HOW TO HAVE A GOOD DINNER

Some Suggestions Which are Appropriate for Thanksgiving.

THE TUSSEL WITH THE TURKEY.

First You Get Your Bird and Here Are Directions for Cooking It—Some Thanksgiving Menus—The Dessert.

So few persons have the privilege of a perfect Thanksgiving dinner, for the simple reason that the majority of individuals live at a distance from the abundant markets of our larger cities writes Mrs. S. Y. and Miss Anna Rorer, in the Ladies' Home Journal. But for all this, the success of a dinner depends greatly upon the tact and talent of the housewife. If she has the power to hold the appetite of her guests until the end of a thoroughly good dinner, and can assure them getting up from her table in a comfortable state of body and mind, she is indeed an artist, and would probably have the power to serve a lovely dinner, even in the midst of a forest.

Do not attempt a grand dinner, but have a satisfactory one. Begin your dinner, if it is convenient, with three oysters to each guest. This may seem a small allowance, but it is preferable to the conventional six. Have the plates filled with cracked ice and nicely garnished with water crest, the oysters in their deep shells, neatly disposed of in the ice. Let your table be well laid with the best china you possess, and a spotlessly white table cloth. Allow no dingy-looking goblet or dull silver to destroy the whiteness of the linen or the brightness of the table. Carl Benson tells us, over and over again he has had generous feasts transformed into barbaric meals by lack of clean plates, clean forks and clean glasses.

On Thanksgiving day every American family makes an effort to dine on turkey. The turkey, being a gift for which all Americans should be thankful, seems especially appropriate as a Thanksgiving offering. If you are a town dweller you must secure your bird from a poulterer; and let me whisper to you not to rely too implicitly on his judgment. Tastes differ, and upon this occasion you wish to suit your own. Some persons prefer a gobbler to a hen turkey, but I will advise you a hen. The meat is whiter, sweeter and more tender. The bill and toes should be soft, and the flesh have a bluish-white cast, twelve pounds being an exceedingly good weight. The fortunate country dweller has his own turkeys, or should have at least, and can mold them at will. The feed can be so managed that the meat will be white, tender and of a delicate flavor, or the flavor may be greatly heightened by a change of diet. Chopped turnips, cabbage and parsley, varied with corn meal, boiled rice and chopped celery tops impart a peculiar gamey flavor, which to many persons is very desirable. This food may be given three or four days before killing.

Select a large, fat, tender turkey, and have it nicely dressed, drawn, washed, wiped dry and well singed. Rub it all over inside and outside with pepper and salt. Make a stuffing of the following ingredients: One pound of light bread crumbs, half a pound of butter, a heaping tablespoonful of finely minced onion, salt and pepper, one raw egg and enough water to mix rather soft. Stuff the breast first, and sew it up, then stuff the body. Rub the turkey all over with melted butter, and dredge well with sifted flour. Lay it in the pan on its breast and pour in a quart of cold water. Have the oven well heated but not too hot, as the turkey must cook slowly to be done. Allow a quarter of an hour to each pound. Have some butter in a plate with a larding mop. From time to time baste the turkey with the gravy in the pan, rub over with the larding mop and dredge again with flour. As it browns turn from side to side, and last of all brown the breast. Frequent basting, dredging and turning will insure perfect cooking. When done it should be a rich, dark brown all over, and when a fork is stuck deep into it, no red juices should run. Remove it to a hot dish and, if the gravy is not quite thick enough, add a teaspoonful of flour creamed smooth with some of the grease skimmed from the gravy. If while cooking the gravy in the pan boils away too much, more water should be added, when the turkey is done there should be about a pint of gravy.

The following menus are simple, and composed of dishes easily procured by all people:

Oysters on the Half-shell.
Clear Tomato Soup.
Salted Almonds. Olives. Celery.
Timbale of Salmon. Sauce Hollandaise.
Potato Balls with Parsley Sauce.
Turkey. Cranberry Sauce.
Boiled Rice. Sweet Potato Croquettes.
Sweetbread Salad.
Cheese Fingers.
Pumpkin Pie. Mince Pie. Cranberry Tart.
Nuts. Raisins. Fruit.
Coffee.

Where game can be produced it makes a nice course to follow the turkey, especially if they are separated by a sherbet or punch. If the game be woodcock, serve with it macaroni; if it chance to be duck, sour-grape jelly, and a potato croquette are agreeable accompaniments.

The following is also a most excellent menu which will insure a perfect dinner: Roast Turkey. Cranberry Sauce. Choice Pie. Roast Beef. Cabbage Pudding. Stewed Salsify. Macaroni. Rice. Creamed Potatoes. Sliced Sweet Potatoes. Cranberries Stewed. Celery Pickles. Walnut Catsup. White Bread. Brown Bread. Raisin Cake, Iced. Mince Pie. Apple Pie.

THANKSGIVING EVENING.

Games and Amusements for the Children to Celebrate It.

If you can't make "the children's hour" happy every night, let something go by the board and do so on holiday nights. Let Thanksgiving be a night of rollicking fun for the children, little and big. In after years when they are away from home its influences will linger around them still, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Your son or your daughter may be kept "in the straight and narrow way" by the remembrance of just one happy home night.

A simple game that even the baby can almost take part in is called "Fish, flesh or fowl." The leader must stand and say to one, "Fish, flesh or fowl;" then, if before he has counted five, that one does not give the name of some fowl, he must pay a forfeit. There is lots of fun in this game, for, in his effort to think of some fowl quickly, one is likely to get confused and cry out "sals," or "slephants," forgetting that these are unlikely fowls. The leader must talk rapidly for the older folk, but more slowly for the little ones. It will incite the latter to look up all the available names of fowl when they know this game is to be played.

If there is a large party of boys and girls, if cousins or neighbors have been asked in, "The Jolly Mariners" is an enjoyable game. Have the parlor doors opened so as to pass through one door and out at the other. The boys all march around, the one who takes the lead with a handkerchief over his shoulder, and all singing:

We are a set of jolly, jolly lads,
Who have just arrived on shore;
We spend our days in many merry ways,
As we have done before.
And we will turn around and round,
And he who finds a very pretty girl
Must kiss her, kneeling down.
Having chosen his "very pretty girl" and saluted her, he spreads his handkerchief for her to kneel upon, while the girls sing:

It's a bargain, a bargain for you, young man,
It's a bargain, a bargain for you;
You've given your word, now keep it true,
And love her all you can.

The Length of the Nile.
Stanley makes the length of the Nile 4,100 miles.

Then another lad takes the lead and the song is repeated until all the girls have been chosen.

There isn't much to be said for the meter or rhythm of these verses, but the boys and girls will not be too critical about that, and those who object to boys and girls of tender years kissing each other may teach the former to make a courtly bow instead.

"My father's got home from India," is a game that never fails to bring down the house. Seat the children on three sides of the room, and let the leader sit so that he can be seen by all. He must then say, "My father's got home from India." "What did he bring you?" one must be instructed to ask. You reply, "A fan," and then begin to fan yourself with your hand, which all must imitate. Then you repeat the remark about the return of your father and another asks, "What did he bring you?" "Two fans," fanning with both hands, which all must imitate. To the next question the answer is, "Two fans, a boot and a shoe," which necessitates that both hands go through the motion of fanning, while the feet tap the floor. To the next you reply, "Two fans, a boot, a shoe, and a hat," and then the head must be nodded. The first one who misses any motion must pay a forfeit, and it is needless to say that the forfeits are many. It is really good exercise, and after the little ones have been thoroughly instructed in games of this kind, they will relieve you of their care through many a busy hour by playing them among themselves.

An impressive ceremony that can scarcely be called a game, is to ask each one what he has had to be thankful for through the past year, beginning with the youngest. It will harm none of us to recount our mercies. That yours may have been, and may ever be, many, is my sincere wish.

Think the Mormons Mean It.
"I believe the Mormons really mean this latest revelation against polygamy," said the Hon. E. P. Ferry of Park City, Utah, to a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. "We've got to take it in good faith. Of course all this stuff about it being a revelation is all bosh, but it means that the church has seen that it is time to stop. The saints carried the state, but the liberals run three cities—Salt Lake, Ogden and Park City—and came pretty near to a majority in Provo and Corinne. It's only a question of time when the liberal party will be in the ascendancy. Then it will be time to talk about statehood. It isn't that we object to the church so much. You people in the east don't seem to see that it isn't a question of religion at all, but the thing to kick against is the hierarchy. Why, the Roman Catholic church in the palmiest days of the inquisition never so thoroughly controlled every member as does the Mormon church. The bosses of that organization can swing every man. The church has got a great hold on the first generation. The church runs a sort of immigration agency. It picks up the common peasantry over in England, Wales, Norway, and Sweden—ignorant folks who have never had a foot of land or a glass window in their houses—and fetches them over here and lets them have land pretty cheap and on long time. They go to work and pay off the debt. They swear by the church. But if their children get into town and find out how respectable folks live and that it isn't fashionable to marry one woman because she's a good cook, and another because she can do the up-stairs work, and another to tend to the horses, then they break away from the church. The second generation is largely liberal, and it also doesn't believe in anything above the roof. It is agnostic. That is the way Mormonism works."

The Moon and the Barometer.

Dr. G. Mayer, a German meteorologist, has made a study of synoptic charts and on eliminating local influences, has found that the moon from September to January lowers the height of the barometer when at the full, and raises it during her first quarter. This, or any other effect, is not observable in other months.
