indicate that Gould has formed an alliance with the Vanderbuilts for the control of the railroad business of the west and his purchase of a controling interest in the Union Pacific was a necessary part of this deal. Another view of the deal was that the Drexels and other big magnates back of the Milwaukee were in the deal for the purpose of securing better west-

In fact you will not have to leave our subsequence of securing better west-end connections for the Milwaukee. There is no longer any doubt these gentlemen hold that there is and has been for some time a feeling of dissatisfaction among the Union Pacific stockholders with the present management of the road. Reports to this effect have been given publicity and have been strenuously denied. Lately, bowever, the statements have come r, the statements have come undisputed authority. General Manager Mellen was quoted however. in a Boston interview as saying that it was hardly plain sailing with the Union Pacific; that the western end of the management was that the western end of the management was at loggerheads with the eastern and that petty inside squabbling seemed to be the order of the day. When asked point blank if Adams' days as president were not numbered, Mr. Mellen answered: "I den't know but what all of us will be kicked out suddenly some fine morning."

There is a great deal of speculation among the local officials as to what will become of the present management in case Mr. Gould assumes active control of the road, with Mr. Dillon or any one elsa as Mr. Adams' successions.

Dillon or any one else as Mr. Adams' successor. Gould is a consolidation man, believes in sor. Gould is a consolidation man, believes in placing the entire management of a road, however big, in one man's hands and at one headquarters. Adams' policy is directly the opposite. He believes in a subdivision of the responsibility of operating a great system, and has carried his policy into effect on the Union Pacific by the establishment of five general divisions of the road, each under a general management and a complete set of general manager and a complete set of general officials. This system would un-doubtedly be abandoned under an active Gould management and a complete reorganization of the management of the road would be a

EPPS'S COCOA BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocca. Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are if sating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keoping ourselves well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame."—tivil Service Gasette.
