

THE OMAHA BEE

COUNCIL BLUFFS, OFFICE, NO. 12 PEARL ST.

Delivered by Carrier in any part of the city. H. W. TILTON, MANAGER

Business Office, No. 43, North First St. Telephone 100. Night Editor, No. 23.

MINOR MENTION.

The city council at the special session on Thursday night elected Alderman Everett to succeed his father as one of the trustees of the public library.

The mayor has appointed John Burke, formerly deputy city clerk, as a regular patrolman, and has been designated to regular patrol duty on Washington avenue.

A young couple, Gustave A. Sazkie and Annie Sazkie, stepped into the clerk's office yesterday afternoon and secured a license. Justice Barnett was called in to officiate, waiting to be called as a witness in the court above, and he improved the waiting moments by tying the knot.

The next state improvement of the Fremont association is to be held at Cedar Rapids in June. J. L. Templeton, the ex-chief of Council Bluffs, has been chosen superintendent of the house company's contests. It has been decided that the next winter meeting of the association will be held in Council Bluffs.

Last night Chief Gray received a letter from N. L. Greig of Parkville, Mo., asking for information concerning one W. A. Sherman, for whom he had endorsed a draft. As the initials and the methods used are the same as in the case of the man who was recently played on W. S. Hayes, it is believed it is the same party.

An old Indian who has been going around the city for some time, peddling various articles has quit the business and pulled out for the west. Yesterday morning he announced that the Messiah had ordered him to go to the west and join the church, and he obeyed. He visited Ferron's grocery during the forenoon dressed in his holy hair, with his face elaborately streaked with red paint and white powder, and he was doing working for a living and had enough to keep him until the Messiah came. He took the Union Pacific for the west.

There were eight full-blooded Indians on the Northwestern train from the north yesterday morning. They were a father and his sons coming from Minnesota and going south. They were dressed in the latest fashion and the old man appeared to be a very intelligent fellow. He talked freely to the passengers, and told them he was a very happy man, and the way of him, that he had heard of the promised Messiah and was very much affected by the news of his coming, and were about to be baptized and join the church, and he had ghost dances. He said he had fought in several campaigns with the whites and knew their strength and the fullness of the Indians' hope that they could overcome them and prevent his sons' getting into trouble he was taking them away from temptation.

At the last special meeting of the city council a new rule was adopted that will give great deal toward breaking the interminable tedium of the meeting proceedings and materially shorten the sessions. Hereafter all petitions and communications will be read at once to the proper committees without reading in full, the clerk only reading the captions. Hereafter these communications have been read before the council, and being discussed have been referred to the committees. No one petition or communication in a hurry will be disposed of by the council without reference to the appropriate committee, and sessions have been prolonged for hours that might have been terminated by the council in a few minutes. The examination and discussion of this sort of business is properly committee work, and the committee should be held responsible to attend to it without consuming the time of the council.

Cloak Sale. 500 samples of the latest fall styles in ladies' misses' and children's cloaks will be sold at a bargain in the city. The sale will be between 2 and 8 o'clock, in addition to our own immense stock, the above being from one of the largest manufacturers in the United States. The sale will be held today, between 2 and 8 o'clock. This is also the last day of our special sale in all departments in order to make room for holiday goods. BOSTON STORE, COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA. Motor fare paid both ways to all our OMAHA PATRONS. Avail yourself of this golden opportunity, as a chance like this seldom occurs.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS. F. L. Hayden has a new little daughter at his home, the arrival being yesterday.

Theodore Bray, who recently met with such a serious accident by being thrown from his carriage, was able to come down town yesterday for the first time in his own automobile. His full and speedy recovery, which was somewhat doubtful at first, is now assured, much to the gratification of his many friends.

C. H. Converse, the cabinet maker, who is in court here yesterday. He is rapidly recovering from his paralytic stroke, which for weeks threatened to disable him for life. His rigorous constitution and his desire to drive out the crowd of loungers in his private office and was cosseted with the lady for some time. She told him a very sad story of marital unhappiness and asked for a warrant for the arrest of her husband on the charge of stealing a gold watch that had been given her by her mother. She signed the necessary papers and the warrant was issued.

The woman was Mrs. Clara Harter. She said she married her husband, Harry Harter, in Denver six months ago. She says Harter won her consent to marriage after a short but ardent courtship, during which he made a lavish display of money, and spent it freely. He was then flying pretty high as a hotel-keeper, and the warrant was issued.

Thursday night at half past 10 o'clock as Mrs. Carrie Wickes was passing along Broadway in the vicinity of the former block, between Eighth and Ninth streets, she was confronted by a footpad and robbed at the point of a revolver. The lady lives with her husband on Upper Broadway, and was returning home after making a visit in the lower portion of the street, where she stayed later than she anticipated. Just as she approached a saloon kept in a little wooden building she noticed a young man peering from the street and leave the door open. An instant after she passed the door one sprang out, either from the door or from a narrow way between the two buildings, and thrusting a revolver into her face applied a violent blow to her and told her to give up her money unless, or he would kill her. She was too badly frightened to resist, and she quickly gave the fellow all she had, $1. He took the money and disappeared in the saloon. She got a good look at the fellow as he entered the saloon, and she described him as having a full face, dark mustache and wearing a slouch hat. She was afraid to continue her journey home and went to justice Schurz residence near by. She told the justice her story and gave her description of the assailant. It was supposed to be Charles Phillips, son of E. P. Phillips, who was placed under arrest by Officer O'Brien.

Yesterday afternoon he was arraigned before Schurz, but when Mrs. Wickes was called upon to identify him she once again declared that he was not the man who robbed her, and asked for his discharge. He was accordingly discharged and the officers are still looking for the fellow with the dark mustache and full face with poor prospects of finding him.

THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

A Short "And" Causes a Legal Complication in the District Court.

A WOMAN HELD UP BY THE FOOTPADS.

Mrs. Harter's Unhappy Honeycomb—Mrs. Faulk Driven from Home by Her Husband—Haldane's Debt—Minor Mentions.

Judge Deemer is not the best of penmen, especially when in his hurried way he dashes off a decree with a blunt lead pencil. The failure of the county clerk to clearly make out his pendings in copying the record led yesterday to the temporary abandonment of a case in the district court. Some time last May W. F. Woodward, a well known resident of this city, died, leaving a widow and a young son. The widow, Mrs. Woodward, is in her eighty-ninth year. The decree was entered in due form, making the son the guardian of the person and property, but in the pending Judge Deemer wrote it "person and property" in such a hurried manner that the clerk in making up the record took the "w" for an "n," and made the entry to read as if giving Woodward the guardianship of the old man's "personal property."

Yesterday the case of W. F. Woodward vs. Mrs. Beach came up for a hearing. The plaintiff sued as guardian to have a deed set aside, which the old man had given Mrs. Beach. In examining the record as to his appointment as guardian it was discovered that it was for the son, instead of paying her for this care he agreed to deed her the property if she would continue to care for him during his life time. This care was the consideration of the contract, and the father, though old and infirm, is not incapable of entering into a valid contract, or disposing of his property to his own advantage, and that in this case he acted wisely.

Threatened to Kill His Wife. Mrs. Terence E. Fullis is temperate by name and nature, but she is married to a man who is very intemperate in the abuse of his wife as well as the products of the distilleries. For some time past he has been making life a burden to her, and lately he has been threatening to remove the burden by removing her from the face of the living. Yesterday morning she appealed to justice Barnett for protection, and asked to have the paupers of the law cast around her and used to suppress her belligerent husband, Edward A. She says that on Thursday night his acts of cruelty culminated in an attack upon her with a pistol. He drove her from her home with two pistol shots, and she was so badly injured that she was unable to get up. She says she was not a very good name. He was arrested last April upon the charge of passing counterfeit money, but was discharged. His wife says she has seen the counterfeit money all right, and knew it was counterfeit.

Stabbed Each Other Fatally. CRATTAGUANA, Tenn., Nov. 21.—Three years ago John Pickett, a mountaineer, killed his wife, but was afterwards acquitted on the plea that it was accidental. Tonight Tom Pickett, the son of John, was shot and killed by his brother-in-law, John Pickett, who was also shot and killed. The two men were engaged in a quarrel, and a fight ensued, in which both men fatally stabbed each other with knives.

The School Board Meets Again. The board of education held another special meeting last night. It was expected that the gentlemen would get together and select a superintendent, but they did not. The matter was not even alluded to. All the members were present, with the exception of Mr. Walter. President Stewart called before the hour for calling the meeting to order had arrived and announced that it would be impossible for him to attend on account of other important and pressing matters, and as the business the board would need to transact was simply the approval of the payroll of the teachers, the meeting was adjourned.

Medical Comment on Koch's Cure. BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Special Cablegram to THE BEE.—This week's number of the Deutsche Medicinische Wochenschrift contains a report by Drs. Bergmann, Franzel and others on Koch's treatment of tuberculosis. The article, which is written in scientific language, adds little to what is already known. Dr. Franzel believes that advanced cases need a long course of treatment before the efficacy of the remedy can be shown. He agrees with the other doctors that the great value of the remedy lies in the means of diagnosis and in the treatment of tubercular diseases. In diseases of the internal organs the remedy is of doubtful efficacy.

Just as she approached a saloon kept in a little wooden building she noticed a young man peering from the street and leave the door open. An instant after she passed the door one sprang out, either from the door or from a narrow way between the two buildings, and thrusting a revolver into her face applied a violent blow to her and told her to give up her money unless, or he would kill her. She was too badly frightened to resist, and she quickly gave the fellow all she had, $1. He took the money and disappeared in the saloon. She got a good look at the fellow as he entered the saloon, and she described him as having a full face, dark mustache and wearing a slouch hat. She was afraid to continue her journey home and went to justice Schurz residence near by. She told the justice her story and gave her description of the assailant. It was supposed to be Charles Phillips, son of E. P. Phillips, who was placed under arrest by Officer O'Brien.

Yesterday afternoon he was arraigned before Schurz, but when Mrs. Wickes was called upon to identify him she once again declared that he was not the man who robbed her, and asked for his discharge. He was accordingly discharged and the officers are still looking for the fellow with the dark mustache and full face with poor prospects of finding him.

MINOR MENTION.

The city council at the special session on Thursday night elected Alderman Everett to succeed his father as one of the trustees of the public library.

The mayor has appointed John Burke, formerly deputy city clerk, as a regular patrolman, and has been designated to regular patrol duty on Washington avenue.

A young couple, Gustave A. Sazkie and Annie Sazkie, stepped into the clerk's office yesterday afternoon and secured a license. Justice Barnett was called in to officiate, waiting to be called as a witness in the court above, and he improved the waiting moments by tying the knot.

The next state improvement of the Fremont association is to be held at Cedar Rapids in June. J. L. Templeton, the ex-chief of Council Bluffs, has been chosen superintendent of the house company's contests. It has been decided that the next winter meeting of the association will be held in Council Bluffs.

Last night Chief Gray received a letter from N. L. Greig of Parkville, Mo., asking for information concerning one W. A. Sherman, for whom he had endorsed a draft. As the initials and the methods used are the same as in the case of the man who was recently played on W. S. Hayes, it is believed it is the same party.

An old Indian who has been going around the city for some time, peddling various articles has quit the business and pulled out for the west. Yesterday morning he announced that the Messiah had ordered him to go to the west and join the church, and he obeyed. He visited Ferron's grocery during the forenoon dressed in his holy hair, with his face elaborately streaked with red paint and white powder, and he was doing working for a living and had enough to keep him until the Messiah came. He took the Union Pacific for the west.

There were eight full-blooded Indians on the Northwestern train from the north yesterday morning. They were a father and his sons coming from Minnesota and going south. They were dressed in the latest fashion and the old man appeared to be a very intelligent fellow. He talked freely to the passengers, and told them he was a very happy man, and the way of him, that he had heard of the promised Messiah and was very much affected by the news of his coming, and were about to be baptized and join the church, and he had ghost dances. He said he had fought in several campaigns with the whites and knew their strength and the fullness of the Indians' hope that they could overcome them and prevent his sons' getting into trouble he was taking them away from temptation.

At the last special meeting of the city council a new rule was adopted that will give great deal toward breaking the interminable tedium of the meeting proceedings and materially shorten the sessions. Hereafter all petitions and communications will be read at once to the proper committees without reading in full, the clerk only reading the captions. Hereafter these communications have been read before the council, and being discussed have been referred to the committees. No one petition or communication in a hurry will be disposed of by the council without reference to the appropriate committee, and sessions have been prolonged for hours that might have been terminated by the council in a few minutes. The examination and discussion of this sort of business is properly committee work, and the committee should be held responsible to attend to it without consuming the time of the council.

Cloak Sale. 500 samples of the latest fall styles in ladies' misses' and children's cloaks will be sold at a bargain in the city. The sale will be between 2 and 8 o'clock, in addition to our own immense stock, the above being from one of the largest manufacturers in the United States. The sale will be held today, between 2 and 8 o'clock. This is also the last day of our special sale in all departments in order to make room for holiday goods. BOSTON STORE, COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA. Motor fare paid both ways to all our OMAHA PATRONS. Avail yourself of this golden opportunity, as a chance like this seldom occurs.
