MODERN WOODMEN'S BIG CAMP.

It Will Be Pitched Next Fall in Omaha, the Convention City.

WHAT THE NEXT SESSION MEANS.

An Interesting and Assorted Collection of Secret Society News Specially Selected in Paris of the Lodge World.

Omaha is rapidly coming to be recognized as the center of the universe and the one best place in which to hold conventions.

The latest society to fall into line is the Modern Woodmen of America, which held its biennial session at Springfield, Ill., commencing on November 10.

The matter of state jurisdiction was one of the most important brought before the head camp and was the subject of a great deal of debate.

The grand master, his excellency the right honorable the earl of Kinton, of St. Peter's cathedral, in Adelaide, we presume on September 27 last, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

That there might be music in the air, we are informed that the local commissioner (Brother Peterswald) has kindly permitted the services of the police band who will lead the procession." showing that at the anti-ropes, music has practical charms to soothe the savage breast.

HONEY FOR THE LADIES.

Some of the new round hats are very elegant and picturesque in effect.

White emine shoulder capes are imported from the finest weavers, to be used as light and theater wraps.

Silver-wrought kid straps, with gem-set silver buckles, fasten many of the Parisian tea gowns and reception toilets.

Tea balls are bidding for favor. One little moss-like marble is tossed into the tea-pot and hot water poured in. In a jiffy there is tea for two.

Portia fans of rose-colored or pure snow-white marabout feathers, with rose or water-lily centers, and jeweled handles, will be carried with ball or opera toilets.

Dryden—As for the women, though we scorn and flout we may live with, but cannot live without 'em.

Plain India cashmere gowns in Russian style have the open redingotes trimmed with very lovely tassels in Persian patterns, outlined with gold threads, with fur or feather bands at the edge.

The first lady at the German court is a former New York girl, Miss Lea, who is now Countess Waldersleben. She is closely related to the emperor by marriage and the emperor's particular attendant.

Mrs. H. I. Stone, the leader of the Chicago "Four Hundred," has in her possession autograph copies of George Eliot's works and some letters from the real "Maggie Tulliver," written about the time her "Deronda" was published.

Princess Blatnick is making German translations as she rocks her sub-nosed but not spooned babies to sleep. The book which deals with the adventures of seventeenth-century English and French aristocrats, and is illustrated and published by the famous house of Murray.

A movement is on foot in Denmark, corresponding with the new order of industries of England and Ireland, to advance the farming and dairy interests for the benefit of women. Little girls are being trained to raise poultry and to make butter, and brand them with the badge of excellence.

Real butterflies are tacked on the evening fans. It goes without saying that these are not good lighting fans, although showy and pretty. The most composed and accomplished fashionable could hardly maintain the even tenor of coquetry with a mouthful of wing or a pair of antennae in her eyes.

The ladies in the Indus trial and aid societies personally visit the money lenders and alternately importunate and threaten them against buying mission-made garments.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, a gifted New York lady—dramatist, farmer, critic and traveler—who has had the refusal of a score of suitors, and who is being considered or investigated by the press, believes that the source of youth and beauty, health and peace of mind is hard work, a few removes from slavery.

There are five female stereotypes in Persian gardens, which change their heart as easily as she does her gloves.
