Union Pacific Magnates in Boston on the Alleged Gould Interview.

NEITHER RHYME NOR REASON IN IT.

This is How it Looks to Oliver Ames-President Adams Thinks Even Gould Couldn't Control the Union Pacific Easily.

The story, as printed in a New York newspaper, that Jay Gould had secured control of the Union Pacific railroad, and would oust Charles Francis Adams from the presidency did not seem to create the excitement that might have been expected in Boston, says the Globe of that city.

What was the matter! The alleged interview with Mr. Gould in New York was circumstantial, and seemed to bear evidence of probability. But, to tell the truth, it fell rather flat.

The opinion of Oliver Ames is about as important as anybody's in this matter, and he said:

"My opinion of this matter is simply this "I don't believe that Mr. Gould ever said the words attributed to him. I don't think that's Mr. Gould's way of doing things, anyhow. And then I don't believe that the Northwestern combination will ever be broket by the present management, for the management has confidence. I believe, in the officials that do the executive work of the

"As to the story that Mr. Gould controls "As to the story that Mr. Gould contras-the Union Pacific, I can't say anything, of course, but I don't know that he owns a share in the road. Mr. Gould is a powerful man and one that usually accomplishes about everything that he starts out to do, but I can't see any rhyme or reason in this story." story.

President Adams does not think that Mr. Gould is reported correctly, or, if reported correctly, is not himself correct. Mr. Adams is reported to have said: "This is the revival of the old story that was put in circulation some five or six years

age. "'I den't know anything about it. The directors may be able to tell you, but I do not believe that any request has been made by anybody for Mr. Gould and his friends to as-sume the management of the road, neither do I believe that Mr. Gould has said so.

I believe that Mr. Gould has said so. "To get control of the Union Pacific stock would be a task of enormous proportions even for Gé Id. About one-third of the entire $60,000,000 of stock is held in New England, one-third in New York and the remaining third abroad.

Gould until very recently has not held a share of the stock. What he may have done of late I do not know, of course. The Union Pacifi: has had no negotiations of any kind with the Missouri Pacific or any other road; we are maintaining rates and are at peace with everybody. The so-called boycott against us, as I have aid before, gives us no trouble and we are handling our business in a conservative manner. If Gould talked as he is reported to have done, it is with some special object in view, but 1 do not believe he made the assertions c redited to him.

"Now, I want to say that, despite all this talk, there is a pretty well defined impression on the street that Gould controls the Union Pacific, and Gould has not yet said that he does not.

"For one man to say, however important a position that man may occupy with the road, that another man doesn't own stock in the road is simply absurd. I might own a con-trolling interest in the Union Pacific or any other corporation, and unless somepody else could produce personal stock to disprove assertion, there could be no conclusive denial of my story. "You must remember that the stock books would not show it if Gould did own stock in the road. If Gould were buying stock in the Union Pacific he would place it, of course, York or in some other city. The fact that Jay Gould's name does not appear in trans-actions involving the Union Pacific is, my boy, no evidence at all that Mr. Gould's money does not appear in such transactions.

However, there were a good many big peo-ple in the business world of Boston that ex-

LOCAL POLITICS.

Second Ward Republicans. About twenty republicans of the Second ward met last night at Kaspar's hall rnd discussed the preliminaries of the approaching municipal election. The meeting developed the fact that Isaac Haskell and H. M. Redfield are the leading aspirants for the nomi-

field are the leading approaches nation for councilman. A resolution was passed condemning the republicans in the present coun-cil for combining with the demo-cuts, much to the disadvantage of property owners of the Second ward, as it, is claimed the public improvements that should have been secured for the south side have been neglected. The resolution further states that no candidate will be supported by the republican club of the second ward who will not pledge bimself to labor for the inter-ests of the south side, regardless of party dictation

Sixth Ward Republican Caucus.

The republicans of the Sixth ward held a caucus in Garfield hall last night to discuss the merits of the candidates who have been mentioned from that ward for the city councll. Christ Specht's name had been mentioned by some of the leading members of the ward, but Mr. Specht in a very positive manner declined the honor. He states that he will not be a candidate under any circumstances. Another cancus will be held at the ward headquarters, Twenty-sixth and Lake streets, Thursday night. Mr. Manville for-merly a councilman, and one or two other names were mentioned as probable candi-

The Organization Starts Out on New Plan-Some Big Realty Deals That Have Been Consummated.

Even the real estate men, and they are always sanguine, have been surprised at the remarkable activity that has marked the condition of the realty market during the past week. Inquiries for property of all kinds have been pouring in and the brokers have been kept on the push in an effort to provide a list of bargains to suit all comers. Property that was begging for purchasers during the anti-election months has suddenly become very desirable and holders are not nearly so anxious to sell as they were. A large number of deals that were in prospect before the election are being closed up and business in every line of the trade has been very brisk and promises to attain a still greater activity. "We have sold more property in the past week than we did in six months before election," said Mr. G. W. Ames vesterday, and nearly every dealer in the city has the same report to make. If he has not made the sales he is getting ready to make them and his prospects are brighter than they have been at any other time for the past two years. The Figures. The following figures show the total of real estate transfers, building permits and

The Reorganized Exchange. A radical change was made in the plan of work of the real estate exchange at a business meeting held Thursday afternoon, and the prospects are now that the organization will make its influence felt in the general upbuilding of the city in the season of commercial and industrial prosperity that is confidently believed to be at band.

The exchange worked one year at a marked disadvantage. The members were for the most part enthusiastic, but it was found that enthusiasm was not sufficient to carry out the valuable projects planned by the exchange. Money was needed first, and a greater need was found of the co-operation and encouragement of the business men of the city in the plans of the exchange. At the meeting on Thursday arrangements were made to provide for both of these wants which make the provided the formula of the exchange. The annual dues were fixed at $50, which will give the exchange a fund of $5,000 from this source alone. It was further decided to enlarge the field of membership to include business men of the city and thus increase the interest in the institution. A plan for this extension of the or-ganization's field of operations is under consideration by the executive committee and

THE RAILROADS.

The Union Pacific Boycott Ended. CHICAGO, Nov. 15.- Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-The boycott against the Union Pacific is ended. All the connections except the Burlington today gave notice that they would accept the advanced proportions de manded by the Union Pacific. These notices were based on a decision of Acting Chairman Osgood of the Western Freight association that competitors of the Northwestern could. to protect their own interests, make the same terms as the Northwestern has. Acting Chairman Osgood held that, until the association should declare its interpretation of that provision of the agreement which empowers the chairman to sanction for the use of one line rates that have been established by another line without authority from the association, each case arising thereunder must be de-cided on its merits without prejudice to action in other cases. Consequently the un-authorized divisions which had been accepted by one line having in this case been specific-ally named, he felt it competent for him, under the circumstances, to hold that the provision of the agreement, on which his action with respect to rates was based by implica-tion, enabled him to sanction the same basis of divisions that had been accepted by the Northwestern, but that the sanction so ex-tended did not serve to authorize the divisions in the same a that they thereby received the Patriots Who Are Willing to Help the Big Municipality. ADVANCE NOTES ON THE CITY ELECTION.

The Nine Men Who Retire from Office and the Ninety-Nine Who Want to Succeed Them.

Nine of the eighteen men who are charged with the management of this by municipality will retire from office, or at least their terms of office will expire, with the present | best. year and on Tuesday, December 2, their sucessors will be chosen.

The councilmen whose terras expire are T. Lowry of the First ward, Frank J. Kaspar of the Second, Pat Ford of the Third, D. H. Wheeler of the Fourth, Ed O'Connor of the Fifth, W.G. Shriver of the Sixth, C.L. Chaffee of the Seventh, A. H. Sander of the Eighth and Edgar P. Davis of the Ninth.

These are ward councilmen and their successors are voted for only by qualified voters in each ward. Of the nine, Lowry, Ford and O'Connor are democrats, while the others are republicans. Chaffee, Wheeler, Davis and Shriver are members of the combine that has had control of the city for the past year, while the other four retiring councilmen are members of the opposition, decidedly and painfully in the minority. Some of the present members want to be returned to the council for another term and soma of them-auother case of minority don't. Then there are some of hundring-don't. Then there are some of them who want to get back, but who will hardly be able. For the une that are going out there are ninety that want to get in and the election, for its kind, promises to be an exceed ingly lively one. Down in the First ward Tom Lowry has it pretty much his own way. He protests that he is tired and wants to retire, but then no believes he means it and unless something is done pretty soon he will have a clean field for renomination and re-election. The demo crats have not named anyone to oppose him for the nomination, although J. J. Kennedy is in the field in a mild way, and there has yet been no steps made by the republicans to place a man in the fight.

Frank Kaspar has been in the council from the Second ward for a long while and has no especial desire to return for another term, although he has not decided not to allow his name to be used in the nominating council There is no lack of republican material from which to select a successor to Kaspar. The which to select a successor to Kaspar. The woods are full of them. George Stryker, Gus Hame, Dan O'Keefe and M. H. Redfield have been mentioned for the place. O'Keefe and Stryker have been figuring on the job for some time. Hamel was a promising candidate until he collided with a motor car a few weeks ago and received se-vere injuries that have kept him from look-ing after his fences. Redfield is the latest aspirant in the field and has taken a favor-ite's place in the race. I. S. Hascall has ite's place in the race. I. S. Hascall ha lately moved to the Second ward and wants to get back into the council. If he gets shelved in the republican caucus he will try a race on the independent ticket. The Second ward democrats have about decided to pin their hopes to Peter Elsasser. Pat Ford's election to the legislature has given some of the Third ward statemen the opportunity for which they have so long waited. The Third ward candidates have not stood much of a chance at the election of councilmen at large and as Ford has had monopoly on the position of ward council-man for years the other statesmen of the Third have had rather a rocky time of it. Their opportunity has arrived now, however, and they will make the most of it. Ed Rotnery and Dick Burdish will contest for the democratic nomination and both are of the Third ward democracy the successful faction in the nomination fight will be religiously knifed by the other faction on elec-tion day. The republicans of the Third will probably support Kid Briggs for Ford's shoes. Major Wheeler wants to succeed himself in the Fourth, a desire that a very large num-ber of good republicans will endeavor to see is not gratified. The major will have a contest on his hands. The prominent aspirants for the republican nomination are D. J.

pressed a very different opinic They all seemed to think that Mr. Gould hadn't said what was reported. Levi C. Wade, for instance, premised whatever he had to say with the statement that he wasn't in the Union Pacific, and that he didn't know anything about the Union Pacific's business. He didn't think there was saysthing in the story there was anything in the story. It was a little after 4 o'clock when Fred L Ames, enveloped in a huge mackintosh and carrying an umbrella, turned the corner of Commonwealth avenue and walked up Dartmouth street to his house at 306. The Globe reporter who accosted the many-times mill-ionaire received a pleasant salutation.

Mrs. Ames wasn't loath to express his opin-m of the story about Jay Gould and the Union Pacific. "The fact is," he said, "I did not know anything about the matter until I read the account in the afternoon Globe."

"And then what did you think about it?" "Oh," he replied, laughingly, "I didn't think much about it."

"Then it isn't true that you ever had any conversation with Mr. Gould about any contemplated changes in the control of the road "" "Why, no; of course not. I never spoke with Mr. Gould concerning such a thing. As a matter of fact I haven't seen Mr. Gould to hold any conversation with him for -let me

"Do you think that Mr. Gould was correctly quoted, or that he ever made the statements

"Aud why?" "Well, Mr. Gould isn't the kind of a man to make any brash or rash statements of any kind. That isn't his disposition, as I know

"Does Mr. Gould own stock in the road at all

'Not to my knowledge."

"Would it appear on the books if Mr. Gould had any shares in the road ?" "Not necessarily, by any means."

"Then it would be quite possible for Mr. ould to own stock in the Union Pacific, and you and the rest of the world know nothing

"Certainly. It would be possible, even "Certainly. It would be possible, even probable, quite so. The manner in which stocks are purchased and controlled in these days would make it very easy indeed for Mr. Gould or any body else to own shares in the Union Pacific without the knowledge of my-self or any other director. The purchase of such things could all be done in New York and with absolute secrecy." "And you wouldn't be likely to know anything about it if Mr. Gould owned lots of stock in the Union Pacific"

Mr. Ames smiled very broadly. "No, I don't think I would. Mr. Gould, my der by, doesn't always let his right hand ow what his left hand does." "And about the story that there is dissatis faction among the stockholders of the road.

and that you yourself don't feel altogethe satisfied with the management " "Nothing about it so far as I am concerned

I certainly have never expressed, for l cer-tainly have never felt any dissatisfaction. "Finally, I don't believe that Mr. Gould ever spoke as he is reported to have spoken in that New York interview. He is too careful a man for that. And the trouble is, too, that everything is ascribed to Gould. If any rumor is afloat, why it is Jay Gould this and

Jay Gould that, while perhaps that gentle man hasn't even heard the rumor. "If this talk that is going around has any effect, I suppose it will stiffen the stock. I don't suppose it will act any other way. It

Confession of the Glove Dealer.

A State street shopman said to a reporter for the Chicago Tribune: "There, you see, is a table on which are some periodicals. That is for gentlemen who come in here with ladies who want to buy gloves. Before I put that table in, the gentleman came to the counter with the lady and the lady ordered her gloves. The next day they came back with the information that they were too small. I soon found that women do not like to tell to their escorts the size of the glove they wear. So I put in this able and have the latest periodicals on hand. When a lady comes in with her escort, I manage to gat the escort over to this table, where he becomes interested. She makes her purchase and the gloves do not come back. A trick of the trade, and a small one, I grant you. The world doesn't know how much trickery there is in trade."
