ANNOUNCEMENTS. The last appearance of "That Swede" will be at the Grand opera house this evening at popular prices.

When the curtain rises at the Grand opera house tomorrow evening, it will be one of the greatest successes known to the stage for many, many years—"Little Lord Fauntleroy"—one of the most important engagements scheduled for this city this year.

Henry E. Dixey, the popular comedian, will present at Boyd's opera house tonight his new burlesque, the "Seven Ages." It will be the first production in Omaha, and judging from the advance sale of seats the house will be crowded.

The piece has been constructed on the famous soliloquy of the melancholy Jacques in "As You Like It," beginning with the well known line: "All the world's a stage."

Mr. Dixey's supporting company, numbering fifty members, has been selected with a view to their abilities and contains the names of many well known artists. Especial attention will be given to the mounting of the piece, and the scenic and mechanical effects are said to be very pretty.

Those who will take part in the play will be Misses Carrie E. Perkins, Yolande Wallace, Mae Branson, Emma Mullen and Messrs. Graham, Howard Schiller and others.
